PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—There will be a meeting of this Society to-night, in the residence of Mr. James Kennedy, west of the Bank of Commerce, for the election of officers. A full attendance is requested.

AN assortment of type, not to be beaten by any office in this part of the country, will be found in our job rooms, and we are prepared to do first-class work of every description. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

MCCULLAGH was sentenced to be hung at the Belleville Assizes, on the 21st December next, for the murder of his wife in Madoc in March last. The old plea of insanity was set up, but failed, as it did in Ryan's case.

PERSONAL.—John McClelland, Esq., and Dawson Kennedy, Esq., only returned yesterday from visiting the Centennial Exhibition and other important Cities of the great Union. MR. and MRS. Pentland remain a few days longer.

AUCTION SALE.—Haggart Bros., intend having a large Auction Sale of dry goods &c., at Warsaw, on Thursday November 9th, at the sign of the Red Flag. Parties in that neighborhood who want to purchase goods cheap, should not miss this opportunity.

MESSRS. W. FAIRWEATHER & CO. have received their Fall and Winter stock of Cloths, and all requiring well-made clothing should leave their orders without delay. Now is the time to get a first-class suit cheap. Call and see goods and learn prices.

BOATING CLUB.—The last meeting of the Club for this year will be held at the Boat House, on Monday evening next, at 7.30. As this is the last meeting there will necessarily be much business of importance. A full attendance is therefore requested.

As an evidence that the Cobourg Councils are of the opinion that they are paying too much for their gas lamps, one of the members at the last meeting moved a resolution that tenders be asked for "lighting the street lamps with either "gas or coal oil," and the resolution was carried.

LEAP YEAR.—An exchange says:—"All the girls who intend to avail themselves of the privileges of leap year, must be up and doing, as it will soon be over. A good many bachelors are still unprovided for, and they will dry up and blow away before another leap-year comes around."

"BY JIMINY DOTHO."—We have received an advertisement as a communication from By Jiminy Dotho, but we do not want to make money at another one's expense, and as both sides have had a fair hearing By Jiminy Dotho had better retire to winter quarters for the season.

KILLED.—We regret that Mr. Charles Dunford was killed on Friday last at the raising of a barn on Mr. Robert Walker's lot, communication road, Smith. It appeared as they were raising a post of the building. He had his shoulder under it, and by some mishap it fell on him, killing him almost instantly.

CORRECTION.—In our report of the Otonabee Prize List Miss Mary McCathey should have got credit for the following prizes instead of Mrs. A. Thompson:—1st, Cone Work: 1st, flowers in silver wire: log cabin quilt: and Fancy Netting. It is but right to say that she richly deserved them, for the work was good.

THE COBOURG "STAR" of last week contains the following:—"While a Gravelled woman was struggling in the muddy waters of the Otonabee the other day and likely to be drowned, her husband pulled out: 'How honest-owns for life?' and she kicked and reached the shore.' Who was she? was she not from Cobourg?

MR. JOHN ELDER advertises a large stock of Dress Goods, Ladies and Gents Furnishings. Parties cannot do better than examine his extensive and varied stock before purchasing. His stock of Cloths and Tweeds is well selected and Mr. R. Elder is well known as a fashionable cutter. He warrants a good fit or no sale.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—The ANNUAL meeting of the St. Andrew's Society will be held on Wednesday Evening, November 8th at 8 p. m., in the room adjoining the Council room. All the members are particularly requested to attend as the officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other business of importance will be transacted.

CONFIDENTIAL.—Two letters on the Centennial and Railway points, etc., from the pen of J. A. Clarke, M. A., formerly a teacher in the Collegiate Institute here have appeared in the EXAMINER, and as they contain interesting sketches we purpose giving two more. Mr. Clarke's style is pleasing, and his letters full of information.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Tuesday last, whilst at a Threshing at M. G. Hoopen's, Ashdrew, son of Mr. William Kent, had a very narrow escape. Proceeding to shut the pen door, he passed the stack, and while stepping past it his pants and drawers and part of his shirt were torn off legs, but happily he suffered no serious injury.

A WARNING.—An exchange records the following note of warning:—"Ladies, here's a friendly warning for you. A young lady while taking a walk was very much startled by a cat springing from a window upon her head. Today had substituted a stuffed bird with which her hat was trimmed for the real 'Simon pure,' and was after a square meal."

SULLIVONIA.—To-day being Thanksgiving Day, services will be held in the George Street Methodist Church in the mornings and in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church in the evening at the usual hours, and on Sunday Anniversary sermons will be preached both morning and evening; in the morning by the Rev. Mr. Terrance, and in the evening by the Rev. Mr. Barwash.

WE have lately paid a visit to Mr. Henry Best's Store, and were much surprised to see such a magnificent display of Marbleized Slate Mantles and Coal Grates, which would be an ornament to the most tastefully furnished room in our mansion. He has also the latest improved patterns of Cook Stoves, which having taken First Prizes at the Provincial Exhibition at Hamilton last week, need no further comment.—3

BEARS AGAIN.—These not welcome visitors have made their appearance in Otonabee so far south as Mr. William Armstrong's, having killed eight of his sheep last week. They also killed a pig belonging to Mr. Hamm, a neighbor to Mr. Armstrong, and carried it to the woods. Four cubs were seen in the same part of Otonabee. They will do more harm if not chased to more lonely quarters before the winter sets in.

FAIRBANK'S SCALES.—Last year in the great contest for the special $20,000 contract, in which Fairbanks won, there were six competitors. This year, only one Company competed and offered to supply the United States Government at a much lower price than the Fairbanks. The quality of the goods, however, were very inferior and Fairbanks again won the contract. Mr. H. Best is agent for Peterboro and all who want perfect scales should give him a call. 44tf

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—This Society held a meeting for the election of officers for the session 1876-7, on Tuesday last. The following are the officers elected:—President, Mr. W. H. Scott, Q.C., M.P.P., Vice-Presidents, Messrs. A. P. Poussette, B.A., and J. F. Jeffers, B.A.; Councillors, Messrs. R. Earle, and E. H. D. Hall Secretary-Treasurer, W. N. D. Beck. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday next, when the literary pursuits of the Association will be entered upon.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Anniversary Services of the Bible Christian Church in Ashburnham, will (D.V.) be held on Sunday and Monday the 5th and 6th of November. On Sunday, two sermons will be preached by the Rev. J. Guard, of Lindsay, both morning and evening. On Monday a tea will be served in the new Town Hall, in the new school building Ashburnham, from 4 to 7 p.m. After tea a public meeting will be held in the Church, and will be addressed by the Rev. Mr. Guard, Rev. A. Richards and others. Tickets 50cts.

IT always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Personally we can speak highly of its value as a family cough remedy, having used it with great benefit. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should unfortunately contract either coughs or colds. 41-3m

EXPRESS OFFICE IN LAKEFIELD.—We see from the Lakefield NEWS that our go-ahead sister village, Lakefield, is to have an express office, Mr. Cox having previously made a. rangements to that intent, and which will be consummated as soon as he moves into his new office. Mr. W. H. Casement is to be the Agent. We cordially endorse the following item from the NEWS, in reference to Mr. Casement:—"He is already the repository of all the secrets of the post office and telegraph office, and now the responsibility of valuable express matter will be added to his trust, for all of which however, his steady character eminently fits him."

OUR YOUNG MEN.—In the Montreal Papers of last week a report of the McGill College Athletic Sports is published, in which the name of Mr. R. B. Rogers, son of R. D. Rogers, Esq., of Ashburnham, occurs as a winner of three leading events, viz; 120 yard Hurd's Race—1st R. B. Rogers—15 yds in hoops—19 competitors started: 1st went in two heats by R. B. Rogers, time 16 two-fifth sec.; J. S. Scriver 2d. Quarter mile Race (Championship of University Governor's Cup—1st R B Rogers, time 57 one-fifth sec.; J S Scriver 2d. At the conclusion of the games the prizes were presented by Mrs. Judge Day. Each was in turn loudly cheered as he stepped to the front. R B Rogers the winner of the championship being treated to three rousing cheers and a "tiger."

WM. MCCULLAGH will sell Rubbers and Over shoes at Montreal factor prices.

THE TORONTO "TELEGRAM" gives its opinion on the Church Property Exemption question as follows:—"We are inclined to the opinion that it is a mistake to allow sentimental objections to making church property pay for what it gets to have any weight in a practical [illegible] all places, should be supported by their congregations, and not find it necessary to be pensioners on the public bounty. The money lost to the civic purse by the exemption of church property must be made up by a heavier tax upon the ratepayers. If the ratepayers had less taxes to pay, they could afford to contribute more largely to the churches. They could afford, at all events, to contribute sufficient to pay the church taxes."

GO TO M. COLLINS if you want Preserving Sugar—Large lot cheap.

MEDICAL.—In another column will be found the card of Dr. R. W. Bell, late of Carleton Place, who has commenced the practice of Medicine and Surgery in this town. Our readers will remember us referring to him about two weeks ago. We clip the following from the CENTRAL CANADIAN which will show for itself the esteem in which the Dr was held in his former place of abode by his many warm friends:

"ABOUT TO LEAVE US.—We exceedingly regret to state that one of our most popular and amiable young men, Dr. R. W. Bell, is about to sever his connection from this town, and enter into new fields of professional duty in the flourishing town of Peterborough. The attention and skill which have wrought enviable success for the Dr. in these parts will be sure of speedily winning for him a similarly honorable and distinguished position in his new sphere. The people of Peterborough will find in Dr. Bell a gentleman and a physician of the highest order, and though we may lose him for their and his advantage, we shall always look with pleasure to his career, knowing that it cannot be other than highly successful."

HOUSEKEEPERS will find the best value in Groceries, &c., at M. COLLINS', next door to Mathes & Davidson's Hardware Store.

HAYWOOD'S SERENADERS.—This Troupe was greeted with a capital house on Monday Evening, on the occasion of their first visit appearance in this town. The Company is composed of a number of first class performers and the entertainment was above the general order. The Programme opened with the usual "Parlor Entertainment" the jokes being sharp and witty and the songs, especially "Dyra, hyra," by T. F. Thomas, we" sung. The second part of the programme opened with the performance of "The Blue Bells of Scotland" on the Swiss Bells, a very creditable effort. A Banjo solo introducing popular airs, as given by Mr. A. J. Whitcombe, was generally admired. Thomas and Henry were immense in their song and dance, while Prof J. A. Creswell in his selections on the Cornet gave evidence of ability of the first order, and his efforts were loudly applauded. LeGrand's character sketches were good, as were also Billy Prints Banjo Solos. Miss Kate Bavont's performance on the tumblerconlcon of musical glasses was excellent. The evening's entertainment closed with the laughable farce of "The Irish Justice."

WM. MCCULLAGH employs only First-class Workmen, and uses the best Stock, and warrants all Boots and Shoes in his establishment.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—This noted person, his lady and Miss Minnie Warren, will appear in Peterborough next Thursday evening in the Old Methodist Church. This will afford a splendid opportunity to see the miniature family. Wherever the General appeared he has drawn crowded houses. This has been the case both only in America but also in Europe and Asia, where they have travelled. This is said to be the last tour of the General, after which he will retire into private life. The following from we copy from the Melbourne Herald, Australia.

"The Hall of the Polytechnic was filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon, and evening by enthusiastic audiences, and Tront Stock the General and his wife received a hearty welcome. The General's lady, from her first appearance, established herself as a favorite with the audience, who were particularly struck by her ladylike and graceful demeanour, while Miss Minnie Warren did herself credit with the hearty of several juveniles who were present. The Sad Story of Blobbs and his Pullet.

In a tiny cosmery villa lived one Blobbs, but all alone,
Never wife or chubby children this staid bachelor knew;
Yet—for human nature will cling to something—he had
Of (I hasten to explain) a pullet, with her wings just Daily [illegible] entertaining, these had won the pullet's heart;
Following close her master's footsteps, seldom
they were far apart;
And his love grew deeper, stronger, with the lapse of each day—
"Wifer far than any woman," wicked Blobbs
it as want to say.
Near by rose a wealthiness structure—architects their brains had racked—
Cross between a Chinese temple and a crust-stand, in fact.
This the pretty pullet's dwelling: here she hastened every night;
Perched on high, became a roster till the dawning of the light.
One sad day a Yankee peddler, glib, persuading passing by,
Gazed at Blobbs and that poor pullet with a soul-
curdling eye.
From his wagon's deep recesses drew out, smiling wickedly,
"Johnston's Pulmoi Ton-Persuader," then to gladsome Blobbs said he;
"Here's a marvelous invention! In this box you see a nest,
Have at once will lay an egg here, lured to do their very best.
Then behold! this sliding bottom lets the egg drop out of view,
And the hen, somewhat bewildered, lays at once egg number two!"
'Twould be useless to repeat all that this wily peddler said;
This endless. Blobbs, unwary, by his specious tongue misled,
Bought the "Pulmoi Hen-Persuader," not his snow-white pullet on.
Locked them both within the hen-house ere he went to town that morning.
Business then engrossed him fully, till, with news rents nerve beset,
Why he can wonder that the pullet and her nest he should forget!
Nothing all day to remind him; but returning late at night,
Flashed a sudden recollection, and his cheek grew pale with fright.
Rushing madly from the station, straight he sought the hen-house door.
Called his pet in tones entreating. Ah! she'll never answer more!
Fell o'gloomiest foreboding, in he dashes; finds the Overflowing with its treasures—yes, she's done her level best.
Forty-seven eggs! and near them head and tail
and wings still lay,
For the poor ambitious pullet thus had laid herself away!

Wool on a Live Sheep.

The Trade Journals tells us that generally the finest and softest wool is on the shoulders of a sheep. But not one person in ten thousand is aware of this fact. Let us watch an expert when he is about to pass judgment on a sheep concerning the value of the animal for producing wool, and it will be seen he always looks at the wool on the shoulders first. A writer of extensive experience in rearing fine wool sheep, and in handling wool, communicated the following suggestion for selecting a fine-wooled sheep:

"Always assuming the wool to be inspected is really fine wool, we first examine the shoulders at the part where the finest and best wool is usually found. This we take as a standard and compare it with the wool from the ribs, the thigh, the rump and the shoulder parts, and the nearer wool from the various portions of the animal approaches the standard the better. First we scrutinize the fineness and if the result is satisfactory we pronounce the fleece, in respect to fineness, very even.' Next we inquire into the length of the staples, and if we find that the wool on the ribs, thigh and back approximate reasonably in length to that of our standard, we again declare the sheep, as regards length of sample, true and even. We next desire to satisfy ourselves of the density of the fleece, and we do this by closing the hand upon a portion of the rump and of the loin wool, the fleece at these points being usually the thinnest and faulty, and if it again gives satisfaction, we signify the fact by designating the wool 'even' as respects density. Now to summarise these separate examinations: If you find the fleece of nearly equal firmness from the shoulder to the thigh, of nearly equal length on shoulder, rib, thigh and back, and density on shoulder and across the loins, you may conclude that you have a perfect sheep for producing valuable wool. Selecting sheep for valuable feeders is quite another thing.

FAMILY MATTERS.

SETTING COLORS.—Blue calicoes, which fade so easily, it is said may have the colors set by washing them the first time in salt and water. After this, and ever, they may be washed in the common way.

ERASIVE SOAP.—A genuine erasive soap that will remove grease from clothing is made as follows:—Two pounds of good castile soap; half a pound of carbonate of potash, dissolved in a half a pint of hot water. Cut the soap in thin pieces, boil it in the potash until it is thick enough to mold into cakes; add alcohol, half an ounce; camphor, half an ounce; color with half an ounce of pulverised charcoal.

TO CLEAN TEETH.—To clean teeth use a wash of Two ounces of borax, dissolved in three pints of water; before quite cool, add one teaspoonful of tincture of myrrh and one table-poonful of spirits of camphor. One wine glassful of this, added to half a pint of tepid water, is sufficient for each application. This applied daily preserves and beautifies the teeth, extirpates tartarous adhesion, produces a pearl like whiteness, and induces a healthy action of the gums.

HEATING THE OVEN.—If the oven is too hot when ready to bake cake, lay a large wire grate on the oven bottom, or place some nails or old pieces of iron on the bottom of the oven. Put a piece of paper over the cake. Take one or two covers off, till the oven is cooled off; but never open the oven door. That will make the cake fall. Close the drafts, but they should be partially opened always while baking. When the cake seems to be done, try it with a clean straw or splint from a broom, or, better still, keep a long knitting-needle for that purpose. Then one is sure it is always clean. It is not pleasant to think of using a splint from a broom, not knowing what it may have been used for last. If this comes out of the cake dry and clean the cake is done, but if there is any doubt leave it in a few minutes longer.

PULMONIC DISEASES.—Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Dec. 9th, 1871.

JAS. I. FELLOWS, Esq.—Dear Sir. We are receiving orders almost daily from the Outports for your invaluable Syrup of Hypophosphites, and the sale greatly increasing. I firmly believe it has done more good than any medicine yet discovered in the cure of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, and kindred diseases. It is the only medicine we have which cures these diseases by strengthening the nervous system: and as it is also what we call a sound chemical preparation, I predict for it a more extended demand than any other remedy in existence.

Yours, very truly,
W. H. THOMPSON.

Life has few Charms for the Dyspeptic, which is not to be wondered at when we take into account the amount of bodily and mental suffering that this distressing malady generates The Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) has cured thousands who were suffering from this disease.

The Human Hair.—To give its strength and lustre, to improve its texture, to prevent its falling out and quicken its growth—in short to make it as intended, the crowning personal charm of both sexes—this is the work Burnett's Cocoaine will accomplish, if faithfully used. There is a stimulating property in this preparation, which greatly assists the growth of the fibres, at the same time rendering them smooth, silky and elastic.

Loss of memory is ever the first indication of a disorder or degeneration of Nervous element. The rapidity with which the mind is restored by the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is perhaps the best proof of the power in re-establishing the strength of the nervous system.

A World in Trouble.—The world is in trouble, nations are convulsed: thrones are trembling; governments are agitated; people are excited, and the wholesocial organization, of civilization appears to be sensitively influenced by something preeminently of a great change; now for nervousness there is nothing like the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," which also cures rheumatism, neuralgia, tic douloureux, cramps and pains in the stomach, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers.

A Good Horse.—"There is much pleasure and profit in the exercise of a good horse, and but very little of either in a bad one;" no person from choice will retain a bad horse many, however, are in possession of such who need not be. We think there are few horses so bad but that their condition can be improved and rendered more valuable and useful for their owners, to effect which, there is nothing equal to "Dunlop Condition Powder" and Arabian Heave Remedy; it has done yeomanlike results in thousands of cases. Remember the name and see that the signature of Reed & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

One of the Testimonials!

From Dr DUNCAN MCCALLUM, Montreal—
I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the pubic joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Benson's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of this genuine article

SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

Cures all Nervous Diseases, such as Tremors, Debility, Prostration, etc., which, in many cases, are produced by over indulgence in the use of tobacco and alcholic spirits; but the Specific Medicine is more especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to everyone.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.
Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine the Diploma of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED MORE THAN A DUPLICATE OF THIS DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the Judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended one of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the blend of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SOCIALLY DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO HOODWINK THE PEOPLE. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

[From the Official Report.]

PETERBOROUGH, NOV., 9, 1876.

THE BOTHWELL ELECTION.

The Tories when in power used to be ready to lay down what they considered a political axiom, to the effect that no opposition should be offered to the election of a newly made Minister. In the case of a Tory Minister no doubt this would still be with them a self evident truth; but when the new entrant and the Cabinet into which he steps happens to be Reform, even axioms do not hold good with the party now in opposition. They have gone clean back on their plain belief in bringing out a candidate in opposition to the new Minister of the Interior in his appearance before his constituents for re-election, because of his acceptance of the portfolio. It matters not that Mr. Mills was returned at the general election by a majority of 463 votes and that he is certain of re-election next Wednesday, they are determined to bring on a contest in the hope that the majority may be reduced, and that they can point to Bothwell as the seat of a "Conservative re action" The reason for their belief that the majority can be reduced is founded on the fact, that on the former occasion they brought out a lunatic as their candidate. We have not heard any question of the sanity of their present victim Mr. James Dawson, but fancy he also must be a sort of a mild lunatic, to thus suffer himself to be set up to be simply knocked down again, for the satisfaction of a few bitter politicians as designing as he is vain. Mr. Dawson is sure to be beaten; the lunatic was no worse. But if Mr. Mills majority should this time be larger than before, as is quite possible considering the number of votes unpolled at the last election, then Mr. Dawson will be in a pretty predicament. He will have to acknowledge himself worse than a lunatic.

Mr. Dawson is not altogether unknown in public life. He is a Justice of the Peace, resident in Sombra township, and was a representative of Kent in the Ontario Legislature for a term, during which he never displayed more than average ability. He is a renegade Reformer, having actually been one of the founders of the Catholic League, which he thought should move in accordance with his nod, and because it would not obey his whims he kicked his own creation, flew off at a tangent, and being a man with a grievance against the Reformers, was at once received as a qualified member of the Conservative conglomeration. We are afraid Mr. Dawson is destined to disappointment. He tried to use his religion as a step to his ambition, and failed, as a Reformer, and now that he has become a puppet for those who use him for the sake of the influence they think his religion will bring themselves, not him, he is likely to fare even worse by making himself cheap and despicable in the eyes of even his intelligent co-religionists. The Roman Catholic electors of Bothwell are not likely to vote against the party from whom their creed has received whatever rights they enjoy, simply because the disappointed personal ambition of one of their number has induced him to appeal to them in the interests of those who have ever been ready to use his church as a political instrument while denying its members even common fair play in the political race. Even in this very instance the bringing out of Mr. Dawson is calculated to do harm rather than good to the Catholic Church; but that does not and never did weigh in the consideration of Tory tacticians. Of what use to Mr. Dawson, who claims the votes of his co-religionists or to them, would be the defeat of Mr. Mills, were it even possible? What benefit is going to arise to any one from a hopeless opposition, amounting only to a petty obstruction? Be it remembered that Mr. Dawson is not the candidate of the Catholic electors of Bothwell, he was merely brought out by designing wire pullers to catch their votes, provided they be so foolish as to listen to the charmer that would thus prostitute their church connection to the manufacture of a so called "Conservative re-action." That they are so foolish we will not believe until we see it proven. They have nothing like Macdonald, Blake and Cartwright, and put again into their deceitful hands the interest of the country which they once so basely sacrificed. All must forget the past. The Pacific Scandal! O please don't mention it! It is a dead issue. It is a shame to bring such an unmeasurably corpse between the wind and their nobility. At any rate they wish it dead and forgotten. But as long as men who have shown themselves unworthy of confidence ask to be trusted. The black evidence of their treachery and corrupt dealing will be recalled. They are the same untrustworthy men. They have not repented of their political crimes. The Ethiopians have not changed their skins much less their hearts.

But their moral sense is so perverted they blindly fancy they can persuade the people that their corruption was purity and their falsehood truth. They cannot do it. As long as the perpetrators of that disgraceful bargain seek office and confidence, the Pacific Scandal will not be a dead issue.

against Mr. Mills; but by adopting such a course in a body they would become party to a game set up in opposition to the new Minister and the Government of which he is a member, and by voting as Roman Catholics for a Roman Catholic, they would be counteiting a principle by no means complimentary to their Church, to say nothing of advantages to themselves. It is to be expected that some of them will vote for Mr. Dawson on purely political grounds. To this there can be no objection. We have no more desire to see any Church go 'holens volens' for one side more than another, and would like to see this dragging of religion through the mire of politics entirely abandoned in order that the vote might be considered as a better index of the political complexion of the constituency in which it is cast. It is not much of a compliment to the intelligence of those spoken of when we hear political canvassers discussing the chances of securing the Methodist, the Catholic, the Orange, the Scotch, the German or the Irish vote, as though the beliefs or nationalities of these various bodies of men precluded them from forming any but one bigoted opinion on the individual exercise of the franchise to which their intelligence and industry has entitled them. The game of chance, to catch votes by playing religion under the political thimble is one of which neither Conservatives of Bothwell, Mr. Dawson, the organs of the party, nor any one who indulges in it need be proud, and we trust that those who are now indulging in it may be hugely disappointed, by the return of Mr. Mills by a majority almost, if not altogether as great as that by which he defeated the lunatic the last time he was elected.

THE CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

While at the present time the entire Conservative press is labouring with redoubled zeal, and every Tory stump orator straining his lungs to prove the unfitness of the present Cabinet Ministers for the Treasury benches, we deem it not to be importune to examine the fitness and claims of those pure-souled patriots who have been, and are, endeavering so hard to make the country believe that they only are the men fit for office. Are they men whose past record entitles them to our confidence? Have their administrative acts been of a character to secure commendation? Taking the Chief himself, what has he done to merit the confidence of Canadians? Does he commend himself to us for his ingennousness as displayed in the Riel affair; declaring "O would to God I could catch him," while with secret service money he pays him to leave the country. Is it his honesty you admire when he charges Mr. Blake with driving Riel & Co. beyond the reach of justice, by offering a reward for their apprehension, while he bribes them to flee the province? Is it his truthfulness as displayed in the memorable "these hands are clean" while stained with the ink of "the last call for another $10,000."—Tupper, the insincere and bombastic mud-thrower—who has any confidence in him? so completely discarded by his own province that he only comes to tell the tale? Langevin, of $32,000 notoriety,—the gentleman who disdained those important little strips of paper called receipts. John O'Connor, Aikens, Dr. Robataille, repectable nonentites. William McDougall, the practical politician, who deserted party for office, and is, and has been, openly in the market. These are some of the office-seekers, and if we discuss the doings of these men we are told ad nauseum we are discussing dead issues. The deeds of these men are not dead issues, so long as they seek office, for they show up the men. Why censure for reviving the Pacific Scandal when its authors are again grasping for the reins of power? These men are all persons who have been tried and failed morally, and politically. At the time of Confederation there was a strong outcry that party issues should be forgotten, and everything make a new start.—Dr. Ryerson, the great pamphleteer, whom nature intended for a politician, but who became a preacher, by some confusion or changes way like what the fairies used to practice on Irish babies—wrote a pamphlet to help his Chief, urging this no-party plea. It substantially said: "Let bygones be bygones. Let us count the past game nothing and begin anew; all the old questions have disappeared. Give Cartier and Macdonald another trial.—Then if they do not conduct public affairs with purity and efficiency oppose them." The country did largely act on this advice The elections did give a good support to the Government of Cartier and Macdonald. They were tried patiently and forbearingly. Down they went, however, lower and lower, adopting year by year, still more questionable expedients to hold the emoluments of office. Men are bought one by one, by office. Every purchasable opponent received his price and bowed his neck to the party yoke. But all this was insufficient. The political tricksters felt their foundations to be on the shifting sand of popular opinion, and that was fast sliding from under them. The people were not likely to send their voting brigade at the next election. Something must be done. Hugh Allan's desire to obtain the control of the Pacific Railway offered the golden opportunity, which Sir John and Sir George were not slow to accept. The amount at stake was large, Sir Hugh would come down handsomely. He and his company would give enough to enable the twin politicians to retire from the retail purchase trade and go into the wholesale business. They could buy up the candidates by giving them money to buy up the constituencies. On condition that the Montreal ship owner would furnish the needful. he was assured that the whole influence of the Government would be given to secure the object of his ambition. The bribe was taken, and the numerous bribes given by the Chief Ministers of Canada. Whatever transparent nonsense about "a subscription spent lawfully," may be used in defense of the huge swindle, the calm judgment of the future historian of Canada must write it down in colors of infamy, as the most disgraceful attempt to corrupt our whole system of legislation and government at the root that Canada ever saw. When in spite of the false declaration that there was no truth in the charges formulated by Mr. Huntingdon, the partial evidence brought out before a commission appointed by the criminal parties, attested the damning facts of their scandalous corruption, a parliament, a large number of which owed their seats to the free use of Allan's gold, righteously hurled them from power.—There was a triple bribery in the Pacific Scandal affair. The ministers were bribed to favor Sir Hugh. They bribed the candidates to support them by giving them money with which to bribe and corrupt the constituencies.

And now the innocent, clean-handed politicians who sold their own honor and disgraced their country, want the people

A SURPRISED OPPOSITION.

The opposition organs express surprise at the appointment of Mr. Mills, to a seat in the Cabinet, because the Globe at one time saw fit to combat certain views of his with regard to the constitution of the Senate, which views, (no matter how they are received to-day by the country,) were then presented in a manner that shewed Mr. Mills, had given much thought to questions of government, and which claims the attention of the leading journal of the Dominion. Whether or not the new ministers maturer consideration has led him to change his opinions on this particular subject, weighs but little on the consideration of his fitness for the position. Shrewd and practical men have seen fit to offer him, and which he has been induced to accept, even should his inward desire be for an elective Senate, his greatest detractor will scarce think him foolish enough to try to advance his theory at a time ill fitted for its reception; or in opposition to a majority of his colleagues, attempt to force his discussion in the Cabinet. But were he possessed of certain views amounting to a decided thobby, he will now find sufficient to engage his attention and time without mounting any phantom steed, or speculating on undefined problems. That he is able for the position no one has as yet questioned; that he is deserving is best proved by his past record of honesty and industry in public affairs, and his strong attachment to Reform principles at a time when the advocates of such principles were in an almost hopeless minority, only relying on the feeling that the right must some day prevail. The surprise of the Tory Journals at the appointment is more in the man himself, but is caused by the discovery that they have been mistaken, though that is certainly no cause for wonderment, if they would but consider how often and sadly they have blundered before. They have long nursed the idea that George Brown, is the "Dictator" of the Reform Party, and that no person abnoxious to the Globe can hope for preferment, and they have made themselves believe that Mr. Mills, was one of those "read out" by the great "dictator" a distinctive feature of the Reform party comparred with that in opposition to it is, that though its members may differ on particular points, they can yet unite upon general principles. So hard is it to get this idea into the seasoned Conservative cranium, that many will persist in accepting the idea cooled from their inner consciousness, that because the Globe and Mr. Mills, differed concerning the constitution of the Senate, Senator Brown, and Mr. Mills, are opposed to each other, rejecting at the same time the plain utterance of the Globe that "all the tales about any one "connected with the Globe having the "remotest objection to Mr. Mills appointment are silly and gratuitous fabrications." If the opposition organs conjure up theories and indulge in petty speculations about the probable feelings of individual members of the Reform party, they must expect to meet with surprises by the vanishing of the visions on which they have been feasting their fancies. In the case we have first been considering they have either to abandon the idea of Globe opposition to the new minister or that of Globe dictation. They can retreat upon which horn of the dilemma pleases or displeases them; but probably they will be so unwilling to give up the "dictator" scare-crow that they will acknowledge the silly and gratuitous fabriactions" a few more such surprises and the "fabricators" will have to manufacture a new stock wherewith to tickle the political palates of their readers; for being unable to find any legitimate cause of complaint against the present government, in order to make their papers sell they adopt the policy of "Stabbing some one under the fifth rib," or telling some story born of their deep desire for disunion in the ranks of their opponents. Now that their old stock of scandals and impossibilities is worn thread-bare, and the "Conservative reaction" is not only stale but ridiculous, a new issue of fabrications is urgently needed; and however silly they may be, the supply will certainly follow the demand, the manufactures being always prepared to furnish their customers in quantities to suit.

GOVERNMENT of the NOR' WEST

The appointment of a Governor for the North West Territories has set the Opposition howling about the extravagance of the Dominion Cabinet in putting the machinery of Government into what they are now pleased to call a wilderness, but which they were wont to term the future garden of the Dominion, when advocating the building of the Pacific Railway, in ten years, for Sir John Macdonald. The garden is only beginning to assume a cultivated shape, and the care of it needs to be delegated to some competent person. This is all that has been done in the appointment of a Governor for that vast expanse, sparsely settled 'tis true, but on that very account the more needful of a governing power, to prevent the abuses likely to arise in a new country undergoing development by rough men far from the restraints of civilization. So far from the establishment then of a Government being extravagant, we take it to be the highest economy, for it will prevent the sowing now of seeds of discord and lawlessness that a few years hence would grow to weeds that could not be plucked out except at a very great expense, if indeed they could ever be totally eradicated; and it is certain that their growth even for a comparatively brief time would produce injuries utterly irreparable. Only those who have some practical experience of it can understand the necessity, in dealing with the Indian, the half-breed and the almost savage white men of the plains, of prompt and intelligent action, and the dire consequences that may result from a little delay or a small mistake. Whatever be the cost of establishing the administration of the one and the preservation of the other in the North West Territory, it is a mere bagatel in comparison with the prosperity of that vast domain and the honor of the Dominion, which without such establishment would be sacrificed, as surely as sunset brings twilight and darkness. As for the comparison with the economy of Sir John Macdonald in governing the North West from Manitoba, its ridiculousness will be made apparent by recalling one instance of Sir John's "economy," the payment to Louis Riel to keep out of the country,—for which offence, with others of like character, he suffered a disgraceful downfall. Yet there are those who will in excess of party zeal compare such "economy" to the necessary payments for the development of the growing Dominion, and fancy they disparage the latter mode of procedure, If the preservation of peace and the prevention of anarchy in the North West costs millions of dollars, let the expenditure be made rather than that the price shall be the giving away of the country's honor through its chief magistrate. The people of Canada we are certain, are willing, to honestly pay for the management of the affairs of the newly acquired territory between Manitoba and British Columbia, and we are as fully persuaded that they can trust the present administration with the expenditure; that they have no desire to place the public purse in the hands of those who favor such "economy" as the Reil payment; and that sooner than choose the latter alternative they would give back the "wilderness" to the Hudsons Bay Company to whose the former Government paid so much for its acquisition.

FIGURES.

The Mail has been attempting to do something in figures lately. But as in all cases where the Mail has had to do with stubborn unyielding characters it has been rather unfortunate. Better stick to figures of speech and mud throwing, with a dash of snarling and cynicisms thrown in by way of relish. It figures up the sum of Grit enormities as follows:

	Annual Salary.
F. B. Wood, M. P., Manitoba Bench...	$5,000
E. V. Bodwell, M. P., Welland Canal	3,000
A. A. Dorion, M. P., Quebec Bench..	6,000
W. H. Rose, M. P., Collector of Halifax	3,000
T. Fournier, M. P., Supreme Court...	7,000
D. A. Macdonald, M. P., Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario	10,000
Thomas Moss, M. P., Ontario Bench..	5,000
David Stirton M. P., Guelph Postmastership	2,000
David Laird, M. P., Lieutenant-Governor N. W. Territory	7,000
SHRIEVALTIES—ESTIMATED INCOME.
George Perry, M. P. P., Oxford Shrievalty	3,000
A. McKellar, M. P. P., Wentworth Shrievalty	5,000
Peter Gow, M. P. P., Wellington Shrievalty	4,000
Annual amount required to 'Overcome their Reluctance,' &c.	$60.000

Now all this when boiled down just means that certain important offices became vacant, and the Reform Governments filled the positions. Only think of a Grit holding an office with a decent salary attached! Not a word is said as to their fitness; nothing but the terrible sin of Reformers getting an office. The offices are not creations of the ministry by any means. O no! but then Grits got them. Not even were the salaries fixed by the present administration except in one or two instances. Still that makes no difference. The MAIL must snarl. We would have thought that the memory of the doings of the late ministry in regard to appointments even when in articulo mortis, would have been a check to over-zealous partisans—not so, however. The county will not soon forget the huge batch of officers commissioned and of officers made the last days of the moribund Langevin-Macdonald ministry. The country understands too, much better than the Tories desire, the inconsistency of such a course, and the spirit which dictates it. Do they expect Tories to be appointed? How many, Grits did Sir John appoint when in office? Is it not a strong Tory doctrine to the victors belong the spoils. If the Reformers desired to appoint a Tory to office, 'twould be hard to find one, John A. having every possible applicant some position'

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The affairs of the Midland Railway, of which so much has been heard within the last year or two, appear to be in a condition scarcely conduaive to the interests of those capitalists who are most directly interested in the success of the line, and who not long ago made sacrifices to insure as they thought, that success. In 1875 the Company was unable to pay the interest on its first preference bonds, and the principal and interest of the drawn bonds, but stated that if time was given to complete and develop the line, the engagements to the bondholders could be fulfilled. Accordingly in that year an agreement was made between the Company and trustees of the first mortgage bondholders, that the latter should find their coupons for three and a half years, receiving in lieu of their interest bonds for the amount so funded, bearing six per cent per annum and repayable on the 1st November 1877. The annual drawings were suspended from the 28th February 1875, for five years, and in lieu of bonds already drawn for payment, new bonds were issued, repayable on the 1st November 1878, bearing six per cent interest, payable half yearly, in May and November. To give the Trustees a certain control, it was agreed that certain shares should be transferred to them so as to give them a voting power at the meetings of the Company; and for the further security of the first mortgage bondholders it was stipulated that these should be five directors, two of whom should be nominated by the Trustees, and that the Company might appoint an agent in Canada for the carrying out of the agreement and who might be one of the directors nominated by the trustees. The company was, by the agreement during its continuance to pay all the monies received on account of their undertaking with the Bank of Montreal, to the credit of the Company, and arrange with the bank that no payments should be made out of such monies without the authority of some person named by the trustees. For the purpose of guiding the discretion of the person so appointed, the receipts of the Company were to be applicable only toward the completion of the road to the Georgian Bay, the maintenance of the permanent way and works of the road, the provision, maintenance and renewal of rolling stock, the ordinary working expenses, and the reduction of the floating debt existing on the 31st December, 1874; and no other expenditure for any other purpose was to be entertained without the express consent of the Trustees.

The agent in Canada of the first mortgage bondholders, Mr. J. G. Wallbridge, of Belleville, being in London, England, has addressed a circular to his principals

Those newspapers which, for political purposes, continue to state that manufactures are on a better footing in the States than in Canada might be enlightened by studying the following from the New York BULLETIN:

"The Hamilton, Bristol, Southbridge and Allen Print Works are closed for the present, Spragues are running about half their machines three days a week, and W. Simpson & Sons are only running one of their mills pending removal of machinery, etc. No more dark prints will be turned out by the American and Arnold works this season, after clearing up the goods now in process of manufacture. The following mills are running to about one-half their capacity:—Manchester, Merrimack, Dunnel Washington, Gloucester and Ancona; and the following have reduced their production about one-third: Pacific Oriental, Passaic, Richmond and Albion. Messrs. Garner & Co. have probably reduced their production by two-thirds, the Cocheco Works one-quarter, and Freeman about three-eighths."

The amount of capital lying idle in the American print trade must be enormous. Is there a factory in Canada, of any kind, so much under the weather as the most favored one of the above list?

Edward J. S. Stokes, who was imprisoned at Auburn, N. Y., for the shooting of Jim Fisk, was liberated on Saturday last, his term having expired.

Tax exemptions in Brantford this year amount to $661,450, or one-fifth of the property of the town.

Chief Justice Draper is said to be seriously ill and declining rapidly. His friends have lost all hope of his ever being able to resume his seat on the bench again. He is an old man and if restored to good health would do well to retire.

It is now pretty certain that Canada has received the Gold Medal at the Centennial Exhibition, and first prize for the best cheese, the sweepstakes being £75. Mr. Ballantyne, M.P.P., of Black Creek, County of Perth, being the fortunate exhibitor.

The Belleville INTELLIGENCER says: since the condemnation of McQuillan, the Madoc wife murderer, he has been if anything more morose and uncommunicative than before. A few days ago he was detected making preparations to commit suicide, and the Prison Inspector was communicated with. By Mr. Langmuir's direction a man has been engaged to watch McQuillan at night, in order to prevent him from carrying out any desperate design which he may have formed against his own life. The prisoner has of late spoken as if possessed of strong hallucinations, and threatened to drown himself in his water basket, if opportunity offered. It is not probable that such chances will be afforded him, as he is very carefully looked after, both by night and

LIEUTENANT COLONEL JAMES FARQUHARSON MACLEOD, Companion of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, of Fort Pelly, in the North West Territories, Commissioner of the North West Mounted Police Force: has been appointed a Member of the Council to aid the Lieutenant Governor in the Administration of the North West Territories, under the provisions of the Act 39th Vict., Chap. 49.

A CONUNDRUM.—The Tory candidate for Glengarry, through himself and his agents spent $632.95 and was defeated.—The Liberal candidate, (Mr. A. McNabb) spent through himself and his agents $62.-26, of which $50 was the legal deposit with the returning officer. The actual expenditure on McNabb's side was about $22.25 and he was elected. Conundrum: If in a county like Glengarry it costs a Liberal candidate $62 to win, and a Tory one $600 to be defeated, how much would it cost a Tory to win?

At the Monaghan murder trial at Sarnia on Friday last, Judge Burton said that although he had no moral doubt of the guilt of Gremay and McPhie, yet the legal evidence was insufficient to convict. He accordingly discharged the prisoners. Judge Burton no doubt acted a proper part. It is better that ten guilty persons should escape than that one innocent person should suffer. The only protection the general citizen has against false accusations or false appearances is the principal laid down by Judge Burton: that the legal evidence should be beyond cavil before any person is convicted on any charge. Apply this case to certain discussions of late in the Press. Suppose Mr. Justice Burton had allowed the case to go to the jury. Suppose Mr. Justice (for such things have been) that local feeling had induced the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty. As a matter of course, with such evidence, the case would go higher, and might eventually reach the Minister of Justice. The sentence would have to be commuted: for men must not be hanged to satisfy local feeling (however natural such feeling may be in itself), if at all, in accordance with the strict letter of the law. This course, as we have pointed out, is the safeguard of every individual in the community. Yet we suppose a few journals would be found base enough to again denounce from ulterior motives the action of the Minister of Justice. The meaner class of newspapers have now an excellent chance to denounce Mr. Justice Burton for not acting contrary to law.

MCEVOY'S HIBERNICON.—This company will give one of their exhibitions in the Old Methodist Church on Saturday evening. The comical Irish Comedian, "Dan Nash," will appear in his specialities.

GENTEEL TOM THUMB AND TROUPE.—As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, the celebrated Tom Thumb and Troupe visit this town to-day, and give two performances, afternoon and evening, in the old Methodist Church.

NO QUORUM.—There was no meeting of the School Board on Tuesday evening, there being only two members present.—Messrs. Stevenson and Johnston; the missionary meeting in the Charlotte Street Church being more attractive.

BAILEY BROS advertisement was received too late for this week's issue. Baily Bros. have a large stock of apples which they are bound to sell at low rates, so that parties wishing to get good apples by the barrel or otherwise, should not fail to give them a call.

EXTRA MAIL.—We hear the rumour of another stage line being put into operation very shortly, between Peterborough and Apsley. If the Government will only make arrangements for two mails weekly. This would be a great convenience to the Burleyites.

SUICIDE.—A young man named Henry Thomas, 23 years of age, committed suicide by hanging himself in a barn in South Ontario, on Monday last. From the evidence here is little doubt but that the deceased young man really was insane at the time of his committing the rash act.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—The principal business places were closed on Thursday last, and business was almost entirely suspended. Thanksgiving Services were held in the principal churches. The day passed off very quiet y. It being rather a disagreeable afternoon, raining quite heavy.

THE LOVE OF MONEY.—Last week, a man named Thomas Todd, was foolish enough to try to pass off some counterfeit silver coin on different parties in Apsley. He was detected, and tried before Mr. Golborne, who sent him to Jail to await his trial. We understand Todd admits the charge. He will go to the Central Prison to learn to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow.

CUSTOMS REGULATION.—Hitherto it has been the practice of the Canadian Customs Department to allow samples of merchandize to be admitted free of duty, a deposit of the amount of the duty for which the goods would, as merchandize, be liable being made and refunded on proof that the goods had not been sold in Canada. This practice has now been abandoned altogether.

FIRE BRIGADE.—At the last regular meeting of the Peterboro Fire Brigade, the following members were unanimously elected officers for the ensuing year:—John Irwin, Captain No. 1 Company; Thomas Rutherford, Lieutenant No. 1 Company; George Armstrong, Captain No. 2 Company; William Roberts, Lieutenant No. 2 Company; Aaron Comstock, Treasurer; L. Dobbin, Secretary.

FAIRBANK'S SCALES—Last year in the great contest for the special $30,000 contract, in which Fairbanks won, there were six competitors. This year, only one Company competed and offered to supply the United States Government at a much lower price than the Fairbanks. The quality of the goods, however, were very inferior and Fairbanks again won the contract. Mr. H. Rent is agent for Peterboro and all who want perfect scales should give him a call. 44tf

Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Personally we can speak highly of its value as a family cough remedy, having used it with great benefit The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should unfortunately contract either coughs or colds. 44-6m

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Philharmonic Society, held on Thursday evening last, the following officers were elected:—President, Mr. W. Lasby Vice-President, Mr. George Dunsford; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. C. P. Mingy; Musical Director, Professor Martin; Assistant Director, Mr. A. T. Heathfield; Committee: Messrs. Sen. McClelland, W. H. Charles, D. D. Gellatly, J. Jardine and Capt. Kennedy. The fee for active members is $2. and for passive members, $3.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—This association held their usual weekly meeting in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening last. The association was favoured with a highly philosophical Essay on "Prejudice," by Mr. H. T. Beck, B. A.; Mr. W. W. Johnston read "The Quadroon Girl," by Longfellow, and Mr. G. W. Hatton, "Mark Twain's Poetical Economy." The Debate was unavoidably postponed until the next meeting. The Society is already showing marks of progress four new members having been added to the roll at the last meeting.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—We are credibly informed that certain gentlemen are soliciting votes from ratepayers to place themselves in public position next January. We hope no elector will promise his vote to any one until all the candidates are in the field. We always look with distrust upon men who in this underhanded way, try to get positions which they might not be able to secure in a fair fight. We therefore hope the electors will not pledge their votes till all the candidates are in the field, as in doing so they might have cause to regret it hereafter.

GYMNASIUM.—At the last meeting of the Peterboro Boating Club, steps were taken to have the gymnasium fitted up for the winter, and a special committee was appointed to have the management of it. Tickets entitling persons to the use of the gymnasium until the First of April next may be obtained from the Secretary or any member of the committee for the small fee of $1.50. We have no doubt but that many of the young men of the town will take advantages of this opportunity afforded them, for occupying their winter evenings in a pleasant and healthy manner.

DESTROYED BY LIGHTNING.—The barns, stables and buildings of Mr. Wm. Plunkett, of Otonabee, were struck by lightning on Wednesday morning last, and consumed. While at breakfast they heard a sharp peal, and on going out to see if anything had happened they discovered the barn on fire, which soon extended to the whole out-buildings and consumed them. Everything was got out of the stables and sheds with the exception of a pair of new bob-sleighs. The year's crop was consumed, it being in the barns unthreshed. Insured in the Isolated Risk for $1,200, loss not known.

ONTARIO CLOTHING STORE.—Mr. John Taylor has a large and well selected stock of Gent's Furnishings, etc., in his store, and appears to be doing a rushing business. His system of selling at "rock bottom prices" seems to work well, and it ought to, for at the present time money is scarce and hard to be got, and consequently when people go to buy they want value for every cent. Mr. Taylor keeps a very fine assortment of everything usually found in a first-class Gent's Furnishing establishment, and repudiates the inspection of "shop goods" before purchasing elsewhere.

HALL, INNES & CO.—Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co. have completed the fixings in the new store, as heretofore intimated. In the new store, on the ground floor, is one of the most expensive and extensive stocks of carpets to be found in the province, consisting of Brussels, Tapestry, Wool, Kiddermisters, Unions, Hemp Twills, Felt and Linen. of various styles and values, and of most beautiful patterns. On the second floor they have commenced a clothing department, and have engaged Mr. Andrew McNeil of Montreal, as cutter. He has had four years experience in a large Montreal Merchant Tailoring establishment, and is therefore in a position to guarantee good fits and perfect satisfaction. Their stock of Cloths, Tweeds and furnishings is good and cheap.

ON SMOKING.—"No smoking," says an exchange, ought to be posted on every barn.—There is not much difference between having a horse thief around the stables and a man smoking off the horses and tending cattle with a pipe in his mouth; and there is no hired man much meaner than the one, who, when his employer comes round, slips his pipe into his pocket, or holds his hand over it, as if it was a little bird. All such fellows should be paid off, started off and kept off. As for the farmer himself going into the barn with a pipe in his mouth, no complaints can be made; but if his establishment burns up, nobody should cry, unless it be the wife and children. Lightning and incendaries, and spontaneous combustion combined, do not cause as many barns to be burnt as the practise of smoking.

M. COLLINS is selling his Groceries at prices to suit the times.

AS OTHERS SEE HIM.—We clip the following from the Toronto Evening TELEGRAM in reference to "R. A's" late visit to the Cemetery: "Nothing is easier, or more absurd, than to criticise unfavourably expression, verbal or other, of intense human feeling. The only position in a graveyard for a satirist is horizontal, with a layer of earth above him. The Peterborough REVIEW has a correspondent who sneers at the decorations with which the bereaved mark the last resting places of their friends. He objects to the urn as heathenish, and to other memorial emblems on the same grounds. Is there anything gained by carping criticism of this sort, or by disturbing good Christian people who have without knowing it, borrowed heathen emblems to express feelings which are not specially either Christian or pagan, but simply human?"

PERSONALS.—Mr. W. H. Gibbs, M.P. of North Ontario, was in town on Monday attending the Missionary meeting in the Methodist Church here.—John D. Lemoure, Q.C., of Cobourg, was in town on Monday, and he feels certain that Ryan's sentence will be commuted.—Rev. E. Ryerson Young, late Missionary from the North-West, was in town the beginning of the week attending the annual missionary meetings in the Methodist Church.—Rev. Mr. Rainer, of Cobourg, preached in the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday last, instead of the Rev. Mr. Burwash, who was detained by a death in his family.—Messrs. D. W. Dumble, Geo. Edmison, H. H. Smith, R. Romaine, D. Pentland and wife returned home from the Centennial during the past week.—Geo. T. Reid, Esq., left for the Centennial Saturday morning. Rev. Mr. Laird was also in town attending the missionary meetings.

THE LAW OF HORSE HIRE.—It has been decided, says the RURAL SUN that when a horse or carriage is let out for hire for the purpose of performing a particular journey, the party letting warrants the horse or carriage fit and competent for such a journey. If the hirer treats the horse or carriage as any prudent man would do, he is not answerable for any damage that either may receive. But he must use the horse for the purpose for which he hired him.—For instance a horse hired for saddle must not be used in harness. If the hirer violates the express condition of the contract he is liable for any damages that may occur. If the horse is stolen through the hirer's negligence, such as leaving the stable door open all night, he must answer for it. But if he is robbed of it by highwaymen, when travelling the usual road at usual hours he cannot be held for damages.—Commercial travellers have frequent occasion to protect themselves, as well as to be corrected by a knowledge of such rulings as above.

WEEK OF PRAYER FOR YOUNG MEN.—In accordance with a resolution passed at the Seventh Triennial Conference of Young Men's Christian Association of all lands, at Hamburg, where seventeen nations were represented, the coming week, beginning with Sunday, Nov. 12, will be observed throughout the world as a Week of Prayer for the blessing of God upon young men, and upon the work of the Association. Sermons specially directed to young men will be preached in most of the churches in Peterborough, on Sunday morning. A prayer meeting to which all are invited will be held in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., Bradburn's new hall, on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. A public meeting will be held in the Association Rooms at 3.30, at which one or two short addresses will be delivered, and a collection in aid of the International work will be taken up. Meetings will also be held in the rooms every evening during the week at 8 o'clock, to which the public generally are invited. Appropriate addresses will be delivered by the ministers of the town and others.

WM. MCCULLAGH employs only First-class Workmen, and uses the best Stock, and warrants all Boots and Shoes in his establishment.

POLICE COURT.—On Monday morning, Mr. A. W. Lasher was charged by Matilda Brown with the non-payment of her wages.—Mr. Hatton after hearing the evidence dismissed the case.—On Tuesday morning G. Joubert, who charged with assaulting A. Brault. Brault said that he was standing back of the new barn hall talking to a young man when Joubert came up and used very abusive language to him, and also threw a stone at him. Then ran after him into Fancher's kitchen. He picked up a stick and Mr. Fancher came in and told him to go for me, as much as he could. I was under the influence of liquor and do not remember beating either Joubert or Fancher. Michael Christie said that he was with Brault when Joubert came up and insulted him, and threw a stone at him. James Kelso and Christopher Glendenning were heard, and their evidence went to show that A. Brault had used very abusive language towards Joubert, and he had also picked up a stone boy and threw him off the sidewalk on some gravel because he would not tell him his names. Joubert was fined $1.00 without costs.

THOSE OWING me will find the best value in Groceries, &c., at M. COLLINS', next door to McKee & Davidson's Hardware Store.

The Belleville INTELLIGENCER says:—At the meeting of the Town Council on Monday, a first reading was given to a By-law proposing a bonus of $50,000 to the Grand Junction Railway Company, to aid in the completion of the road to Peterborough.

STABBING AFFAIR AT SELWYN.

On last Saturday evening, a stabbing affair took place at Selwyn. The following are the simple facts of the case. At about six o'clock, on the evening in question, a man named Gagan, of rather doubtful character who resides at Bridgenorth, having but recently returned from the United States, arrived at Selwyn on his return from Buckhorn when he called at Johnston's hotel. Lounging around for some time he finally asked for some whiskey but it was denied him as the bar was then closed and Johnston would not open it again. Gagan then withdrew himself from the bar as if to leave the place but still lounged about it. The next place he figured was deliberately driving away a team of horses belonging to a farmer named Cartwright, who had called at Johnston's on his way home. On hearing that the team was gone, Cartwright gave chase, accompanied by Johnston and Stabler, and overtaking the thief between the Post Office and Bells grocery, Stabler caught the horses by their heads, while Johnston by up-ending the seat treated his Gagan-ship to a seat in the mud. After this some hard words followed when Johnston kindly or otherwise removed the dirt from Gagan's face with the back of his hand, Gagan then picked up a stone and followed him using insulting and abusive language and challenging him to fight. To this Johnston replied that he did not want to fight, Gagan returning to the hotel, and a kind of friendly manner asked if he could get lodging for the night; to this Johnston replied that he did not keep horse thieves. However, after some further conversation he consented to keep him over night, provided he would go directly to bed without taking any more whiskey, but Gegan said he would have the whiskey and threatened to take it. Exasperated at this Johnston again applied the back of his hand to Gegan's face, and ordered him off his premises and shut the door in his face. After some further altercations Gagan betook himself to Mr. Richard Northey's, and tried to get in but did not succeed. In the meantime Johnston and his family were about retiring for the night, when Mrs. Johnston stated that she was afraid to retire until she was satisfied that he'd gone from about the place. In a very short time afterwards Gagan turned up, kicking at Bell's shop, knowing that Mr. Bell lives at some distance from his shop. Johnston and Stabler, thought it just to go over and see that no harm was done to the shop, and on being asked what he was doing there, and why he did not go home Gagan replied that he wouldn't go to night At this stage Johnston informed him that he was a Constable, and that unless he started off home immediately he would arrest him; this seemed only to enrage him and he commenced kicking the door more violently than ever, when Johnston approached him and putting his hand on his shoulder informed him that he was his prisoner. Pretending to take a match out of his pocket, Gagan instantly drew a knife and stabbed Johnston, drawing the blade across the forehead about three inches. Two other severe wounds were inflicted in rapid succession, Johnston's wounds were attended to by Dr. Bell of Lakefield, and it is supposed that he will soon rally again from their effects. Gagan has since been arrested and tried before John Hull, Esq., of Lakefield, who committed him to stand his trial at the next Quarter Sessions in Peterborough. When arrested he pretended to have forgotten all about the affair, but no doubts his memory will be vastly improved by a two months session in our jail.

And why all this inhumanity and fiendishness? Is it not to be traced to the sale and use of intoxicating drink? Most assuredly. Remove the cause and you remove the effect.

MILLBROOK.

REVIVAL.—A very powerful and extensive revival of religion is in progress at the Fairmount appointment, Millbrook Circuit. For seven days divine Service was conducted three times each day and at nearly every Service the church was crowded to excess. About Sixty persons have presented themselves as Seekers of Salvation most of whom have professed faith in christ.—COM.

FENELON FALLS.

The Victoria Railway is now running to Kinmount and some of our villagers have taken a trip to that place.

HAMILTON'S FOUNDRY.—The foundry built by Mr. Wm. Hamilton to replace the one burned down last spring is almost completed and will be ready for operation in a short time.

The Steam Shovel of the Victoria Railway has been shut down or stopped as the greater part of the ballasting is done, and a great many of the men have been discharged.—COR. POST.

SCHOOL MATTERS.—At a special meeting of the public school board of this place held on the 28th Oct., the board agreed to re-engage Miss Maggie Jordan for 1877 and to advertize for a first-class teacher as head master, and for a second-class teacher for the second division.

CHANGES.—The partnership heretofore existing between Cain & Edwards of this place as livery stable keepers has been dissolved. Edwards is to continue the business at the same stand. Mr. Cain is about building two stores in Kinmount to rent, he expects it to be a paying investment and it is not likely that he is mistaken in his calculations.

McARTHUR'S new block is so far completed that at least two of the stores will be occupied this week, one by Mr. John Nugent, druggist, and the other by Mr. John Austin, grocer and provision dealer; while Mr. Robert Rutherford has a considerable portion of his opening stock here and ready to open as soon as his shop is ready for him, and that will be when the painting is done.

BOBCAYGEON.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—The shops in the village were shut on Thursday, being Thanksgiving Day. The day was warm and pleasant, and a good deal of tobacco was smoked in the open air. Rain at night.

LUMBER.—A few more men have passed through on their way to the northern shanties but it is clear that the operations in the woods this season will be very limited. Some jobbers are at work for various lumbermen, but only very few regular shanties have been put in. The protection of logs will probably not exceed more than one half that of last year.

NAVIGATION.—The steamer Rosalty having injured her crank, has laid up for the season. The mail steamer Ontario having discontinued her regular trips, is now engaged towing. The steamer Vanderbilt is still running, but it will close its season very soon. Considerable quantities of freight have arrived per Samson from Port Perry. The water is still warm, and the navigation will probably remain open longer than usual.

MUNICIPAL.—There has been some talk lately regarding the municipal election, and the question is asked 'Who shall be Reeve?' As regards Verulam Mr. George Bick, it is understood, will ask the electors for a renewal of their confidence. As regards the village no conclusion has been suggested that the electors should have a meeting and endeavour to settle the business privately, and so avoid the trouble, excitement, and expense of an election.

HUNTING PARTY.—Dr Bonnell's annual hunting party has just returned from the north. It consisted of the Doctor, Col. Blackstall, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Edwards, and Mr. Counsell. They took their hunting to the township of Havelock and Eyre, the renowned hunter David Sawyer acting as their guide, philosopher, and friend. They returned with a tremendous pile of venison having enjoyed the hunt thoroughly. The deer were plentiful; the party was well provisioned; the way in which the party knocked 'em off was wonderful.—Independent.

A SWINDLER.—Dr. Franks, the spectacle man, is again heard from. The Napanee Beaver of last week continues this complimentary notice.—"About two months ago a man calling himself 'Dr.' Franks, a corpulent vendor of spectacles, put up at the Brisco House with a young person, alleged to be his daughter. He hired a horse and buggy for himself and one for his 'daughter,' of Messrs. Potter Bros., to be used for two weeks, but at the end of a month no tidings were heard of the pair nor the horses. The proprietor of the equipages naturally became anxious, and one of the firm started out in search, and succeeded in finding the horses and drivers at Ottawa. They couldn't "cash up," but gave security for the horse hire and horses, and promised to remit regularly till the bill was paid. The first week's instalment came all right the second week it dwindled to one-half and the third week it was wanting altogether. The following week the Dr.' returned to Napanee with one horse, leaving his 'daughter' at Ottawa, and said he was 'strapped,' but that his 'daughter' would be along in a few days and settle up. The week after the 'daughter' arrived by train, and amidst tears and hysterical spasms said that the horse had been seized at Ottawa for a board bill of $68 for selves and horses. One of the firm proceeded to Ottawa, and to avoid further trouble, settled the bill and brought the horse away. On his return home he found the precious pair still at the Brisco House They promised to settle their little bill, but managed to escape by train without the knowledge of Messrs. Potter Bros, who are out over an unpaid bill for horse hire. The hotel register of the Brisco House tells $15 or $20 against the spectacle merchant, Lake, of Belleville, would like to see a livery bill of $35 settled, the Dafoe House wouldn't object to a small remittance, etc. The 'doctor' and his partner may be square enough, but their style of doing business is certainly very peculiar—peculiar enough to warrant us in advising livery men and hotel keepers over the country to be cautious in their dealings with a Yankee spectacle pedler named 'Dr.' Franks, and his 'daughter.' Over a year ago, we exposed this swindler, but such things are quickly forgotten. The "Dr." is armed to the teeth with "diplomas," which he carries round in a tin case, and with which he succeeds in imposing on people. When he first came to Port Hope, he wasted a good hour of our valuable time in showing us these "diplomas," which appeared to be genuine, but from his "crooked" career since, we should judge him to be a "hard seed" besides a "dead-beat." It is to be hoped that the press of Canada will now give him such a "passing round" that he will find it convenient to leave for another clime where there is a less stringent vagrant law. [We would like the Doctor to call and settle his little Bill which he has forgotten for three or four years.]

OUR SANITARY SYSTEM.

Writing on the danger of "well water," the "Medical Examiner" says: "It is time some effective measures were adopted to check blood poisoning by polluted well water, several fatal cases from which have lately been brought under public notice. Every district now possesses a sanitary authority, and where the water supply of the inhabitants is drawn from wells, a house-to-house visitation should be made, and the fitness of the water for drinking purposes ascertained by an analysis—which in a village would not be a ruinous expense. If pollution be a certified fact, then the source of so much danger to the public health imperatively demands that a new and purer supply should be provided. A difficulty it may be, but a remedy could, no doubt, be found."

The Belleville "Intelligencer" very properly remarks on the above in the following language, and we fully endorse his views.

"There is a lesson in this for our Canadian municipal councils, who seem to think sanitary matters of very light account, and attribute to an all-wise providence the occurrence of disease and death, which were solely owing to blood poisoning by polluted well water. The system which many Councils have adopted of appointing two or three or more gentlemen as a Board of health, at salaries of say $25 each, or about one month's pay for a laborer—salaries for which professional men can only afford to give a very limited portion of their time—and then considering that their responsibility is at an end, is a complete farce. We believe, however, that the time is close at hand when entirely different mode of proceeding will have to be adopted.

Here, as in older communities, importance of proper sanitary regulations is beginning to receive recognition, and we should like to see the English law modified in its details to suit the circumstances of this Province, enacted by the Ontario Legislature. The public health has in the past been left to take care of itself to a very large extent, but this state of affairs ought to be tolerated no longer, as the results of such a policy have, though fortunately no great epidemic has of late years devastated the country, been sufficiently disastrous in the loss of many thousands of valuable lives by typhoid fever, small pox and kindred preventible diseases to call for a sweeping and immediate change in what may be called by courtesy our sanitary system."

It is reported that the Local Legislature is to be called together the first week of December, the Government having given up all hopes of having the Consolidation of the Statutes completed by January.

—ELECTRICITY—

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectrical Oil, Read the following be convinced:—Thos. Hodgson, Farpham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then, have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Reed, Hotel Keeper, West Montford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally, as good for horse as for man."—A Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold quite hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, some of the best medicine they have ever used." It has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rennes, township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which caused me very much pain. Maybee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured It is a most remarkable medicine.

BY-LAW No.—

A BY-LAW to raise by way of loan the sum of Twenty thousand Dollars for purposes therein mentioned

WHEREAS, the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough have resolved to expend the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in constructing, making and repairing the roads and bridges within the said County.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object, it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, it will require the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars to be raised annually by special rate, for the payment of said debt or loan and interest, as said hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality of the said County of Peterborough, irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any increase to be derived from the assessment of any railway or railways that may be constructed during the currency of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof, according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the Municipality, is the sum of Eight Million Five Hundred and Seventy-two Thousand One Hundred and Seventy-eight Dollars.—

FARM HINTS.

CHEMISTRY OF THE FATTENING PROCESS.—A lean cow or ox is in a very different condition, chemically considered, from fat animals of the same kind. In the first place the poor animal consists of about two-thirds water, the fat one of only half; that is, in total weight. A fat animal is in a dry condition, a poor animal is like some of our big meadows, very wet. When the fattening process begins, water commences to disappear, and fat or suet takes its place and the increase of its bulk during the process is largely of adipose matter. It is a curious circumstance that, during fattening, the proteids, or nitrogenous compounds, increase only about seven per cent., and the bone material, or inorganic substance, only a one-and a half per cent. The cost to a farmer of fattening an ox is much greater at the close of the process than at the commencement; that is increase in bulk or dry weight at that period is much more costly. If it costs three cents a pound for bulk for the first month after a poor animal is put in a fattening stall, it will cost five cents the last month. It, then, a farmer considers his money returns, he will not carry the increase in fat beyond a certain point, provided he can turn his partially fatted animals to fair advantage. Farmers have perhaps learned this fact from experience and observation, and hence comparatively lean beef abounds in our markets. While this is of advantage to the farmer, it is very disadvantageous to consumers of the beef for the flesh of a fat animal in every case is much richer in fixed, nourishing material than that of the lean, and it is never good economy to purchase lean beef. It is better to purchase the poorest parts of a fat animal than the best of a lean one. The best piece of a fat ox (the loin) contains from twenty-one to twenty-eight per cent. more fixed material than the corresponding piece in a lean one, and curiously enough the worst piece in the lean animal (the neck) is the richest in nourishing material. The flesh of the neck improves very little in fattening, hence, economy considered, it is the less portion to purchase, as its value is in a measure a fixed one. Horse flesh is as nutritious, considered as a food, as that of the ox or cow. The relation of nitrogenous to fixed material is rather higher in a horse than in an ox, and the amount of water is less. There is no good reason why horse flesh should not be used as food. It is prejudice alone which prevents its employments It is a regular article of sale in the meat markets of Paris at the present time.—Journal of Chemistry.

HOW TO KEEP APPLES.—Mr Ratliff an old fruit grower of Wayne County, Indiana, gives as his method of keeping winter apples as follows: At the proper season before they are full ripe, in the fall,, he picks them carefully from the tree and buries them in shallow pits in the ground, covering them over with three or four inches of earth. He assures us that he takes them out next spring as late as may, perfectly sound mos and plomb. The freezing in the winter seems to be a benefit instead of at injury to them. When good apples will bring from $1 to $2 a bushel in May, it pays well to take this trouble in preserving, them. It certainly is a less expensive plan for keeping a few hundred bushels than building a fruit house, and according to our friend's experience it is quite as successful.

GOOD MORNING.—Don't forget to say good morning! Say it to your parents, your brothers and sisters, your schoolmates your teachers—and say it cheerfully and with a smile; it will do your friends good. There's a kind of inspiration in every good morning "heartily and smilingly that helps to make hope fresher and work lighter. It seems really to make the morning good, and to be a prophecy of a good day to come after it. And if this be true of the "good morning," it is also of all kind, heartsome greetings. They cheer the discouraged rest the tired one, and somehow make the wheels of life run smoothly. Let no morning pass that you do not help to brighten by your smiles and cheerful words.

THE TOOTHACHE.—A gentleman sayafter suffering excruciating pain from toothache, and having tried in vain to obtain relief, Betty told me a gentleman had been waiting some time in the parlor, who said he would not detain me one minute. He came—a friend I had not seen him for years. He sypathized with me, while I briefly told how sadly I was afflicted. "My dear friend," exclaimed he, "I can cure you in ten minutes" "How? how?" inquired I; "do it in pity." "Instantly," said he, "Betty have you any alum?" "Yes," "Bring it, and some common salt. They were produced: my friend pulverized them, mixed in equal quantities; then wet a small piece of cotton, causing the mixed powders to adhere, and placed it in my hallow tooth. There said he, "if that does not cure you I will lowlet my head. You may tell this in Gath, and publish it in Askleon; the remedy is infallible." It was so, I experienced a sensation of coldness on applying it, which gradually subsided, and with it the torment of the toothache.—Cincinnati Gazette.

HOW MANY APPLES DID ADAM AND EVE EAT?—Some say Eve 8 and Adam 2, a total of 10 only. Now we figured the thing out far differently. Eve 8 and Adam 8 also. Total 16.—Boston Journal. We think the above figures are entirely wrong. If Eve 8 and Adam 82, certainly the total will be 90. Scientific men, however, differ. On the strength of the theory that the antediluvians were a race of giants, and consequently great eaters, they reason something like this: Eve 81?, and Adam 82. Total 163.—Gloucester Advertiser Wrong again; what could clearer than if Eve 8-1, and Adam 8 1-2, the total was 893?—Lawrence American. If Eve 8 1-1st and Adam 8 1-2 would not the whole be 1623?—Boston Journal. I believe the following to be the true solution: Eve 8-1 4 Adam, Adam 8 1-2 4 Eve; total 8938.—Guide. We guess they 8 so much, they 8 out house and home, 8 out the garden, and 8 themselves to death.

An Exchange says.—"This is the season of the year when the cute apple tree peddlar from the other side of the lines, whose character has become so well known in his own country that he could not give away his worthless wares to farmers there, takes this section of the country for the field of his labors, and our agriculturists for his victims. We trust our farmers have learned wisdom from past experience and that they will give these worthies but little encouragement.

HAPPINESS.—True happiness, in our opinion, consists of the following named articles:—A nice little wife sitting on your knee, her trusting smile filling your mind with happy thoughts, a neat little room, tidily furnished, and a bottle of "Canadian Pain Destroyer" in the cupboard ready for instant use. Nothing better for sudden colds, sprains, burns, and all kinds of aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all medicine dealers.

HAVE YOU A COUGH, Cold, Pain in the Chest, or Bronchitis? In fact, have you the premonitory symptoms of the "insidia'e archer," consumption? If so, know that relief is with in your reach in the shape of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which, in many cases where hope had fled, has snatched the victim from the yawning grave.

M. Ponchet, in his great work, "The Universe," says that "Anatomically and physically speaking, the human mechanism is very rude and coarse compared to the exquisite delicacy revealed in the organism of certain animals. But in us, the intellect, the real scritpure of the universe predominates over the apparent imperfection of matter. Through it man alone approaches the chosen creatures who shine near the throne of the Eternal, and form a bond of union between heaven and earth. If in his structure he belongs to our sphere, he seems already to elevate himself towards the Supreme Essence by the splendor of his genius. A grand and philosophics truth and yet how comparatively small the number, and rare the genius, displayed in proportion to the number of the earth's fal abitants. Were man to conform more to the laws of health and of his passions, it would not be necessary to advertise Fellows, Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites as a restorative for the powers of the brain and nervous system. while the world's progress in enlightenment would indeed be marvelous.

BURNETT'S COCOAINE.—A Perfect Dressing for the Hair. The Cocoaine holds in a liquid form, a large proportion of deodorized Cocoanut Oil, prepared expressly for this purpose. No other Compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. A single application renders the hair (no matter how stiff and dry,) soft and glossy for several days. It is commended by all who have used it to be the best and cheapest Hair Dressing in the World.

One of the Testimonials!

From Dr DUNCAN MCCALLUM, Montreal—
I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured
I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of this genuine article

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY

Before Taking. After Taking.

SPECIFIC MEDICINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases, such as Tremens, Debility, Prostration, etc., which, in many cases, are produced by some inherent poison in the constitution of a delicate system; but the Special Medicine is more especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, and all diseases that follow as a consequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pains in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

These Pills give Strength and Vigor to the parts of the body where Nature requires support, and by their Tonic action on the Nervous System, restore the Patient to a healthy state of body and mind, which, by its many miserable consequences, has been shunned by the Patient as if he were afflicted with the Plague. Full directions in the pamphlet around each box. Price $1 per box, or six boxes for $5, or will be sent free by mail on receipt of price.

Sold by all Druggists. Sole Agents for the Dominion, LYMAN BROS. & CO., Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876. Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINES triumph over the world. The Centennial Commissioners have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and one Medal of Merit. The last a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No other machine has ever received such a prescription in two departments. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of the Wheeler & Wilson more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commissioners unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the ablest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR DOUBLE SHUTTLE MACHINES IS NOT AN AWARD FOR MACHINES CREDITED IN SUCH AS REGARDS THE VERTICAL, Such a claim being entirely without foundation. "New Wheeler & Wilson" is the "Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

[From the Official Report.]

AWARDED TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great solidity, great durability to fabrics, great range of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch; ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display."

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reason:—

"Superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of Repairing all classes of Sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the stencil line.

Come One! Come All! give Mitchell a call. Whose Sewing Machines are both large & small They are in appearance both handsome and neat And as for their work IT can't be beat: They do their work both neat and well, And at the "Centennial" they did Excel.

LOVE LAYS.

YOUTH'S CHOSEN REST.

I wandered near those [illegible]
With you, wherever else she [illegible]:
Where could she find so fair a [illegible]
Where bank [illegible] such [illegible] eyes! —London.

LOVE'S PARTING DART.

"No more!" I said to Love. "No more!
I mock your help-ers to know!
Not now am I an easy of prey;
My lower than cupid's bow can shew!"
"Farewell!" he laughed. "Farewell, I go!"—
And down the air with fluttering track.
"Farewell!" he mused for self;—but in!
He sent a Parthian arrow back!

A PARTING VOICE.

Then art the rest, the longest sweet!
Thou my desire! thou my retreat!
I consciences my heart in thee,
Thy home through all eternity!

Come in to me, and shut the door
So fast that none shall enter more;
Fill all my soul with dear delight;
Oh, marry with me day and night!

WE TWO, AND NATURE.

Through the green and covert closes,
Where the wood-pigeons woo wild roses,
Once we trod the bramble brooses,
Paramour and paramouress;
Babbling treason forever thrilling
Down the rugged rocks, and bringing
Merry, naked naiads
To the cool, unquestioned glooms.

Caverns, water-bound and lonely,
Undiscovered deeps we only
Ever found a way to enter,
Or had hardihood to cross;
Nooks which sunbeams failed to brighten,
Though in later ages to lighten
Tints upon the dusky foliage
And the heavy, velvet moss.

Many a time the sound of laughter
Which the fair glades echoed after Startled songsters into singing,
And awaked the woods to mirth.
That ever-circling wondered watcher,
When the morn-stars sang together,
Then was such ecstatic music,
In the heavens or the earth.

—John Moran.

BEAUTY TRANSIENT.

What's the brightness of a brow?
What's a mouth of pearl and corals?
Beauty vanishes like a vapor,
Proach the man of many morals.

Should the crowd then, agus since,
Have shut their ears to singing Homer,
Because the music fled as soon
As fleets the violet's aroma?

Ah, for me, I thrill to see
The bloom a velvet cheek discloses,
Made of dust! I well believe it,
So are lilies; so are roses.

—Harriet Prescott Spofford.

HOW SHE WENT SUMMERING.

"I do declare, Harry! but I think you are too cross for anything! It's a down right shame to want to keep me at home, and you off so constantly—just as if I wouldn't enjoy a summering as well as yourself!"

Little Mrs. Merle was quite indignant, so much so that her pretty violet eyes looked nearly black as they flashed across the breakfast table at her husband—a big, handsome fellow with the loveliest golden moustache, and dark brown eyes, which at this particular moment were wearing an expression of serene amusement as he looked between the silver sugar basin and cream pitcher at the pink rose on his wife's bosom, heaving angrily through her decisive indignation that the velvety petals fairly quivered.

Mr. Merle calmly dipped his spoon into a pyramid of glowing currant jelly.

"Really, Florence, I can't for the life of me see what you are finding fault with. Haven't you been out to your mother's all of June? Didn't I buy you all the new dresses and things you wanted? I'm sure there's nothing to complain of—with your pony phaeton whenever you want it, your ticket to the park concerts, this nice, cool house, the servants and the children."

Mr. Merle delivered his remarks in a very matter-of-fact way, as if his opinion of the case in question settled it.

But Mrs. Merle, with a little bang of her fork as she laid it down, thought differently, evidently, and resumed the cudgel in her own defense quite valiantly.

"Of course it was perfectly lovely to go home in June, but I am sure you went as well as I; so we are even there. As to the home conveniences here, Harry, that is a settled question, and not under consideration. Of course, I have a dear, delightful home; but that's no reason why I should want to remain in it forever. Besides, if New York is as full as they say it is, and I will have a delightful walk with her on the Parade; then there will come a few days of quiet and walks and dances and enjoyment generally, and then, the end of it all; and home to Flo and the babies and the cellar."

A sly little bottom certainly thrown in the while he loved, and yet you nothing so irresistibly tempting—and there he had on the other side, one week of the sea, the fresh air and the gayety, and the dark I often to wish the washed for hour of tea.

At twenty minutes of it his politeness was exhausted, and he started for his dressing room, and quite forgetful, even of his parting shot in his haste to the quiet Sabbath hall room.

Then a second at her placid, demure face reappeared him.

"Never fear that, dear. And for being such a sensible little woman, you shall have the handsomest black silk in New York, next fall. Pack my portmanteau—will you wifey—and have it ready for the afternoon boat—5 30 P"

He kissed her, then rushed up to the nursery for a "bye-bye" to the pretty little ones in their bath, and then went down to arrange matters for that labors ous, unenviable trip to Long Branch.

She watched him down the street, a slow smile gathern on her lips; then, turning somewhat abruptly from the window, she consulted the merry-faking clock on the mantle, then stood a moment in thoughtful deliberation, and then hastened upstairs.

* * * * * *

A group of gentlemen were standing leisury about, chatting and smoking on the piazza of the Ocean House, watching the steady stream of passing carriages, promenaders and the well filled hotel stages.

"There! that's the lady I spoke to you of, Michaelson—yonder, in navy blue, with the dark veil over her face I never saw such a perfect picture in my life, and such a walk."

Mr. Merle indicated quite eagerly the direction in which he wished his companion to look.

"She! Oh! I think I heard she was a widow—Mrs. Rave. It seems to me I've seen her several times with Miss Cunningham, so if you are not fascinated Merle, there is your chance. Laura Cunningham will introduce you, won't she?"

Harry stroked his moustache reflectively.

"Well, she may. If she happens to be in one of her jealous moods, though—"

Michaelson laughed.

"Upon my word, Merle, you're too bad! You, an old married man, wife and babies sung and happy at home, and going it so deep with every pretty face you fancy."

Henry knocked the slender ashes of his cigar with scientific precision.

"Not so bad, old fellow. Just remember it all amounts to nothing, and just forget that there are a wife and babies in the background."

"I'm agreed—only I wouldn't do it.—By the bye, yonder comes Miss Cunningham. Yes, she bowed to and exchanged a word with Mrs. Rave. She is charming, Merle.

Harry answered, enthusiastically:—"Isn't she? I tell you she interests me amazingly. She was the first lady I met coming up from the train the day I arrived, and I felt strangely attracted then. Laura shall introduce me, or—"

* * * * * *

Such an idea, Mrs. Rave! Why, no one wears such horrible thick veils as you do, and there were few faces earthly to know! Not now am I an easy of prey; "Farewell, I go!"

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 16, 1876.

THE EASTERN QUESTION

The news from the East this morning is still of a gloomy character, though the situation has undergone no great change. Both Russia and Turkey are preparing for the worst, and are concentrating their forces upon their several weak points.—The Times appears to cherish a hope that all will be well yet, and affects to see nothing extraordinary in the course pursued by Russia. Nevertheless the effect of Russia's attitude upon Turkey has been to create a deep-rooted belief that Russia's game is to make her demands so offensive as to leave no alternative but a collision. According to the Times, Russia's demands look merely to the establishment—not only in Bulgaria, but in all districts inhabited by Bulgarians—of certain reforms embracing the appointment of Governors for fixed periods, the employment by the Porte of Christian officials where possible, the reform of the system of taxation, and the establishment of a local police. On the other hand, a Vienna despatch hints that Russia's demands are far from being harmless, that they are known both to the British and Austrian Governments, between whom a perfect agreement exists.

The Presidential Election.

There appears to be a great uncertainty as to the new President. The idea prevails that Tilden, the Democratic candidate, is elected, but this has been contradicted. The result is yet unknown, but the chances of the Republican candidate is very doubtful. If Tilden is elected his majority is not more than six or seven, if Hayes is elected it will not be by more than one or two. It is hardly likely that anything thoroughly definite will be known before the expiration of a week. The rumour that South Carolina had been conceded to the Democrats by a prominent Republican official of that State is denied to a [illegible] beyond this nothing has occurred to ran away, [illegible] the general belief in a Democratic but without a [illegible] when the result shall be made was stopped at [illegible] The Democrats are determined not before brea[illegible] careful counting of the votes in

A THROUGH LINE.

The Globe, in an editorial on the 7th, discusses a subject in which the people of this county have a deep interest. Accounting for the successful competition of Toronto for wholesale trade, as opposed to the other cities of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, it mentions the convergence of so many railway lines in that city. To however complete the system two more lines are needed; the one stretching away to the south-west, and the other—the one to which we wish to direct attention—connecting Toronto with Ottawa. Our interest in this line as a town or as a county is by no means secondary even to Toronto.

To those in this county—and many there are—who have hoped for and worked to secure a through line of railway, the position taken by the GLOBE will be, at once, encouraging and highly satisfactory. It says:—"The other line from Toronto to Ottawa must now be regarded as a public necessity." These are strong terms, but by no means too strong, as is clearly shown.

The traffic on the Grand Trunk, notwithstanding the hard times, has increased, and continues to increase so rapidly that a second line or second track is indispensable. The advantages which a new line would have over a second track are so obvious that they scarcely need to be mentioned. Already the municipalities through which the line would pass have voted large bonuses to such a road. A second track would command no more local traffic than the one track does, while a line through the interior would not only lead to the opening up of the mines and quarries along its entire length, but it would, by furnishing a market, promote the cultivation of more marketable stuff which at present is not touched, owing to the great distance it has to be carried before it can be sold. Then again, the North Shore and Northern Colonization Roads in Quebec connecting Quebec and Montreal with Ottawa are being rapidly pushed on by the Quebec Government. These roads must have an outlet. Then this new line connecting with the Quebec Railway systems on the East, and the South Western and Great Western on the West, would form the finest line in Ontario. To us in this county such a road would be of paramount importance, and it behooves us to use every honest endeavour to secure it; to keep the matter prominently before the public, not only of this county but of the province, so that with the assistance of Toronto and Ottawa dailies, and our own talking up of the matter the company holding this line may be aroused to go to work energetically.

A NEW MINISTER.

Mr. Leflamme of Montreal has received the portfolio of the Minister of Inland Revenue. Mr. Leflamme represents the County of Jacques Cartier, in the House of Commons, he is one of Quebec's most talented lawyers. On the elevation of the Hon. Mr. Dorion to the Bench, Mr. L. took the first position in the esteem of his fellow lawyers as well as in the Country. Had he desired it he might long ago have taken a position for which his eminent legal abilities qualified him.

Recently and prominently in connection with his appointment, a new style of Tory attack has been developed. So soon as the failing health of a Minister, or other cause would suggest the probability of a new appointment, so soon we say the Tory Organs proceed to select the man they believe best qualified and best fitted for the position, and then endeavor by every possible means—the more disreputable the better suited for their purpose—to blacken his character and to befoul and besmirch him. They would them if possible prevent a Premier from selecting the best man and at the same time "head off" public opinion. Mr. Leflamme is to have opposition we learn. All the worse for the opposition.

THE COMING MAYOR.

We understand that Mr. Menzies has consented to be a candidate for the Mayoralty, and that he will oppose Mr. Toole in the approaching contest. There will, therefore in all probability be a good square race. It is rumoured that Mr. Jas F. Dennistoun has been waited upon with a view to his becoming a candidate, and it is said that he has partly consented. Council lor Haggart has also been interviewed to that intent, but has not given a favorable reply. How many more may be spoken to yet we dare not attempt to predict, but the more there are the greater will be the eagerness in the contest.

The fixed purposes of the EXAMINER in the past, not to interfere in municipal will be adhered to in the approaching contests, except to this extent, i. e., we candidly and sincerely believe, and are willing to stake our last nickel cent on it, that the man who gets the greater number of votes will be elected. That the new Mayor whether she be Mr. Toole or Mr. Somebody-else will do any better in the future than his predecessor, we have grave reasons to fear. For our part we think not. He will be a man we suppose, and from man we expect human actions, and they are not generally on the improvement in this degenerate age.

We have no likes or dislikes, and have no present ends to serve. We want no favors, are not at all grieved because some one may have denied us a favor. If we get the Town printing next year, well: if not, it will be well. We do not intend to be a candidate for Clerk, or Treasurer, or Assessor, or Collector, and we would not for a world try to put Constable Beavis out of his cosy berth, for we really cannot afford to buy a pair of slippers to use around the Clerk's Office, although the coming porkers have taken possession of the main streets.

Mr. Toole is a pretty sharp man and may use his planes to make the rough places on his opponents even. But should Mr. Menzies be successful he will be sure to give Mr. Toole a ticket to his business and return as low as on any other line on the Continent, and if Mr. Dennistoun should take the field and win his case, the question of costs will still remain to be taxed, and if the Ratepayers don't pay the taxes in any case, then we must confess we are know nothings. The Ratepayers have to be phlebotomized no matter who is Mayor.

THE COUNTY BY-LAW.

There appears to be an notion in reference to the County By-law to issue Debentures to the amount of $20,000, that the County Council is borrowing that sum or increasing the debt by that amount.

If we understand aright this is not the case. The issue of new debentures is a matter of economy and with a view to lessen the taxes for County purposes.

When the By-laws creating the past, or rather present debt of the County were passed, the valuation of the County was at the rate of about one-fourth what it now is by the late assessment. Each By-law provides for a fixed rate for the dollar for interest and one per cent for sinking fund. It is evident therefore, that if the rate fixed when the valuation was low, should still be levied on the increased assessed value, that about four-times too much money would be yearly raised. The Sinking Fund also would be much larger than is required to pay off the debt in the time fixed in the by-laws. To remedy this the Council proposes to issue new Debentures to the amount of $20,000 on the increased assessed value, and with the proceeds of the new Debentures they intend to pay off the old ones as they become due. The new Debentures, it is believed, will bring a premium, and thus instead of increasing the county indebtedness, it is believed that the new issue will be a gain.

A Sinking Fund of one per cent, properly invested at six per cent will pay off the principal in about 13 years. As most of the Debentures are for a term of 20 years, it is evident that even one per cent of a Sinking Fund is therefore more than is required to discharge the Debentures in the time for which they are generally drawn. We understand that the Sinking Fund already accumulated is in advance of what is required, and hence the wisdom of using it now, as this will be more advantageous to the county than investing it, money being worth more to the ratepayers than the common rate of interest at which investments can be made. These we believe are at least some of the reasons for the new issue. We know of no expenditure now undertaking. Indeed we may safely assert there is no proposed expenditure, and therefore there is no reason to fear an increased indebtedness. The County Council are more economical generally than the Town Council, and it is well they are.

EXCITED.

The Times of last week is somewhat enraged at a query that appeared in the columns of the EXAMINER. It holds forth in this manner: "As to the vile insinuation he makes but dare not affirm, we have this to say that any person who says that either the Editor of this paper, or the Proprietors, or any one connected with us, received any remuneration whatsoever for our course in the Ryan matter is a liar and a slanderer."

[illegible] informed on what we consider good authority that something [illegible] had been given, or some way of "muzzling newspapers" had been discovered, we merely asked the question: "Is it true that a certain newspaper in town got paid for writing up the commutation of James Ryan's death sentence?" That they did get paid we had no means of knowing, unless what we had been told on what appeared to us good authority. Our informant we can produce at any time.—In the mean time we are bound to accept the very implicit, although not very polite denial given in the Times as above, in Saturday's issue. That we either insinuated or asserted that he did get paid is entirely erroneous, but being told that he did we considered it not out of place to give him a chance of denying it, if untrue. That no pay has been given is very emphatically denied, and we are willing that their denial should be made public.

EASTERN QUESTION.

LONDON, Nov. 14—On Stock Exchange Russian securities are greatly depressed, almost to the extent of a panic. They have fallen 4 per cent. from this morning's highest point.

A special despatch from Berlin to the "Pall Mall Gazette" says Russia has given large orders to Berlin houses for military exports. Should Russia persist in her warlike policy there is reason to believe she will be perfectly isolated. Germany is understood to be pledged to observe neutrality as against Austria, with an engagement to watch the Polish province, presumedly to assist in repressing any Polish rising.

A Reuter despatch from St. Petersburgh says:—"The Czar has ordered the mobilization of part of the Russian army." A circular of Prince Gortschakoff, the Russian Premier, to Russian representatives abroad, explaining the measure, says the Czar does not wish war, and will if possible avoid it; he is, however, determined that the principles of justice which have been recognized as necessary by the whole of Europe shall be carried out in Turkey under efficacious guarantees.

An Imperial ordinance has also been issued sanctioning the formation of six army corps, composed of divisions stationed in the districts of Kiev, Kharkov, and Odessa. The active army will comprise four divisions, and will be under the command of the Czar's brother, the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaiavitch, with Adjutant-General Nepokaitschitzky as chief of the staff, Prince Massalsky, Commander of the Artillery, and Major-General Depp Chief of Engineers.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A despatch from Nisch to the "Standard" reports that Abdul Kerim Pasha has been ordered to return to Constantinople, and started thither on Monday.

The Times to-day has a strong pro-Russian leading editorial article on the Eastern Question. It first notices the slow progress towards an agreement about the Conference and its basis—facts are clearly not promising for its success—but declares that the worst symptom is a disposition to prescribe beforehand conditions incompatible with the ideas of negotiation and compromise. It cites as thus inconsistent with the idea of a Conference, the stipulation that there must be no limitation of the Sultan's sovereign will. But those who labor for peace, it says, will not lose heart because the prospect is not perfectly clear. The Times condemns the past British policy and says:—"If Austria and Great Britain had known their interests last year they would have arrested any extension of this difficulty by promoting what was then a comparatively easy settlement." It then proceeds to forecast the future in this wise:—"Supposing the armistic expires without a conference or a conference fails, the Czar would declare war, disavowing probably a desire to add to Russian dominions or any other object than securing good government for his slavonic brethren. Many would say this was mere hypocrisy and falsehood; but it is clear that England could find no pretence for interference until much more had happened than the outbreak of such a war, for such an avowed purpose. The time might come when we, declaring to the Sultan our regret at the inevitable partition of his dominions, might be obliged to demand that he should resign Constantinople to a Power able to take care of it." The "Times" says it does not suppose it would come to this. "The Czar would stop before he provoked a crisis for England's intervention. With Servia aggrandized and independent, with Roumania independent and aggrandized south of the Danube in exchange for territory ceded to Russia on the north, he would stop well contented with what he had done in a work the completion whereof must be left for another time. But what a result this would be of a policy having for its first note the maintenance of the independence and the integrity of the Ottoman Empire. What we have described is the probable course of events to which we must look forward if the armistic expires without peace being proclaimed. Without saying that under no circumstances could a shot be fired from English cannon, this much may be unhesitatingly declared, that if Russia took up the war from Servia's failing hands, English opinion would no more justify armed opposition to Russia than it did justify armed opposition to Servia. The diplomacy of Russia would show itself altogether deficient in the sagacity attributed to it if it did not so describe the objects of the war, and restrict its operations so as to prevent the occurrence of any sufficient reason for our interfering."

The "Pall Mall Gazette" this afternoon referring to the last paragraph of the foregoing article from the "Times," says:—"With such evidence as this affords of the attitude of England, Russian opinion is only too likely to be content. That it will be utterly and most dangerously mistaken we need not say, but a mistake of this kind has already in the history of the two nations been detected too late, and, in any case, it is disquieting to find that Russia is entering on a difficult and critical negotation under as profound a delusion as to the temper of this country as that which precipitated the Crimean War."

The "Times" article concludes with an argument in favour of a conference not committed to inevitable failure. It believes that guarantees satisfactory to Russia, and possibly to Turkey, may be arranged. If Russia rejected all attempts at settlement, which the "Times" does not believe likely, England would be free in future, and have the satisfaction of knowing that she was not responsible for the failure. The experience of the past would discredit the suggestion that Turkey might resist proposals recommended by the joint authority of Europe, but should it be realised, Russia would only be too ready to act as the executive officer of a confederation of European Powers.

"Brussels, Nov. 14,—'Le Nord' says the English proposals for a Conference support the integrity of the Ottoman Empire, not its independence. 'Le Nord' congratulates Lord Derby on having excluded from his proposals a formula which is incompatible with existing facts, and which the decision of a Conference would necessarily set aside. The form of the English proposal gives reason to hope that England will not refuse her assent to any guarantees really indispensable.

Torpedoes are being placed at the entrance of the Bosphorus, and the forts have been strengthened. The people in Constantinople and elsewhere are forming a national guard.

The Times' correspondent at Vienna thinks the meeting of the Conference is tolerably well assured.

The Daily Telegraph's special from Pera states that Lord Derby has replied to the Turkish objections to a Conference in a conciliatory but firm tone. He forcibly points to the necessity for a Conference in the interests of Turkey herself, clearly explains his proposal of administrative autonomy as a system of local institutions which should give the population some control over their own affairs and says there is no question of establishing tributary states.

The Turks, who lately adopted very warlike tones, have been somewhat subdued by the Moscow speech.

The Berlin correspondent of the Times' reports that in obedience to Russian demands Persia has placed some troops on her Turkish frontier.

A complete agreement is established between England and Austria.

The Times' considers England's course only is to proceed with the Conference, and not consider anything unchanged by the recent manifestations in Russia. In this course she can only rely on the good wishes of all the Powers, not one of which will refuse to aid in the work of securing the peace of Europe. The Times thinks, however, that the possible obstinacy of the Porte is a real danger.

Mr. J. D. Lawler, President of the Bank of New Brunswick, has been appointed a Senator in the place of the Hon J. Robertson, of St. John, N.B. Mr. Lawler is said to be a man of large business experience and thoroughly versed in all matters of finance.

The Hon. John Hilliard Cameron died on Tuesday. He was a prominent lawyer and politician, being at his decease member for Cardwell in the House of Commons. Next to Sir John McDonald he was probably the most prominent Conservative Member in Ontario. He was about 60 years of age.

The election of Mr. Joseph Bolduc for Beance is gazetted. In this connection we do not hear a word about Conservative re-action. It's back-action this time, for, whereas the county was last year carried by a Conservative for the Quebec Legislature, now a Liberal is returned for the House of Commons by a majority of 553 votes over his opponent.

Another Fenian Raid is threatened.—Let them come. They wont stay long.

The heaviest suit ever on record in the books of the Superior Court was entered at Montreal on Monday. The plaintiff is Henry W. F. Bolckow, M.P., of Middleborough-on-Tees, England. He has taken proceedings in the sum of $1,700,000 against the South-Eastern Railway and Hon. A. B. Foster.

We clip the following from the Monetary Times:—The Secretary of the Gore District Mutual Insurance Company deserves the thanks of Insurance Agents for the compact and valuable book of instructions just published. In compiling this little work Mr. Simons has adopted a very convenient method in the alphabetical arrangement of the subject which appear in marginal notes. In addition to this, tables of premium notes rates are appended, showing the amounts necessary to be charged in the different cities and towns supplied with fire engines, &c. The classification of risks, made in those tables will be found very convenient.

The first of such series was held on Friday evening last, in the vicinity of the Railway Station. We are informed several of the "B. J." men were present, and enlivened the entertainment at intervals.

IN THE WRONG PLACE.—The gas lamp at the Old Methodist Church is of no use where it is. It should be removed to midway between where it is and Murray Street. At present the two lamps are within four rods of each other.—There is a motion of Council to this effect. Who should see to it?

Game is plentiful in the woods just now, and many sportsmen have been scouring the bush lands of the adjoining townships in their eager pursuit. Great numbers of deer, duck and partridge have been shot this year. Mr. J. Holmes, of Burleigh, and another young man shot eleven deer in 8 days. Who can beat that?

WINTER APPLES.—Baily Bros. have received four car loads of first-class winter apples, from the other side, which will be sold very low. It will be well for families to lay in their stock now, as they will be able to do so to advantage, and apples are scarce in Canada. The consignment comprises all the popular varieties.

Mr. LeBrun has a very large stock of ready-made clothing, such as over-coats, pants, vests, &c., which he is determined to sell very low for cash. Great bargains are offered. This is still the place for ordered clothing, which is always with him a speciality. Go and see his stock, which in all other lines of gent's furnishings is large and varied.

PERSONALS.—Mr. E. H. Orde, of Lindsay, has been gazetted a Notary Public—Geo. A. Cox, Esq. and Mrs. Cox, and T. Donnelly Esq., and Mrs. Donnelly returned home on Saturday after visiting the Centennial. Mr. Greatle, of the Lakefield News, called on us on Saturday. He is looking well, and says he is doing a "rushing" business.

CRUEL.—There was a man lying on the sidewalk on Hunter Street on Monday night taking a nap, and we noticed his head on the bare plank. If he had been a voter he would have had a pillow. It is cruel on the part of Constable Bearis not to see that such persons have something under their heads. It is cruel to punish them so, even if a dose of the Reform License Act did act as a cathartic. Our Town Constable should not be so relentless.

FAIRBANK'S SCALES.—Last year in the great contest for the special $60,000 contract, in which Fairbanks won, there were six competitors. This year, only one Company competed and offered to supply the United States Government at a much lower price than the Fairbanks. The quality of the goods, however, were very inferior and Fairbanks again won the contract Mr. H. Hunt is agent for Peterboro and all who want perfect scales should step him a call, and

THE TAXES.—There is a great fuss just now over paying taxes. In the early part of the year the EXAMINER stood alone in lugubrious outcry that taxes had to these heavy rates complained of. In their haste to make out a case now they forget the rule of simple addition. If they will cause their brother and read Vic. first—they will there find the new rule. It is as follows:

POLICE COURT.—On Wednesday morning, Anthony Parent was brought before the P. M. by George Haughton, who charges him with not receiving all the moneys that were due him as agent. Judgment for complainant $8.56 and $2.75 costs, to be paid in 21 days.—LARCENY. The case of larceny in which George Haughton was charged with stealing $8.50 from his employer, Anthony Parent, was dismissed by the Police Magistrate.

TOWN CONSTABLE would do well to give M. Collins a call for Groceries, as he is selling very cheap and has a choice selection of everything in his line of business.

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Personally we can speak highly of its value as a family cough remedy, having used it with great benefit The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtues if they should unfortunately contract either coughs or colds. 44-tfm

WM. MCCULLAGH employs only First-class Workmen, and uses the best Stock, and warrants all Boots and Shoes in his establishment.

A WARNING TO INSURERS.—Notwithstanding the frequency with which the question has come up in the courts, some persons appear to be totally unaware of the importance of communicating all changes in tenancy, &c., to the companies in which the property is insured. If a party moves and has not informed the company, and the property be destroyed, the company would not have been legally liable for the amount insured, and it would have rested with the board to say whether it should be paid or not. Insurers will do well to bear in mind this case in point.

M. COLLINS is selling his Groceries at prices to suit the times.

NEW GRANGE.—A Grange was organized near Westwood on Thursday evening, Nov. 9th, by John T. Gould, Deputy of Durham Division, with twenty-five charter members. The following were appointed officers: Master, T. Sheard; Overseer, Jno. Cameron; Lecturer, J. Lancaster; Steward, R. A. Barne; Asst. Steward, Wm. Christie; Chaplain, Jas. Harrison; Treasurer, Hugh Nelson; Secretary, J. A. Cameron; Gate-keeper, Gabriel Learmouth; Ceres, Mrs. Jos. Harrison; Pomona, Mrs. Jno. Cameron; Flora, Mrs. Jno. Duff; Lady Asst. Steward, Miss Mary Cameron.

Go TO M. COLLINS if you want Preserving Sugar—Large lot cheap.

PETERBORO LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—At the meeting of this Association on Tuesday evening last, Mr. H. B. Waller read the "The Soldier's Home," by Blomfield. Mr. C. Paisley read "Sudden Death," a humorous piece by Hood. The question for debate was "Should the Dominion of Canada adopt a protective tariff?" On the affirmative were Mr. Fossette and Mr. Toker; on the negative Mr. E. B. Edwards and Mr. W. W. Johnston. The decision was given in favor of the negative. At the next meeting the question for debate will be "Are Oaths necessary to the due Administration of Justice."

WM. MCCULLAGH will sell Rubbers and Over shoes at Montreal factor prices.

ADA GRAY.—Bradburn's new Hall was opened by the Ada Gray Combination on Monday evening to a large house. Ada Gray and Mr. Brand fully sustain the reputation they earned while in Peterboro during the summer, although the support was not up to the mark. Our new hall is quite grand, and certainly reflects no small amount of credit on the artist. The scenery is of the best, and beautifully painted. Peterboro can now boast of having a hall second to none outside of the cities of the Dominion. The troupe remain here for the week. The play for this evening is "Article 47." The band of the company open the evening's entertainment by playing a musical prelude outside the hall.

HOUSEKEEPERS will find the best value in Groceries, &c., at M. COLLINS', next door to McKee & Davidson's Hardware Store.

JAMES RYAN'S sentence has been commuted to imprisonment for life. A telegraph to that effect was received here on Saturday evening. The wisdom of this is doubted by many. He may rejoice that he has escaped, but we hope that this commutation may not embolden some other, under the same maddening influence to do similar deeds, hoping to escape the reward of their actions in the same way. He left by yesterday morning's train in charge of the Sheriff for Kingston. When he received the information that his sentence was commuted, he appeared little moved, except expressing a hope that his friends would not make any more petitions for him. He went away satisfied that he would be out again in about a year or two—he will be disappointed.

TOM THUMB.—This charming troupe gave two entertainments in the Old Methodist Church, on Thursday. There was a good attendance both afternoon and evening, and the entertainment was heartily relished by those present. The General himself was a whole show, and in the various characters assumed by him did not fail to entertain. The songs of Mrs. Thumb and Minnie, however, were heartily appreciated, while Major Newhall in his songs and dances was immense. His skatorial exhibition was of great merit, while in personating the character of the Mischievous Monkey, he lent himself to the task with naturalness and vigor that fairly "brought down the house." Before the Matinee the appearance of the General on the streets caused considerable amusement to the little folks. The Negro Coachman was of a very diminutive stature, and was the recipient of a good deal of annoyance from the urchins who took great pleasure in teasing him.

Presentation and Address.

John Murray Smith, Esq., Manager for many years of the Toronto Bank here, being promoted to the branch of the same bank at Montreal, the customers of the bank and the citizens of the town thought it a fayourable time to acknowledge his kindness and courtesy towards the customers of the bank, and his christian character as a citizen and a gentleman. The token of esteem was a piece of Plate in the form of a beautiful Sperges, about 2ft. high, with the following engraved on it: "Presented to Mr. J. Murray Smith, on his removal from Peterboro, by the customers of the Bank of Toronto, as an expression of their sincere regard: Nov. 14th 1876. The following is the address:

To J. Murray Smith, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—As customers of the Bank of Toronto, and citizens of Peterboro, we sincerely desire before you take your departure from our midst to express the very high respect which we entertain for yourself and your estimable lady.

We feel that by your removal the town will lose a gentleman whose consistency of life has exerted a happy influence in the community, and a Bank Manager; who, while at all times exhibiting an untiring zeal for the welfare of the institution, did all in his power to make the intercourse between it and its customers both pleasing and satisfactory.

We cannot refrain from expressing the regret which we all feel when it was announced that you were to be removed to Montreal to take charge of the Bank's business there, but at the same time we were gratified that the Bank had recognized your faithful services by giving you a better position and a wider field for advancing its interests by your business talents.

Now that you and your family are about to leave us, your amiable wife with yourself having earned our respect, we heartily pray that a kind Providence will watch over and protect you in happiness and prosperity through lives which we trust will be long and eminently useful.

We beg your acceptance of the accompanying Epergne, as a slight token of much esteem, and a souvenir of your sojourn in Peterborough.

The following Gentlemen, Messrs. W. Clarkson, Dr. W. H. Taylor, John Ludgate, Thomas Menzies, D. G. Hallon and John Erskine were deputed to make the presentation, to which Mr Smith replied as follows:

GENTLEMEN.—You will please accept my most hearty thanks for the address just read, for your generous appreciation of my services as Manager of the Bank of Toronto here, for the kindly reference to Mrs. Smith, and for your good wishes as to our future health and prosperity.

I can at a loss for words adequate to express my thanks for the beautiful, chaste, and elegant Epergne with which you have presented me. I shall carefully preserve it while I live, and leave it to those who shall come after me as a most precious legacy. Allow me to say that I part with the customers of the Bank with the deepest regret; our business intercourse has been exceedingly pleasant, and if at times I have not been able to do all that you would have liked me to do for you, you have always acted as if you believed that it was not because I did not wish to fit; but because I could not. Having discharged my duties satisfactorily to the Bank of which I have a recognition in their removing me to the very important Branch in Montreal, it is very pleasing to have this mark of your approval also.

It has been my aim to win your confidence so one upon whom word and honor implicit confidence could be placed. I trust I have not been altogether unsuccessful in this, and I am delighted to say that I have ever found the customers of the Bank to possess the same honorable traits of character. I think it speaks volumes for the business men of Peterboro when I say that during the six and a half years I have been doing business with them the Bank has not lost $100. I can confidently commend the customers of the Bank to the kindly consideration and confidence of my successor.

Gentlemen we must soon part, still I trust that when business calls or pleasure invites you to the grand City of the Province of Quebec, you will not fail to call upon one who will always be so glad to see you: the kindly shake of the hand, and the familiar face will serve to recall the very pleasant memories of the past.

Again gentlemen I would on behalf of Mrs. Smith and myself thank you most heartily for

ST. ANDREWS' BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

THE ANNUAL MEETING—STATEMENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE PRESENT YEAR—ITS DONATIONS—PRESENT FINANCIAL POSITION ELECTION OF OFFICERS—A LEAF FROM THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society for the Town and County of Peterborough was held on Wednesday evening last, November 8th, in Bradburn's new Hall.

The PRESIDENT, John Elder, occupied the chair, there were present a larger number of the members than usual on such occasions.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed.

The PRESIDENT stated that the business of the evening consisted principally in hearing the Treasurer's financial statement for the past year, the election of officers, and arranging for the celebration of St. Andrew's day.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

J. R. ORMOND, Treasurer of the Society, then read his report, which showed the financial condition of the Society to be good, and that a balance of over $100 remained in the bank to the credit of the Society, to be carried forward to another year. This is to be considered all the more favorable when it is taken into account, as was stated by the President, that the operations of the Society for benevolent purposes during the year had been larger than for some years previous, owing to the hard times that had to be encountered last winter, and the many calls made upon the funds of the Society in consequence; and also the settlement of a number of claims against the Society of two year's standing.

The following figures show the receipts in detail:—

Cash on hand at beginning of year	$146 67
Proceeds of Annual Sermon	14 25
Subscription Collected	82 30
Donation from D. Kennedy	5 00
Bank Interest	0 15
Total cash Receipts	$254 37

The expenditures were as follows:—

For Charity	$154 88
Sundries: for room, printing, billposting and other expenses	20 20
Total Expenditure	$155 22

The liabilities of the Society at the close of the year ending November 8th, only amounted to about $16, for printing and lighting room, accounts for which were passed, and ordered to be paid.

The PRESIDENT appointed E. H. D. Hall and R. Elder as Audit Committee to examine the Treasurer's books and vouchers.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and the result was as follows:—

President—William Hamilton.
First Vice-President—James Miller, Otonabee.
Second Vice-President—James Menzies.
Third Vice-President—John Cook.
Treasurer—J. R. Ormond, (re-elected.)
Secretary—Wm. Menzies, (re-elected.)
Charitable Committee—Messrs. John Erskine, James Hope, Robt. Elder, George Tully, Wm. Cushing, John Fallerton, Wm. Veitch, Hall, Whyte, D. D. Gallelly, W. H. Taylor, M. D., Geo. Roger, W. Breckenridge and J. Armour.

On motion D. D. Gallelly was appointed to collect the annual subscription of each of the members as were unable to attend the meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.

It was moved and seconded that the Rev. Mr. Torrance be requested to preach the annual sermon, in St. Paul's Church, and a committee was appointed to wait upon him for that purpose.

On motion it was unanimously decided to again celebrate the anniversary of St. Andrew's day by holding a dinner on the 30th instant.

A Dinner Committee was then appointed to whom was entrusted the arrangement and management of the celebration, and we have every reason to believe the entertainment will be a successful one in every respect.

The Society has not perhaps grown much in numbers during the past year, but its power to aid the distressed—the object for which it was organized—is apparent from the foregoing figures.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, the 15th instant, to hear the reports from the Audit and Dinner Committees.

A LEAF FROM THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY.

Believing it would be of interest to our readers and particularly to those of Scottish extraction who have more recently taking up their residence amongst us, to know more about the early history of the Scottish Society and the circumstances which led to its formation in Peterborough, we have gleaned the following information:—

The St. Andrew's Society of the Town and County of Peterborough was established in Nov'r, 1858. For nearly 20 years previous, the Scotchmen resident in and around Peterborough had ardently desired to embody themselves into a St. Andrew's Society, not, however, with the view, as many have supposed, to propagate feelings of Scotch nationality to the prejudice of others, but to relieve the wants and ameliorate the sufferings of such of their fellow-countrymen and their descendants as might at any time in the dispensations of Divine Providence have fallen into a state of suffering and indigence. Many attempts had consequently been made to organize such a society, but owing to sundry unpropitious causes they all signally failed, and one after another fell to the ground. The last of a series of attempts made in 1857, to the great, yet sensible disappointment of those who had so strenuously exerted themselves in its behalf. For fourteen years after the St. Andrew's Society question remained a dead letter, nor was it again agitated till about the middle of November, 1858, when on the near approach of the anniversary of Scotland's patron Saints' (Andrew's) day, a few Scottish youth who had recently emigrated from Scotland, became deeply impressed with thoughts of their island home in the far east, that they determined on commemorating the evening of this ever memorable day by assembling along with as many of their fellow-countrymen as they could muster, around the festive board, and then for one night in the three hundred and sixty-five divest themselves of all business cares anxieties while they should fly back in imagination to those scenes of happy reminiscences, to the fertile vales, the heath and mountains, the sunny knolls and heathery cliffs of their dear native land, and say within themselves in the words of one of their country's greatest poets,—

"Oh, Caledonia stern and wild,
"Meet nurse for a poetic child,
"Land of brown heather and shaggy wood,
"Land of my sires, to express the very high respect
"Shall e'er untie the filmi band
"That knits me to thy rugged strand!"

With these impressions those Scottish youth proceeded at once, at the first whisper of this impulsive suggestion, to take steps towards arriving at the accomplishment of their hearts desire, namely, the entertainment in prospective. They accordingly went from house to house among their 8 oth friends and acquaintance, inquiring them with the fact that several Scotchmen residing in Peterborough had suggested the idea of getting up an entertainment on the 30th instant, (November) in celebration of St. Andrew's day, and invited them to take a part with them in getting it up, also to attend at a meeting which was to be held at a certain hour in McGregor's American hotel. In this way most of the Scotchmen in Peterborough were made aware that such a levee was in contemplation. The appointed hour for uniting at the American Hotel arrived, and the number of Scotchmen who presented themselves there seemed well for the success of the matter at issue, and much more so on account of their almost to a man approving of it, and promising cash to constitute what he could towards enlivening the evening in question. When the nature of the entertainment, etc., has been fully discussed, and the company were about relapsing into silence, a few of the patres of Peterborough, who had often twenty years before wished to see a St. Andrew's Society established in Peterborough, thought that although they had met with so little encouragement in their former attempts to organize a St. Andrew's Society, they would make one attempt more. One of them accordingly stood up and showed the advantage it would be to have such a Society established amongst us, and also portrayed in the most vivid colors the miseries of which they themselves had been witnesses, and all of which might, if not wholly avoided, at least in a very great measure have been ameliorated, had a St. Andrew's Society then existed. His observers suggested that now there being so many Scotchmen together they ought at once to form themselves into a St. Andrew's Society, and also showed how much the anniversary of the evening of the 30th would be enchanced by all being fraternized into a society. This suggestion met the approbation of the entire meeting, when they at once proceeded to appoint a Chairman and pass resolutions relative to the Society.

At an adjourned meeting which was shortly afterwards held (November 22, 1858) the following resolutions were moved and carried unanimously and so perfected the organization:—

Moved by A. Murray, and seconded by J. Haggart.—That this meeting do now resolve itself into a St. Andrew's Society, and that this Society be termed the County of Peterborough St. Andrew's Society.

Moved by Wm. Arnot, seconded by J. McNabb.—That John Harvey, Esq., be appointed President.

Moved by J. Robertson, seconded by—Stoddart.—That the following gentlemen be appointed of the Vice-Presidents for the Township of the County of Peterborough, namely:—John Hall, Esq., Otonabee; Jas. Hall, Esq., Asphodel; Jas. Gregor, Esq., Smith; Vice-President; Alex. Ferguson, Esq., 2nd Vice-President; Messrs. Hall, Jas. Halwell, McMabb, and Harvey.

Wm. Arnot, John Haggart, William Hall, Geo. Brownlee, D. Carey, W. Hall, A. Murray, J. McNabb, Wm. Robertson, A. Stevens; J. Jas. Cluthbertson; Thos. Osmond; W. Tully, Messrs. John Bickerdike, Jas. Stewart, H. Irwin, Asphodel; T. Telford, Esq., Smith; Messrs. Geo. Dixon, Wm. Arnot was elected Treasurer, and John Macklin, Secretary.—Review.

It is the intention of the manager of the bank to destroy the plate and the remaining bills of the issue stolen, and to order an entirely different plate to be engraved for a new issue. All persons are cautioned against receiving any bills of this bank until the official notice of the bank has been published to that effect for four months previous to their circulation, according to law.

DEATH OF A CARDINAL.

A despatch from Rome, on Monday, announced the death of Cardinal Antonelli, the great Italian prelate and statesman, and chief adviser of Pope Pius IX. Cardinal Antonelli, we learn, was born in 1806, at Sonnino, and educated at the great seminary of Rome. Having early distinguished himself by his ability he was raised to the prelacy after taking orders, and appointed, by Gregory XVI, to various civil officers, attaining in 1845 the position of Minister of Finance. After the accession of Pius IX. he was made Cardinal, and in 1848, by favor of the popular party, became Prime Minister. Though he continued the Pope's chief adviser, he was afterwards deposed from the Premiership. He accompanied the Pope to Gaeta, and conducted the negotiations which resulted in the Pope's return to Rome in 1850 under protection of the French army. In 1870, while the French evacuated Rome, Antonelli appeared to various foreign powers for assistance, and was a strong opponent of the success of Victor Emanuel, who made his formal entry into Rome in December, 1871. In recent years his occupation has chiefly been the management of the temporal affairs of the Papacy, as Secretary of State to the Pope, President of the Council of Ministers, &c., his business not being so much that of diplomatist as a banker. He is reported to have been by far the wealthiest of Catholic ecclesiastics, his fortune being estimated at some 20,000,000 francs, while his collections of precious stones, work of art, and other articles of vertu, are probly unrivalled.

—ELECTRICITY—

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectrical Oil. Read the following be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Medford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally, as good for horse as for man."—A Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Russan, township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three o four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which annoyed me very much. At Maybee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured It is a most remarkable medicine.

WHEREAS, the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough have resolved to expend the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in constructing, making and repairing the roads and bridges within the said County.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object, it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, it will require the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars to be raised annually by special rate, for the payment of said debt or loan and interest, as also hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality of the said County of Peterborough, irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof, according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the Municipality, is the sum of Eight Millions Five Hundred and Seventy-six Thousand and One Hundred and Seventy-eight Dollars.

And whereas, the existing debt of the Municipality of the County of Peterborough exclusive of a liability if any to the Grand Junction Railway Company to the amount of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars heretofore voted by way of bonus to the said Company and exclusive of a liability to the Huron and Quebec Railway Company to the amount of One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars heretofore voted by way of bonus to the said Company, by By-law of said County No. 439, which have not yet become due or claims, and for which Debentures have not been issued, is for principal the sum of Thirty-three Thousand Dollars and for interest the sum of Twenty-two Thousand and Twenty Dollars, and there is nothing in arrear on account of said principal or interest.

And whereas, for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for pay ing the said principal sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars, as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of Twenty-six One-Hundredths of a Mill in the Dollar, in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough,—

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same, upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough for the purposes, and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made for such sums of money as may be required, not less than one hundred dollars each, and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars; and that the said Debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Municipality, and be signed by the said Warden, and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in twenty years, from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them coupons, for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly on the Thirtieth day of June, and the Thirty-first day of December in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid, to become due thereon, an equal special rate of Twenty-six One Hundredths of a Mill in the Dollar, shall, in addition to all other rates, be raised, levied and collected in each year upon all the rateable property in the said Municipality, during the continuance of the said Debentures, or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect, and come into operation upon the 31st of December, 1876.

COLLINS has a lot of the best quality of Tea very cheap.—Try it.

WM. MCCULLAGH warrants all his Alligator Boots to be waterproof.

MEN have been at work during the past week removing the mud from the crossings and streets.

The Methodist Missionary Meetings were well attended. The collections far exceed those of last year.

The Band of the Ada Gray Troupe arrived here on Saturday evening and enlivened our streets with a few of their popular airs.

SPECIAL SERMONS to young men were preached on Sunday in the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. Mr. Hooper, of Oshawa, has accepted a call to Beamsville, and will not come to Peterboro.

PERSONAL.—Col. Kennedy is in Town from Manitoba visiting his friends. He is looking well.

"THERE'S MILLIONS IN IT."—License Inspector Ritchie has four cases before the Grand Cadi this morning for breach of the Liquor License Act on Sunday.

LOCAL POLITICS.—A lively time may be anticipated at the coming contest for the Mayoralty. Our friend Grip foreshadowed the candidature on Friday evening last.

PAINTING.—We notice during the past week an oil painting of Mrs. R. N. Roddy in Mr. Little's window. The work was done by Mr. Workman, and is finely executed.

NEW PROCESS IN PHOTOGRAPHY.—A new and beautiful process is now being worked successfully in Little's Fine Art Gallery. Call and examine samples, they will speak for themselves. 46-tfn.

MACEVOY'S Entertainment on Saturday night last, showing Stereopticon views of Ireland and other European countries was exceedingly good, although not so well attended as its merits deserved.

BENGOUGH.—The celebrated Cartoonist has again paid Peterboro a visit on his lecturing tour throughout the country. The audience though not large was highly appreciative, and was well pleased with Grip's humorous sketches

SELWYN STABBING AFFAIR.—We hear that Mr. Johnston, the man stabbed by Gagen, in a drunken row at Selwyn, last week, is in a very dangerous state. There are grave doubts of his recovery.

FARM STOCK, &c.—Haggart Bros. will sell by auction the farm stock, and implements belonging to Mr. Samuel Nelson, Lot No. 28, in the 7th concession of Smith, on Tuesday, 28th November, at 10 o'clock, a.m.

PARLOR SOCIAL.—The first Parlor Social of the season will be held this evening at the Methodist Parsonage. We are sure the last social held at the Parsonage is not yet forgotten and we predict a full attendance. Admission only 15 cts. Don't fail to attend.

VITAL STATISTICS.—There were eight Births and four Marriages registered at the Town Clerk's office during the month of October. Peterborough must be a pretty healthy place, there being no deaths registered during the past month.

RUNAWAY.—On Friday a horse attached to a phaeton on Charlotte street took fright and ran away, throwing the driver into the road but without doing him any injury. The horse was stopped after running a short distance, but not before breaking a shaft.

AUCTION SALE.—Haggart Bros. will sell by public auction, at Cavanagh's Hotel Peterborough, on Wednesday, 22nd Nov., that valuable farm known as the "Dudman" farm, Douro It is beautifully situated, and is only three miles from town. See advertisement in another column.

ASHBURNHAM.—On Tuesday Mr. J. P. Nichols and Mr. J. P. Beanett, on information from License Inspector Drain, confirmed by satisfactory evidence, found Mr. E. Calcutt of that village guilty of a breach of the License Act, and fined him accordingly. We hear there is another case a-kin[sic] shortly.

PARLOR SOCIAL.—A new kind of a charitable institution has been started in town termed "Parlor Socials." The first of such series was held on Friday evening last, in the vicinity of the Railway Station. We are informed several of the "B. J." men were present, and enlivened the entertainment at intervals.

IN THE WRONG PLACE.—The gas lamp at the Old Methodist Church is of no use where it is. It should be removed to midway between where it is and Murray Street. At present the two lamps are within four rods of each other.—There is a motion of Council to this effect. Who should one be it?

GAME is plentiful in the woods just now, and many sportsmen have been scouring the bush lands of the adjoining townships in their eager pursuit. Great numbers of deer, duck and partridge have been shot this year. Mr. J. Holmes, of Burleigh, and another young man shot eleven deer in 5 days. Who can beat that?

WINTER APPLES.—Baily Bros. have received four car loads of first-class winter apples, from the other side, which will be sold very low. It will be well for families to lay in their stock now, as they will be able to do so to advantage, and apples are scarce in Canada. The consignment comprises all the popular varieties.

Mr. LeBrun has a very large stock of ready-made clothing, such as over-coats, pants, vests, &c., which he is determined to sell very low for cash. Great bargains are offered. This is still the place for ordered clothing, which is always with him a speciality. Go and see his stock, which in all other lines of gent's furnishings is large and varied.

PERSONALS.—Mr. E. H. Orde, of Lindsay, has been gazetted a Notary Public.—Geo. A. Cox, Esq. and Mrs. Cox, and T. Donnelly Esq., and Mrs. Donnelly returned home on Saturday after visiting the Centennial. Mr. Grafft, of the Lakefield News, called on us on Saturday. He is looking well, and says he is doing a "rushing" business.

CRUEL.—There was a man lying on the sidewalk on Hunter Street on Monday night taking a nap, and we noticed his head on the bare plank. If he had been a voter he would have had a pillow. It is owing on the part of Constable Beavis not to nip that such persons have something under their heads. It is great to punish them so, even if a dose of the Reform License Act did not do a specific. Our Town Constable should not be so relentless.

FAIRBANK'S SCALES.—Last year in the great contest for the special $20,000 contract, in which Fairbanks won, there were six competitors. This year, only one Company competed and offered to supply the United States Government at a much lower price than the Fairbanks. The quality of the goods, however, were very inferior and Fairbanks again won the contract Mr. Bethel is agent for Peterboro and all who want scales should give him a call. Adv

THE TAXES.—There is a great fuss just now over paying taxes. In the early period the year the EXAMINER stood alone in exposing outrages that have led to these heavy rates complained of. In their haste to make out a case many they forget the rule of simple addition. If they will cease their bother and read Vic. first.—they will there find the new rule. It is as follows:

POLICE COURT.—On Wednesday morning, Anthony Parent was brought before the P. M. by George Haughton, who charges him with not receiving all the moneys that were due him as wages. Judgment for complainant $6.56 and $2.75 costs, to be paid in 21 days.—LARCENY The case of larceny in which George Haughton was charged with stealing $2.50 from his employer, Anthony Parent, was dismissed by the Police Magistrate.

TEGGS CORNERS would do well to give M. Collins a call for Groceries, as he is selling very cheap and has a choice selection of everything in his line of business

IT always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. Personally we can speak highly of its value as a family cough remedy, having used it with great benefit The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try the virtues if they should unfortunately contract either coughs or colds. 44-3m

WM. MCCULLAGH employs only First-class Workmen, and uses the best Stock, and warrants all Boots and Shoes in his establishment.

A WARNING TO INSURERS.—Notwithstanding the frequency with which the question has come up in the courts, some persons appear to be totally unaware of the importance of communicating all changes in tenacy, &c., to the companies in which the property is insured. If a party moves and has not informed the company, and the property be destroyed, the company would not have been legally liable for the amount insured, and it would have rested with the board to say whether it should be paid or not. Insurers will do well to bear in mind this case in point.

M. CHARM is selling his Groceries at prices to suit the times.

NEW GRANGE.—A Grange was organized near Westwood on Thursday evening, Nov. 9th, by John T. Gould, Deputy of Durham Division, with twenty-five charter members. The following were appointed officers: Master, T. Sheard; Overseer, Jno. Cameron; Lecturer, J. Lansdester; Steward, R. A. Barns; Asst. Steward, Wm. Christie; Chaplain, Jas. Harrison; Treasurer, Hugh Nelson; Secretary, J. A. Cameron; Gate-keeper, Gabriel Learmouth; Ceres, Mrs. Jas. Harrison; Pomona, Mrs. Jno. Cameron; Flora, Mrs. Jno. Duff; Lady Asst. Steward, Miss Mary Cameron.

GO TO M. COLLINS if you want Preserving Sugar—Large lot cheap.

PETERBORO LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—At the meeting of this Association on Tuesday evening last, Mr. H. R. Weller read the "The Soldier's Home," by Blomfield. Mr. Paisley read "Sudden Death," a humorous piece by Hood. The question for debate was "Should the Dominion of Canada adopt a protective tariff." On the affirmative were Mr. Forsette and Mr. Toker; on the negative Mr. E. B. Edwards and Mr. W. W. Johnston. The decision was given in favor of the negative. At the next meeting the question for debate will be "Are Oaths necessary to the due Administration of Justice."

WM. MCCULLAGH will sell Rubbers and Over shoes at Montreal factor prices.

ADA GRAY.—Bradburn's new Hall was opened by the Ada Gray Combination on Monday evening to a large house. Ada Gray and Mr. Brent fully sustain the reputation they earned while in Peterboro during the summer, although the support was not up to the mark. Our new hall is quite grand, and certainly reflects no small amount of credit on the artist. The scenery is of the best, and beautifully painted. Peterboro can now boast of having a hall second to none outside of the cities of the Dominion. The troupe remain here for the week. The play for this evening is "Article 47." The band of the company open the evening's entertainment by playing a musical prelude outside the hall.

HOUSEKEEPERS will find the best value in Groceries, &c., at M. COLLINS', next door to McKee & Davidson's Hardware Store.

JAMES RYAN'S sentence has been commuted to imprisonment for life. A telegraph to that effect was received here on Saturday evening. The wisdom of this is doubted by many. He may rejoice that he has escaped, but we hope that this commutation may not embolden some other, under the same maddening influence to do similar deeds, hoping to escape the reward of their actions in the same way. He left by yesterday morning's train in charge of the Sheriff for Kingston. When he received the information that his sentence was commuted, he appeared little moved, except expressing a little dissatisfaction that his sentence was not penitentiary for life. He went away satisfied that he would be out again in about a year or two—he will be disappointed.

TOM THUMB.—This charming troupe gave two entertainments in the Old Methodist Church, on Thursday. There was a good attendance both afternoon and evening, and the entertainment was heartily relished by those present The General himself was a whole show, and in the various characters assumed by him did not fail to entertain. The songs of Mrs. Thumb and Minnie, however, were heartily appreciated, while Major Newhall in his songs and dances was immense. His theatrical exhibition was of great merit, while in personating the Irish character of the Hibernian Monkey, he lent himself to the task with naturalness and vigor that fairly "brought down the house." Before the Matinee the appearance of the General on the streets caused considerable amusement to the little folks. The Negro Coachman was of a very diminutive stature, and was the recipient of a good deal of annoyance from the urchins who took great pleasure in teasing him.

Presentation and Address.

John Murray Smith, Esq., Manager for many years of the Toronto Bank here, being promoted to the branch of the same bank at Montreal, the customers of the bank and the citizens of the town thought it a favourable time to acknowledge his kindness and courtesy towards the customers of the bank, and his christian character as a citizen and a gentleman. The token of esteem was a piece of Plate in the form of a beautiful Sperguse, about 2ft. high, with the following engraved on it: "Presented to Mr. J. Murray Smith, on his removal from Peterborough by the customers of the Bank of Toronto, as an expression of their sincere regard: Nov. 11th 1876. The following is the address:

To J. Murray Smith, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—As customers of the Bank of Toronto, and citizens of Peterboro, we sincerely desire before you take your departure from our midst to express the very high respect which we entertain for yourself and your estimable lady.

We feel that by your removal the town will lose a gentleman whose consistency of life has exerted a happy influence in the community, and a Bank Manager, who, while at all times exhibiting an untiring zeal for the welfare of the institution, did all in his power to make the intercourse between it and its customers both pleasing and satisfactory,

We cannot refrain from expressing the regret which we all feel when it was announced that you were to be removed to Montreal to take charge of the Bank's business there, but at the same time we were gratified that the Bank had recognized your faithful services by giving you a better position and a wider field for advancing its interests by your business talents.

Now that you and your family are about to leave us, your amiable wife with yourself having earned our respect, we heartily pray that a kind Providence will watch over and protect you in happiness and prosperity through lives which we trust will be long and eminently useful.

We beg your acceptance of the accompanying Epergne, as a slight token of much esteem, and a souvenir of your sojourn in Peterborough.

The following Gentlemen, Messrs. W. Cluxton, Dr. W. H. Taylor, John Ladgate, Thomas Meanies, D. G. Hatton and John Erskine were deputed to make the presentation, to which Mr Smith replied as follows:

GENTLEMEN,—You will please accept my most hearty thanks for the address just read, for your generous appreciation of my services as Manager of the Bank of Toronto here, for the kindly reference to Mrs. Smith, and for your good wishes as to our future health and prosperity.

I am at a loss for words adequate to express my thanks for the beautiful, chaste, and elegant Epergne with which you have presented me. I shall carefully preserve it while I live, and leave it to those who shall come after me as a most precious legacy. Allow me to say that I part with the customers of the Bank with the deepest regret; our business intercourse has been exceedingly pleasant, and if at times I have not been able to do all that you would have liked me to do for you, you have always acted as if you believed that it was not because I did not wish to it; but because I could not. Having discharged my duties satisfactorily to the Bank of which I have a recognition in their removing me to the very important branch in Montreal, it is very gratifying to have this mark of your approval also.

It has been my aim to win your confidence as one upon whose word and honor implicit confidence could be placed. I trust I have not been altogether unsuccessful in this, and I am delighted to say that I have ever found the constituents of the Bank to possess the same honorable traits of character. I think it speaks volumes for the business men of Peterboro when I say that during the six and a half years I have had dealings with them the Bank has not lost a dollar. I can confidently commend the customers of the Bank to the kindly consideration and confidence of my successor.

Gentlemen we have met many part, still I trust that when business calls or pleasure invites you to the grand City of the Province of Quebec, you will call and see us, when we will be glad to see you; the kindly shake of the hand, and the friendly word will serve to recall the very pleasant memories of the past.

Again gentlemen I would on behalf of Mrs. Smith and myself thank you most heartily for your kind address and the beautiful and chaste Epergne with which you have just presented me.

During Mr. Smith's management the business of the Bank in Peterboro has largely increased in every respect, and the Directors of the Bank have reason to be proud of the position it occupies in the estimation of the business community, and depositors in the County of Peterboro. Mr. Smith while prudently considering the best interests of the Bank, has always shown a ready desire to meet the wants and necessities of those requiring bank accommodation when the circumstances warranted his lending that assistance, and that the result of his management in Peterboro has been highly satisfactory to the bank is shown by his advancement to the position of Manager in Montreal, the position he will there hold being only second to that of the Cashier at the head office in Toronto. The bank has always occupied a front position in Peterboro, and Mr. Smith's management has tended to increase the confidence in which it is held. We hope he may long be spared to continue to its best interests.

In the long list of signatures to the presentation address, we notice some, who do not reside in the town, as Messrs. Fowlds Brothers, Hastings; W. K. Rutherglen, Norwood; Francis Bowyer, Lakefield, and a great many others We believe Mr. Smith also received a presentation and an address from the St. Paul's Church Presbyterian Sunday School. We will give the address and particulars in our next.

ST. ANDREWS' BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

THE ANNUAL MEETING—STATEMENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE PRESENT YEAR—ITS DONATIONS—PRESENT—FINANCIAL POSITION ELECTION OF OFFICERS—A LEAF FROM THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society for the Town and County of Peterborough was held on Wednesday evening last, November 8th, in Bradburn's new Hall.

The PRESIDENT, John Elder, occupied the chair, and there were present a larger number of the members than usual on such occasions.

The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed,

The PRESIDENT stated that, the business of the evening consisted of hearing the Treasurer's financial statement for the past year, the election of officers, and arranging for the celebration of St. Andrew's day.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

J. R. ORMOND, Treasurer of the Society, then read his report, which showed the financial condition of the Society to be good, and that a balance of over $100 remained in the bank to the credit of the Society, to be carried forward to another year. This is to be considered all the more favorable when it is taken into account, as was stated by the President, that the operations of the society for benevolent purposes during the year had been larger than for some years previous, owing to the hard times that had to be encountered last winter, and the many calls made upon the funds of the Society in consequence; and the settlement of a number of claims against the Society of two year's standing.

Cash on hand at beginning of year	$146 67
Proceeds of Annual Sermon	14 20
Subscriptions Collected	62 30
Donation from D. Kennedy	5 00
Bank Interest	6 15
Total cash Receipts	$254 37

The expenditures were as follows:—

For Charity	$154 86
Sundries: for room, printing, bill-posting and other expenses	20 35
Total Expenditure	$155 21

The liabilities of the Society at the close of the year ending November 8th, only amounted to about $10, for printing, and lighting room, accounts for which were passed, and ordered to be paid.

The PRESIDENT appointed E. H. D. Hall and R. Elder an' Audit Committee to examine the Treasurer's books and vouchers.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and the result was as follows:—

President—William Hamilton.
First Vice-President—James Millar, Ozonabee.
Second Vice-President—James Measures.
Third Vice-President—John Cook.
Treasurer—J. R. Ormond, (re-elected.)
Secretary—Wm. Aitken, (re-elected.)
Charitable Committee—Messrs. John Erskine, James Hope, Robt. Elder, George Tully, Wm. Cummings, John Patterson, Wm. Telford, Jas. Whyte, D. D. Gallelly, W. H. Taylor, M. D., Geo. Roger, W. Breckenridge and J. Armour.

On motion D. D. Gallelly was appointed to collect the annual subscription of such of the members as were unable to attend the meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.

It was moved and seconded that the Rev. Mr. Torrance be requested to preach the annual sermon, in St. Paul's Church, and a committee was appointed to wait upon him for that purpose.

On motion it was unanimously decided to again celebrate the anniversary of St. Andrew's day by holding a dinner on the 30th instant.

A Dinner Committee was then appointed to whom was entrusted the arrangement and management of the celebration, and we have every reason to believe the entertainment will be a successful one in every respect.

The Society has not perhaps grown much in numbers during the past year, but its power to aid the distressed—the very object for which it was organized—is apparent from the foregoing figures.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, the 15th instant, to hear the reports from the Audit and Dinner Committees.

A LEAF FROM THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY.

Believing it would be of interest to our readers and particularly to those of Scottish extraction who have more recently taking up their residence amongst us, to know more about the early history of the St. Andrew's Society and the circumstances which led to its formation in Peterborough, we have gleaned the following information:—

The St. Andrew's Society of the Town and County of Peterborough was established in Nov'r, 1858. For nearly 20 years previous, the Scotchmen resident in and around Peterborough had ardently desired to embody themselves into a St. Andrew's Society, not, however, with the view, as many have supposed, to propagate feelings of Scotch nationality to the prejudice of others, but to relieve the wants and ameliorate the sufferings of such of their fellow-countrymen and their descendants as might at any time in the depauperating of Dame Fortune have fallen into a state of suffering and indigence. Many attempts had consequently been made to organize such a society, but owing to sundry unpropitious causes they all signally failed, and one after another fell to the ground. The last of a series of attempts was made in A. D. 1854, but it shared no better fate than its predecessors, after which the whole scheme was abandoned as abortive, and laid on the shelf, to the hopeless disappointment of those who had so strenuously exerted themselves in its behalf. For fourteen years after the St. Andrew's Society question remained a dead letter, nor was it again agitated till about the middle of November, 1858, when on the near approach of the anniversary of Scotland's patron Saints' (Andrew's) day, a few Scottish youth who had recently emigrated from Scotland, became so deeply impressed with thoughts of their island home in the far east, that they determined on commemorating the evening of this ever memorable day by assembling along with as many of their fellow-countrymen as they could muster, around the festive board, and then for one night in the three hundred and sixty-five divest themselves of all business cares anxieties while they should fly back in imagination to those scenes of happy reminiscences, to the fertile vales, the heath and mountains, the many knolls and heathery cliffs of their dear native land, and say within themselves in the words of one of their country's greatest poets,—

"Oh, Caledonia stern and wild,
"Meet nurse for a poetic child,
"Land of brown heather and shaggy wood,
"Land of mist reared in the wintry flood
"Shall o'er mute the filial bend
"That knits me to thy rugged strand!"

With these impressions those Scottish youth proceeded at once, at the first whisper of this impulsive suggestion, to take steps towards arriving at the accomplishment of their hearts desire, namely, the establishment in prospective. They accordingly went from house to house among their Scotch friends and acquaintance, acquainting them with the fact that several Scotchmen residing in Peterborough had suggested the idea of getting up an entertainment on the 30th instant, (November) in celebration of St. Andrew's day, and invited them to take a part with them in getting it up, also to attend at a meeting which was to be held at a certain hour in McGregor's American hotel. In this way most of the Scotchmen in Peterborough were made aware that such a lovee was in contemplation. The appointed hour for uniting at the American Hotel arrived, and the number of Scotchmen who presented themselves there augured well for the success of the matter at issue, and much more so on account of their almost to a man approving of it, and promising each to contribute what he could towards enlivening the evening in question. When the nature of the entertainment, etc., has been fully discussed, and the company were almost relapsing into silence, a few of the native of Peterborough, who had often twenty years before wished to see a St. Andrew's Society established in Peterborough, thought that although they had met with so little encouragement in their former attempts to organize a St. Andrew's society, they would make one attempt more. One of them accordingly stood up and showed the advantage it would be to have such a Society established amongst us, and also portrayed in the most vivid colors the miseries which would be averted had been witnessed, or half of which, might, if not wholly avoided, at least in a very great measure have been ameliorated, had a St. Andrew's Society then existed. He therefore suggested that now there being so many Scotchmen together they ought at once to form themselves into a St. Andrew's Society, and also observed how much the pleasure of the evening would be enhanced by all being constituted into a society. A suggestion much to the approbation of the gallery meeting, when they at once proceeded to appoint a Chairman and pass resolutions relative to the Society.

At an adjourned meeting which was shortly afterwards held (November 30, 1858) the following resolutions were moved and carried unanimously and so perfected the organization:—

Moved by A. MILTAY, and seconded by J. HAGGART.—That this meeting do now resolve itself into a St. Andrew's Society, and that this Society be termed the County of Peterborough St. Andrew's Society.

Moved by WM. AIKEN, seconded by J. McNABB.—That John HARVEY, Esq., be appointed President.

Moved by J. ROBERTSON, seconded by—Stothart.—That the following gentlemen be appointed of the Vice-Presidents and Executive Committee of the County of Peterborough St. Andrew's Society, viz:—Vice-Presidents: Wm. Hamilton, Gore; Jas. Millar, Ozonabee; Thomas McGrouse, 2nd Vice-President: Wm. Scott, sen., 3rd Vice-President: Wm. Aikens; Executive Committee: Hall, McMabb, and Harvey, D. Robertson, Wm. Arnot, John Haggart, William Cummings, Jas. Bryce, Cavan, Geo. Cowell, Otonabee; Jas. Hall, Smith; Jas. Stothart, Jas. Gibson, Jas. Gibson, Jr., Otonabee; W. Tully, Monaghan; John Hickson, Jas. Fowler, Douro; Jas. Anderson, Dummer; Thomas Bowyer, Asphodel; Wm. Arnot was elected Treasurer and John Haggart, Secretary.—Review.

It is the intention of the manager of the bank to destroy the plate and the remaining bills of the issue stolen, and to order an entirely different plate to be engraved for a new issue. All persons are cautioned against receiving any bills of this bank until the official notice of the bank has been published to that effect for four months previous to their circulation, according to law.

DEATH OF A CARDINAL.

A despatch from Rome, on Monday, announced the death of Cardinal Antonelli, the great Italian prelate and statesman, and chief adviser of Pope Pius IX. Cardinal Antonelli, we learn, was born in 1806, at Sonnino, and educated at the great seminary of Rome. Having early distinguished himself by his ability he was raised to the prelacy after taking orders, and appointed, by Gregory XVI, to various civil officers, attaining in 1845 the position of Minister of Finance. After the accession of Pius IX. he was made Cardinal, and in 1848, by favor of the popular party, became Prime Minister. Though he continued the Pope's chief advisor, he was afterwards deposed from the Premiership. He accompanied the Pope to Gaeta, and conducted the negotiations which resulted in the Pope's return to Rome in 1850 under protection of the French army. In 1870, while the French evacuated Rome, Antonelli appeared to various foreign powers for assistance, and was a strong opponent of the success of Victor Emanuel, who made his formal entry into Rome in December, 1871. In recent years his occupation has chiefly been the management of the temporal affairs of the Papacy, as Secretary of State to the Pope, President of the Council of Ministers, &c., his business not being so much that of diplomatist as a banker. He is reported to have been by far the wealthiest of Catholic ecclesiastics, his fortune being estimated at some 90,000,000 francs, while his collections of precious stones, work of art, and other articles of vertu, are probly unrivalled.

—ELECTRICITY—

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectrical Oil, Read the following be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Medford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and link it is equally, as good for horse as for man."—A. Mayhew, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Ruenan, township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three o four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which annoyed me very much. Mr Maybee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured It is a most remarkable medicine.

USEFUL RECIPES.

FAMILY MATTERS.—A good simple furniture polish consists of a little Castile soap scraped into a pint of warm water. Add three tablespoonfuls of sweet oil; heat and apply while hot.

LAVENDER WATER.—Best English lavender, four drachms; oil of cloves, half a drachm; musk, five grains; best spirits of wine, six ounces; water, one ounce. Mix the oil of lavender with a little spirits first, then add the other ingredients, and let it stand, being kept well-corked for at least two months before it is used, shaking it frequently.

BURNT COFFEE AS A DISINFECTANT.—In the case of bad odors in a dwelling-house they are few things more efficacious and none more readily applied than burnt coffee. An ounce of coarsely ground, previously roasted coffee on a pan of hot coals gives off a pleasant, penetrating odor, which will remain for a long time when the windows are opened.

PACKING EGGS FOR WINTER USE.—Strong lime water is the best of anything, but in the absence of lime many pack their eggs in small end down in common salt. Some grease the shells with melted lard and pack in bran. A very good way, too, is to fill a colander full of eggs and pour over them a teakettleful boiling water then, when cool, pack in salt. The hot water slightly cooks the outside of the egg, making it air-tight. This is a favorite way with many housekeepers.

HOW TO COOK CORNED BEEF.—The Boston Journal of Chemistry says; Don't boil it, for corned beef should never be boiled. It should only simmer, being placed on a part of the range or stove where this process may go on uninterruptedly from four to six hours, according to the size of the piece. If it is to be served, let the meat remain in the liquor until cold. Though meat can be made tender by letting it remain in the liquor until the next day, and then bring it to the boiling point just before serving.

TO KEEP BUTTER SWEET.—A friend assures us that his wife always keeps butter sweet or removes rancid taste and odor from it by means of charcoal packed in the vessel with it. She cuts smooth sticks of charcoal, and, after washing the dust from them shoves them through the butter perpendicularly, allowing them to remain in the vessel until the butter is consumed. Fresh butter will never become rancid if thus packed, while rancid butter will soon become as sweet as ever. This may be a valuable hint to those who make butter to sell.

The following compound is said greatly to facilitate the washing of clothes: Dissolve 2 lbs. of bar soap in about 3 gallons of water as hot as the hand can bear. Add 1 tablespoonful of turpentine, and 3 of liquid ammonia. Stir, and steep the clothes in this for three hours keeping the vessel tightly covered. Then wash the clothes in the usual way. The soap and water may be used a second time. In which case a teaspoonful of turpentine and the same amount of ammonia must be added. This treatment is calculated to save much labor in cleansing summer clothes stained by fruit, etc.

HOGS NEED SULPHUR.—Whether hogs require sulphur as an essential to health, or whether it is sought by them as a condiment, may not be discovered. But one thing is true, they devour it with greed whenever it is to be found. It is for this purpose probable that they can eat large quantities of soft coal, which contains a large amount of sulphur. Perhaps this is the most economical method supplying hogs sulphur during winter, when they require a good deal carbon. But in summer it is best to feed in to them in substances which contain less carbon on account of their producing less heat. Mustard is one of the best things for this purpose, and some of it should be sown in every pasture into which hogs are turned. If hogs are kept in, or are in small yards, it is well to supply them with the wild mustard that grows in the fields or highways, or to cultivate some of the better varieties for them. They will eat its leaves, its flowers, seeds, and stalks.—Home Fournal.

HOW TO CURE A COLD.—The moment a man is assailed he has taken cold let him do three things: First eat nothing; second go to bed, covered up in a warm room, third, drink as much cold water as he can, or as he wants, as much herb tea as he can, and in three cases out of four he will be well in thirty six hours. To neglect a cold for forty-eight hours after the cough commences is to place himself beyond cure until the cold has run its course of about a fortnight. Warmth and abstinence are safe and certain cures when applied early. Warmth keeps the pores of the skin open, and relieves it of the surplus which oppresses it, while abstinence cuts off the supply of material for phlegm which would otherwise be coughed up.—Exchange.

Why do not farmers erect windwikks on their premises? They may often be used to great advantage in a variety of purposes such as pumping water, sawing logs, cutting chaff, shining roots bruising and grinding corn, etc. They eat nothing and would save a deal horse and manual labor, when neat would be very acceptable to man and beast. There is true economy in this, and it would be worth not only thinking about but doing.

VERY SENSIBLE.—Horse dealers who are supposed to know what affect their interest, purchase "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" by the dozen, and feed it to their horses for the purpose of improving their condition, which it always does—others shortsighted people by their opposite—Remember the name, and see that the signature of Heid and Co. is on each package. MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS, Chemist, St John N. B.

Dear Sir: Having used your wonderful preparation of Hypophosphites, which was recommended to me by Mr. Blagdon, Apothecary Rockland, I am truly surprised with its wonderful effects, because for several years my health has been declining, notwithstanding every means possible, which offered encouragement, was used by me. Several alarming symptoms appeared, amongst which dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, impoverished blood, and great prostration. Since January, when I began the use of your Syrup, my health has steadily and amazingly improved, so that now it gives me great pleasure to recommend it to others, and in this way to show my gratitude for return of health. To all who require a remedy for debility, I would say they will find your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites just what you say it is, I believe it is the best preparation in use.

I am, etc., &c.,

ELEASTER CRABTREE, J. P.,

Letter from Rev. J. S. Sinnes, M. D.

Chipman, Queens County, N. B.

Mr. James I. Fellows.

Sir: In the practice of medicine I have recommended your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and have found invariable the following results:

Greater freedom in the action of the lungs, increased and more easy expectoration in cases indicated by dry cough, and desired augmentation of tone to the whole nervous system.

I can safely and confidently recommend your invaluable preparation in a variety of cases, especially for Chest diseases, having successfully prescribed it in Bronchitis, Asthma, Debility from Liver Complaint, Debility from Fevers, and debility from impoverished Blood.

I am, sir, yours truly, JAMES SALMON, Practising Physician and Surgeon.

Good Food and Plenty of it, produces the same effect upon a person who has been starved that the Peruvian Syrup, an Iron Tonic, does upon the weak and debilitated it makes them strong and vigorous, changing wretched and suffering into strength and health.

SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

Cures all Nervous Disorders, such as Tremors, Debility, Prostration, etc., which, in many cases, are produced by over indulgence in the use of tobacco and alcholic spirits; but the Special Medicine is more especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to every one.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money, by addressing

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM.

Trade Mark Registered.

PRICE 25 CTS

Every one has heard of the wonderful effects of the Spruces and the Pines in cases of Lung Disease. The Rev. Mr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, lately published, relates the case of a consumptive young man who was entirely cured by a three months camping out among the pines. In France the physicians regularly send their consumptive patients to the pine woods and order them to drink a tea made from the spruce tops.

GRAY'S SYRUP is a scientific combination of the gum which exudes from the Red Spruce tree. In this preparation the gum never separates, and all its antispasmodic expectorant, tonic and balsamic properties are preserved.

For Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Throat Affections, &c., it acts like a charm.

One of the Testimonials!

From Dr DUNCAN MCCALLUM, Montreal—

I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owe this disagreement to the public, in the profession and to the merits of that genuine article

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL. 1876.
Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumphs over the world. The Centennial Committee have officially announced the awards, and declared for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and Medal for Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. The crown of merit therefore now rests upon the Wheeler & Wilson machine, a machine which in 1872 received in 1873, and at Paris in 1867. Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and thoroughly discriminating test, the Judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one standard and diploma. Accordingly

[Here follows Official Report.]

AWARDED TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

"A Look-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the following points, viz.:—Simplicity of originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work, lightness of motion, beauty of stitch, ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display.

GOING DOWN THE HILL.

RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED TO THE BRETHREN OF THE I. O. O. F.

BY A. H. WINGFIELD.

Life! what is it! Full of changes—there is nothing is sure—
And the man who may be rich to-day, to-morrow may be poor:
But, amid life's giddy whirl, it should be our duty still
To give help to one another when we're going down the hill.

O! then, brothers, when you meet one who is sinking in distress,
Let your hands and hearts be open—try to make his sorrows less;
And whate'er you have to give to him, oh! give it with a will—
Always help him up a little when he's going down the hill.

If kind Fortune smiles upon you, court her favors while you may—
When her sun is shining brightest is the time to make your hay—
Do not let your hearts get hardened, though your coffers she may fill,
But give help to those who need it when they're going down the hill.

On! then, brothers, when you meet one who is sinking in distress,
Let your hands and hearts be open—try to make his sorrows less;
And whate'er you have to give to him, oh! give it with a will—
Always help him up a little when he's going down the hill.

Cast your bread upon the waters and ere many days are o'er
You'll return to you with blessings wafted back from every shore:
When you meet with honest poverty—as often times you will—
Always help it up a little when it's going down the hill.

Oh! then, brothers, when you meet one who is sinking in distress,
Let your hands and hearts be open—try to make his sorrows less;
And whate'er you have to give to him, oh! give it with a will—
Always help him up a little when he's going down the hill.

EDITORIAL COURTESIES.

—From the "News."

Peterborough is just now excited over the doings of its local newspapers but last week. The Examiner came out on Thursday with the following question:

"Is it true that a certain newspaper in town has been paid for writing up the consummation of James Ryan's death sentence? Dollars do very often mellow the hearts of even scoffers."

Friday's Review expresses surprise and pain on reading the above extract from the EXAMINER, and says:

"Whatever the truth may be, the mere fact of such a charge being made reflects disgrace upon our town and upon the press. Having at heart the interests of both we cannot allow such a serious matter to pass without comment. If there is any foundation for the accusation, a grosser case of venal prostitution of the power of the press could hardly be conceived. A journalist who could take a bribe in such a case would have disgraced himself and in a measure the honorable profession which he belongs, and would forever after be unworthy the slightest credit. On the other hand if such a charge has been brought rashly and without the most trustworthy information, the enormity of the offence would be as great. It is one of those painful cases in which one party or the other must be deeply culpable. It is utterly impossible that there can be any satisfactory explanation on both sides. Even in behalf of public morality, and on behalf of the honor of the press, we call for such information as will show on whose head rests the blame of this discreditable affair should it exist."

While the above state of affairs is to be deplored in any community we cannot see where the EXAMINER did wrong in asking the question, providing it had any authentic information on the subject, or if there was an ugly rumour to that effect in circulation. As a preserver of the morals of the country we consider it had a right to ask for information on the subject particularly as the honor of the press is at stake by having any such foul assertion in circulation. The calling of a journalist is a high and honorable one and each separate member should constitute himself a guardian over his fellow's conduct, and where one goes astray he should be expostulated with and if possible be brought back into the flock, but if guilty of such a charge as above quoted he should not be allowed to defile his calling one instant longer. Journalists are all liable to err, yet we cannot conceive that our friend of the EXAMINER would so degrade his position as to make such an assertion without having some ground to work upon. The Times of Saturday is virtuously indignant that such a query should be propounded, and says:

"The organ of corruption and impotence asks 'Is it true that a certain newspaper in town got paid for working up the commission of James Ryan's death sentence?' The TIMES was the only journal in town which had the courage to express some humanity to advocate the only Christian spirit which should be exercised to the vilest criminals, and escaped strongly called for in the case of Ryan. Although we think the assassin of character is often worse than the slayer of the body, we would, even on behalf of the latter, unconditionally urge the same humanity. Whether we succeed to the Village of Warsaw and as they adjoin one another [illegible] one steading for the farm. The soil is of best quality for raising wheat. On the two lots there are 165 acres cleared, balance good hardwood timber for firewood.

EDITORIAL COURTESIES.

—From the "News."

Peterborough is just now excited over the doings of its local newspapers but last week. The Examiner came out on Thursday with the following question:

"Is it true that a certain newspaper in town has been paid for writing up the consummation of James Ryan's death sentence? Dollars do very often mellow the hearts of even scoffers."

Friday's Review expresses surprise and pain on reading the above extract from the EXAMINER, and says:

"Whatever the truth may be, the mere fact of such a charge being made reflects disgrace upon our town and upon the press. Having at heart the interests of both we cannot allow such a serious matter to pass without comment. If there is any foundation for the accusation, a grosser case of venal prostitution of the power of the press could hardly be conceived. A journalist who could take a bribe in such a case would have disgraced himself and in a measure the honorable profession which he belongs, and would forever after be unworthy the slightest credit. On the other hand if such a charge has been brought rashly and without the most trustworthy information, the enormity of the offence would be as great. It is one of those painful cases in which one party or the other must be deeply culpable. It is utterly impossible that there can be any satisfactory explanation on both sides. Even in behalf of public morality, and on behalf of the honor of the press, we call for such information as will show on whose head rests the blame of this discreditable affair should it exist."

While the above state of affairs is to be deplored in any community we cannot see where the EXAMINER did wrong in asking the question, providing it had any authentic information on the subject, or if there was an ugly rumour to that effect in circulation. As a preserver of the morals of the country we consider it had a right to ask for information on the subject particularly as the honor of the press is at stake by having any such foul assertion in circulation. The calling of a journalist is a high and honorable one and each separate member should constitute himself a guardian over his fellow's conduct, and where one goes astray he should be expostulated with and if possible be brought back into the flock, but if guilty of such a charge as above quoted he should not be allowed to defile his calling one instant longer. Journalists are all liable to err, yet we cannot conceive that our friend of the EXAMINER would so degrade his position as to make such an assertion without having some ground to work upon. The Times of Saturday is virtuously indignant that such a query should be propounded, and says:

"The organ of corruption and impotence asks 'Is it true that a certain newspaper in town got paid for working up the commission of James Ryan's death sentence?' The TIMES was the only journal in town which had the courage to express some humanity to advocate the only Christian spirit which should be exercised to the vilest criminals, and escaped strongly called for in the case of Ryan. Although we think the assassin of character is often worse than the slayer of the body, we would, even on behalf of the latter, unconditionally urge the same humanity. Whether we succeed or not in bringing into consideration the [illegible] of the penalty. As to the vile insinuation he makes, but does not affirm, we have this to say, that any person who says that either the editor of this paper, or the proprietors, or any one connected with us

CANADAS COMMERCIAL GROWTH

The holding of the World's Fair this year in the United States has been of immense benefit to Canada. The proximity of the Exposition to her borders has enabled her to exhibit largely and advantageously of her products and industries, and to disseminate to the world a vast amount of information regarding her resources and institutions, which could not have been so well given in any other way. The place taken by her exhibits in point of extent was only second to that of the country in which the Exposition was held, and she was also a warm rival to that enterprising nation in the excellence and utility of the productions, manufactures etc., laid by both peoples before the most enlightened minds of the civilized world, for their inspection and criticism—their approval or disapproval. She has certainly reason to be proud of the high honors she has won in a competition so wide, and the many laurels with which she comes crowned from a test so dispassionately severe. Among the nations of the earth this colony of Britain, hitherto comparatively unknown, even in the mother-land, now takes her proper position as a peer with the foremost in all those things which go to prove the existence of a prosperous and progressive people. That such is the case Canadians have great reason to congratulate themselves; for in spite of all their efforts for years past they have been unable to overcome the depressing power of prejudice, which tended to disparage them and their country in the understandings of distant communities, including those bearing the closest political relations to them. Now that with one bound she has overleaped this barrier, we may hope to see our New Dominion speedily attain a standing and connection in the commercial world more in accordance with her deserts.

Already there are evidences of good results springing from an increased knowledge of Canada and Canadians. The exportation of live stock alone to Britain has attained such proportions as to make it a distinctive feature in the trade of the country, and though this cannot be directly traceable to the Philadelphia Exposition, it assuredly received a vigorous impulse from the admirable display of Canadian cattle and horses at the Centennial show. There is not a Canadian living who does not feel that the trade of the Dominion must under any circumstances expand to proportions enormous in comparison with its present limits; and that had the World's Fair never been held on this continent the course of her commercial conquest would eventually be the same. This will not be gainsayed; but neither can it be denied that every branch of her trade must be—indeed has been—very largely benefitted by the familiarity with which it has brought before the mercantile minds of Europe and America—and even Asia and the isles of the sea. The objects that it might have required years to attain have been brought at once within reach; the obstacles that the work of a century might not have broken down have been surmounted in a few months; and though there is yet much to be done in following up the advantages so fortunately secured, the darkness has been dispelled, and the path made plain.

The direct benefits to Canada of the Centennial Exhibition of the Americans are seen in the orders for many of her manufactures from a number of countries with which has had little or no commercial communication, as well as in several invitations that she shall open up trade in several directions toward which her people have only looked for marts in the indefinite future. Prominent in this particular is the Island of Jamaica, in the chief city of which a public meeting composed of the leading merchants was held last month to consider the question of direct trade with the Dominion. The speeches delivered and the feeling of the meeting, as well as the popular sentiment reflected through the press of the island, show that the Jamaicans are in earnest in the matter. They perceive in their political relations to Canada and in her productions enough to warrant them in striving to secure with her close bonds of commercial intimacy. They want what Canada is prepared to give them, such as cotton and woollen goods, grain, flour, oil, lard, provisions, prepared lumber, boots and shoes, etc., etc., are in a position to supply in return sugar for her refineries, at rates more favorable than those at which they are now imported here at second-hand, while our exports by going direct will escape the foreign imports now paid, and which come out of the pockets of the receivers and eventually the consumers in Jamaica. Such a trade once fairly opened cannot but extend to the West India Islands generally, and as our resources expand to South America. The proposition to subsidize a regular line of steamers between the two countries will no doubt receive that attention from both governments to which the importance results to be gained fairly entitle it.

Trade with Australia is another subject which has received much notice of late in Canada, attention having been first drawn to it by the Australian Commissioners to the Centennial, who were, like all others, very favourably impressed with the Canadian exhibits there. So enthusiastic were they that they visited the Dominion to urge the idea upon the minds of our people, and the result has been the sending of two cargoes of Canadian commodities, one from Montreal, the other from New York, to the Australian Exposition to be held in Melbourne, in May next. It must be confessed that there are peculiar difficulties in the way of the realization of this scheme, outside even of the distance between the two countries. The most convenient port on this continent from which to ship to Australia is San Francisco, and yet the exports to that country from the United States fell from $5,102,253, in 1867 to $2,505,436 in 1875, while the total trade of the Dominion with Australia last year was but $131,872, chiefly from British Columbia. The Australian trade is held by Great Britain, and she is not likely to resign it easily; but let us not dispel all hopes that Canada may not become a formidable rival for the carrying trade to those distant regions, especially for her own products, instead of sending them to Britain for future distribution. At least she will be able with some display of that energy inherited from the mother-land and strengthened by further cultivation in a favourable climate, to extend her present trade with the sister colonies of the Southern Sea; and though it may never attain to national proportions, it will not be because the Australians do not want our wares, but rather because they cannot in exchange give us what we do not ourselves produce or purchase more advantageously elsewhere. Despite the difficulties the Australian representatives at present in America, feel sanguine in regard to the result; and though we cannot enter into the idea with equal enthusiasm, we sincerely hope their largest longings in this connection may be fully realized.

How the President of the United States is Elected.

Like our own country the United States boasts of "popular representation;" but this phrase, which carries with it such an idea of the people's rights as to be almost a synonym for "Liberty," cannot be properly applied to the mode adopted by our Republican neighbors for the election of a President every four years. With us the voice of the majority in every separate case decides the election: In the election of a President of the United States, "the majority rules" only in theory; for practically the person who receives the larger popular vote may be rejected, and he whom a less number of the citizens of the Union had preferred be placed in the Presidential chair. Each State sends two members to the Senate, and the number of its representations in Congress is in proportion to its population; beside which it is entitled to as many votes in the Electoral College as it has members in both Senate and Congress. Thus, a State which sends but one representative to Congress is entitled to three Electoral votes for the Presidency, while a State with three Congressmen has five; one with six, eight; and one with thirty-three, thirty-five votes in the Electoral College. From this it will be readily seen that the Electoral College is far from being chosen on the basis of population, as it largely favours the smaller states.

The original idea in the formation of the Electoral College was to do away with the strong popular excitement of a direct vote for the Presidency, by giving the decision into the hands of men in whom the people had expressed their confidence; but since the primitive times of a century ago the electors, by which we mean the members of the Electoral College, have lost all chance to exercise their own discretion in the matter, and have simply become so many units in computing the course of their party. Their business is simply to register in favour of a party candidate chosen by a council held months before they themselves are chosen. The whole representation of a state is thus thrown on one side or the other, and the election of one party ticket in several of the larger states by even very narrow majorities will practically decide who shall be President in the face of the contrary decision of all the other states, by majorities never so large. For instance there is a possibility that the States of New York, 35 votes; Pennsylvania, 29; Ohio, 22; Illinois, 21; Indiana, 15; Missouri, 15; Massachusetts, 13; Kentucky, 12; Tennessee, 12; and either Michigan, Iowa, Virginia or Georgia, being carried by one party would give that party a majority in the Electoral College; and tho' these ten states might be carried by single votes, and all the others have majorities of thousands the other way, the party controlling the vote in these would elect a President by ten or a dozen individual votes for thirty-eight States and four millions of people. This is of course supposing the most extreme case; but the result of the election is generally easily arrived at by the decision of a number of states without any regard to the others—such a vote as that lately given being altogether unprecedented.

The electors are required to meet in their several states and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, to make lists of these votes, sign and certify these lists and transmit them to the President of the Senate. This officer in the presence of the Senate and the House of Representatives opens all the certificates and the votes are then and there counted. If in this enumeration no one candidate is found to have a majority of the votes Electoral College, the election is made by the House of Representatives between the three persons having the highest number. In such a case the votes are taken by states, and a majority of all the states is necessary to an election. In 1824 a majority of states chose a candidate (Adams,) who had a smaller number of electoral votes than his opponent, Jackson; and in 1800 the ballot was passed thirty-six times before any candidate could procure an absolute majority.

CENTRAL PRISON DISCIPLINE.

Some time ago complaints were made concerning the internal management of the Central Prison at Toronto. As they were made by discharged officials and prisoners it was proper that they should have been taken with considerable reservation; with their persistent repetition with all the force of circumstantiality gave token that there must be some foundation for them, and led at last to government investigation, the result of which is given in a report of the inquiry published by the Provincial Secretary, Hon. S. C. Wood. The intention of the Central Prison is that it shall be an institution wherein the prisoners are made to experience the force of the phrase in their sentences, "with hard labour," and it is easy to understand that there is a vast difference between its management and that of the common county gaols, in which prisoners lead an easy and comparatively luxurious life. When it is considered that the large number confined in the Central Prison—nearly three hundred and fifty—is drawn from the most hardened criminal class, and that they have been brought there chiefly through an innate disinclination to labour, it can readily be imagined that they will use every pretext to escape that which they most cordially hate—work. To guard against the scheming of the convicts to shirk the labour of the prison is one of the most important considerations, —little less than that which ensures their safety. It requires the active co-operation of all the officials; and the want of this united action is probably the cause of the difficulties that have arisen in the Toronto institution. The Warden it appears, whether through undue confidence in his subordinates, natural indolence, or greater incapacity, left to the acting chief guard more of the responsibility than was either just or safe to entrust to that officer. This guard, against whom the complaints are directly made, is called Stedman, and is described by the Superintendant of the Albany Penitentiary, where he spent some time learning prison duties, in those words:—"I do not think I have ever met a man (not brought up to the business) who possesses so many of the qualities necessary to the proper discharge of the duties of a Deputy Warden." From this it may be readily inferred that the natural disposition of the man was not such as to be safely left to itself in the discipline of prisoners, and thus develope those peculiar qualities to the full without restraint. Is there any wonder that it has been found that Mr. Stedman, though in many respects a good officer, has been unnecessarily severe in the treatment of prisoners? The Warden is partially to blame. While Mr. Stedman exceeded his duty, Captain Prince neglected his; and what the one did not do led to the overdoing of the other. The direct charge of severity being established against the over-zealous subordinate has brought his resignation; but the subjunctive declarations of neglect of duty on the part of the Warden may not weak his less active nature to the taking of a similar step. This is matter for regret to most people; for those who express sorrow at Stedman's withdrawl are just about as numerous as those who evince satisfaction at Prince's continuance. The latter may be said to now hold his office under sufferance, simply because he can be convicted of no wrong official act. It is to be hoped the present lesson will not be lost upon him, and that he will now attend to his duties as one who has been given another chance. If not, then his dismissal must be the result.

While we do not hesitate to speak plainly and impartially on this, as on any other subject, where we can do so with undoubted evidence before us, and are ready to commend free discussion of public topics by every one, we must hold that such discussion should be also fair. The conduct of many of our Conservative contemporaries while this Central Prison investigation was pending was far from commendable. With an evident desire to give it some political significance, they attempted to attach blame to the government for any and all of the sensational tales of barbarity to prisoners with which they horrified their readers—accounts of cruelties that never had an existence, except in the fertile brain of an imaginative manufacturer of merchantable matter for an evening paper. What the conductors of these journals thought when they learned from the Mail of Friday that these stories "owe their origin to the malice or greed of a few men who, for purposes of their own, have banded together with a view to visiting from that institution its two chief officers," we leave to the imagination of our readers; but now that the government has done its duty in the matter as far as the evidence advanced permits, these second hand sensation mongers should feel heartily ashamed of themselves. Let us hope that they will take to heart the quiet rebuke thus given them by the chief organ of their party; and that their lesson, too, will not prove unproductive of good results. Like Stedman, they have been over-zealous.

ELECTION OF MR. MILLS.

The result of the election in Bothwell will surprise no one. It was a foregone conclusion from the first. The Minister of the Interior went to his constituents without any change in the character of his candidature, save the portfolio conferred upon him. They had elected him before holding the self-same views on the question of Free Trade against Protection that he now holds, and nothing had occurred among them since that pledge of confidence to lead to the supposition that they had in any degree changed their views regarding him and his ideas. Yet we are told that the opposition to the re-election of the new Minister—in contradiction of Tory traditions—was prompted by a desire to allow of a condemnation of Mr. Mills' Free Trade doctrines. This was the excuse of all the Opposition papers throughout the country that felt bound to make an excuse for the forcing of a contest in Bothwell. For all that it is far more likely that the reason given by the EXAMINER was the correct one, viz:—a hope that Mr. Mills' majority over the unfortunate Dobbyn might be reduced, and thus afford a chance to revive the cry of "Conservative reaction," so effectually silenced by the late elections in Wellington and Beauce. However, we are willing to concede to the Tories their own construction of the case, if they will but abide by the result of it. Their opposition to the new Minister being based on the question of Free Trade and Protection, they must now accept the defeat of their protectionist champion as a condemnation of the principles in support of which we went into the fight. Their standard of battle has been taken in a contest forced by themselves; what they vaunted as their invincible banner has been trailed in the dust of defeat. They can now have no excuse outside a change of sentiment that their newly adopted principle of Protection has no charms, at least for Bothwell, where they hoped surely from it to derive confidence that the plea they put forth for the opposition to Mr. Mills was a false one.

Mr. Mills' majority over Mr. Dobbyn at the last general election was 693, in the present case it is 200 over Mr. Dawson. Where is the Conservative reaction in this? This result, combined with its fact that the then Conservative candidate was crazy, made it probable that with a comparatively sane opponent, of some local influence, this majority might be reduced. This probability has not been verified to the extent anticipated. The difference between the present majority, 307, and the former over 693—not much of a contrast certainly between a sane and insane candidate in the Conservative interest—allowing for extra exertions put forth shows that the Tory electors will just as soon vote for a silly as a sane man so long as he is the Party candidate. So far from this election showing a reaction in favor of the Conservative cause, it rather displays a further withdrawl of confidence from it.

The Tories are welcome to whatever crumbs of comfort they can draw from the figures; and while they are enjoying them they might look about for another man of unsound mind on whom to base a "reaction."

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The Port Hope TIMES, which may be considered the organ of the Midland Railway, in a late issue, had some remarks in reference to the circular issued by Mr. T. C. Wallbridge, to the London bondholders, in which the bona fides of Mr. Wallbridge are impeached because he is no longer the the Canadian Agent of the Trustees. He is also accused of drunkenness—a grave fault certainly in any man—but its being a true bill would not disprove the assertions of the man, some at least of which are known to be correct. More to the point is a letter from the London Times from Messrs. John O. Sartee, Trustee for the first mortgage bondholders, and Ed. J. Halsey, London Agent of the company, in which they disclaim any connection with the circular and assert that most of the statements in it are calculated to mislead. These men being to a certain extent themselves impeached are not likely to agree with "most of the statements" of Mr. T. C. Wallbridge, whose offer to meet and confer with the persons to whom this circular was addressed had at least a look of good faith about it. That Mr. Halsey and the trustees, along with their present agent in Canada, express themselves satisfied with the way matters are going, does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the bondholders will be satisfied; and now that the question has been raised, they are likely to look a little into the nature of their investment, and examine more minutely than they have hitherto done the chances of a return. There must be some cause for the circular of Mr. Wallbridge; and even if the chief reason for its being issued was a disagreement between him and others, as hinted at, it is hard to believe that he would recklessly make accusations he could not in some measure sustain. Some of his statements are true; and the rest have at least an air of plausibility, and the distrust they are calculated to produce can only be cleared away by a thorough ventilation if the case will stand it; and if not the mere fact of any attempt to stifle investigation will only increase suspicion. Honesty suggests but the one course.

American Monopolists and Emigration to Manitoba.

To the Province of Manitoba, indeed to all the western territory of the Dominion, the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway is rendered the more needful because of the opposition to the development of that region raised by American land companies and their agents. These are interested in diverting the tide of immigration from Manitoba to the North-West to their own lands, and with proverbial Yankee "enterprise" they do not at all scruple at any means whereby they may effect their purpose. They strive to fill the minds of those who may be passing through their territory with the most favorable ideas of the prairies of Iowa, Nebraska and other lands in the hands of speculating companies, and try all imaginable ways to prejudice the intending settler in British territory against that region. Not only on large bodies going to Manitoba do they practice these tactics; as on the Mennonites and Icelanders; but they also waylay smaller parties and individual travellers, and too often succeed in inducing them to give up their first purpose of settling in Manitoba, and become so many units in opening and improving, tracts of country on the American side owned by companies which grow rich by the sale of lands granted them by government. The effect of all this upon Manitoba can be better imagined than described.

Beside the land monopoly drawback, there are the American institutions, that by no means tend to aid the development of the Canadian North West territory. These are the transportation companies, which take good care to hold a monopoly of the carrying trade as long as they can, and during the time they retain it to make the greatest amount out of it in exhorbitant charges. The men who are "inside" of these companies and control have political influence and power, and can do much in preventing any encroachment on their rich field of forced charges and unrestricted usury. By the efforts of those who run the lines of boats by river and stages by land between Minnesota and Manitoba, the projected St. Vincent Extension which was to have connected the railway system of Minnesota with Manitoba has been for three years, and is still, among the things hope for. Then the Northern Pacific Railway holds land for settlement, and is not at all anxious to open up a way into the forty-ninth parallel. Such corporations having almost the whole goods and passenger transportation of Manitoba including the territory stretching to the Rocky mountains, in their own hands, and being interested proximately in promoting the growth in population and power of that section, are enabled to throw many obstacles great and small in the way of that growth. They can play into each others hands to an almost unlimited extent, can hasten the delay and transmission of goods at will, and can charge what price pleases them for such service. For instance it is broadly hinted that Manitoba products shipped some time ago for exhibition at Prescott, but which did not reach there till they were utterly spoiled, were purposely delayed in Minnesota. A like consignment for Ottawa shipped from Winnipeg on the 11th September was more than a month on the way; and it is known that sixteen days after shipment, they had only reached Duluth, where they should have arrived in five or six days at the utmost. It is also known that freight sent through from the east is delayed for weeks, to make room for the more rapid delivery of goods purchased from St Paul merchants, or other friends of the carriers.

These abuses are likely, however, to work their own cure; for they will certainly hasten the construction of the line of Canadian railway between Thunder Bay and Winnipeg, which is already well begun. The carrying trade of Winnipeg and the North-West generally, will then assuredly pass that way, and the St. Paul monopolists will find their occupancy gone. No doubt the St. Vincent extension will then be promptly built; but the combination will find that they have "fitted the goose that laid the golden egg," whereas, had they for the past three years encouraged the traffic to go their way, it would have been rather difficult to have a new route. They will have few to pity them, that their greed has been their ruin.

UNMASKED.

"Scratch a Russian and you will find a Tartar." In the same way if you penetrate the blackness that disguises the "Independent" you will find a Tory.—Reformers are not ashamed to come out before the world in their true character, knowing that the principles they hold will bear the light of day; but we frequently see men making a show of what they are pleased to call "independence," simply because they are ashamed or afraid to acknowledge themselves opposed to Reform, or because they have some ulterior purpose to perform. A few years ago a paper was commenced in this town with loud professions of "independence." It was too pure to be soiled by contact with any political party. It was like a Russian conscript, the Tartar being underneath. Lately this "Independent" must have been scratched, and in its rage and forgetfulness at once cried out in unmistakably Tory language, applying to THE EXAMINER the term, "organ of corruption and extravagance," without doubt referring to the political party and the governments, Dominion and Provincial this journal is pleased to support. No matter how apt the discomfiture, the real feeling of his mind will pop out some time, and so it is with our pseudo "independent," but veritable Tory neighbour.

THE NEW CABINET MINISTERS

The new Minister of the Interior, Hon. David Mills, is of Puritan descent. He is a son of Nathaniel Mills, who left Nova Scotia in 1817. Mr. Mills was born in the township of Orford, County of Kent, on the 18th March, 1831, and is consequently in his forty-sixth year. He is a graduate of Michigan University, and holds the degree of Batchelor of Laws. He was for nine years Superintendent of Schools for the County of Kent; was in 1874 a candidate for a seat in the Council of Public Instruction, to which body he was last year elected a member,, as the representative of the School Inspectors. He was first returned to Parliament in 1867 for his present seat, to which he was re-elected at the two general elections in 1872 and 1874, and again yesterday. In 1872 he was appointed by the Ontario Government on the commission to define the boundary of the Province. He is the author of two pamphlets of a political character, entitled "The Present and Future Political Aspects of Canada," (1769), and "The Blunders of the Dominion Government in Connection with the North West Territory," (1871). Mr. Mills is what is known as an advanced Liberal. He does not, as some Opposition journals have stated, favour separation from Britain; but on the contrary has expressed in his writings the idea that the confederation of the Empire is the best way to make prosperous our political future. He is a man of broad views and good attainments and gives promise of being an excellent execution officer.

Hon. Toussaint Antoine Rodolphe Laflamme, succeeds Hon. Mr. Geoffrion, who, to the regret of all parties, was forced by ill-health to resign, as Minister of Inland Revenue. Mr. Laflamme was born on the 15th May, 1827, in Montreal, his father being a merchant in that city. He was educated at St. Sulpice College, studied law, was called to the Bar of Lower Canada in 1849, and was made a Queen's Counsel in 1863. He has in a professional capacity appeared several times before the judicial committee of the Privy Council in England. He was counsel for the Seigneurs who claimed indemnity in virtue of the Seigneurial Act of 1857-8. He declined a Puisne Judgship in the Supreme Court in 1875. He was one of the founders of the Institut Canadien, of which he was elected President in 1847. He is Professor of the Law and of Real Estate in McGill University, from which institution he received the honary degree of B. C. L. in 1856, and of D. C. L. in 1873. He was one of the earliest members of the Rouge party of Lower Canada; was one of the editors of L'Avenir; and is a member of the executive committee of the Reform Association of the Parti National of Montreal. He was first returned to parliament for Jacques Cartier, his present seat, in 1872, and was re-elected by acclamation at the last general election. He has been a strong supporter of the present government, of which he now becomes a member; and this will account for the abuse the opposition organs are now trying to heap upon his head.

WHAT NEXT!

On Thursday last we received a letter from Messrs. Scott & Edwards on behalf of Messrs. Robertson and Carlisle, of the Times, threatening us with litigation unless we apologize for asking the question, "Is it true that a certain newspaper in town got paid for writing up the commutation of James Ryan's death sentence?" For our own part we cannot see the harm in asking a question that had assumed the shape of "public rumor" and therefore was being discussed on the street corners. But as we did, not know the truthfulness or otherwise of the report we put the question as we did and awaited the denial or acquiescence of the proprietors of that paper. They, the proprietors, have given the rumor a very emphatic denial in their own chaste style, and we accept that denial. If the rumor was untrue, we were not the originators of it; we can still produce our informant, who professes to have it from a genuine source and from a gentleman who would be likely to know all about it. If the party from whom we received our information did not tell us a true story, we regret this, both on his account for deceiving us and on our own account for getting deceived. We would regret exceedingly the publication of a falsehood against any person, and if the rumor is not true we regret publishing it. We asked the question in the interest of journalists, as we felt that journalists should be above suspicion. Last week we published their denial in their own words, and said we knew nothing to the contrary unless what we had been told, and we may add, have been told since. We cannot apologize for originating the story as we did not do so: but if the said publishers will keep confidence we will give the name of the person who first told it. Rather than have a law suit with persons, who, win or lose, would leave us to pay our own costs, we are willing to apologize for our part in it, viz:—for asking the question and therefore regret doing so. If this apology is not full enough we will give a fuller one any time requested to do so.

EASTERN QUESTION.

The Eastern Question is still unsettled. The future of Turkey and the revolted Provinces is being discussed by the Great Powers, and their arbitraments are yet unknown. Turkey may be forced to reform her laws and manners, and the mussulman may be brought to respect the rights of even christians. The end is still uncertain; nor could even Dr. Cumming undertake to speak: He's a Turk. It would therefore be folly to conjecture.

COBOURG.

At the late Cobourg Assizes, James Kirk was charged with having forged the name of his father-in-law, Mr. William Clarke, to a promissory note of $60. It appeared that he had talked with Clarke about purchasing a machine, and that the prisoner induced the note by passing it to a Mr. Sylvester. The evidence for the Crown was most complete there, not being the shadow of a doubt as to the prisoner's guilt. The jury brought in a verdict of Guilty, and on Tuesday sentence was pronounced on him of imprisonment in the Penitentiary for three years.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 23, 1876.

PAID HIS ROUND.—A man styling himself Dr. McCullough, visited Simcoe a couple of weeks ago for the purpose of curing all diseases flesh is heir to. He quietly slipped away, however, and neglected to pay his printer's bill.

FARLEY SOCIAL.—The Methodist Parsonage was crowded on Thursday evening last, on the occasion of a Parlor Social held there for the benefit of the Ladies Aid Society. The evening was pleasantly spent and everything passed off very creditably.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.—There will be a meeting of the Poultry Association in their rooms, over Davidson's bookstore, on Tuesday evening next, at 7.30 o. m. A full attendance is particularly requested, as business of importance will be transacted.

NOVEMBER.—It was Tom Hood who wrote of this month: "No sun, no moon, no warmth, no noon, no warmth, no cheerfulness, no healthful ease, no comfortable feel in any member, no shade, no shine, no butterflies, no bees, no fruits, no flowers, no leaves, no birds.—NOVEMBER!"

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—As already stated in these columns [illegible] will be held on the Friday preceding "Christmas" Day—the latter day falling on Monday—the usual day of nomination. The polling will take place on Monday, first of January, there being no provision to the contrary in the statute.

THE DUNKIN ACT.—The people of Northumberland and Durham held a meeting at Cobourg, on Thursday last, to discuss the question of asking the County Council to submit a By-law under the Dunkin Act to the Ratepayers. The Convention will meet at Port Hope on the 30th instant, with a view to general and united action.

THE WEATHER.—Mr. Vennor has been consulted as to the winter weather and replies: "We will not, at any rate, have a green Christmas and New Year's this year. I expect our winter will shortly come on abruptly, and that we shall have deep snows almost from the outset. I expect a real old-fashioned winter, but I have impressed an favorable to an early spring. But more again."

ADA GRAY.—This Company have been playing with but one exception every evening during the past week, to very fair houses. On Wednesday evening last the Opera House was crowded to witness the play of the "Two Orphans," which was well sustained. They will perform here the balance of the week. The play for this evening is "Louis the Foundling," which is very popular.

THE GRANGERS have something to learn as merchants. A Grange in the neighborhood of Cow Hops, says the [illegible] a quantity of nutmegs so much in excess of their wants that they have ten barrels of that fragrant commodity which they are anxious to be rid of. Probably those not required for Rice Mark Twain's, made of wood. Our Eastern friends [illegible]

CONCERT.—A very pleasant time may be looked for on Wednesday evening next, on the occasion of a Concert to be held in the new School Room Ashburnham, in aid of St. Luke's Church. The programme consists of Vocal and Instrumental music, Reading, Tableaux, etc.—Oysters and Coffee [illegible] the close of the programme at moderate prices. Tickets 25cts., for sale at the Rooms. See Programmes.

THE MAYORALITY.—Mr. Menzies has complied with the request of a large number of ratepayers to become a candidate for the Mayoralty. It is therefore no longer a matter of doubt as to the coming candidates, although several gentlemen have been spoken of he and Mr. Trodden are likely to be the only candidates, and therefore will have the time spent to themselves. Mr. Menzies, if elected will make an efficient Mayor and faithful public servant.

THE DUNKIN BILL FOR THE TOWN AND COUNTY OF PETERBORO.—The friends of total abstinence in this county have called a Convention to meet in this town on Tuesday, Dec. 5th, to take action in the matter of getting a By-law under the Dunkin Act submitted to the ratepayers of the county. It is also in view to ask the Town Council to submit a By-law of the same kind to the ratepayers of the town. After the meeting we will be better prepared to report progress.

MECHANIC'S INSTITUTE.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough Mechanic's Institute, held on Tuesday evening, November 14th, it was resolved that evening classes be opened in the following branches: Mechanical Drawing—teacher, Mr. Trout; Book Keeping—teacher, Mr. Nesbitt; Arithmetic and Algebra—teacher, Mr. A. McFarlane. Members who wish to join any of these classes should send in their names at once to the several teachers, to the Secretary, Wm. Johnston, or to the President, Mr. Robert Robertson, at the library.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—The Annual Sermon to the members of the St. Andrew's Society will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Torrance in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, next Sabbath evening, November 26, at seven o'clock. The public are invited to attend. Roger read an extract from the "Lady of the Lake," and Mr. G. G. Rogers a piece entitled "Old Bess." The following question was then discussed:—"Are Oaths necessary to the due Administration of Justice?" The affirmative was supported by Mr. N. D. Beck and Mr. Edwards, the negative by Mr. Earl and Mr. Johnston. The chairman after summing up the arguments decided in favour of the affirmative. The subject for debate at the next meeting is "Will Great Britain decay as the Nations of old?"

POLICE COURT.—On Thursday last, T. Cavanagh was charged with selling liquor.—Mr. Scott appeared for Defendant, and Mr. Walker for Prosecutor.—Fined $20 and costs.—On the same morning F. Prank was charged with selling liquor on Sunday.—Case dismissed.—Monday morning W. Treanton was charged with a breach of the Building By-law.—Fined $10 and costs.—On the same morning T. Boyle was charged by W. C. May with removing clay from off the street into his lot in the south of the town, and levying Plaintiff's lot.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee of the Town Council.—On Tuesday morning the cases of R. N. Bothy and N. Pomeroy for the selling of liquor on Sunday's were remanded for one week, the parties not making an appearance.

PERSONAL.—We have been requested by Mr. W. Peterson, Jr., to state that it is not his intention to be a candidate for Councillor [illegible] election for Councillor. This is made necessary, as reported as Mr. Peterson has [illegible]

From John Hutchingson, Gravel Inspector, stating that he had inspected Stewart St., lying between Lansdowne and Dublin Streets where Mr. Ritchie petitioned the Council for a sidewalk, and would not advise the laying down of it till the side of the street was filled in, as it would cost about $60, and that the petition of Mrs. O'Brien for the filling of the sidewalk had been complied with so far as the waste from there was put in the ravine, and that the Park St. Bridge had been made passable but required some more stones at each end; and calling the attention of the Council to the insufficient state of the sidewalk at the corner of George and Hunter streets, that it was dangerous for ladies to pass there, and to have your plank for to make up that part of it; he also complained of Mr. Pinkett's yard not on required grade, that it was true that some of the broken stones had been put into his yard, they had been drawn in by the teamsters who were working for the Corporation, and Mr. Pinkett was quite willing to pay for the three load drawn there, which would amount to about $3.75.—Referred to the Streets and Bridge Committee.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening.

All the members present: His Worship the Mayor in the chair.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read over and confirmed.

[illegible]

From L. Dobbin, Secretary of the Fire Brigade, submitting the names of Geo. A. Cox, W. H. Reed, Geo. Mitchell, and John Gibbs, as nominees for Chief and Assistant Engineers.—Referred to the Fire Committee to report.

From Thos. Bradburn, asking leave to his new Hall enough from houses do to prevents company's from coming here.—Referred to the License Committee to report.

From Geo. Millard, requesting the Council of the conditions of the young man McDonald, who had recently lost his leg, which prevents him from doing anything to support himself. He has been from here about six weeks in the Kingston Hospital, and recommending him as a worthy object of charity from the Council.—Received.

From George Monroe, asking for the plank and he would lay the sidewalk himself in front of his new store on Aylmer Street.—Received.

From R. Ball, calling the attention of Council to the state of the culvert on Dublin Street, west of Downey Street, as it had been stopped with rubbish since last spring.—Received.

From R. Kelso, asking to be relieved from the taxes for one of the houses he was assessed for, as he only lived in it a few days after he was assessed, as he had already paid taxes for the house he was living in.—Referred to Finance Committee.

From Mrs. Riordan, asking to be relieved from paying her taxes as in former years, she being unable to pay them.—Received.

In his opinion that Mr Cummings should be compelled to perform a week's extra work without pay. The many stand taken by him is also indicative of the gratitude of his course and the absence of fear of results. No better collector has been in office during the last twenty years in this town, and he has the confidence of every right minded ratepayer, indeed, of every man in town whose good opinion is worth having. In the building of sidewalks etc., he is the servant of the council, but in collecting the taxes he is not, and is much less that of those who are not in the council.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Foreign Office publishes a despatch in which Lord Loftus, British Ambassador to Russia, reports in detail what passed at the audience he had with the Czar on Nov. 2nd. He reported that the Czar said he had sent an ultimatum to the Porte because he feared the discontinuance of the Servian army might be followed by circulation. The Porte had by a series of manoeuvres frustrated attempts at pacification. The present state of things was intolerable, and unless Europe was prepared to act firmly and energetically he would be obliged to act alone. He regretted to see that inveterate suspicion and irrational fear of Russian aggression still existed in England. The Czar read out Lord Loftus that he had no personal enmities given the most solemn assurance that he desired no conquest. He had not the smallest wish or intention to acquire Constantinople. Such acquisition would be a misfortune for Russia. The following are the exact words of that portion of the despatch referring to Constantinople:—"The Czar pledged his sacred word of honour in the most earnest and solemn manner that he had no intention of acquiring Constantinople, and if necessary should force him to occupy a portion of Bulgaria, it would only be provisionally, until the peace and safety of the Christian population were secured. The Czar could not understand, when both countries had a common object, namely, the amelioration of the condition of the Christians, and when he had given every proof that he had no desire for conquest, why there should not be a perfect understanding between England and Russia, based on a policy of peace, which would be equally beneficial to their mutual interests of Europe generally! The Czar said nothing could use more absurd than the intentions attributed to Russia of the future conquest of India, which was a perfect impossibility. He deeply deplored the distrust manifested in England, earnestly requested me to do my utmost to dispel it, and charged me to convey to Her Majesty's Government the solemn assurances he had given it." The despatch also stated, in regard to the rumours that Servia and Roumania demanded that they should be erected into independent kingdoms, that the Czar said that there was no intention of establishing any such kingdoms, and such a course would be folly. The Czar explained that he had permitted officers to go to Servia provided they left the Russian service, in the hope of calming the agitation in Russia.

The foregoing despatch was verified by Prince Gortschakoff before its transmission to Lord Derby, and approved as correctly representing the views expressed by the Czar.

Lord Derby replied instructing Lord Loftus to inform the Czar and Prince Gortschakoff that the Queen and her Government received the Czar's assurance with the greatest satisfaction. The Russian Government having requested the publication of this correspondence, as it contained assurances of a nature to tranquilize public feeling, Lord Derby informs Lord Loftus that he granted this request considering the publication opportune in view of the mobilization of Russian forces and the issue of a loan.

LONDON, Nov 22.—Prince Czartoryski, she acknowledged head of the Polish refugees in France, in a letter to a friend which is published in this morning's "Post" says there is not the slightest foundation for the report of an impending insurrection in Poland. He states that the country is perfectly tranquil, and that the Emigration is less disposed than ever to encourage any insurrectionary movement. (Note—The Emigration to the name of a large body of influential refugees settled in Paris.

The Paris correspondent of the "Times" states that according to positive information from Constantinople the Porte not only appears to be convinced for the necessity for the reforms proposed but is even disposed to offer Europe satisfactory guarantees for their execution.

The "Times" despatch from Pesth says the hopes of the success of the Conference are increasing.

The Vienna correspondent of the "Times" explains the origin of the rumors of mobilisation in Austria and Hungary. He says the Austro-Hungarin Government have issued instructions to the authorities throughout the country informing them how to proceed in the event of mobilisation being ordered. The authorities are enjoined to have the notices ordering mobilization ready for distribution and to have messengers ready to distribute such notices. Upwards of a hundred thousand messengers will be wanted for this business in the capital alone. The railways have also been ordered to furnish returns of the numbers of trucks and waggons available for transport service.

The "Times" Berlin despatch says Austria seems to have determined not to oppose a Russian invasion of Bulgaria, or an English occupation of Constantinople. Austria will probably preserve complete neutrality at the commencement of any war, and will proceed to independent action only very gradually, Her first step, if she precipitates war at all, will be to occupy Bosina.

The Berlin correspondent of the "Times" says:—It is being anticipated in Russia that the domestic loan must soon become a forced loan. The tone of the St. Petersburg Bourse is again falling. Trade is in a perfect state of collapse. Bankruptcies are numerous and deposits are rapidly being withdrawn from the banks.

The Vienna "New Freie Press" reports that the Marquis of Salisbury bears a draft of a clause to be added to the Treaty of Paris, binding the Porte to effect reforms within a certain period, under pain of the intervention of the guaranteeing Powers.

A "Times" despatch from Pesth says the Roumanian Government is preparing everything requisite for calling out the territorial troops and militia, which would increase the Roumanian forces to 100,000.

At the Cobourg Assizes the case of the Queen v. Parnet was heard. The prisoner a boy of eleven, was arraigned on the charge of setting fire to a barn in Cartwright; but, on the testimony of Dr. Clarke and the boy's brother, the jury without leaving their seats, brought in a verdict of Insanity.

—ELECTRICITY—

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these isDr Thomas' Eclectric Oil, Read the following be convinced:—Thos Robinson, Fernham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with diver complaint for several years and have tried different medicine with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally, as good for horse as for man."—A Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rorsan, township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which annoyed me very much. Mr Maybee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured It is a most remarkable medicine.

THE OLD LOG HOUSE.

All alone stands the house
Not a sound of mirth is ever heard now
In the old log house on the hill.

But fondly I think of bygone days,
When with brothers and sisters dear,
Not a happier home, in the country around,
Could be found, either far or near.

But my father builded another home,
And my brothers are quite elder;
And the old log house is deserted now,
And darkened with many a scar.

The rabbit and squirrel play hide-and-seek
With mice o'er the cabin floor;
But they quickly beat a hasty retreat
When the owl dies in at the door.

The "twittering swallow" now builds its nest
On the timbers, young to rear;
And the robin and sparrow have made their home
On the logs for many a day.

The little room, where my brother and I
Oft listened to the weird whip-poor-will
Is open now to the birds and the bees,
And they come here without fear of ill.

The paper still is where I put it,
Over the window, to shut out the light;
For then I could study my lessons o'er,
As we've done a thousand times o'er.

The primroses bloom uncared-for now,
And the "blue-eyed violets" blow;
And the cottage rose, that my mother loved,
Climbs in at the casement low.

As if it would ask, "Where are they all gone
That used once to caress and to love
Us poor flowers, neglected now
In the rank weeds that o'er us rove?"

But the friendly vine, on the old block logs,
Still clings there, loving and true,
As if it would hide the marks of decay
From the passing traveler's view.

Oh, my heart still clings to the dear old home,
And the times of my childhood there!
And I'd rather live o'er those blessed days
Than to dwell in a palace fair.

USEFUL HINTS

DEBT.—Living beyond their income is the ruin of many of my neighbors: they hardly can afford to keep a rabbit, and must needs drive a pony and chaise. I am almost entirely ignorant of the common disease of the times, and many professing Christians have, to their shame and sorrow, caught it. Good cotton and stuff gowns are not good enough nowadays; girls must have silks and satins, and there's a bill at the dressmaker's as long as a winter's night and twice as dismal. Show and style and smartness are my with a man's means, keep the family poor, and the farmers now or the greatest. Prego ary to look as big as bulls and burst themselves A pound a week apes five hundred a year, and comes to the county court. Men burn the candle at both ends, and then say they are unfortunate; why don't they put the saddle on the right horse, and say that they are extravagant. Economy is half the battle of life: it is not so hard to earn money as to spend it well. Hush fredwould never have known want if they had not first known waste. If all poor men's wives knew how to cook, how far a little would go.—John Plowman.

GROCERS AND THE BUTTER QUESTION.—I saw an account of the proceedings of the Manchester, Salford, and District Grocers' Association, on which, as a member I wish to make a few remarks. Butter was the article under discussion, the supply of which is becoming a serious matter both to grocers and the public. I wish to ask through you whether the Committee are taking the right method of dealing with the question. The Committee have done good work, and deserve more support from the trade than they have yet received. But I fear there is a growing disposition amongst some of the members to proceed from the high ground first taken up, to discuss at each meeting how best to evade the law on the adulteration of food. I think the time of the last few meetings might have been far better employed in discussion the best means of attracting a better supply of real butter to the English market than in discussion how to sell safely the rubbish some sell as butterine, some as butter, and some will not sell at all. There are tons of this stuff brought to Manchester weekly, which any grocer knows is not butter, though he does not know what it really is, and of course cannot tell the consequence to his customers c nsuming it, and the supply cannot keep pace with the demand.

I wish to offer a suggestion with a view to increasing our supply of real butter. If the farmers of Canada knew the price that can be got for good butter here, and would supply the requirements of the English markets, they would find that shipping good butter here would pay them better than anything else they raise, and we should in a short time become independent of the manufactured stuff, which, if withdrawn at present from the market, would almost double the price of butter. I find from the Toronto Globe, Aug. 18th, 1876, that butter was quoted, at 15c to 18c per lb., choicest. On the same day her choice foreign butter sold for 1s 4d per lb., and butterine 1s per lb.; since then they have gone up nearly 2d per lb. We now got a small quantity of butter from Canada, but I never tasted any that could be sold for best or even second here. I think this is from want of care or knowledge in curing or packing. If the Canadian farmers made it there study to ship us fine butter, properly packed, they would find a ready market at good prices here. We have only to go back to the American cheese supply. At first the Canadian butter was, it was very inferior, but by studying the market, and improving the making and packing of their cheese, they have succeeded in gaining a high position in the English market, both for quality and quantity. Why cannot the Canadian farmers follow such a profitable example? They are shipping us fine live cattle that fetch high prices. I cannot see why they cannot ship us an abundance of fine butter if they try.

I think if the Grocers' Association here would take the matter up, and put themselves in communication with the farmers' association in Canada, and supply them with information as to the requirements of the English market, they would deserve the thanks of the whole trade, and would show the public that the Association was got up for other ends than to promote picnics, balls, and discussions how to evade the Adulteration of Food Act.

I am, &c.,
GROCER.

Dear Sir: Having used your chemical preparation of Hypophosphites, which was recommended to me by Mr. Blagdon, Apothecary Rockland, I am truly surprised with its wonderful effects, became for several years my health has been declining, notwithstanding every means possible, which offered encouragement, was used by me. Several alarming symptoms appeared, amongst which dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, impoverished blood, and great prostration. Hearing, when I got the two of your Syrup, my health has steadily and amazingly improved, so that now it gives me great pleasure to recommend it to others, and in this way to show my gratitude for return of health. To all who require a remedy for debility, I would say they will find your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites just what you say it is. I believe it is the best preparation in use.

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM.

Trade Mark Registered.

PRICE 25 CTS

Every one has heard of the wonderful effects of the Spruces and the Pines in cases of Lung Disease. The late Mr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, lately published, relates the case of a consumptive young man who was entirely cured by a three months camping out among the pines. In France the physicians regularly send their consumptive patients to the pine woods, and order them to drink a tea made from the spruce tops.

GRAY'S SYRUP is a scientific combination of the gum which exudes from the Red Spruce tree. In this preparation the gum never separates, and all its antispasmodic expectorant, tonic and balsamic properties are preserved.

For Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Throat Affections, &c., it acts like a charm.

One of the Testimonials!

FROM DR DUNCAN MCCALLUM, Montreal—

I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Brunbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and sickness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of that remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of that genuine article

It's Time to go to Bed.

(From the Poughkeepsie Press.)

'Tis strange how pa does act sometimes
When I have got a beau;
He seems to think it just the time
Authority to show.
He never thinks himself once young,
But thinks me old instead;
Then raps upon the floor and shouts,
"It's time to go to bed."

Now all was silent when at last,
His saddened heart to cheer
I said you must not mind papa,
He's getting old and queer.
He sat as still as any post,
And not a word was said;
When lo, another rap and shout—
"It's time to go to bed."

Said poor George—"Silly, I now must go,
And be father go to bed;
He's knocked upon the floor now twice,
He'll next knock on my head."
"But you must come again, dear George,
Remember, pa is old;
If he was young like you and I
I'm sure he would not scold."

But poor George never came again.
The knocking scared him out.
And always when I've got a beau
Pa's got to hang and shout.
But I have got another now,
And Johnny is his name;
'Tis true papa yet bangs and shouts,
But Johnny he is game.

"I think your papa has retired"—
It was no sooner said,
When instantly the rap and shout—
"It's time to go to bed."
I quickly bade dear John good-night,
'Twas my room did go,
And what happened quite soon after
You very soon shall know.

I crept quite silent down the stairs,
While John outside did wait;
I threw my shawl about myself,
And joined him at the gate.
Hours at the gate passed pleasantly
Between dear John and I,
I could not now enumerate,
No not if I should try.

Pa says dear John has common sense
In not staying so late;
But knows not half the sparking done
By us down at the gate.
Dear papa no more rape and shouts
For us to go to bed;
There isn't so much sitting up
Since John and I were wed.

A POPULAR BOOK.

Since the days of the late Artemus Ward there have been many imitations of his peculiar style of writing; but none have gained a popularity equal to "Josiah Allen's wife," author of "My Opinions and Betsey Bobbet's." Incorporated with genuine humor are some capital hints at the follies of the day. The reader cannot lay aside the book without feeling refreshed by a good hearty laugh, and instructed by the opinions of "Josiah Allen's wife." We give below a sample chapter from the book, descriptive of a visit Mrs. Allen and Betsy made to the store of Alexander Stewart, in New York.

ALEXANDER'S STORE.

I had heard it was considerable of a store, but good land! it was bigger than all the shops of Jonesville put together, and 2 or 3 acre lots, and a few meeting houses. But I wouldn't have acted skairt if it had been as big as all Africa. I walked in as cool as a cucumber. We sot down a spell to rest, and looked and looked round a spell. Of all the sights of folks there was a comin' in all the time, and shinin' counters all down as fur as we could see, and slick lookin' fellers behind every one, and lots of boys running round that they called "Cash." I turned and says to Betsy,

"What a large family of boys Mr. Cash's folks have got, and they must some of 'em be twins, they seem to be about of a size."

I was just thinkin' in a pityin' way of their mother, poor Mrs. Cash, and how many pantaloons she would have to put new seats into, in slidin' down hill time, when Betsey says to me,

"Josiah Allen's wife, hadn't you better be purchasing your merchandise I says she. I will set here and rest till you get through, and as dear Tappah remarked, 'study human nature.'" She didn't have no book as I could see to study out of, but I didn't make no remarks, Betsey is a curious critter, anyway, I went up to the first counter—there was a real slick lookin' feller there, and I asked him in a cool tone, "If Mr. Stewart took eggs, and what they was a feetchin' now?"

He said, "Mr. Stewart don't take eggs."

"Well" says I, "What does he give now for butter in the pail?"

He said, "Mr. Stewart don't take butter."

"Well" says I, in a dignified way, "it haint no matter, I only asked to see what they was a feetchin' here. I haint got any with me, for I come on a tower." I then took a little roll out of my pocket, and undone 'em. It was a pair of socks and a pair of striped mittens. And I says to him in a cool, calm way,

"How much is Mr. Stewart a payin' for socks and mittens now." "I know they are kinder out of season now, but there haint no danger but what winter will come, if you only wait long enough."

He said, "We don't take 'em."

I felt disappointed, for I did want Alexander to have 'em, they was knit so good. I was just thinkin' this over, when he spoke up again, and says he, "We don't take no butter of any kind." I didn't know what he meant, but I answered him in a blind way, that it was just as well as if they did, as far as I was concerned, for we hadn't raised any butter that year, it didn't seem to be agreed upon for it," and then I mentioned on—"Hubby Mr. Stewart would take them socks and mittens for his overcoats" says I. "Do you know whether Alexander is well off for socks and mittens or not?"

The clerk said, "He guessed Mr. Stewart wasn't suffering for 'em."

"Well" says I, in a dignified way, you can do as you're a mind to about takin' 'em but they are coloured in a good indigo blue dye, they haint pusley colour, and they are knit on theory, just to I knit Josiah's."

"Who is Josiah?" says the clerk.

Says I, a sort of Wisdy, "He is the husband of Josiah Allen's wife."

I wouldn't say right out that I was Josiah Allen's wife, because I thought them socks and mittens to stand on their own merits, or not at all. I won't tell de have 'em go, just because one of the first winners of the day hain't 'em. Neither won't goin' to fancy on, and 'mean' him to take 'em. I never said anything about his boyish 'em, only mentioned, in a careless way, that "the socks was true."

But he didn't seem to go much back of what I had 'em up, and in a cool way put 'em into my pocket. I then asked to look at the cotton, for I was pretty sure Josiah did not been asked to get a piece, for I somehow pain't to have him "fussy" about my property layin' that part of socks and mittens.

He told anywhere to go to see the calico and I done so. I found a chair behind their counter. I didn't like his looks a heap, he was read a potash thinker. I knew it wasn't going to be for him understand that I was out to my store, but I walked on to the calico counter, and Betsy and I set down and looked over the calico. I found a piece that I liked, and says I, "What do you ask a yard for this calico?"

He said, "Six cents."

Says I, "I will take a yard and 3 quarters of the calico, enough for a honorable apron."

Says he, "We don't sell by retail in this room."

I gave that clerk then a piece of my mind. I asked him how many aprons he supposed Tirzah an' I stood in need of? I asked him if he supposed we was paternity dentures of aprons? And I asked him in a swful sarcastic tone if he had a idee that Josiah and Thomas Jefferson were aprons? Says I, anybody would think you did. Says I, turnin' away awful dignified, "when I comes again, I will when Alexander is in the store himself."

I joined Betsey by the door, and says I, "Less go on at once."

But, says she to me, in a low mysterious voice, "Josiah Allen's wife, do you suppose they would want to let me have a straw coloured silk dress, and take their pay in poetry?"

Says I, "For the land's sake, Betsey, don't try to sell any poetry here. I am worn out. If they won't take any socks and mittens, or good butter and eggs, I know they won't take poetry."

She argued a spell with me, but I stood firm, for I wouldn't let her demean herself for nothin'. And finally I got her to go on.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 30, 1876.

PETERBOROUGH RAILWAY INTERESTS.

Late accounts in the history of railway developement give promise that Peterborough will ere long become an important railway centre. The line already reaching this town has doubtless been of vast benefit to it, and to the surrounding country; but the time has gone by in which any large advantages can be derived from this source. The locality has passed that stage of growth in which any single outlet can very materially aid it; and the people of this district have for some years been made to feel that their commercial prosperity in a large measure depends on competition in routes for the carriage inward and outward of commodities. The road from Cobourg has so far practically failed on account of stringency in money matters for bridging Rice Lake, but a remedy for this will soon be found in the Huron & Quebec, and Grand Junction line from Belleville. The building of the latter road, may be satisfactorily accomplished, and if so will furnish one competing line from this town to the waters of Lake Ontario, and the through line of the Grand Trunk Railway. This line being assured offers an opportunity to Cobourg to still procure railway connection with Peterborough, by diverting their line so as to make connection with the Grand Junction Road near Norwood, thus not only giving the northern portion of their own county the benefit of a railway with an extension, to their iron mining region and the prospect of extension to the lumbering districts further north.

The grandest prospects of Peterboro' do not, however, attach to these lines of communication to ports on Lake Ontario. In the language of the irrepressible Col. Sellars, "these may be all very well as a side speculation," but the prime promoter of this town's prosperity is a through line —rapid transit to the east and to the west through the heart of the Province. It must come, and Peterborough will get it, not simply because she wants it, but from the fact that the requirements of the whole country demand it. The only through line the Province possesses—the Grand Trunk—is totally inadequate to the traffic demands made upon it, which are continually increasing. The suggestion of a double track gives way to the proposition —certainly more likely to benefit the Province—that an independent railway be constructed through the rear townships where at the start the Grand Trunk should have been built. The construction of the projected Huron and Quebec Railway will place Peterborough on the high-road of communication between Western Ontario and the capital of the Dominion, and the connection at Ottawa with the Quebec & Ottawa road now in course of construction will afford a direct route to tide water and the markets of the world. These are advantages of themselves immense; but when we turn for a moment to the consideration of the gain to be got from increased competition and consequent reduction in rates, the acceleration to all industries that always follow increased intercourse, and the probable location of new works in this central location, we may well say, (losing all regard for gyntax in our enthusiasm), "These's millions in it!" It is pleasing therefore to see the scheme, first mooted several years ago, and subsequently strangled by Sir Hugh Allan, revived with a strong tide of popular opinion in its favour.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

After the very vigorous remarks in the Globe called forth by the somewhat extraordinary judicial pronunciation of June last in the Simpson-Wilkinson libel case, it will be remembered that remarks were made concerning the probability of the Bench or failing that the Bar, passing censure on George Brown for what was called by Tory papers an attack upon the Judiciary. The excitement, however, soon cooled down, and for months nothing has been heard of proceedings against the writer of the "Big Push" letter, until the revival of the matter in a peculiar way. It appears that in September a Mr. McNeil, who, we believe, is a Scotch barrister, claiming connection with blue-blooded families in the "Land o' Cakes," wrote several letters to a paper called the Advocate, published at Paisley, Ontario, picturing the offence of the Hon. Mr. Brown against the Court of Queen's Bench in colours intended to present it in terrible enormity to the readers of that paper. A writer on the Globe staff, Mr. William Houston, about this time on his vacation, visited friends in the vicinity of Paisley, and was by repeated solicitations persuaded to employ his pen in writing an answer to the letters of Mr. McNeil, and the result leads to the conviction that he got somewhat the better of his legal aristocratic opponent. Mr. Houston, writing over the nom de plume, "Another Reformer," unfortunately made reference to the case of Simpson v. Wilkinson, hardly judicious in regard to action pending in the courts, but quite natural in a controversial letter written in careless holiday-time and in careless holiday fashion. The Highland pride of the high-born McNeils seems to have been nettled at the audacity of anyone attempting to enter upon a war of wit with him, and instead of valiantly attempting to meet the arguments of his antagonist, descended to a depth of meanness quite unparalleled in the history of cultivated controversy. Even the bluenose of his blood could not raise his nature above the perpetration of a petty revenge. He dropped the controversialist mask for the true characteriet of the pettifogger, and exerting the little, legal love which he possessed, along with it and further assistance from men more learned in the law than himself he succeeded in picking from the letter of "Another Reformer" sundry expressions on which to form an action for contempt of court. He then caused proceedings for contempt to be taken against the proprietor of the paper the columns of which had been, and were still, open to himself as well as "Another Reformer." Mr. Houston hearing of this at once proceeded to save the proprietor from all trouble, anxiety and expense, by promptly acknowledging himself the author of the letter signed "Another Reformer," and assuming the responsibility. In this his conduct is in strong contrast to that of Mr. McNeil. On Friday last Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q. C., in the Court of Queen's Bench at Toronto moved for a rule nisi to commit Mr. Houston for contempt. Chief Justice Harrison, with whom was associated Judge Morrison, took time to consider the matter, and on Saturday delivered judgment. Mr. Houston appeared in Court on Friday and tendered and filed a full and frank apology addressed to the defendant in the Simpson-Wilkinson libel suit, and the Court while adjudging Mr. Houston guilty of contempt decided to accept the apology, and that all further proceedings should be stopped on his paying the costs of the application within two weeks. The judgement made reference to the creditable manner in which Mr. Houston had acted in the matter, and particular mention was made to his courage, which indeed must have been great to decide upon apology to the Ananias of the West Durham News.

While littleness and humor are in this case typified in the separate persons of Mr. McNeil and Mr. Houston, the prominent characters of the piece, there are also other actors in it whose motives should be studied. Immediately upon the conclusion of the judgment on Mr. Houston, a statement was made to the Court by Mr. McCarthy that he had intended and was prepared to move for a similar order in reference to another newspaper, which motion he had deferred from the former day in deference to their Lordships, who had, because this was a comparatively novel application in this country, desired to look into the authorities on the subject. At the request of the Chief Justice this motion was further deferred till Monday, when it was made and proved to be for a rule to commit the Hon. George Brown for contempt. It is evident from the connection Mr. McCarthy wished to make between the two cases, in time as well as in character, that the first was merely a prelude to the other. In spite of the clever manner in which he alluded to the first request of their Lordships for delay it is pretty well understood that there was no general combination of the Bar and Bench to lead up to the second case. Had there been any strong desire to defend the Judiciary it should have been shown long before this. The present proceedings against Mr. Brown cannot be construed into an indignant protest. They are only taken by legal minds of no mean order, and whatever the purpose, and wherever the result, Mr. McCarthy has pretty clearly demonstrated that the Houston case was a feeler put out before the bringing on of the Brown case. Whether Mr. Brown would have been proceeded against at all had not the other case arisen, it is of course impossible to determine on the few facts at command; but that the accident of Mr. McNeil's vindictiveness offered an advantage that was seized on is pretty well explained by Mr. McCarthy himself. He has established a precedent, which is something in his favour; but while we cannot give an opinion on the case pending we may be permitted to express the hope that it will not end in another apology. Such a termination would be too much for the arrogance of the West Durham News publisher, already unduly puffed up with the courageous conduct of Mr. Houston. While we do not for a moment wish to impugne the bravery of the "Big Pusher," we submit that sooner than cause the utter blow-up of the defendant in the Simpson libel suit, he should for the safety of that unfortunate and the comfort of society "make a grand stand", and "come down handsomely" with a fine, if the court should impose one. He might even put in a period in prison, which certainly would be preferable to an apology to "the other defendant."

TAX EXEMPTIONS.

That one portion of a people should be freed from the payment of any tax toward the maintainance of the country's political institutions, which are for the protection and conveniente of all alike, is manifestly unjust to the remainder, who are then made to contribute an undue share to the common fund. Municipal and Legislative bodies, courts and police, cannot be kept up without the expenditure of money, and the primary idea of taxation is the equitable distribution of the cost of these necessary institutions among the people for whose good they exist. While government is for the country at large it is also for each individual member of that body known as the people; and our proudest boast is that our laws are of universally personal application in yielding protection to the poorest who may ask or require it. None are denied its privileges then why should any preserve the exceptional position of dead-head citizenship? Pauperism is the only good ground for obtaining exemption, and it is fully recognized in making property the basis of taxation; for, after life and liberty, the possession of property is the greatest reason why the individual needs the protection of the law. For his life he pays in labour, his own or that of others; for his liberty in the contribution he puts upon himself and for all in taxation. As his common wealth, either real or personal, his need of legal protection increases, and it is but right that in proportion to his property—or in other words, his need—he should pay for such protection. This is the only possible foundation on which a tax can be levied, and as the benefits it brings are withheld from none, therefore none should be exempt from its payment. The judge and the government official, the preacher and the church, enjoy the same civil privileges as the joiner and the grocer's clerk; the physician and the insurance company; and if they differ in extent it is in favour of the first-mentioned classes, in that they generally have more of this world's goods under the guardianship of the civil authority. Yet they are absurdly freed from the contribution of anything to the civil exchequer, thus imposing upon others, in addition to a proper proportion of the amount levied, the payment of the plain debt of the favoured number. This is in utter opposition to the principle of justice, inasmuch as it is a requiring of much from those to whom little is given, and nothing from those to whom much is given.

A prominent feature of the case—utterly ludicrous were it not essentially lamentable—is the pride professed by this public pauperism. Instead of humbly acknowledging their obligation to the paying majority the non-contributing minority arrogantly claim exemption as their right.—They assess property by the same means, and hold it under the same conditions as do others; yet there is an air about them like that of the publican who thanked God he was not as other men, and so they assume a proud superiority. There is the pride that will swell and hook itself beneath the privileges paid for by others. Such assumptions may have become the feudal lord who freely warmed his shivering limbs at the hearth, and stayed his famishing stomach at the board of his crouching vassal, with rising disdain for the food and fire as they restored life to his weakened frame; but they will not suit the democracy of these latter days, nor will they continue under the increased civillisation of our times. We are glad to see that in this matter the beginning of the end has appeared; that the people are waking up to the absurdity of the claims of those who hold with Ancient Pistol, "Base is the slave that pays," and that a war is about to be made upon all classes of tax exemptions. Popular opinion once roused cannot but be against them; and the evil should be grappled with and eradicated at once, rather than that it should grow to such proportions as may require an unpleasantly forcible mode of uprooting it. A similar abuse was a principal ingredient in the politico-social conditions that led to the French Revolution. In the same way we are on the eve of a revolution in Canada; but by prompt action it will be a bloodless one. The exemption error must be swept away; but it will not be done without exertion. The foe to be fought has many elements of vigorous resistance; and already it has found defenders on the political platform and in the press. With the arguments of these we may deal again; but now we have to call on all those opposed to the unjust system of tax exemptions to actively enter upon the war against it. This all can do:—first by signing petitions to the Legislature in time for presentation at the approaching session, and then by plain instructions to their representatives in Parliament to speak for a vote for the abolishment of the insidious abuse. Let forced discussion be forced and the matter shaken up. The opponents of exemptions have nothing to fear and all to gain by our agitation of the question, while the exempted principally rely on that quietude which allows things to remain as they are. It is a duty devolving on all municipal bodies to send representatives to the Convention to be held in Toronto, with an unmistakable understanding in regard to the important matters to come before that gathering; and in the meantime that such representatives may know how to act, the petitions referred to above might be promptly circulated, and public meetings called at which members of both municipal and legislative bodies may not only learn the views of their constituents on the various aspects of the question, but also be taught to reflect these views at the proper place and express them forcibly when the proper time comes. The abuse to be put down is a popular abuse, reaching to the individual; and the proper way to put it down is by the individual action of the people themselves. To this end we say again,—Petition!

FREE TRADING PROTECTIONISTS

The Opposition Organs are making up for their disappointment at the big Ministerial majority in Bothwell, by rejoicings upon the election of Mr. Pope in Queen's County, Prince Edward Island. They are not at all anxious to tell their readers that Mr. Pope is "the champion Free-trader," and they don't do it; because the killing off of Dawson on the protectionist ticket would not contrast consistently with their rejoicings at Mr. Pope's Freetrade victory. The doctrine of the party absurdly calling itself "Conservative" are most accommodatingly elastic. Their leader at the last session of the Dominion Parliament openly proclaimed himself a convert to Protectionist principles, and the party tamely followed him. He would as readily proclaim himself a convert to anything, and they would as dutifully acquiesce, if he thought, and could make them believe, there was some disadvantage to the opposite party in his tactics. In this case no doubt they fancied they had done a clever thing, and in one sense they did. They brought the question of Free Trade as against Protection more prominently before the country than it had ever been brought before. But the result was different from the expectations, if not of the chief, at least of his followers. The advantages have all been on the side of Free Trade, and continue to be. The best friends of Free Trade in Canada, though they do not mean it, are to-day the Conservatives. They kill off a Protectionist candidate here, and elect a Free Trader there, under high tariff ridiculous in the eyes of the country and are continually bringing Protection into favor. We should not be surprised did the late excess of their Free Trade candidature, and the utter rout of their champion of Protection, induce them to play the leading card, and, plunging their flag in the gore which they have had to run of late, leap from one extreme to the other, and now become champions for Free Trade.

Homeseekers will find the best value in Groceries, &c., at R. STENSON & SONS', next door to Mellon & Lowry's, Hunter Street.

OBITUARY.

James Anderson, Esq., of Otonabee, died on Thursday last at the advanced age of 76 years and 6 months.

Mr. Anderson was a native of Scotland. He and his family came to this country in his infancy, and settled with numerous friends from the same part of Scotland in Otonabee. He was very intelligent, industrious and highly respected by all who knew him. He brought to Canada with him the principles that contested the old Scottish worthies: a love of liberty of speech; the right to judge for himself on all religious subjects, and a strong sense of civil liberty. He consequently was an active and intelligent member of the Reform party in this county and did what he could in its early history to rid it of the Rule of the Family Compact. He was also opposed to the existence of what was known as the Clergy Reserve grievance, and gave his influence to elect men to go to Parliament to vote to do away with it; which he saw carried into effect. He was so highly respected by the people of his township that he at various times held some of the most important trusts in the gift of the people. He was Local Superintendent of schools after the introduction of Dr. Eyerson's scheme for the promotion of Common School Education, and afterwards was Auditor of the township accounts for many years.

In 1867, at the solicitation of many friends he contested the County in the Reform interest against Mr. Grover, but owing to a combination of interests to elect particular party candidates, Mr. Anderson was defeated.

His funeral was largely attended as a tribute of respect to him and his family.

St. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

The following sermon was preached on Sunday evening, last, to the members of the St. Andrew's Society, by the Rev. Mr. Torrance, from these words:

A land which the Lord thy God careth for: the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.—DEUT. xi. 12.

Such was the words of Moses to the children of Israel respecting the land which had been promised to their fathers ages before, and into the possession of which they were now very soon to enter. Their hearts must have been full of hope as they were now encamped on the borders of the promised land, and as they heard the glowing descriptions given of it by their venerable leader. How cheekered had been their history since the first promise had been given unto Abraham that he and his seed should possess the land for ever! For many years they had been bondmen in the land of Egypt and sunk so low in sin as almost to have forgotten the God of their fathers. Brought out of Egypt by the mighty power of the Lord they had been condemned to wander in the wilderness forty years as a punishment for their sins, but now the forty years had expired and the long expected possession was just within their grasp. How calculated to rejoice their hearts were the words of their leader, "But the land whither ye go to possess it is a land of hills and valleys and drinketh water of the rain of heaven: A land which the Lord thy God careth for; the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year." Why did the Lord provide such a land for his people? Surely because he had chosen them to be a special people unto himself above all others upon the face of the earth. Why did the Lord care so much for the land, and watch over it continually? Surely because his own beloved people were to be its occupants. The Jews then inhabiting the land of Canaan were the subjects of the Lord's peculiar love and of his special providential care. The eyes of the Lord have always been in every place beholding the evil and the good, but in an especial manner were the eyes of the Lord upon his ancient people dwelling in the land of Canaan, to provide for their wants and to protect them from evil. I have selected this text to-night because it seems to me capable of being appropriately applied to Scotland, which is the Mother-land of many in this church; the land the very mention of which causes the heart to beat with pride. As the sermon to-night is on behalf of the St. Andrew's Society I think it proper to remind you as Scotchmen of some of the ways in which the Lord has shown his love for Scotland and his providential care on its behalf. How did the Lord show this to his ancient people the Jews? He did so by conferring upon them peculiar privileges. The Apostle sums up their privileges in Romans ix, where he says, "Who are Israelites to whom pertaineth the adoption and the glory and the covenants and the giving of the law and the service God and the promises. Whose are the Fathers and of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, who is over all; God blessed for ever more." And in just this way has he shown his care for Scotland by bestowing upon it perhaps greater privileges than any other of the nations of the earth. The very highest blessing which the Lord can confer upon a nation are the men whom He raises up to be His witnesses, and among none of the nations of the earth has He raised so many faithful witnesses as among the Scottish nation. Christianity seems to have been introduced into Scotland at an early period, but not to have made much progress until about the beginning of the 3rd century when the reigning monarch embraced the christian faith. For several centuries after this there were periods of advancement and of decline, until about the beginning of the seventh century there were a number of men raised up eminent for their love to God and their knowledge of His word. But the days of the truth was again retarded by the spread of Popery, which supported by the secular power extended its baneful influence upon the land. In the beginning of the 15th century God, raised up faithful witnesses in different lands who lifted up their voices against the errors of the Church of Rome, and among these were two in Scotland who endured martyrs death. One of the earliest and best known of these witnesses raised up by God in Scotland was Patrick Hamilton, who at the early age of twenty-three suffered a martyr's death. Born in 1503 of high parentage, with a natural leaning to literary pursuits, he went to Germany to prosecute his studies, and there met with Luther and Melancthon, by whom he was brought to the knowledge of the truth.—Returning to Scotland he began to expose the errors of the Church of Rome, and this brought the indignation of the Clergy down upon his head. Having prevailed upon him to attend a Conference at St. Andrew's, they imprisoned him in the castle, and after bringing him to trial they condemned him to death.

Next we may mention George Wishart, who, talf of stature, and graceful in his person, eloquent in speech and spiritual in manner. Wherever he preached a blessing followed. He was tried as a heretic at Montrose, and thence by appointment to Dundee and Ayr, his success aroused the jealousy of the Romish Clergy, who determined to get rid of him as soon as ever they could. Having obtained possession of his person by guile they brought him to Edinburgh and thence to St. Andrew's, where they formed a kind of tribunal, and condemned him to death. The cruel and unjust provision to his condemnation he spoke with calmness, and when he recognized the sentence he assured the people that he felt much joy in suffering for Christ's name and from above praying for his enemies and committing his soul unto God he was thence hurried away by the executioner's hands and obtained a martyr's crown.

We come now to mention the name of John Knox, Scotland's reformer, the one of whom above all others the patriotism has justly felt proud. Born in 1505, he obtained the rudiments of his education at the grammar-school of his native place, and went thence to the University of St. Andrew's, where he devoted himself to the study of philosophy and of the early Christian Fathers. After finishing his education he spent some time in preaching to the gentlemen in St. Andrew's, but soon it was obliged to commence to the French and he fell a prisoner into their hands. For some years he worked as a common galley slave, and then escaped in England, where he obtained much attention by his preaching in different parts.—Some time afterwards he left London for Geneva, and then went to take charge of an English congregation in Frankfort. Compelled to leave Frankfort because of the indignation raised against him by some letters which he wrote he returned to Geneva and there became intimate with John Calvin. Returning to Scotland at the request of some of the Scotch nobility he began to lift up his voice both publicly and in private against the idolatry of the mass. The Popish Clergy became alarmed and summoned him to Edinboro, but such a hold had he upon the people that they were afraid to do anything to him, and he preached in Edinboro to a larger congregation than ever before. Leaving Scotland at the call of a congregation in Geneva, he was settled as their pastor for a short time, but soon again in answer to another call from Scotland he returned to his native land. He was much opposed by the Queen Regent, but her death caused a short breathing spell, during which he was appointed minister at Edinboro. The progress of the Reformation was again retarded by the arrival of Queen Mary from France who determined to establish Popery in the land. Many were the skirmishes between John Knox and the Queen and she soon discovered that he would be moved neither by her entreaties nor by her threats. Knox's hold upon the people daily grew stronger, and he continued to preach until almost the end of his life. He died on the 24th of Nov. 1572, and was buried two days afterward in the church yard of St. Giles. John Knox was pre-eminently a man of faith; mighty in the scriptures and mighty with God in prayer. The Queen Regent is said to have declared that she was more afraid of his prayers than of an army of ten thousand men. Conscious that he was doing the Lord's work he went on without fear of consequences, and he reproved sin wherever he found it, even though it were on the throne itself.

When he was laid in the grave the Earl of Morton said of him, "There lies one who in his life never feared the face of man who hath been offtimes threatened with dag and dagger but hath ended his days in peace and honour!" Well may Scotland be proud of Knox and look upon him as a special gift from God and as a proof you earnth for him and that his eyes are even upon her from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year. Among all the lights of the Reformation none had a greater work to do and none done it more effectually than John Knox. Calvin possessed a more powerful intellect and had perhaps a more complete grasp of devine truth, but none had a greater combination of excellent qualities than John Knox. While the Lutheran church has not retained the fundamental doctrines of the Reformation and while error has greatly obscured the truth in the churches whar Calvin preached the light kindled in Scotland by John Knox retains its brightness even at the present day.

The Reformation had not been long established in Scotland and the principles of Calvin and Knox as to doctrine and church government received before that efforts were made by the ruling monarch to force episcopacy upon the people. As Knox was raised up to overthrow popacy, so Andrew Melville was raised up to defend Scotland against the enchroachments of episcopacy. A nobler character is would be difficult to find than the character of Melville. After prosecuting his studies abroad for ten years he returned to Scotland when he was appointed Principal of the College of Glasgow and then translated to St. Andrew's. Many were the efforts put forth to induce to advocate and embrace episcopacy but he was proof against them all. On one occasion the King and his friends were on the point of committing him to prison but he escaped out of their hands. On another occasion when the King was seeking to obtain authority over the church Melville met him in a private conference and warned him of the sin which he was seeking to commit. In the year 1606 he was summoned to London with the alleged purpose of having a hearing from the King, and so faithful was he in reproving his accusers that he was committed to the tower where he remained four years. After being released from the tower he went to Sedan, where he died in the year 1622.

I might go on to mention the names of many others in addition to those already mentioned who may be regarded as God's peculiar gifts to Scotland, such as Welsh and Henderson, Rutherford and Guthrie, Blair and Livingston, but as in the case of the apostle recounting the deeds of faith of the Old Testament worthies, so here time would fail me to mention any more. These are the men who have made Scotland what she is; the men to whom she owes her superiority at the present day. Through the instrumentality of these men Scotland now enjoys and has enjoyed for many religious and educational advantages superior to any other land. Should not this commend religion to men of the world? It is fashionable in certain circles to look upon religion as opposed to higher education. If such be the case it is certainly strange that in Scotland, the place where above all others the Bible has been honoured, the people have for several hundred years been better educated than any where else. There is no inconsistency between religion and education, they rather foster one another and go hand in hand.

The peasantry in Scotland have been better educated than the peasantry in any other land, because they have been taught to read and to love the Word of God. Contrast Scotland with Ireland, where the Bible has been hidden from the people, and what a difference there has been between the peasantry of the two lands as far as education is concerned. In the Parish Schools in Scotland the Bible has been taught as a part of regular education, and to this in a great measure we must attribute the superiority of the Scotch in their knowledge of the Word of God. But it may be said that this does not touch the question of higher education or refute the statement that the Bible and higher education are inconsistent with one another. Well, if it does not, this objection may be refuted by pointing to the universities of which Scotland may justly be proud. Has not higher education been carried on in connection with them? Have not the sciences been cultivated in the Scotch Universities? Has not every department of ancient and modern literature been made a subject of study? Has not the study of philosophy been prosecuted in them as earnestly as any where else in the world? Yes, if there is one class of her learned men of which Scotland may justly feel proud, she counts her philosophers. Reid and Stewart and Hamilton were Scotchmen, and they rank among the greatest philosophers, not only of their own but of any other land. How are we to account for the great difference between philosophy in Scotland and philosophy in Germany? Why has philosophy in Scotland been in support of religious truth while in Germany it has been in support of infidelity? This surely must belong to the fact that the Scotch philosophers were early imbued by the Word of God, and that this has determined their mode of thinking. It has been an unspeakable blessing to Scotland the fact that her philosophers for the most part believed in the Bible as the Word of God and in Jesus Christ as the Saviour of men.

We can never be too thankful that the Scotch Universities have not been as in other places arenas of infidelity, but rather have fostered the truth of God. May we not then legitimately conclude from the peculiar blessings which the Lord has poured upon Scotland—blessings in the form of great men who under God have shaped her religious history—that she is a land which the Lord careth for, and that His eyes have been upon it from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

My object, however, in preaching this sermon to-night is not merely to glorify Scotland in your eyes, but to show the practical influence which the blessings enjoyed by Scotland ought to have upon ourselves. The great evils which befal the Jews resulted from their guilty neglect to improve upon their light dissent instead of allowing it to have a practical influence upon their lives. They said among themselves, "We have Abraham for our father" and they seemed to think that all must be right with them because they had such an ancestor as he. The Lord Jesus warned them against their mistake and assured them that having Abraham for their father would avail them nothing unless they did the works of Abraham. They refused to believe his words and the consequence was that the righteous judgment of Heaven fell upon them and the Kingdom of God was taken from them and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof. It would have been different with them had they tried to do the works of Abraham instead of priding themselves upon their descent from him.

Now I am afraid that you, my hearers, may be making the very same mistake as the Jews of old and fancying that because you are Scotchmen you are superior to others and will continues to prosper as your fathers have done before you. It is a great mistake to suppose that the mere fact of having Scotch blood in your veins will secure for your prosperity or the special favour of Heaven. Do you wish to succeed in this your adopted land, and do you wish to make it a mighty power for good? Then you must act upon the principles which were acted upon by your Scotch fore-fathers. Some of you who are advanced in years can remember the early training you received in Scotland; let me ask if your children and your grandchildren are receiving a similar training in this your adopted land? You answer "No," for the Bible does not form part of the education in our day schools here. And this is to be accounted for by the fact that while in Scotland the vast majority of the people are Presbyterians; in Canada they are composed of different sects. Well, then, if that be the case, your children need to receive all the more instruction in the Word of God in their own homes. If your children are brought up just like others, the mere fact of their being Scotch will not benefit them at all. Scotchmen without the Bible will be like Samson shorn of his locks—deprived of the true source of strength. Think not to say within yourselves, "We have John Knox for our father and the blood of martyred heroes flows within our veins; we belong to a church in which, above all others, purity of doctrine has been retained." For these privileges unless improved will involve you in greater condemnation. It becomes you who have been so highly privileged to remember the words of the Lord, "Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee Bethsaida, and thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto Heaven shall be thrust down to hell!" God forbid that this dead woe should fall upon us! God forbid that our privileges should be turned into curses and that they should be as sheeted ghosts to haunt us on our dying beds and follow us through an unending eternity. A son of Abraham cried once from the place of torment to his father for water to cool his parched tongue; a son of Knox alas! may do so, too. Do you wonder that I am in earnest when such an awful possibility stares you in the face? Do you wonder that I cannot conclude this sermon without an earnest entreaty to flee from the wrath to come! Ah, if you had had glimpses into eternity you would not wonder. If the terrors of the Almighty had fallen upon your souls you would think my earnest entreaty the most natural thing in the world. Escape for thy life! Tarry not least ye be consumed! The way is open safe and sure! In Christ no evil can come nigh you; but out of him nothing but anger, wrath, tribulation and anguish stares you in the face. That this may be a night of decision with man souls is the preacher's heartfelt prayer.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 30, 1876.

BOBCAYGEON AND BRADFORD want to be incorporated as Cities.

We have received a communication on "Little Tommy and his Carpenters," too late for this issue.

SCHOOL BOARD.—The regular meeting of the School Board will be held on Tuesday evening next.

THE OFFICE is doing fine Job Printing in a style that cannot be surpassed, and at as low prices as are asked for an inferior quality of work elsewhere.

SATURDAY.—The market on Saturday last was unusually brisk. Notwithstanding the bad state of the roads a very large number of farmers were in, and the merchants did a brisk trade.

FIVE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.—Gagin, the man who stabbed Mr. Johnston, hotel-keeper at Bloomfield, was tried before Judge Dunkintown yesterday, and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Kingston Penitentiary.

TOWN MATTERS.—We learn that a number of ratepayers of Ward number 2 have solicited Mr. John Elder to become a candidate for municipal honors. We have not heard whether he will consent to do so. Mr. Elder's business has fitted to fit him to be a good Councillor.

RESIGNED.—We hear that several of the members of the Town Council propose retiring this year. It is time the people were selecting candidates to represent them next year, and we would recommend the exercise of more care in doing so than has been evinced in the past.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The Rev. E. Mathewson, having accepted a position in the Church's service at Charlottetown, P.E. Island, it is announced that next Sabbath will close his ministrations in St. Andrew's Church, although a few weeks may elapse before the church will be formally vacated.

QUARRELS ASSEMBLY.—About twenty couples met at the Cairns House Hall, last evening and enjoyed themselves for several hours. The assembly is in aid of the "Boy's Home." Perhaps some of our readers would be kind enough to inform us where the "Boy's Home" is in this town. We don't think they have got any.

OBIT.—Mr. DENNIS KINSLEY, of Otonabee died on Wednesday last, after a short illness, caused by inflammation of the lungs. He had been unwell, but was convalescent, and went out for a short time to see after some work that was being done. By this he caught a cold which brought on a relapse which resulted in his decease.

HAGGART BROS. will offer for sale by auction at their rooms, on Friday, the 8th Dec. at 2 p.m., some very valuable building lots, opposite the residence of Mr. J. Howden, each lot containing half an acre. These lots are situated on the Locke road, and specially adapted for building sites, being close to town. For particulars see posters.

ABOVE OR BELOW.—The Gravenhurst LUMBERMAN states that a Postmaster not a hundred mile from that place returned a paper addressed to a certain gentleman with the usual form, and giving as a "reason"—"refused—he is dead." The LUMBERMAN wants to have the subscriber's new post office address, but that is easily obtainable. Did he pay in advance, or was he in arrears?

STAMPED ENVELOPE FOR CANADA.—It is announced that Canada is to have a stamped envelope, which is now in preparation, and will be ready for use about the beginning of 1877.—The design will be as follows: In an oval frame with the head of Queen Victoria, and the envelope will be of the value of three cents. A stamped envelope for circulars or drop letters would also be a great convenience.

HITTING THE NAIL ON THE HEAD.—A correspondent of a contemporary, in discussing the "pay-up" question suggests as the best plan to adopt, "that as the farmer can and does get cash down for almost everything that he produces, he should pay for everything as he buys it. Farmers, pay your debts, and you will confer a great favor on the poor mechanic; and prove a blessing to Canada for introducing a true and popular system of trade."

PETERBOROUGH LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Association met on Tuesday evening last, Mr. E. B. Edwards in the chair. Mr. E. H. D. Hall read a piece entitled, "Lines written on passing Dead Man's Island"—Moore. The subject for Debate was: "Will Great Britain decay as the nations of old?" On the affirmative were Mr. H. T. Hook, and Mr. G. Hatton; on the negative, Mr. Butterworth and Mr. G. M. Hogue. The decision was given by the chair in favor of the negative.

MARTYN'S MILLS.—Mr. Martin Martyn has obtained a length ned lease of the mills so long known as Martyn's Mills. Those who have long dealt with him will be pleased to learn this. He is well prepared to continue to do excellent work for those who may patronize him with grinding, chopping, etc., and we are satisfied that he will endeavour to give complete satisfaction to all who call on him. He has been long noted for excellent brands of flour, and for his obliging dealings with his patrons.

A LITERARY AND SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENT under the auspices of the young ladies of the George Street Methodist Church, will be held in the lecture room of the George Street Church, on Thursday evening, 5th of December. A very entertaining and pleasant programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, readings, &c., have been prepared. It is intended to make this occasion a happy, unconstrained social meeting, to which all are invited. A small admission fee will be charged, but all the funds are in aid of the Church it is hoped that the foreshadowing of a happy time will secure a large attendance, and that the realization of pleasure will exhibit a smiling display of shillings.

DON'T GO WEST.—A correspondent in a Detroit paper says: "Canada and the Eastern States are sending their unemployed "west," under the idea that work is brisk and wages good. Detroit is easily reached from Canada, hence we may expect a tide of unfortunate immigrants who will be doomed to disappointment. We have friends of wrong, enterprising men and women of our own who are able and willing to work and cannot get it, and if present prospects are not like "coming events casting their shadows before," I am much mistaken. I have just been applied to by a woman from Canada. She came here five weeks ago, eaten assisted by her husband. They were told that trade was good in Detroit, but her's been unable to procure anything to do, have spent their last dollar, and are now on the bounty of the charitable. They would be glad to return, where and under them they came, if the means were furnished them to do so. I could give many cases such from which have come under my notice during the last few weeks, and I think the poorer the better, that the true state of the labour market be known.

CONFIDENCE DEFINED.—We clip the following from the Carleton Place HERALD:—"It's a pretty good thing to be a Reeve, and that's what they've been to Ryan for the last two years. Ryan is a man of considerable property, and has a large family of children, and is a man who is well known throughout the County of Carleton, and is looked upon as a man of honor and integrity. He

SPECIFIC MEDICINE.

Cures all Nervous Diseases, such as Tremors, Debility, Prostration, etc., which, in many cases, are produced by over indulgence in the use of tobacco and alcholic spirits; but the Special Medicine is more especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which, as a rule, are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free by mail to every one.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money, by addressing

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM.

Trade Mark Registered.

PRICE 25 CTS

Every one has heard of the wonderful effects of the spruces and the Pines in cases of Lung Disease. The Rev. Mr. Murray, in his book on the Adirondacks, lately published, relates the case of a consumptive young man who was entirely cured by a three months camping out among the pines. In France the physicians regularly send their consumptive patients to the pine woods, and order them to drink a tea made from the spruce tops.

GRAY'S SYRUP is a scientific combination of the gum which exudes from the Red Spruce tree. In this preparation the gum never separates, and all its anti-spasmodic expectorant, tonic and balsamic properties are preserved.

For Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Throat Affections, &c., it acts like a charm.

One of the Testimonials!

From Dr DUNCAN McCALLUM, Montreal—

I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of that genuine article

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no other medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use. In every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its compositions. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaints and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstruction that cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Memories of the Old Kitchen

BY MRS. S. P. SMITH.

For back, in my musings, my thoughts have been cast,
To the cot where the hours of my childhood were passed;
I loved all its rooms, to the parlor and hall,
But that blessed old kitchen o'er dearer than all;

Its chairs and its table, none handier could be,
For all its surroundings were suited to me.
To the nail in the ceiling, the latch on the door,
And I loved every crack of the old kitchen floor.

I remember the fire-place with broad hearth and high and wide,
The old-fashioned oven that sat by its side,
Out of which, each Thanksgiving, came pud, dings and pies,
That fairly bewildered and dazzled our eyes;
And then, too, Saint Nicholas, lovely and still,
Came down every Christmas, and stockings to fill;

But the dearest of memories I've laid up in store,
Is the mother that trod that old kitchen floor.

Day in and day out, from morning till night,
Her footsteps were busy, her hands always light;
For it seemed to me then that she knew not a care,
The smile was so gentle her forehead to wear;

When she told us the stories that children so prize;
They were new every night, though we'd heard them before
From her lips, at the wheel, on the old kitchen floor.

I remember the window, where mornings I'd run,
As soon as the daybreak, to watch for the sun,
And I thought, when my head scarcely reached to the sill,
That it slept through the night in the trees on the hill,
And the small tract of ground, that my eyes
There could view,
Was all of the world that my infancy knew:
Indeed, I cared not to know of it more,
For a world in itself was that old kitchen floor.

To-night those old visions come back at their will,
But the wheel and its music forever are still,
The hand is moth-eaten, the wheel laid away,
And the fingers that turned it lie moldring in clay.
The hearthstone, so sacred, is just as 'twas then
And the voices of children ring out there again;
The sun through the window looks in as of yore
But it sees stranger feet on the old kitchen floor.

I ask not for honor, but this I would crave,
That when the lips speaking are closed in the grave
My children will gather theirs round at their side,
And tell of the mother that long ago died:
T'would be more enduring, far dearer to me,
Than inscription on marble or granite could be,
To have them tell often, as I did of ours,
Of the mother that trod the old kitchen floor.

FATHER STAFFORD'S TRIP TO THE OLD COUNTRY.

(CONCLUDED FROM LAST WEEK.)

He then went to Manchester on the invitation of that prince of Bishops, the Bishop of Salfourd, and was there present at a convention of priests and laymen from all parts of England and Scotland to report on what had been done last year, and to deliberate upon the best means to be adopted next year to promote the temperance cause. They reported that temperance was progressing. They co-operated with the United Kingdom Alliance, founded in the time of Father Matthew, and worked with great power and will. He happened to attend their meeting and heard the report of the delegates who conducted the work at this convention. A resolution was adopted in favour of the Sunday closing of the liquor houses, and of opposing any government that refused to comply with their petition. They had a large assembly in the Free Trade Hall, and they asked him to speak and he did so. He explained the liquor law in Ontario, showing that it was passed by British subjects in a British Province, under the British flag and observed faithfully by all classes. He then went on to London and visited Cardinal Manning, and His Eminence asked him to remain a week longer, and speak in the churches in London. As they had 59 Catholic churches there it would have been impossible for him to speak in all of them, but he spoke in as many as he could. He was rather glad he had remained for it gave him an opportunity of seeing how our people were doing in that great city—the most wonderful city on the earth. He found things were worse than in Liverpool. He went out at nights into the lanes and alleys and he saw sights he did not wish to say anything about. The number and size of the gools, prisons and poorhouses showed the prosperity of the liquor houses. However, now that there were 16,000 intelligent abstainers co-operating with the clergy under the lead of the Great Cardinal who did not preach moderate use, and with the vigorous cooperation of such men as Canon Lockhart and Dr. Richardson—in the same direction, he hoped the day was dawning there for those still in misery. He observed about the Irish Catholics in the old country as in the new that one of the worst consequences of the liquor busines affected their religion—it burned the faith out of them. A large number of them had lost all faith, and all morality; they were degraded, brutalized, and reduced to the level of brutes and by that curse alone. Wherever that curse did not lie upon them there was no better people, no more industrious people in the world; and there was none who could get ahead of them. How was it then that a people so virtuous, so noble, a people that had fought against all kinds of oppressions and tyranny, and had maintained themselves and their faith, and had done so much not only for themselves but for England,—how was it that no nation furnished worse people than these when supplied with drink. The reason was simple. A bad woman was much worse than a bad man because woman was the best and most precious portion of man and when she became bad she became far the worse. It was this way with the Irish people. When they were good no people were equal to them; when they become bad no people equal to them either—they went lower down than any other people on the earth. This is what he had seen with his own eyes—every where—it was not exaggerated. The Irish were free from crimes of coal deliberate villany. He had evidence of this in a visit he had paid to the Old Bailey, where he had seen a record of 78 criminals for various offences; and had asked the keeper the reason they did not have any more Irishmen there. He had not noted it as another "Irish grievance." The governor replied:—You see we only put men who commit big crimes here, Irishmen simply get drunk and sometimes kill a man in their liquor, but they generally don't commit big crimes." He noticed that a very large number of the medical profession were beginning to work against liquor, and to condemn its use medicinally. He had found latterly in Lindsay that certain doctors who had scarcely seen six or seven years ago that they never prescribed anything stronger than tea had been prescribing strong liquor to members of his own congregation, and he visited a house there shortly after and they confessed that the reason he would prevent them getting any practice in Catholic houses. So long as God left him here he intended to work harder and harder every day of his life against this curse of our race and people—this disgrace of our country. All the time he was away, every night he came home from addressing audiences, sometimes of five or six thousand persons, and strom everything he had seen and could gather, he had always come, feeling that there was no place like home, —no place like Lindsay,—not one spot so free from crime; not one place where the truth with regard to the liquor curse, was so well taken in, and known and acted on; no place where the men were so faithful as they were; no place where all the young men and boys and girls were pledged to live and die fighting against liquor; no place where there was such a hatred of liquor and opposition to its use as here. He did not say this to flatter them. It was not for him to exaggerate; he would not tell them they were better than they were. But he believed there was not another congregation to be compared with them on the face of the earth. He had been requested always to tell the audiences in the old country all about them and had done so, not to sound his own trumpet or glority them, but that God might be glorified and that the cause of total abstinence might be promoted, and men and woman saved from the curse of drunkenness. There was another thing he had always given them credit for in the old country, and that was the happy terms on which they lived with their Protestant fellow-citizens. When he saw people over there showing malice to each other "for the love of God" he had told them that we had nothing like that in Canada. In some places in Ireland the old feeling was still very strong. A Catholic would not go into a Protestant school house and a Protestant would not look into a convent; the two classes regarded each other in some cases like two cats with their backs up and ready to jump at each other's throats; but he was glad to be able to state that in Canada they lived on the most friendly terms. The rev. gentleman concluded by informing his congregation that they could rely upon his most intense hatred of the liquor traffic, and that he would continue to work against it in every legal and proper way to the last moment of his life, and to denounce it with his last expiring breath. Father Stafford speaks highly of the hospitality of the Irish people, both lay and clerice, and of the great work being done for education by the Bishop of Salford

TEMPERANCE ADDRESSES IN LONDON.

A correspondent of the Irish Canadian gives the following account of a lecture delivered by Rev. Father Stafford in the Italian Church. Hattoo Garden, London, before a very large audience:—Father STAFFORD began his address at 8.30, and until 9.30 delivered one of the best lectures that has ever been my good fortune to listen to, and I have listened to a good many both at home and abroad. He spoke of the necessity of workingmen leading sober lives, of the paramount duty of educating their children to enable them to fight the battle of life with the chance of success in their favor. Canada, he said, was a new country, but he was proud to say a happy one, and where in a few years, the sober industrious man could make a comfortable home. The Government of the Dominion was a very practical one, because it was really a Government of the people for the people and alive to the expediency of, as far as possible, promoting temperance through the length and breadth of the country. After giving a description of the various towns, climate, laws and customs, he brought his address to a close by passing a high eulogium on the Archbishop of Toronto, observing that as a public man he was one of the most able and practical in America; and as a prelate he was ever working indefatigable in the interest of his people. The lecture being delivered in the church of course there was no applause, but the Rev. Father Lockhart, in a few eloquent words, returned thanks on behalf of the vast assemblage: and after the benediction the people dispersed all pleased with what they had heard. On the following evening Father Stafford again spoke to another immense meeting in the Temperance Hall, Charles street, Drury Lane, where I had the inexpressible pleasure of proposing a vote of thanks to him, a duty that I felt as anything I preformed in the wholecourse of my life, the vote of thanks being carried by three and one cheer more. On the next evening Father Stafford spoke to another meeting at the Deptford Temperance Hall, and if anything created a still greater impression, the people manifesting their approval by cheers and plaudits. To all the meetings the Rev. lecturer was accompanied by Father Lockhart, President of the Catholic Temperance League, and by Mr. Thomas Campbell, the zealous and energetic Secretary, who has done so much in the interest of sobriety among the working classes as any man in England. One thing is certain, that Father Stafford is a credit to Lindsay, and perhaps Lindsay a credit to him, because he spoke of its people, Catholic and Protestant, in such a loving and friendly way that it was evident his thoughts were centred in them.

(Correspondence of the Dublin Irishman, Oct. 28)

During the past fortnight at the request of his Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster, the Rev. Father Stafford, of Lindsay, Ontario, Canada, has been delivering lectures in different parts of the metropolis, to immense audiences of the Irish working classes on the necessity of total abstinence. Father Stafford is a Canadian by birth, of Irish parents, from near Vinegar Hill, his ancestors having suffered in the troubles of the '98 movement. He is himself a man who wields great influence, social and political, in his native land, indeed a stronger evidence of the place the Celtic race is beginning to occupy in the new and western world. He is also a man of wide and liberal views, and has the honesty and manliness to express his opinions in a bold and candid manner. At the request of Bishop Ullathorne, speaking at Lindsay, in Canada, of which he is a native, he said that he was sorry to say that the Irish Catholics were the worst people in Canada, and that they were worse than the Protestants. He

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 7, 1876.

THE MAYORALITY.

Mr. Toole and Mr. Menzies are it seems to be the only candidates that will be in the field for the Mayoralty of this Town for the coming year. It is for the ratepayers to choose which of these gentlemen shall fill the important position of Chief Magistrate of the Town. Mr. Toole has occupied the position, therefore the ratepayers should be in a position to judge of his fitness to carry out the functions which devolve upon the chairman of the Corporation Board with that dignity necessary for the fulfilment of the duties required for the prosperity of the Town. Mr. Menzies is no novice in Municipal affairs; he has represented the people at the Council Board, with credit to himself and those he represented. His mental abilities are unquestionably good and his stability of character is a good qualification for the position of Mayor. Voters should not let their better judgement be swayed by any of those trifling dodges which are generally palmed off on the unwary a few days before the election takes place, but take a calm view of the situation and elect the men whom they think are the best fitted for the position. There are several names mentioned as probable candidates for the position of Councilmen but nothing is definitely settled as yet.

A CANADIAN WINTER PORT.

It will be a satisfaction to all patriotic Canadians to learn that the Dominion Government has given orders that the Ocean Mails shall be delivered in future at Halifax, instead of at the American port of Portland, as has hitherto been the case. As far as the force of this order is concerned, there is no doubt of its being carried out by the contractors the Messrs. Allen, as the letter of the contract specially reserves to the Postmaster General the right to name the place of landing, and as if the probabilities were looked at when the contract was drawn up it contains the following words: "Shall call at Halifax on these voyages, should the Postmaster General so require."

This should settle at once the vapouring of mean-spirited opponents of the new arrangement as to the throwing up of the contract by the company engaged in its fulfilment. Among these opponents is the Toronto Mail, which, though ready enough to indulge in specious arguments concerning the sacrifice of Canadian to American interests in matters of trade, does not hesitate to utter the raven's croak when a real advantage is passing from an American to a Canadian port. There are one or two probable reasons for this attitude of the chief Conservative organ in this matter. It does not like that so popular a step should be taken by a Reform administration, and, true to its policy of finding fault with every action of the Government, it cries out against the establishment of a winter port for Canada, thus faithfully doing its duty to its masters even when its unpatriotic utterances do it injury. Sir Hugh Allan was useful to the Conservative party at one time, memorable in the country's history, and he may be useful again. The Opposition leaders evidently consider him a friend—it may be a brother—and hence it is not strange that the party organ controlled by Sir Hugh's friends and brethern should try and serve the Knight of Pacific Scandal fame when opportunity offers. Could Sir Hugh be now saved the expense of arrangements for delivering the Canadian mails at Halifax, the amount might be gained towards the helping of "poor young fellows" at a future election. That journals in rival cities on the seaboard, jealous of the supremacy of Halifax should throw obstacles in the way is somewhat natural, though we imagine it will do them good rather than harm, but that any newspaper in Ontario should join them in the plea for Portland rather than Halifax must certainly be due to ulterior motives.

Leaving the argument of preference to a Canadian rather than to a United States port entirely out of the question, for after all it is sentimental rather than material, there is yet a strong reason why Halifax should be the port at which to land our Ocean Mails. The trip from Liverpool to Portland lasts more than a day longer than to Halifax, which so far over balances the longer rail journey to Montreal, the common centre of the routes, as to give a balance of time in favor of the new one of fully twelve hours. The opponents of the delivery from the steamship at Halifax principally base their objections on prophecies of difficulties and delays on the journey by Intercolonial and Grand Trunk Railways to Montreal, and some of these croakers are actually far-sighted enough to perceive that the route will be wholly impracticable in winter. The mental vision of these people has become wonderfully clear since the building of this same Intercolonial Railway, in which work the former Government displayed great ability—for political jobbery. Then their eyes were hidden that they could not see any snow blockades or any other winter difficulties, even when these were referred to by advocates of a more southerly and direct line. In those days they did not forget to be patriotic, either; for did they not argue in favor of the "shore route" as being comparatively remote from the frontier, and hence to be chosen as a war line in the event of trouble with the Yankees whom they would now favor before their own countrymen? The party then in power expressed deep love for their country's future safety, but displayed a greater love for their country's dollars: for it is now well known that the long "shore route" was chosen because of the proprietory rights held by certain Conservatives in the region through which the road runs. However, the difficulties of the route, such as they might have been, have been pretty well overcome by the miles of snow sheds built, and other precautions taken by the present Ministry to make the Intercolonial railway a practical line for traffic; and now that it is to be tested in the carriage of the ocean mails the party benefitted in its construction might have the good taste to peaceably allow the public an opportunity of being benefitted by its existence. They would display more good sense by holding their peace till the trial be made, as there will be plenty of time to jubilate if the Government plan of entering Canadian mails at a Canadian port should fail. For the good of the country, rather than for the discomfiture of the croakers, which we shall not be sorry either to see, we trust that the scheme may prove in every way successful, and that Canada shall not only be independent of foreign aid in communication with the outer world, in winter as in summer, but also gain in the more rapid transmission of such independent communication.

ELECTION OF MR. LAFLAMME.

The Conservative party seems bent upon carrying out its new policy of opposition to the re-election of new Ministers of the Crown. We know they were not satisfied with the result of their fight against Mr. Mills. They had hoped to pull down his majority, and not succeeding in doing so their disappointment must have been keen. They never had a hope of victory, and there was therefore no excuse whatever for their putting the country to the expense of an election. But country and cost is nothing to a Tory, if he has any hope of gaining a desired point. The wish was for a peg on which to hang the tattered remnant of "Conservative reaction" but either the wall was too hard or the mallets too light, and the peg could not be driven. In Jacques Cartier County it was different. There they really expected to defeat the Minister of Inland Revenue, relying upon the force of abuse and the influence of the clergy. They heaped vile epithets upon the devoted head of Mr. Laflamme, and got nearly all the pariah priests to denounce him from the altar as the enemy of the church, for whom to vote was deserving of ecclesiastical pains and penalties. Yet in spite of these disgraceful tactics, Mr. Laflamme was elected. His majority of twenty-eight is not only the result of a triumph over Tory malignity, great though it be in this respect it is far more to be considered in the light of a rebuke—nay, a rebuff—to the spiritual influence of the clergy in political contests. Such influence, no matter for whom exercised, is wholly bad, both politically and socially, morally and religiously. We are far from wishing to restrict the clergyman from any participation whatever in the political concerns of his country, though prudence may tell him that prominence in politics tends to destroy his usefulness to the church. The title "Reverand" does not, and should not make a man lose all personal interest in his country's welfare. The sacred office should rather increase, while it hallows, such an interest. It need not seal the lips of its holder at all times upon themes political; but it must if honestly and reverently held temper his utterances so that they will be within the bounds of Christian charity. From such circumspection the "man of God" can never free himself, however free may be the range he would allow himself between his extremest ideas of sacred and secular action in his own person. If he discuss politics as a man he should do it in a manly way, so that he may not bring discredit upon the garb he wears; and he should always be both able and willing to support his views by reasonable deductions. When, however, the secordetal function is degraded into a mere electioneering agent, and the priestly person is turned into a political scarecrow as the representative of a punishing Providence the exhibition is painfully suggestive of the absence of respect for the priestly position and of ordinary courage in those who bring about such a pitiful, not to say scurilignious condition of affairs. When this is done, it is too frequently the case in the Province of Quebec, and as was the case in the last Jacques Cartier election it is well that that the end sought to be attained should be defeated. The futility of such demoralizing, and therefore unpatriotic, tactics is the best assurance that the spirit of the people is opposed to such influences, and that the formidable club of Superstition is that after all but a clumsy weapon, which must give way before the skilfully handled rapier of Reason. The latter is already being chosen by the Roman Catholic clergy of Quebec in preference to the club they have been so much in the habit of swinging at election time. They see clearly that many of their people will not submit to arbitrary dictation as to how they shall or shall not vote; and that pressure on their part will only increase the already strong opposition which threatens to hinder their influence even in spiritual things. Not only are the clergy by ecclesiastical interference at elections weakening the church internally, but the inevitable result, even were all its members subservient to such tyrannical treatment, must be disadvantageous to the body at large. In a religious struggle, to which it would certainly lead, the larger body in the Dominion must gain the ascendancy; and in such an issue the Catholic minority need expect no favours but rather that the rights they now enjoy would be mutilated by the notorious avenel the righteous rule some of them would fain exercise. This priestly power in politics is a huge mistake from beginning to end; and the sooner it is laid aside the better for the political parties, the better for the country and the better for religion.

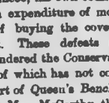
REGINA v. WILKINSON.

The absurdity of the defendant in this suit bringing action against anyone for contempt of Court in connection with it, is immense, and the cheek of the proceeding amazing. In almost every issue of his paper since the suit commenced there have been references to the case calculated to prejudice it, that is always provided they be read to any extent, and the general character for veracity of the journal be such as to cause them to be considered by the reader. It is altogether a rich illustration of the way in which the same kind of thing appears when done by different persons. The fault that a man cannot see in himself he is always ready to condemn another for. The error for which a prominent personage is hauled over the coals has been repeated by smaller fry till it has become a characteristic with them and still is not noticed, or again, the rascal who would draw attention from his own crime, accuses another of it while he assumes the hypocritically virtuous role. Some of these instances will doubtless apply in this case. The reader can take his choice, or lump them if so inclined..

CARDWELL.

The nomination in Cardwell takes place to-day, and the election in one week. The Reform and Conservative candidates were both nominated by party conventions. Mr. Tambert Bolton comes out in support of the Mackenzie government, and Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q. C., in opposition to it. Both candidates have appeared in public at different times, Mr. McCarthy being chiefly remarkable in the political world for his repeated defeats in Simcoe, his own country, in spite of a lavish expenditure of money for the purpose of buying the coveted seat in parliament. These defeats as well as services rendered the Conservative party, the latest of which has not come to head in the Court of Queen's Bench, probably earned for Mr. McCarthy the nomination to the first likely vacancy, which, unfortunately for the Conservative party and for the country, was made by the death of Hon. John H. Cameron—Mr. McCarthy being the "coming man," his nomination for Cardwell was engineered by the United Empire Club, of Toronto, though it is understood a great many of the Conservative electors of the constituency would have much preferred a resident candidate. This may lead to considerable indifference towards Mr. McCarthy, seeing that the Reform candidate is a resident, and a native of the county, and held in high respect by the men of both political parties, who know him to be honest, upright, and well acquainted with the affairs and needs of the constituency. Their knowledge of Mr. McCarthy probably extends no further than that he is a lawyer of some repute, who being defeated at home, where he is known, comes to them asking their sufferages, in the hope that they will make him their representative at a hazard. There can be no doubt that Cardwell is a strongly Conservative constituency, and should the electors choose to tamely submit to be driven to vote for the man of whom they know little or anything simply because he is sent them by a coterie of party wirepullers in Toronto, then there can be no doubt of the election of a representative of the same political stripe as the late member. But if the electors look impartially to the agricultural character of their constituency, and the total unsuitability of a man of Mr. McCarthy's life training as their representative, the connection of Mr. Bolton with their everyday affairs, and the advantages to them of the principles he represents, then we shall hear of the return of the Reformer. From the well-known docility to domineering of the average Tory voter we have little hope of any regard for principle when party is concerned. If Mr. Boulton is elected we shall be agreeably surprised; if defeated there is no cause for wonder. The chances are against him, certainly; yet the peculiarities of the position make his candidature not without some hope of success—at any rate the agony will not be of long continuance, and Cardwell and Canada next Thursday night or on the following morning will know who is Mr. Cameron's successor in the Parliament of the Dominion.

St. ANDREW'S DAY.



Scottish Tribute to the Patron Saint.

The Day and a' who Honor It.

So much has been said and written of late years regarding St. Andrew, that even the most illiterate can scarcely plead ignorance regarding his indentity. It is unnecessary, therefore, that we should give any extended historical notice, but, suffice it to say, that St. Andrew was first chosen "Patron Saint" of Scotland, about the year 369, and since that time his memory has been carefully preserved.—There were formerly many quaint observances in connection with the day, such as the bearing of the singed sheep's head in the processions, etc., and there are also many odd traditions still extant in connection with St. Andrew himself. This year the Scotchmen of Peterboro celebrated the day by a dinner in the Caisse House It is sometimes said that Scotchmen are clannish, but however much they may still nurse their party feuds, all unite as members of the Clans St. Andrew.

The spread was got up by Mr. Moloney of the Caisse House, and was first-class in quality, and equal to anything got up in any City in the Dominion. Over fifty Scotchmen, sons of Scotchmen, and guests were present, to do honor to the viands which they did in good style, especially to that portion which the Scotch delight to talk about. viz: "The Haggis."

Wm. Hamilton, Esq., President, occupied the chair, and on his right were:—R. J. Tober, Esq., President St. George's Society, and J. Carnegie, Esq., and on the left were, John Elder, Esq., Ex-President, and John Bertram, Esq., M. P., West Peterboro.

The Vice chair was occupied by James Miller, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee, and the second Vice chair by James Mackintosh, and Thomas Hamilton, Esq., occupied the third Vice Chair.

After doing duty to the good things provided, the President gave the "Queen" "The Prince and Princess of Wales" and the usual loyal toasts which were received right royally by every one present.

In giving the toast of the "Governor-General," the President said he was one of the best royal representatives we have had in Canada. True, he was an Irishman, but he, the President, thought that if his ancestry were traced back for a century or two they would turn out to be of Scottish origin, as was the case with the Marchant Prince, A. T. Stewart, when carefully traced back not over 150 years. The toast was as well received as if he were from the land o' cakes.

Mr. Geo. Johnston sang an Irish song, "The Army Navy and Volunteers of Canada" was then given by the President, and responded to by of Manitoba, who is at present on a visit to his old home. He remarked that it was well that their acts and noble deeds did not depend on his eloquence, as he could not claim that. The army of Britain in many a well fought field had done its duty, and the Navy—in every sea was respected, and the British flag honored.—The Volunteers of the Dominion, he was sure, would do their duty when needed, and reflect honour on the mother countries whence they were descended, and on Canada their home. He therefore took great pleasure in returning thanks on their behalf.

Mr. Wood, of the Law firm of Messrs. Edmison & Wood, being loudly called for, remarked that as he was not a Volunteer it would be out of place to take on him to do honour to a body of men who deserved so well of every man. He would, therefore, leave it to those who could claim the right of representation, as being one of themselves.

Song: Red, White and Blue, by Mr. Gallethy.

"The day and a' wha honor it," was then given by the President, when Mr. Gallethy sang,—"Scotland yet."

Rev. Kenneth Maclennan responded to this toast, "The day and a' wha' honor it."

And expressed his regret that he was called upon at very short notice to acknowledge so important a toast in the programme of the evening, as the substitute of a gentleman of ability and experience as a speaker, to whom they had expected to listen on the present as on former occasions with pleasure and profit. It was due to himself and to the company that he should make this explanation at the outset; at the same time he held with every true Scot or descendant of Scotchmen that the day was worthy of being faithfully remembered. It was no craving of tribial appetite, no mere desire for hilarity that was causing this occasion to be celebrated with warmth and enthusiasm, whither the wide world over the sons and daughters of Scotia are this night found. A higher influence is to be recognized in the wide spread interest which the return of St. Andrew's night evokes even that sentiment of patriotism which is universally confessed to be of the most potent and refining influence upon human character and life. Whether in Scotland or in Canada, in India or in the Pacific slopes, in Australia or in the United States of America, many hearts are warm, many tongues are eloquent, many lips are wet with the praises of a land which has made a deeper impress upon modern civilization than any other country of equal extent and resources. He need not be ashamed to be included in that band of electric sympathy which encircles the civilized world, as we remember the country from which we have sprung. Other countries may rejoice in a brighter sky or a more fertile soil, but Scotland is endeared to the hearts of her children by many a tradition of honorable action and noble suffering. Far back in the green twilight of British history she has her scholars and her priests. The caldees worship religion and learning alike. The monumental testimony of Iona bespeaks the favour of her piety and the splendour of her ecclesiastical edifices, while the social condition of the people was still a rude one. The reformation formed no fairer field for its great work; the church and the state were cared for by the same earnest men, Knox and his associates, reformers, but also statesmen, laid the foundation of Scotland's advancement, or a free gospel and a free bible. The school and the church have made the influence of Scotland felt in the history of Europe since that day, for an unconquerable love of freedom, for a stubborn refusal to bend the knee in homage to any foreign potentate, for the weight of claymore and the strength and will to wield it against any and every invader our forefathers have been honorably distinguished. When Scotland united with England she suffered in no particular by the seemingly unrefined alliance. On tanted fields or in the walls of legislation, at the teachers desk and in the preacher's pulpit, in the workshops of the artizan or in the husbandman's toil, she has held her own well with her sister and larger neighbour, and she can claim a fair share of the credit which is to be gained from having made the British name and British power what they are at this day. In this, feeling as we legitimately do, that we have done our part to the empire and its interests, we do not forget what is one to the sobriety, the frailness, the manly honor of our English fellow-subjects, or the warmth, the kind wit, the genius of the Irish race, we are one with them in the honest pride with which we boast that we are all British subjects. Such advantages derived from the past impose upon us a duty for the present, the duty of living worthily of our origin, of forwarding the heritage we have received, and handing it down unimpaired to our children, and of transplanting on the soil of this our land the principles of strength, self-reliance, thrift and perseverance, which make the name of the parent land so worthy of honor. The future of our people and country will be very much what we make it, and if we remain true to the traditions that have been handed down to us, and true to ourselves as those who have been taught in a profitable school, the Canadian name will be honored, and Canadian history will respect, perhaps with improved conditions, the elements that we value in the history of the old land. This is the practical form in which our patriotic sentiment should find expression.

The speaker's remarks were repeatedly and warmly applauded.

The Bard of the Society, Wm. Telford, Esq., was called upon for his Annual Address, when he read the following piece of poesy, which will be read with interest by every Brither Scot:

WHEN WE WAS BUT CALLETS.

Weel this nicht, brither Scots, wad-ye like just to hear
A few words, fra the time we the daddilas did wear;
When our mither, obedient to customs and law,
Changed our calico dress, for the cordy-roy braw?
O the young joyfu' smile, as it spread o'er our cheeks,
When our mither pu'ed on us our first pair o' breeks.
They hamsled our pockets wi' toys an' bawbees,
Then we gaed about jinglin' as big as yon pleases
When we grew bigger callants, we mind it richt weel,
O there wasna a tree but we tried for to speel,
We leaned ovra hedge-row that growed the best hawes,
An' ovra scrog-heads that best suited our jaws.
And there wasna a burn that ran wimplin' near byes
But we kenned like cave where the trouts used to lie;
Not a bumbyke nor bird nest escaped from our view,
An' crueltie the young birds we aft did spang-lete.
There wasna a flower that bloomed round our hame
Fra the heather to gowan, but we kent them by name:
In the glen an' the craigs—where the wild berries hang,
An' the braes in the woods, there our young voices rang.
Fra the skule to the playgrounds at nicht we did rin,
An' played till our mither wad ca' us in—
Bill and Jock, do ye hear! Weel ye ca'me when yer ready;
Come this minute! I tell ye, for your parritch is cauld.
Our food when but collects the maist o' you knows,
The bonnie great change was fra parritch to brose;
We soupit many thers or sair, but we survived
Wi' healthy sonsa faces an' full corpulence shown
What Auld-Scotia has raised on her parritch an' brose.
This St. Andrew's Society, may it still prosper here,
An' may Scots hold untarnished the name which they bear.
Then a cheer for Auld Scotia, her sons an' their talents,
May they be honoured men, tho' once wild rompin callents.

"The House of Commons and Local Legislature" was eloquently proposed by James Millar, Esq., 1st Vice Chairman. He was glad to have the honor of proposing this toast. The House of Commons was now under the leadership of a Scotch man, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, who was an honor to Canada as well as to the land of his forefather, "bonnie Scotland." He was a man of whom Scotland would be proud, no matter to which party he owed allegiance. His character was unblemished—his public acts were most honorable—his life exemplary and respected. It was true that he had as a colleague, Mr. Blake, a gentleman every way honorable, able and respected, but in claiming credit for Mr. Mackenzie's ability, he did not in anyway desire to lessen public respect for the characters of the noble Englishmen, Irishmen, Canadians and Frenchmen, whom he had associated with, him and was glad to see that the St. Andrew's Society had not forgotten to have the St. George's and St. Patrick's Societies here represented. There were other good Scotchmen in both the Houses referred to. He therefore hoped this toast would be heartily received as they were all "jolly good fellows."

John Bertram, Esq., M. P., West Peterboro, responded. He said, in listening to the worthy proposer of the toast in his opening remarks, he could not help thinking that Mr. Millar was a true Scot, as he appeared to think of Scotland first and the Parliament of Canada second; he, the speaker, had some difficulty in confining himself to Canadian matters feeling as if he would better be at Bannockburn than on parliamentary subjects. Notwithstanding this he felt that the House of Commons of Canada was an important institution, but he felt that the people did not fully appreciate its importance. In comparing our institutions with those across the borders, we could not but be struck with the superiority of our own.—The American Constitution was not well suited to meet even American ideas, as witness that Constitution almost broken down or set at nought. At present our Commons was almost a transcript of the great English House of Commons, which in the past had been the great bulwark of the peoples rights and liberties, and had struggled hard to obtain responsible government, as may be seen in the history of England and under the Plantagenets and Stewarts when they had to contend strongly—nay even to fight for the liberty of the people, before obtained. In Canada this had not been the case, as the battle had been fought previously, and he hoped that it would be a long time before this would again be required of them. He was glad to know that there was one platform on which all could stand and grasp hands as brithers. They had a great work to perform—a great country to build up—work for the greatest and noblest minds to perform. He referred to the immense work of the Pacific Railway; the Intercolonial already about completed, and the other great national works that are yet to be undertaken. He said, although Scotsmen were accused of using every opportunity to push themselves forward, he felt that this was overdrawn. There were thirteen Cabinet Ministers and yet only one was a Scotchman. Certainly this did not look like undue clannishness. He hoped that the young men of Canada would see to it that they understood the wants of this great country, and would prepare themselves so to discuss the great questions of the day, and be ready to come forward and support the side which they considered right, and in the interest of the country generally, and to this end the old men should see that their sons would give public questions due consideration. He then thanked them on behalf of the Commons and Legislature.

Mr. D. Haggart proposed the next toast "Canada our Home." As a Canadian he was proud of his country; the climate was superior, our institutions admired everywhere, and our resources unlimited. Very soon our trade would be from the Atlantic to the Pacific; and then Canada would have a commerce only second to Great Britain. He was ready to hope that every Scotchman present was a Canadian and would be ready to make their home superior to any other country—superior even to the country they had left, as it really was, and as every one who had come here could testify that they had bettered their position by coming. He referred to the influence of several men in commerce, shipbuilding and politics, but thought that if all who came to Canada could give up their clannishness and work for the interest of Canada it would be better, as by so doing they would inculcate a national feeling in the minds of their prosterity.

The toast was well received.

Mr. George Tully responded in fitting terms, praising our Institutions Literature and Agricultural interests and climate as second to none in the world.

Mr. James Mennies proposed the "Learned Professions," which was responded to by D. G. Easton, Esq., E. H. D. Hall, Esq, and R. E. Wood Esq We regret that space will not permit us to give their speeches.

Thos. Menzies, Esq., proposed the "Agricultural and Manufacturing Interests." Mr. Bertram responded on behalf of the manufacturers.

Mr. Elder, Esq., proposed our "Sister Societies." In doing so he said:—

The duty devolving on me to-night is a very pleasing one. It always gives the members of St. Andrew's Society great pleasure in entertaining their guests and the representatives of our sister societies. We trust you will spend a very pleasant evening with us, so when we part you will be so favourably impressed that you will say, "It's really nice to be in Scotland, if only for a night." From the position which I held in the St. Andrew's Society during the past year, I had ample opportunity of seeing the charitable workings of the St. George's Society, but I failed to see a St. Patrick's Society; yet although there were no society, there were good, liberal big-hearted Irishmen helping the poor of Peterborough, regardless of nationality or creed. There were also other charitable institutions at work, and it was glad to be able to say to you that there was no need of work who are capable, and in the whole community of Peterborough for the most part there is no need for the great good they perform.

The sick and feeble were attended to, the hungry were fed, and clothing was provided for the needy. Guided, as all were who were engaged in the work by a noble christian spirit, dash out liberally. We, as a Society, took our part in the work in assisting our less fortunate brethren, brought cheer to the hearts of some poor Scotch families and helped the weary traveller on his way. Let us hope that this spirit of charity will ever continue to be with the members of St. George's and St. Andrew's Societies, not only with the societies but with the people of our town generally. For if we have to pass through so severe a winter as the last, much will have to be done in assisting those poor and unfortunate people; so let us all join in the chorus:—

Let none be for a party,
Let all be for the State,
Let the great men help the poor
And the poor men love the great.
Let lands be fairly portioned.

Let justice not be sold,
Let Scotchmen be like brothers
As in the good days of old.

I ask you brother Scotchmen, not as Burns said with a tear, but with a right good heart and will, to drink a bumper to our guests and the representatives of our Sister Societies.

The toast was duly honored.

Mr. Toker responded on behalf of the St. George's Society, thanking them for the manner in which it had been proposed and received.

Mr. John Moloney, as an Irishman, responded on behalf of the St. Patrick's Society, as there was no St. Patrick's Society in Peterborough at present.

"The Mayor & Corporation" was proposed by Mr. J. R. Ormond, and responded to by Councillors Menzies and Haggart.

"The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. Bathgate, and responded to by Messrs J. Cameron, D. Haggart and others.

John Elder, Esq., proposed the "Press," which was responded to by Mr. E. J. Tober, of the Review; Mr. A. Borrowman, of the Times; and J. R. Stratton, of the EXAMINER in order of their grey hairs.

Mr. J. Bertram gave the "Bard of the Society," responded to by Mr. Telford.

Mr. Toker proposed the health of "The Chairman," which was duly acknowledged by Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. Ormond then gave the "Host and Hostess," which was received enthusiastically; Mr. Moloney returning thanks.

The Scotch Bag-pipes enlivened the recesses with several airs to cheer the Scottish heart.

The evening was a very pleasant one, every thing was done to make the guests and friends happy. The committee did their part well. After "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again" the party separated, near the wee sma' hours.

THE EAST.

The report from the East once more hold out hopes of a peaceable arrangement. England is said to have raised the question of a prolongation of the armistice, but the indicationsare that a disposition has arisen on all sides, and especially in Turkey and Russia, to prevent possible antagonism, at least for the armistice unnecessary. Turkey declares that, if not threatened with the occupation of Bulgaria, she will do her best to make the Conference a success. In St. Petersburg great gloom is said to prevail, and the warlike enthusiasm that was at first manifested appears to have completely died away since the Servian defeat and the issue of the new loan. Bismarch has again made a speech reviewing the situation, in which he professes the greatest friendship for both Russia and England, and expresses a hopeful belief that the difference between the two countries, will be removed, and that the crisis will bebrought to a satisfactory termination.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 7, 1876.

"Your vote and influence are respectfully solicited," is the by-word now-a-days.

The Ontario Legislature will meet for despatch of business on Wednesday, Jan. 3rd.

MR. GEORGE ALLEN, of the Temperance House, has put up large additional shed room for the accommodation of the public.

WHAT is to be done about clearing the snow off the sidewalks this winter? Where is Councillor Rutherford's Snow by-law now, eh?

LECTURE.—The Rev. Mr. Afloo will deliver a lecture in the George Street Methodist Church, on Saturday evening, 16th inst. Subject "Home, Happiness, Hope and Heaven."

"All men are not homeless, but some men are busier how-them others," is what the reform of aspiring candidates for municipal honors say now-a-days.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—We are requested to announce that the Rev. Mr. Wilkins, of Stratford, will preach in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday next, both morning and evening.

TO ADVERTISERS.—Our advertising friends will please take notice, that in order to secure a change in their yearly advertisements, they will please hand in the copy not later than Monday evening.

A substitute for the postal card that is being considered by the Post Office Department is a stamped sheet (about note paper-size), with a gummed edge, to serve as both paper and envelope, and to cost two cents.

A SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENT will be given in the Methodist Church this evening, under the auspices of the ladies of the Church. A very pleasant evening is anticipated. There will be refreshments; admission 10 cents.

ACCIDENT.—On Saturday last, while Mr W. Preston, jr., of North Smith, was oiling the bevil gearing of a threshing machine, he had his second finger so badly jammed that he had to get it amputated at the second joint.

POULTRY MEETING.—The members of this Society are particularly requested to meet in the Council room at 7.30 p. m., on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of appointing a proper time to hold their Exhibition.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH SOCIAL.—The Social held in the new school building Ashburnham, on Wednesday evening last, in aid of the funds of the Church, was very successful. Want of space prevents our giving a full report.

LICENSED VICTUALLERS.—We understand that the licensed victuallers held a meeting on Tuesday evening in Mr. John Sullivan's Hotel, for the purpose of opposing the Dunkin Act. We will give particulars next week.

A NUISANCE.—It may be all very well for the boys, but it certainly does not conduce to the comfort of pedestrians that the sidewalks should be turned into skating rinks. The police ought to see to the abatement of the nuisance.

AUCTION SALE.—Haggart Bros. will sell by Public Auction a large consignment of dry goods, boots and shoes, &c., at McLaughlins Hotel, Keene, on Monday, December 11th, at 2 and 7 p.m. This is part of a bankrupt stock and will be sold for whatever it will bring.

IT is said that there are more Editors unmarried than any other class of professional men. For this reason—we suppose the majority of them are men of fine sentiment, and do not wish to starve anybody's sister. The Editors of this town must be very honorable fellows.

"MY LITTLE LOVE."—Messrs. Belford Bros. new publications are following each other in rapid succession. The above, by Marion Harland being the latest issue from their press. Miss Harland's works are all well worth reading, and "My Little Love" is one of the best we have seen.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.—During the past two years, the standard of qualification for teachers has been raised considerably, so have their salaries. Encourage the faithful and efficient teacher. The cheapest, nominally, is not always the best, sometimes they prove the dearest in reality in the end.

THE Hon. Robt. Dunlap, of Lockport, N. Y., who is of unsound mind, left his home about the 15th of November last, and is supposed to be in Canada. Any one knowing of his whereabouts will confer a great favour on his anxious family by communicating with S. R. Daniels, Esq., Mayor of the above city.

VENNORISMS FOR DECEMBER.—Mr. Vennor forecasts the weather for December as follows:—There is every prospect of its being a very stormy and wintry month, and a particularly blustry one. Last year we had no sleighing at all during the month: this year we shall have sleighing throughout. He expects a great deal of snow and a severe snap of cold.

THE LATEST.—Wristlet parties are all the latest; the ladies furnish the wristlets, and each pair is numbered. One of each pair with the number is put in a box and is sold to the gentleman by a committee, and corresponding wristlets with the numbers, are worn by the ladies. The fun commences when each gentleman buys a wristlet and finds the owner of the mate to it, to whom he is to pay attentions during the evening.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday, the 28th ult., while Mr. W. Nelson, of the Township of Emily, was drawing with his team a rain trough from the woods to his residence, a lad about 16 years of age, son of Mr. W. Dennis, while attempting to get on, slipped and fell, the trough passing over him, killing him instantly. No blame is attached to Mr. Nelson, he not being aware that the boy was there till he was killed.

WEATHER CLERKS AT VARIANCE.—Professor Tice, of St. Louis, an eminent American scientist, predicts that the coming winter will be the coldest for 100 years. Prof. Heinrich, an Iowa clerk of the weather, says that the winter will most probably be moderate, that is above the normal temperature. Our own Vennor's prediction seems to be about midway between the two. The question naturally arises, which shall we believe?

MUNICIPAL MATTERS are very quiet in town, although, as usual, rumours are flying about thickly. As none of the said-to-be candidates have as yet announced themselves, there is no authoritative information to make public in the matter. In Smith Mr. Sanderson will be opposed by Mr. George Fitzgerald for the Reeveship. Mr. Sanderson has proved himself an energetic member of the County Council, and stands a good chance of re-election.

REGISTER YOUR PARTNERSHIPS.—Private detectives are going the rounds in Ontario prosecuting cases of unregistered partnerships. It is stated that an organized raid has been commenced all over the Province, and that the detectives expect to make a "big thing" on the fines, the number of unregistered partnerships in Ontario being computed to be upwards of 1,000. The penalty for neglect to observe the law is $100, half of which goes to the informer.

NEW BUSINESS.—We would direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mr. F. L. Doll which appears in another column of to-days issue. Mr. Doll is a young man of good business qualities, and the enterprise he has embarked in, he has a thorough knowledge of. He has rented half of the store occupied by Mr. Lipsett, where he intends to keep constantly on hand a good assortment of jewelry, &c. We bespeak for Mr. Doll a fair share of patronage.

PETERBOROUGH LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—This Association met as usual on Tuesday evening last, Mr. Edwards, M. A., being in the chair. Mr. F. A. Hilton read an extract from "King Henry VIII." and Mr. N. D. Beck "The Snow-drop" by Montgomery. The debate was adjourned till next meeting. The subject is:—"Whether is it better to have civil cases decided by courts of law or by arbitrators who are not bound by legal precedent?" The question will be open for debate to all members of the Society

GOING SPORT WITH GOOD DOGS.—Mr. A. H. B. Sproule of this town, in company with Mr. E. Sanderson's sons of Smith, shot, on Tuesday last, on their farm, three foxes. Parties need not go so far away from home for sport as Mr. Sproule assures us that there are plenty of Foxes in the neighbourhood, and quite convenient to town. He also tells us that he shot one, the other day, across the Lovis bridge, which was a very old fellow. They also had the pleasure of capturing three raccoons, one of them weighing 27 lbs. Who can beat that for sport?

FIRE.—The dwelling and contents of Mr. McMartin, in Otonabee, were consumed by fire on Friday last, about 4.30, p. m. The fire originated from the chimney, and got such a headway before being seen that nothing could be done to save it. There was only a small portion of the furniture saved, the rest of the contents of the family being burned. We are sorry to say that Mr. McMartin got his hands frozen, and one of his daughters her foot, she only having a pair of slippers on at the time. He was insured in the Agricultural Mutual for $600; the loss is considerable over the insurance.

A First-Class Overcoat for $6 at H. LEBRUN'S.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION PETITION.—We understand that the petition filed by Mr. Cox, is to be withdrawn. The vast expense lavished in a scrutiny of votes, as well as the waste of time involved in a protracted trial, induced Mr. Cox to consent to drop the matter. The costs incurred are paid by the respondent. We think on the whole the last election was as pure as any election ever will be, and though Mr. Cox on a scrutiny would probably have got the seat it would only be at an expense he would not be justified in incurring, particularly as no party purpose would be advanced by Mr. Scott's removal from the House.

POLICE COURT.—On Thursday morning last, Francis Taggart was charged by Thomas Eastland with cruelly ill-treating a horse. Fined $5 and costs; $3 to be paid forthwith, and in default 10 days imprisonment with hard labour. He was committed....On Monday morning the Police Magistrate gave his decision against Mr. Roddy, and fined him $20 and $4.55 costs, for selling liquor on Sunday, to be paid on or before the 7th inst....On Saturday afternoon Catherine McMahon charged her husband, Thomas McMahon with threatening to "cut her throat." He was bound over to keep the peace in himself $200, and two sureties of $100 each, and in default to be committed to jail. He was committed to jail....The adjourned case of May vs. Beavis was again brought up before the P. M. on Monday morning. Mr. Beavis was fined $1 and 92 costs.

PRESENTATION.—On the occasion of the departure of the Rev. H. Maclennan for his new sphere of labour in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, the teachers of the Sabbath School met at his residence on Monday evening, when Mr. D. Pentland on behalf of the teachers and Sabbath School presented Mrs. Maclennan with one dozen solid silver spoons, worth $36. On behalf of the Church, Mr. Maclennan was presented with a purse containing $103, and an address expressing the good-will of the donors to him and Mrs. Maclennan and family. The Rev. gentleman left on Tuesday by the evening train for Charlottetown. A large number of the members of his Church and other friends were at the train to bid him good-bye. We understand that Mrs. Maclennan and family will remain here for a time owing to the unpleasant season for such a long journey. The best wishes of many sincere friends accompany him to his new field of labor, in which we heartily join.

Just received a Large Stock of Gents Furnishings for the Christmas Holidays at H. LEBUN'S.

A HINT FOR FARMERS.—We desire to bring the subjoined paragraph specially to the attention of farmers in this section, where there is great need for improvement in cattle breeding:—"It is to be regretted that our farmers do not seem to recognize the constant demand which really exists for first-class beef. The extra expense would not be great, and the care should not be grudged which would yield to the feeder $4 to $4.50 where now he gets $3 to $3.75. More care in housing and feeding would do much to improve the quality of beef, and a short experience of the better prices possible to be had would pave the way for the improvement in the breed of cattle which is very much to be desired. The present sad season is perhaps rather a disadvantage to those who desire to have really succulent beef. In former years the cattle have been forced indoors earlier and have had a longer period of stall feeding, which produces a better fibre than the happy-go-lucky sort of grazing, or foraging, by which the cattle are ordinarily left to supply themselves with food in the late fall months."

Just the thing for "Hard Times!" LONG, BROS. are selling Toys at Half-Price. Call and see them.

THE DEVIL'S CHAIN.—The Young Men's Christian Association have been fortunate enough to secure the services of Mr. T. W. Handford, of Bolton, England, for two lectures, on Thursday and Friday evenings of next week.—From what we have learned of his lectures in other places and from reports in the press we are led to anticipate a rich intellectual treat. The Rev. Dr. Castle, one of the ablest ministers in Toronto, says of him: "Mr. Handford's talents are of the first order; he is eloquent to a degree given but to few. He has given several lectures in the Jarvis Street Church which were rich in material, exquisite in diction, and delivered with a grace and power which completely captured his audience." The lectures will be delivered in Bradburn's new hall, and as the object of the Association is not so much to make money as to afford to all the people of Peterborough an opportunity of listening to one of the very ablest speakers now in Canada. The charge for admission will be fixed at fifteen cents to all parts of the hall. The subject for the lecture on Thursday night will be "The Devil's Chain."

Geets! if you want a Suit of Clothes made to order that you need not be ashamed of, give H. LEBRUN a call.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—It has been announced that the Anniversary Services of the George Street Methodist Church of this town, will be held on the 24th and 25th instant. The President of the Toronto Conference, the Rev. Dr. Jeffers, a man of extraordinary ability as a preacher, will deliver two sermons on Sabbath 24th, at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m. On the following Monday, (Christmas Day) the ladies of the congregation will furnish a Public Festival.—Tea will be served at five o'clock. This will give an opportunity to friends in both town and country to spend Christmas evening in a manner both pleasant and profitable. It is generally conceded that the George St. congregation have claims on the public for a large amount of goodwill and generous support. Their noble enterprise in erecting this church, at once a blessing and an adornment to the town, has gained for them the increased respect and good wishes of their fellow townspeople. One year ago the church itself was opened for worship amid hearty congratulations. Last spring the lecture room and class rooms were completed. Since the church was occupied it has been the source of many blessings to the people, both old and young. Sabbath after Sabbath it has been filled, and frequently crowded with attentive listeners. The pastors have gathered around them a host of sober-minded young people whose influence for good is immense. The seed so faithfully sown by the pastors will bear fruit. The membership of the church has increased more than one hundred during the past year. We are sure that a large number will be glad to join with the Methodists in celebrating the first Anniversary of the George St. Church.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Edmison, chairman of the Finance Committee, read the following report:—Your committee having examined the Auditor's Report and the books and vouchers on which the same is based, and particularly with regard to the four items on the debit side of the cash book kept by your late Secretary-Treasurer and regarding the correctness of which the auditors in their report expressed grave doubts which four items in the aggregate amount to $29.70; and your committee, after having taken into consideration all the different sources from which the late Treasurer could have received any money, ascertaining the amount derived from last fund that he has charged against himself $129.70, more, that the aggregate amount received by him from all sources which sum your committee find is made up of the four items above mentioned, and your committee submits that after deducting the sum of $71.50 from the said sum of $129.70 the balance (being $58.20) is due, and ought to be returned to the proper representatives of the late Secretary-Treasurer. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was received and adopted.

Mr. McClelland submitted plans of a building as a suggestion of plans for the Ward School building drawn by Mr. Blackwell.

Moved by Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Robertson,—That the salary of Mr. McKee be raised to $600 from the 1st of this quarter.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That in view of obtaining stationary for the use of this school at the lowest cost, the Secretary be instructed to advertise for Tenders, stating the various kinds and quantities required and that said Tenders be submitted to the first regular meeting of the Board in January next.—Carried.

Mr. Stevenson said that the Special Committee appointed to wait on the Town Counil in reference to the building of a new school in the 3rd Ward had done so, and the Council rather favoured the same, but they would like to see the plans; they thought that it was better to build a two-storey building when they were at it, not to cost over $3,000; and the Council seemed to approve of it, and they were perfectly satisfied that increased school accommodation was required, and that the best thing for the Board to do was for them to give their estimates to the Council at their next meeting.

Moved by Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the first vote of order of this Board of School Trustees be amended by striking out the words half-an-hour, where they occur, and inserting a quarter of an hour instead, and that the time of meeting for the afternoon be one-quarter to eight p. m.—Carried.

Mr. Edmison drew the attention of the Property Committee to the way in which the stoves smoked in several of the rooms.

The Principal said he thought it could be put up with till the holidays.

Moved by Mr. Edmison, seconded by Mr. Johnston,—That the question of prizes referred to in the communication of the Principal be referred to the Finance, the following committee to order the payment of any sum not exceeding $5.00 as a prize to each pupil who shall successfully pass the next intermediate examination, if they consider it advisable that any such prizes ought to be granted, viz: the chairman, Messrs. Shaw, McClelland, Edwards and the mover.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Edwards, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the communication from Port Perry be referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Edmison, Shaw, McClelland, Cox and the mover, with power to act.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

THE DUNKIN ACT.

There were present Revs. Messrs. Torrance and Watson of Peterboro; Washington of Warsaw; Clarke of Lakefield; Woodsworth of Ashpodel, and Radcliff of Smith. Mr. H. Morton of Hastings; and D. Kennedy, D. Pentland, R. A. Brown, R. Fairbairn, etc.

The Convention met again at 2 o'clock when the committee reported by resolutions.

Moved by Mr. H. Morton, seconded by Rev. Mr. Watson—That this Convention believing the Liquor traffic to be the most prolific cause of misery and crime in our land, pledges itself to renewed and increased activation for the total suppression of the manufacture and sale of Alcoholic Liquors as a beverage. Believing prohibition to be the only effectual remedy for the evil which is at present filling our home with misery and want.—Carried.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

THE LETTER THAT LED TO A LITTLE FUSS.

We last week gave an account of, and remarked upon the acting of Mr. William Houston before the Court of Queen's Bench for the publication of a letter in the Paisley Advocate, commenting upon the judgment of Justice Wilson in the criminal libel suit against Wilkinson, of the West Durham News. In order that our readers may more clearly understand the case we reproduce below the letter complained of. The passages selected by the counsel of the defendant in Regina v. Wilkinson, as involving contempt of Court, are quoted:—

To the Editor of the Advocate.

SIR,—I have been somewhat amused by my perusal of the correspondence passing between Mr. McNeill and "Reformer," through the medium of your columns, on the above subject, and after reading Mr. McNeill's letter of last week I feel like asking your permission for a small amount of your space in order to set him right on one or two points where he writes in such an "exacthedra" style that he may possibly deceive some of your readers as to the facts of the case. In the first place, it must be borne in mind that the judgment which drew forth the Globe's editorial was not the judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench, but simply of Mr. Justice Wilson, one of the judges of that Court. The first judgment delivered was that of Chief Justice Harrison—a moderate, able and lawyer-like document, which discussed the case in all its legal bearings, and in these alone. To that judgment the Globe's editorial criticisms had not the slightest reference. The third judge, Hon. J. C. Morrison—who, like Chief Justice Harrison, is a Conservative, was once a colleague of John A. Macdonald—delivered no judgment at all, and merely concurred in the finding of the chief, who had really exhausted the legal argument in the matter. I leave your readers to judge how far Mr. McNeill was justified in affirming that Mr*f* George Brown has assailed the Court of Queen's Bench or its decisions. He has, in this instance at least, done nothing of the sort. The decision of the Court is the absolute finding of the judges, or a majority of them-not the line of argument by which each judge indicates the method he arrived at his finding. In this case it was Judge Wilson's irrelexant, inconsequential, gratuitous, and there is reason to fear malicious, line of argumentation that was assailed not his finding which agreed with that of his colleagues, and is admitted on all hands to be reasonable. In this connection I might ask Mr. McNeill "whether it does not seem to him somewhat remarkable" that Chief Justice Harrison and Mr. Justice Morrison, two old Conservative politicians, should have acted so courteously and with such studied moderation in a case which they well knew involved a good deal of political feelings, and "that Mr. Justice Wilson, an old Reformer, "quondam friend and follower of Mr. "Brown's, and his colleague in the election for Toronto in 1861, should have "chosen to pen a judgment which all "admit to be severe, and which every "lawyer in Osgoode Hall knows to be "utterly unwarrantable." There must be some explanation of such a phenomenon, and if Mr. McNeill has never happened to hear it I would like to offer it to him now. It is no secret that Mr Justice Wilson has for years been a soured and disappointed man, and that his feelings towards the Reform party in general and Mr. Brown in particular have been of the bitterest kind. "There is a general "feeling amongst Reformers all over the "province that it is unsafe to allow him "to try a contested election case, and the "leading lawyers hold the same view, and "declare that it is impossible for them to "get a decision in favor of a Reform candidate if there is any loop-hole by which "he can escape giving one.' Nor is the reason for such conduct on his part far to seek. When the Liberal party came into power Mr. Wilson fully expected that his long-deferred promotion would speedily come. When Mr. Mowat's Government reconstructed our Superior Court system it became the duty of Mr. Blake, as Minister of Justice, to appoint three new judges for the Court of Appeal, while the promotion of Chief Justice Richards to the Supreme Court at Ottawa left an opening for Mr. Wilson in his own Court. Instead of promoting him, however, Mr. Blake had the manliness and good sense to appoint to the Chief Justiceship of the highest Common Law Court the leading common law lawyer in the Province, Mr. R. A. Harrison, who was then and always had been a Conservative. Will Mr. McNeill, find any fault with him for doing so! "And yet nothing can be more certain than that Mr. Justice Wilson has "kept his rods in pickle for Reformers ever since." Truly Mr. Blake has much to answer for at the bar of his party for appointing a Conservative, even though in point of suitability for the position he was to Mr. Wilson as "Hyperion to a Satyr."

On another point Mr. McNeill wants straightening up no less than on the one already dealt with. In his Reformer was perfectly justified in saying that the Big Push letter was not before the Court in evidence, for the simple reason that no evidence had yet been taken in the case at all. Mr. McNeill, and perhaps others as well, would be none the worse of having the matter made a little more clear than it appears to be. When Senator Simpson determined to prosecute the proprietor of the West Durham News for libel, he, like any other aggrieved person, had his choice of methods. Instead of a civil action, as damages would have been of no consequence to him and as the libel was of an exceedingly aggravating character, he chose to ask the Court of Queen's Bench for leave to file a criminal information against the libeller. In his application he of course had to set forth the nature of the libel and present a sworn denial of the truth of the charges, which were three in number: (1) That he had been engaged in disgraceful political intrigues; (2) that he had made use of the funds of the Ontario Bank, of which he is President, for electioneering purposes; and (3) that on the eve of the Pacific Scandal vote at Ottawa he purchased some parliamentary support for the Opposition, and thus by illegitimate means compassed the downfall of Sir John A. Macdonald.

These are all grave charges, and more especially the last two. The defendant was of course permitted to file counter affidavits for the purpose of showing that the case did not call for so serious and grave a method of procedure as the issue of a criminal information by the courts of Queen's Bench. To the last two counts no sufficient response was made, and the Court unanimously granted the information on them. To the first it was replied that a circular issued by Mr. Simpson as President of the Bank, and a letter repated to have been sent to him by Mr. Brown, and known as the Big Push letter, were sufficient ground for making against him a charge of political intrigue. On this count the judges decided unanimously against Mr. Simpson's application, and it was in connection with this matter that Judge Wilson made his malicious and vituperative criticisms. It thus appears that the Big Push letter was not before the Court in evidence at all; that it was before the Court only as part of an affidavit, a very different thing; that those who brought it before the Court did not furnish at that stage, any evidence that the letter was either written by Mr. Brown or received by Mr. Simpson; that Mr. Justice Wilson had not a single patch of ground to stand upon when in his judicial capacity he undertook to comment on that letter further than to remark that if it could be shown to have been so written and received it might be admitted as a reason for refusing the criminal information; that he had the well-known card of Mr. Brown explaining the letter as much before him at the latter itself, and if he as judge had a right to comment on the letter at all, he was bound in common fairness to state what that explanation was; and that in commenting on the letter he himself wilfully, and notwithstanding the writer's explanation, put upon it, in open Court, and in the most pointed and offensive language, the worst possible interpretation the language will bear. Let it be borne in mind that a judge's utterances on the Bench are privileged; that he can neither be sued for libel himself nor can any journal be sued for reporting his remarks, and that his remarks in this case were, if untrue, positively libellous, and manifestly calculated to bring Mr. Brown into contempt, and then let Mr. McNeill say what he would have done had he been assailed. If he were the proprietor of a powerful organ he would, if one may judge of the character of his letters, have done his best to give the judge a Roland for his Oliver, though it may fairly be questioned whether his reply would have been as forcible as Mr. Brown's; but not having a journal of his own he would probably have contented himself with a two column article in the Advocate. As to trying to punish Judge Wilson by removing him, neither he nor his offence were of sufficient importance to justify taking up the time of Parliament with either of them. I may add that he is, from all accounts, quite subdued, and shows no intention of calling Mr. Brown to account for his outrageous criticism. Should he do so, he can only ask the latter to show cause, and Mr. McNeill may depend upon it that Mr. Brown is ready to do so at any time, if asked.

I am not in a position to say whether Mr. McNeill is likely to convince 'Reformer' of the error of his position, but "I am in a position to say that Reformers "generally are not at all displeased with "the raking over that Judge Wilson "received, while many Conservatives as "well as Reformers are delighted to have "him shown up in his true colors." In conclusion, I, too, would like to ask Mr. McNeill a few questions, to which I would like categorical replies 1. Does he carry his respect for the Bench so far as to say that, no matter what a judge may say or do in his judicial capacity, he should escape all criticism of the press? 2. If judges may, under certain circumstances, be criticsed, where would he draw the line? 3. Does he make any difference between a reputed letter introduced in a preliminary affidavit in a case, and the same letter produced in open court by some witness whose testimony can be subject to cross-examination? 4. Does he deem it fair, even if it were legal, that a private letter, surreptitiously obtained, and not before a court in evidence, should be commented on unfavorably by a judge when the writer has, to the judge's knowledge, fully explained the language of the document? And 5. "does he know that "the trial in this case has yet to come off, "that Mr. Simpson has obtained even "from Judge Wilson a criminal information on two out of three counts, that "the editor of the West Durham News is "as certain to be convicted as a libeller "ever was before his trial," and that, if this suit is successful, it is intended that the Mail and all the other Tory papers who revelled in the puddle at Mr. Simpson's expense, will have to beg pardon or be convicted too? I have not the honor of Mr. McNeill's acquaintance, but I think I am entitled to an answer to the above questions.

Yours, etc.

ANOTHER REFORMER.

LINDSAY

A large fire occurred here at about 4.30 on Friday morning, originating in Thos. Gourlay's photograph gallery on Lindsay-street. A strong north wind prevailing at the time soon spread the flames to the adjoining building and every effort of the fireman was unless. The frame hotel belonging to J. Maguire, and another frame building on the north, were soon in flames. The fire then extended to the rear and destroyed the dwelling and carriage works of W. Hedinsy. Nothing could now save the Osborne House, kept by Mr. A. Jewett and owned by H. Workman, a large three-story brick building. Some of the boarders had a difficulty in escaping with their lives. The insurance is about $13,900, while the loss will be at least $25,000. The insurances are as follows:—Osborne House, $2,000 in the Western, and $2,000 in the Stadacona. On the contents of this house, the Stadacona has $1,000, the Citizens' $1,000, and the Lanchashire $1,000. On the Maguire House, Western $8000; on the three buildings owned by J. Scully; Stadacona $850; on Hertibey's buildings and contents, the Manufacturers' and Merchants' had $1,000, and the Canada Fire and Marine $1,800. This last company had a risk of $800 on the contents of the photograph gallery.

It is said that Hon. Geo. Brown will appear in the Court of Queen's Bench to day (Thursday) in answer to the writ issued calling upon him to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt of Court in the publication of an article in the Globe of June 8th, under the heading "Justice Wilson on the War Path." We have not learned whether he will answer personally or be represented by counsel.

To Wm. Clarion, Esq., and others:

GENTLEMEN,—In answer to your kindly signed requisition, I beg to say that I will comply with the request, and if elected, I promise to devote myself to the best interests of the Town. It is generally felt that during the present year the expenditures made by the town have not been judiciously applied, especially in this part, compared to whatever does on the streets and highways. I think it high time that the ratepayers should have a voice in this, and if elected I will endeavour to see that the public money is expended as low as possible consistent with the public requirements.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours truly,

THOMAS MENZIES.

Jack, the first of all the party,
Came to us one winter's night:
Jack, you said, should be a parson.
Long before he saw the light.
Do you see that great cathedral,
Filled, the transept and the nave,
Hear the organ gradly pealing,
Watch the silken hangings wave;
See the priest in robes of office,
With the altar at his back—
Would you think that gifted preacher
Could be our own little Jack?

Then a girl with curly tresses
Used to climb upon my knee,
Like a little fairy princess
Ruling at the age of three.
With the years there came a wedding—
Alas! your fond heart swelled with pride
When the lord of all the country
Chose your baby for his bride.
Watch the stately carriage coming,
And the form reclining there—
Would you think that brilliant lady
Could be our own little Clare?

Then the last, a blue-eyed youngster—
I can hear him prattling now—
Such a strong and sturdy fellow,
With his broad and honest brow.
How he used to love his mother!
Ah! I see your trembling lip!
He is far off on the water,
Captain of a royal ship.
See the troops upon his forehead,
Hear the voice of stern command;
That the boy who clung so fondly,
To his mother's gentle hand!

Ah! my wife, we've lost the babies.
Ours so long and ours alone;
What are we to these great people,
Stately men and women grown?
Seldom do we even see them,
Yes, a little friendship starts,
As we sit here in the firelight,
Lonely hearths and lonely hearts.
All their lives are full without us,
They'll step long enough one day
Just to lay us in the churchyard,
Then they'll each go on their way.

The Belmont Mystery.

To correct the absurd rumors flouting around in regard to the finding of the dead body in Belmont, we have obtained from a party cognisant of all the circumstances, the following facts The discovery was made by two residents of the township, Samuel C. Hulett and Charles Chase, who were searching in the neighborhood for marsh hay. The bones were almost entirely divested of flesh, and the boot containing the bones of the right foot was a short distance away from the rest of the skeleton. The body had not been disturbed by wild animals, though they are quite numerous in that vicinity. The coat, vest and hat of the unfortunate man were lying in a heap about eighteen or twenty feet away from the body. It looked as if the man had taken off his clothing and sat down on a small log, one end of which was resting on the rocks and had fallen off, for when found one leg was under the slanting log and the other across it. There is no truth in the report in the Review that there was an extensive fracture on the skull, for Dr. Ford, the medical witness at the inquest, stated that there was no sign of violence whatever on the skeleton, nor any blood stains on the clothes. The clothes were of good material, but worn somewhat threadbare, and the boots bore unmistakable evidence of some very long tramping. Near by were two sticks, which appeared to have been used to assist in travelling. In his pocket were a common knife, some U. S. currency, some Canadian silver and copper coins; a card bearing the name Jessup, Agricultural Implement maker, Terre Haute, Indiana; an envelope post marked Cleveland, O, return in ten days if not called for, and a Montreal Telegraph Company's envelope, addressed Hugh McKay, Durham.

The spot where the body was found is one of the wildest imaginable, a bare space of rock in the midst of the densest woods, some distance from a footpath running from the Oak Lake Settlement in Methuen to what is known as Hubbell's settlement on Stoney Lake.

Mr. White, of Belmont, said at the inquest that the clothes were like those of an eccentric individual who passed his place some twenty years ago; but Mr. Sexsmith, with whom that man lodged all night, and several others who saw him, said it was not the man at all. Some mineral specimens found in his pockets seemed to indicate that the man had been prospecting, but a miner at the inquest stated that they showed he knew nothing of minerals, as they were specimens which no miner would think of carrying around. Whether he entered the vicinity from the east, or was crossing over from the Chandos Road, whether it was a case of suicide or murder, or starvation, there was nothing at all to show.

"A heap of crumbling bones,
And shreds of rolling clothes,
Of that dark mysterious tragedy
In all that anyone knows."—Reporter.

"Girls Don't Do It".

"Don't do what I" our fair young readers will ask. There are a great many things you ought to do, and a still greater number that you had better not do. Foremost and prominent among the latter is, to undertake to reform a drunkard by marrying him. Depend upon it, if you cannot keep him sober during those days of the average women's strongest influence over wayward men, the season of courtship, the chances will be against success. Some women have succeeded in this labor of love, but there are 10,000 failures to one success. It is a field of missionary labor that few of the sex are fitted to enter. If John gets drunk once a month whilst he is billing and cooing, depend upon it he will require semi-monthly seasons of Bacchanalian recreation when he becomes a benedict. A man who gets drunk is necessarily a bad or foolish man when he is under the influence of liquor, and is very apt to soon become a bad man whether drunk or sober. The romantic idea that a woman who can reform a drunkard is deserving of a crown of glory is all bosh. They would be shocked by the suggestion that a man who marries a fallen woman and restores her to a life of virtues, would be deserving the praise of all mankind. The latter would be a much easier task than the former, and more likely to succeed. The debasement in one case is generally incurable, and seems the influence of kindness and affection; whilst in the other the opportunity to escape from a life of degradation which in short cases many hearty co-operation with the missionary in such a field. But the drunkard as is generally the case, may be addicted to a number of other vices, each one of which ought to be considered as repulsive as that of drinking. Still we find pure, virtuous, refined, and divinely women risking their lives and happiness in the delusive hope of reclaiming and restoring them. Instances of the terrible failure in this missionary field are to be found in every street and lane of a great city, so-called reformed scenes of the desolate widows and orphans of those who have staggered into drunkards' graves. Still the experiment is tried by new votaries who think they can succeed where others fail. It is a terrible delusion. Love and devotion are powerless over a drunkard. Nothing but fearless will and a firmness that few women possess can check the career of a man who has once taken hold of strong drink. He must become subject to her will, and be fascinated, more or less controlled by a power stronger than love or kindness. There are enough men who become drunkards after marriage for all reasonable purposes of experiment, without taking them fully trained in a career of vice and debauchery. Therefore we say, "Girls, don't do it!"

The total cash receipts for the Centennial were $3,950,000 in round numbers, and the total working expenses about $1,830,000, leaving a net profit of over $2,000,000 to the shareholders. A question has arisen, however, which may prevent the distribution of this, but it is regarded as hardly among the possibilities. The act of Congress appropriating $1,500,000 for the Centennial Exhibition, provided that the United States should be paid before any profits were paid to the stockholders. Every thing hangs on the word "profits," and, of course, a decision must be obtained to settle the question. Taken as a whole, the Americans would have been bettering themselves more than any that have preceded it.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumphs over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest reward which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No other company received more a recognition in the department. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission, unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the school of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR PRIORITY SHOULD BE MADE BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO HOODWINK THE PEOPLE. One of the Testimonials!

From Dr DUNCAN MCCALLUM, Montreal—

I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of that genuine article

HAVE JUST RECEIVED ANOTHER

Fresh Lot of Teas.

10 Hogsheads of [illegible]

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no other medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the eternal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken; for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

The superiority of these Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the glow and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. It wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, an Creppings in Throat Disappear.

ST ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir,—It may interest you that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to say that a bottle of it has done for me. I am twenty-six years old, and was out of health for about five years. I had contracted three or four different colds, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but sometimes rather the contrary, until I had taken what I had become so ill as to be unable to do on Lake's gravel at a time. I had spasms in the throat, and pains under the shoulders, with very heavy pains, and a pain in the back part of my head, which was a burden to me. I had taken about one bottle of your Remedy when I found relief, and after taking four bottles I found myself entirely cured, and am in general good health. I am now able to do a day's work without any pain, and can recommend your Remedy to all who are afflicted with Catarrh, as I am sure it will cure them. I was recommended to try it by Mr. Thomas Hall, of this place, who had been cured by it of Catarrh, and I am glad I followed his advice.

Yours truly, T. J. B. HARDING, Mail Carrier, St. Armand, P. Q.

HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

THE PETERBORO' DELEGATION CONFER WITH THE BOARD OF TRADE—THE SCHEME IS ENDORSED BY REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

A meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade was held at the office of the Agricultural Insurance Company, Metcalf street, last evening, for the purpose of hearing a delegation in reference to the projected Huron and Quebec Railway. The following gentlemen were present: Hon. Jas. Skead, in the chair; Messrs Wm. Pennock, Charles Magee, William Somerville, F. Clemow, senr., J. W. Cruice, W. Shoolbred, J. C. Brennan, Thomas Patterson, T. Kavanagh, E. McGillivray, James Cunningham, J. A Pinard: Mr. Ira Morgan, President of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario; Messrs. A. G. Dobbie, Boyd Caldwell and W. C. Caldwell, of Lanark; and Mr. William H. Scott, M. P. P., and Major Boulton, of Peterboro', the two latter being the delegation.—The Chairman introduced Mr. Scott first.

Mr. Scott stated that he had come to the city, in conjunction with Major Boulton, to ascertain the feeling of the people of Ottawa toward the Huron and Quebec Railway, which it was proposed to construct between this city and Toronto. He said that when Mr. Fowler first moved in the matter he was well received, although not quite so successful as might have been expected, considering the excellence of the scheme. The Provisional Board of the contemplated road consisted of nine gentlemen who had continued to keep the charter alive. Peterboro' Town and County had voted $300,000 toward the project, being alive to the value of the undertaking. They had just been through Lanark County, and at Perth, and the people there seemed favorable toward giving a $100,000 bonus, although Perth had turned the cold shoulder when Mr. Fowler asked them the last time. The municipalities along the route wanted to see what the cities at either end were going to do, being decided themselves as to what they would give. Toronto papers had now taken up the advocacy of the scheme, and it was probable that that city would give $250,000 toward siding it; and Ottawa might go at least $200,000, this would be a small amount considering the benefits to be derived from the establishment of such a road. He thought that the municipal aid might amount as follows:

Toronto and Ottawa	$400,000
Peterboro' Town and County	300,000
Peterboro' to Carleton Place	275,000
Peterboro' to Toronto	220,000
	$1,195,000

He anticipated that the Ontario Government would aid them to the extent of $2,000 per mile between Peterboro' and Toronto, as that part was settled, and the amount was the lowest they had ever given any railway. From Peterboro' to the eastern limit of the country, the country was rough and rugged, and $3,000 would be little enough to expect; from Peterboro' thro' Lanark, which was not much settled, and very little cultivated, they ought to receive at least $6,000 per mile.—The policy of the Government had been to encourage new lines running through unopened sections. They had given $8,000 a mile to the road to run from Gravenhurst, and to meet with the Canada Pacific terminus at the French River; while the Kingston and Pembroke road, which was finished to Sharbot Lake, received $7,000 a mile. From the north limit of Lanark to Carleton Place Village they might receive $3,000 per mile. This calculation would give them the following amounts:

Toronto to Peterboro. 75 miles at $2,000 per mile	$150,000
Peterboro to eastern limits of the county 29 miles, at $6,000	174,000
Through Lanark, 45 miles, at $3,000	135,000
From limits of Lanark to Carleton Place 31 miles, at $3,000	93,000
Mortgage bonds, $10,000 per mile, less 15 per cent	1,193,000

A recapitulation gave the average municipal aid per mile at $6,000; the Government aid at $3,500; mortgage bonds at $8,500, or an average total per mile of $18,000, which he thought could or ought to be safely counted upon. He felt that with the amount that could be raised by bonuses, Government grants, and bonds, they would have sufficient to build and equip the road, which was undoubtedly the most important yet brought before public notice. The question asked by municipalities, when approached for aid, was what benefit would it be to them? So far as Ottawa was concerned, it was as awkwardly situated, in regard to railway connections, as their own town of Peterboro.' While it had a couple of lines leading to the front, connecting with the trunk line, it was entirely at their mercy regarding freight and passage fare. At Peterboro' it cost as much to ship freight over the thirty miles of the Midland Railway as it did on the 70 miles to Toronto on the Grand Trunk. Now, the extra tax imposed on Peterboro' and the County by the granting of the $300,000 bonus would be more than twice covered by the saving effected in the freight on wheat alone, not mentioning the gain on other products. This matter had been carefully calculated, and the people of Peterboro' Town and County were alive to their own interests. Peterboro' had splendid water privileges, but for lack of railway lines they were only slightly utilized—it was doubtless the same here although both depended in a measure on the lumber trade, this place to a much greater extent than his own.—The Huron and Quebec line would give Ottawa a much closer connection with the West, bringing into its lap trade from along the line, while it would give a much shorter route from the Western States to the seaboard. This city had splendid water privileges, but they never would be used much in manufactures without the increase of transportation facilities. He regretted learning that the state of the city finances would prevent any immediate action being taken in regard to aiding the enterprize, but he hoped that the matter would be brought fairly before the people so that they would see it to be to their advantage to aid the scheme at the earliest possible moment. The assessment of the city, he had found out, was placed at something over $1,000,000, the tax on which would only be one and a half mills on the dollar if a bonus of $200,000 were granted, payment extending over the usual twenty years. He said that a man assessed for $1,000 would have to pay about $1.50 per annum; those assessed for $350 about 50 cents. It would be to the interests of the city to give aid to the scheme, as it would increase the population and enhance the value of property. If the value of the latter was increased five per cent it would more than cover the extra tax, although property would likely increase by at least 20 per cent. He then spoke of the lines it would strike on the way, which would act as feeders to it—the Kingston and Pembroke, the Belleville and Hastings, the Grand Junction Railway, the Cobourg and Peterboro,' now being extended to Bobcaygeon, the Midland, which would give their connection with Georgian Bay, as well as the Canada Pacific; the Whitby and Port Perry Railway, which line Lindsay had aided by a grant of $100,000, so that the farmers of that section might be able to reach the grain market at that place. The route from Toronto to Montreal would be fifty miles shorter than the present one.

Major Boulton followed. He said that the distance between Toronto and Prescott was 220 miles, and the line projected would be just the same, which would effect a saving of the old fifty miles from Prescott to here. The saving thus effected in passenger rates by the people, and on freight, would more than cover the extra tax on the bonus they would give. He spoke at length in regard to the benefits to be derived, stating that a market was being opened up in Western Ontario for dressed lumber, doors and sashes, as timber had become almost exhausted. He hoped that in fifteen months they would be in a position to push on the work.

Mr. Caldwell, of Lanark, said that his county had gone $10,000 on the scheme, the people feeling that it was of great interest to them to have closer connection with the city, and it would pay to do more for railways.

Mr. Dobbie stated that the bonus By-laws had been carried by good majorities.

Mr. Haggart, of Perth, said that his presence was accidental, as he did not know of the meeting until he arrived in the city. They would be well enough pleased to get the line.

Mr. McGillivray endorsed the scheme remarking that the liabilities of the city were a mere bagatelle in comparison to the benefits it had received in the improvements made.

Mr. Clemow gave some logical arguments in favour of the proposed road, and felt that the people would grant a liberal bonus when they considered the benefits that would accrue from the construction of such a line. It would give the unemployed of the city work, and the vacant houses would be filled again. The tax would be very light, and more so if the iniquitous exemptions were done away with.

Mr. Charles Magee also spoke in favor of the project, believing that it would be judicious for the city to give aid as early as possible.

Mr. McGillivray moved, seconded by Mr. Eagee, that having heard the explanations of the delegation from the Huron and Quebec Railway Company, this Board is of opinion that the speedy construction of their proposed road between the cities of Toronto and Ottawa, thus placing this city in immediate railway communication with the whole Province of Ontario and the West, would tend largely to the advantage and prosperity of the general interests of this city and surrounding country, and in this view the Board would respectfully urge the subject to the earnest and early consideration of the citizens of Ottawa and surrounding country interested.

Previous to the putting of the motion the following letter was read:—

NEW EDINBURGH, Dec. 6th, 1876.

Hon. James Skead, President Board of Trade, Ottawa.

DEAR SIR,—As I may be prevented from attending the meeting of your Board this evening, (at which the question of aiding the Ottawa and Toronto railway will be discussed) I write to say, that having advocated this line for the last fifteen years, I trust, now that Toronto appears to further the project, the city of Ottawa will join with her, and the intervening municipalities in effecting such bonuses as will insure the largest measure of aid from this Province before its railway fund is exhausted.

The depressed condition of affairs is in my judgment, the principal argument in favor of this project because it will take much less money to build new than in prosperous times, and the expenditure of this money is now needed more than ever by all classes, while nothing in which this city could engage would give so great and permanent a nature to its prosperity as this closing link of a new Canadian railway between tide water and the West. The Great Western and its connections as far as the Mississippi, and beyond it, would practically be extended to Montreal and Quebec, through Ottawa, placing this city on a main continental line; for although we have changed the name we are, in railway matters, a By-lwa town yet.

I am, sir,
Your obd't servant,
THOS. C. KEEFER.

Mr. Scott was asked why Perth had voted down the last bonus; and Mr. Haggart replied that the people had lost confidence in Mr. Fowler, having previously granted $100,000.

Mr. Brennan did not believe in utilizing the Canada Central line from Carleton Place.

Mr. Pennock thought the project an excellent one, as it would give double connection with the East and West, and much shorter.

The Chairman considered the using of the line built from Carleton Place to this city was a good idea, as there would be no objection gained by building winter road that distance. The railway could be built very cheap at the present time as labor was plentiful. He felt that no time should be lost in pushing forward the scheme.

The resolution was carried unanimously; after which a vote of thanks was tendered to the delegation, the Board promising to do all in their power to aid in the laudable project.

HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

THE PETERBORO' DELEGATION CONFER WITH THE BOARD OF TRADE—THE SCHEME IS ENDORSED BY REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

A meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade was held at the office of the Agricultural Insurance Company, Metcalf street, last evening, for the purpose of hearing a delegation in reference to the projected Huron and Quebec Railway. The following gentlemen were present: Hon. Jas. Skead, in the chair; Messrs Wm. Pennock, Charles Magee, William Somerville, F. Clemow, senr., J. W. Cruice, W. Shoolbred, J. C. Brennan, Thomas Patterson, T. Kavanagh, E. McGillivray, James Cunninghanu, J. A Pinard: Mr. Ira Morgan, President of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario; Messrs. A. G. Dobbie, Boyd Caldwell and W. C. Caldwell, of Lanark; and Mr. William H. Scott, M. P. P., and Major Boulton, of Peterboro', the two latter being the delegation.—The Chairman introduced Mr. Scott first.

Mr. Scott stated that he had come to the city, in conjunction with Major Boulton, to ascertain the feeling of the people of Ottawa toward the Huron and Quebec Railway, which it was proposed to construct between this city and Toronto. He said that when Mr. Fowler first moved in the matter he was well received, although not quite so successful as might have been expected, considering the excellence of the scheme. The Provisional Board of the contemplated road consisted of nine gentlemen who had continued to keep the charter alive. Peterboro' Town and County had voted $300,000 toward the project, being alive to the value of the undertaking. They had just been through Lanark County, and at Perth, and the people there seemed favorable toward giving a $100,000 bonus, although Perth had turned the cold shoulder when Mr. Fowler asked them the last time. The municipalities along the route wanted to see what the cities at either end were going to do, being decided themselves as to what they would give. Toronto papers had now taken up the advocacy of the scheme, and it was probable that that city would give $250,000 toward aiding it; and Ottawa might go at least $200,000, this would be a small amount considering the benefits to be derived from the establishment of such a road. He thought that the municipal aid might amount as follows:

Toronto and Ottawa	$450,000
Peterboro' Town and County	300,000
Peterboro' to Carleton Place	275,000
Peterboro' to Toronto	200,000
	$1,225,000

He anticipated that the Ontario Government would aid them to the extent of $2,000 per mile between Peterboro' and Toronto, as that part was settled, and the amount was the lowest they had ever given any railway. From Peterboro' to the eastern limit of the country, the country was rough and rugged, and $3,000 would be little enough to expect; from Peterboro' thro' Lanark, which was not much settled, and very little cultivated, they ought to receive at least $6,000 per mile.—The policy of the Government had been to encourage new lines running through unopened sections. They had given $8,000 a mile to the road to run from Gravenhurst, and to meet with the Canada Pacific terminus at the French River; while the Kingston and Pembroke road, which was finished to Sharbot Lake, received $7,000 a mile. From the north limit of Lanark to Carleton Place Village they might receive $3,000 per mile. This calculation would give them the following amounts:

Toronto to Peterboro. 75 miles at $6,000 per mile	$450,000
Peterboro to eastern limits of the county 20 miles, at $6,000	120,000
Through Lanark, 35 miles, at $3,000	105,000
From eastern limit of Lanark to Carleton Place 21 miles, at $6,000	126,000
Mortgage bonds, $2,000 per mile, less 15 per cent	1,700,000
	$1,225,000

A recapitulation gave the average municipal aid per mile at $6,000; the Government aid at $3,500; mortgage bonds at $8,500: or an average total per mile of $18,000, which he thought could or ought to be safely counted upon. He felt that with the amount that could be raised by bonuses, Government grants, and bonds, they would have sufficient to build and equip the road, which was undoubtedly the most important yet brought before public notice. The question asked by municipalities, when approached for aid, was what benefit would it be to them? So far as Ottawa was concerned, it was an awkwardly situated, in regard to railway connections, as their own town of Peterboro.' While it had a couple of lines leading to the front, connecting with the trunk line, it was entirely at their mercy regarding freight and passage fare. At Peterboro' it cost as much to ship freight over the thirty miles of the Midland Railway as it did on the 70 miles to Toronto on the Grand Trunk. Now, the extra tax imposed on Peterboro' and the County by the granting of the $300,000 bonus would be more than twice covered by the saving effected in the freight on wheat alone, not mentioning the gain on other products. This matter had been carefully calculated, and the people of Peterboro' Town and County were alive to their own interests. Peterboro' had splendid water privileges, but for lack of railway lines they were only slightly utilized—it was doubtless the same here although both depended in a measure on the lumber trade, this place to a much greater extent than his own.—The Huron and Quebec line would give Ottawa a much closer connection with the West, bringing into its lap trade from along the line, while it would give a much shorter route from the Western States to the seaboard. This city had splendid water privileges, but they never would be used much in manufactures without the increase of transportation facilities. He regretted learning that the state of the city finances would prevent any immediate action being taken in regard to aiding the enterprize, but he hoped that the matter would be brought fairly before the people so that they would see it to be to their advantage to aid the scheme at the earliest possible moment. The assessment of the city, he had found out, was placed at something over $1,000,000, the tax on which would only be one and a half mills on the dollar if a bonus of $200,000 were granted, payment extending over the usual twenty years. He said that a man assessed for $1,000 would have to pay about $1.50 per annum; those assessed for $350 about 50 cents. It would be to the interests of the city to give aid to the scheme, as it would increase the population and enhance the value of property. If the value of the latter was increased five per cent it would more than cover the extra tax, although property would likely increase by at least 20 per cent. He then spoke of the lines it would strike on the way, which would act as feeders to it—the Kingston and Pembroke, the Belleville and Hastings, the Grand Junction Rail way, the Cobourg and Peterboro,' now being extended to Bobcaygeon, the Midland, which would give their connection with Georgian Bay, as well as the Canada Pacific, the Whitby and Port Perry Railway, which line Lindsay had aided by a grant of $100,000, so that the farmers of that section might be able to reach the grain market at that place. The route from Toronto to Montreal would be fifty miles shorter than the present one.

Major Boulton followed. He said that the distance between Toronto and Prescott was 220 miles, and the line projected would be just the same, which would effect a saving of the old fifty miles from Prescott to here. The saving thus effected in passenger rates by the people, and on freight, would more than cover the extra tax on the bonus they would give. He spoke at length in regard to the benefits to be derived, stating that a market was being opened up in Western Ontario for dressed lumber, doors and sashes, as timber had become almost exhausted. He hoped that in fifteen months they would be in a position to push on the work.

Mr. Caldwell, of Lanark, said that his county had gone $10,000 on the scheme, the people feeling that it was of great interest to them to have closer connection with the city, and it would pay to do more for railways.

Mr. Dobbie stated that the bonus By-laws had been carried by good majorities.

Mr. Haggart, of Perth, said that his presence was accidental, as he did not know of the meeting until he arrived in the city. They would be well enough pleased to get the line.

Mr. McGillivray endorsed the scheme remarking that the liabilities of the city were a mere bagatelle in comparison to the benefits it had received in the improvements made.

Mr. Clemow gave some logical arguments in favour of the proposed road, and felt that the people would grant a liberal bonus when they considered the benefits that would accrue from the construction of such a line. It would give the unemployed of the city work, and the vacant houses would be filled again. The tax would be very light, and more so if the iniquitous exemptions were done away with.

Mr. Charles Magee also spoke in favor of the project, believing that it would be judicious for the city to give aid as early as possible.

Mr. McGillivray moved, seconded by Mr. Eagee, that having heard the explanations of the delegation from the Huron and Quebec Railway Company, this Board is of opinion that the speedy construction of their proposed road between the cities of Toronto and Ottawa, thus placing this city in immediate railway communication with the whole Province of Ontario and the West, would tend largely to the advantage and prosperity of the general interests of this city and surrounding country, and in this view the Board would respectfully urge the subject to the earnest and early consideration of the citizens of Ottawa and surrounding country interested.

Previous to the putting of the motion the following letter was read:—

NEW EDINBURGH, Dec. 6th, 1876.

Hon. James Skead, President Board of Trade, Ottawa.

DEAR SIR,—As I may be prevented from attending the meeting of your Board this evening, (at which the question of aiding the Ottawa and Toronto railway will be discussed) I write to say, that having advocated this line for the last fifteen years, I trust, now that Toronto appears to further the project, the city of Ottawa will join with her, and the intervening municipalities in offering such bonuses as will ensure the largest measure of aid from this Province before its railway fund is exhausted.

The depressed condition of affairs is in my judgment, the principal argument in favor of this project because it will tend much into money to build now than in prosperous times, and the expenditure of this money is now needed more than ever by all classes, while nothing in which this city could engage would give so great and permanent a nature to its prosperity as this closing link of a new Canadian railway between tide water and the West. The Great Western and its connections as far as the Mississippi, and beyond it, would practically be extended to Montreal and Quebec, through Ottawa, placing this city on a main continental line; for although we have changed the name we are, in railway matters, a By-twa town yet.

I am, sir,
Your obd't servant,
THOS. C. KEEFER.

Mr. Scott was asked why Perth had voted down the last bonus; and Mr. Haggart replied that the people had lost confidence in Mr.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 14, 1876.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS.

Canada is accredited with possessing "more politics to the square mile than any other country on earth," and though the comparison may not be strictly accurate, it is certain she has a large average share of the elements of political being. There are, however, polities and politics; and though the principles upon which the various representative and executive institutions of our country are based are similar in their very excellence, and undeviatingly methodical in their just application, the bounds in which they are made to work are so various as to form distinct grades of political thought and variously circumscribed arenas in which political action may be exercised and political power displayed. First we have our school section politics, in the election of Trustees to manage the educational concerns of a small district; then there are our ward politics, comprised in the voting in of men to represent a single ward at a municipal council board; next our Townships and town politics, by which we are led on to County, to Provincial and to Dominion politics; and if the views of certain thinkers be carried out there will come a still higher step, into imperial politics. All these cases show a surprising similarity each to the other Indeed they may be likened to so many circles having for a common centre the grand idea of popular freedom. In each of them we perceive the people's will expressed in the election of a representative body for certain well-defined purposes, corresponding to the area of the proper circle, and each body is governed by similar principles rendering it as like its fellows as on the different circumferences. All are concentric and cannot vary in general outline; each differing from the other in extent alone. A smaller area may touch a larger, but can never encroach upon it; the larger contain all the smaller, but cannot swallow up their distinctive being. In like manner the school election and the business of the school board, while they have an intimate connection with township concerns, should not interfere with township elections nor meddle in township business; and while the township elections and the township councils necessarily contain school considerations, as much as the township embraces in it the school sections, the politics in township elections should be as separate from those of the school section as is the business of the municipal council from the internal management of the school board. In the same way should provincial politics be excluded from those of mere municipal importance. It is true they touch each other closely, and their intimacy should not be lost sight of in matters of true relationship; but to import the party differences begotten in Provincial debates into the discussion or consideration of purely municipal matters, is beyond the very bad taste it displays, calculated to produce exceedingly mischievous results. It is about as wise as forcing a large man into a small boys clothes; the garments are likely to be damaged, and the man is sure to be made ridiculous, beside being clad unsuitably for any weather.

Municipal politics are as needful of consideration in their turn as are those of Provincial and Dominion scope. The same principles of right and wrong are involved, the same points of policy, the same striving after economy and reform, the same desire for efficiency and stability at the least possible cost and with the least approach to sweeping changes in the working of the executive machinery. In the municipal as in the larger parliaments we have displays of demagogism, jobbery and favouritism, on the one hand, and patriotism, honesty and impartiality on the other, meet for similar objects, governed by similar rules of procedure, and their members placed in somewhat similar circumstances of opportunity and influence, it is but natural that there should be a great similarity of action shown by the members of the Legislature and the municipal council. Like the one, the other divides itself naturally into two parties, even when extraneous politics are ignored, as we claim they should be. This is well for the municipality, for by such a division of ideas, upheld by contesting parties, a wholesome check is put upon business that might otherwise be loosely done, and a preventive at once arises against jobbery. Again there are certain important measures in which the municipality is principally concerned, just as there are prominent provincial matters forcing themselves upon the Legislature. These in one case greatly determine the election of M. P. P.'s, and should in the other exert the controlling influence in the election of councillors. Councillors elected on the plain understanding that they are to look after these things will do their duty more promptly and confidently than if they owe their election to some petty influence, or some power entirely outside the affairs of the municipality. The man who is elected on some plain point in the politics of the municipality, and who thus knows what is expected of him, will do his duty fearlessly. Such a man is more useful to the people, and though his term should show but the one act, then the poor wretch who sneaks into office by some hole under the fence, while the manly candidates are passing in review before the public entrance. The one is confident of public support, and is likely to look to it and act on it in all things; but the other is under thrall to the power that pushed him into his seat, and, not daring to act except as bidden by some mere man, coterie or clique, is utterly useless in the public service. For this reason we hold that at all municipal elections there should be certain well defined matters of municipal moment placed before the electors upon the ultimate issue of which the election of a Mayor, Councillors should be made to turn, and which, for the public good, should be kept in view in the midst of every excitement, and in spite of all attempts to divert attention from them. Some such matters are never wanting on which to found the question of the choice of municipal representations, who after the public expression of their views on the points of the time, should be considered in relation to the honesty of their expressions, their general character, and their ability to uphold their views.

It would be well in this connection to remember that a man is more firmly bound by his public utterances, which can be brought in evidence at any time, than by his private promises, which it may be difficult to prove afterwards. For this reason the man who comes boldly forward to express his views before a public assembly is to be preferred to him who places the chances of his election on a vigorous personal and house to house canvass among the electors, though in too many cases the diligent canvasser is mistakenly chosen before his more manly opponent. It is not easy for the man of independent mind who relies upon his merits for the approbation of his neighbors, to go about bepraising himself and begging them to accept him as their representative; but it is the course exactly suited to the small mind that, seeking preferment it does not merit, is ready to make appeals, threats and promises to suit each instance that arises in the canvass—appeals the most abject, threats he could not carry out if he would, and promises he would not if he could. The high-spirited man who rests his case on what his neighbors know of him, and what he is willing to say to all on matters in which all are concerned, is certainly to be preferred to the one who depends on private influences to place him in a public office, the painting of his own virtues to his neighbors, and the extorting of promises from those who do not wish to offend him by saying to him nay. It is just as certain that the best men for public positions are those who cannot canvass for votes; and the sooner the electors desist from giving any promise whatever to canvassers the sooner will the character of our representative bodies be improved. Each elector can easily learn the position of the leading topics in his own municipality and if he is intelligent enough to vote he is bright enough in mind to come to his own conclusions about them. This being the case the man who comes to him and says "you mustn't do that" or "you must do this" is an impertinent meddler, who insults the voter he would influence, by the pre-supposition that he does not know enough to judge for himself, or has no firmness of mind, but must weakly adopt the judgement of the canvasser rather than his own. If the voter does not know enough of the electoral questions or the candidates, the proper place to learn more is at a public discussion of these questions, by the candidates, not through the private protestations and promises of the officious canvasser. After the voter has decided who are his chosen candidates he needs not the canvassers catechisation and instruction. In the one case the canvasser is too early, in the other too late, and should be told so. If that does not do he might very properly be kicked out, or placed under arrest as a nuisance.

TOWN COUNCIL.

SPECIAL SESSION.

The Council met on Monday evening, Dec. 11th, inst.

Present, his Worship the Mayor in the chair, and Messrs. Cahill, McClelland, Haggart, Peterson, Cook, Elliott, Taylor and Menzies.

The Mayor stated that he had called a Special Session of the Council this evening to pass a By-law to appoint the returning officers in the different wards for the ensuing municipal elections, as the time would be too short, according to law, if they were not appointed before the next regular meeting.

On motion the By-law to appoint the Returning Officers was read over a first time.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading, Mr. Menzies in the chair, and the following officers and polling places were appointed:—

For Ward No. 1: polling place, Mr. N. Shaw's office, and Joseph Lundy Returning Officer, and Albert Shaw Poll Clerk.

For Ward No. 2: polling place, Council Chamber, James Edwards Returning Officer, and James Johnston, Poll Clerk.

For Ward No. 3: polling place, J. Spenceley's store, (Irwin's old shop,) John Irwin, Returning Officer, and Jas. Spenceley, sr., Poll Clerk.

For Ward No. 4: polling place, W. Lee's shop, W. Lee, Returning Officer, and R. Hamilton, Poll Clerk.

The Committee then rose.

On motion Mr. Hussey was heard before the Council in reference to the sheds lately erected by R. N. Roddy, and stated that he had served a notice on Mr. Roddy ten days before according to law stating that if the sheds were not taken down in ten days he would be compelled to pull them down. The sheds are not taken down, and when he went to have them removed Mr. Roddy would not allow him or his men to touch them, and he wanted the Council to pass a motion as to whether they should have them taken down or not, and in case of refusal him of the blame, as several parties had been going for him for not doing his duty.

The Mayor stated Mr. Clarton had given Mr. Rutherford a written guarantee that if the sheds were left standing till spring he would build a brick wall around them, and if this was done it would save the town the trouble and expense of taking down the sheds, and as Mr. Rutherford was away from home at present, he thought it might be left over till the regular meeting.

Mr. Beavis said that he went to Mr. Rutherford and he told him that he would not interfere with them in the matter.

Mr. Patterson said that it was not necessary for them to pass a resolution, and that it might lie over till the regular meeting.

The Council then adjourned.

THE DUNKIN ACT AND PROHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

The well-known difficulties that have attended the many attempts hitherto made in the direction of a Prohibitory Liquor Law in this country have apparently only served to stir up those favourable to such an enactment to more determined effort. The agitations in this direction from time to time, though failing in the one great point to which they have been directed, have not been utterly in vain: Far from it. They have served to educate the popular feeling so far as to cause the placing of more stringent restrictions on the sale of liquors, and a firmer enforcement of the Act already in force regulating such traffic. Principal among the laws placed upon the Statute Books through agitations for total prohibition of the sale of intoxicating drinks are the Dunkin Act and the passage of the late Bill in Ontario known as the "Crooks Act." The very fact that the sale of liquors is placed under restriction is a palpable proof that the trade in intoxicants is, to put it in the mildest form, liable to abuse, and fraught with danger to the public. The proofs of the evils caused by drunkenness are so palpable to all as to need no repetition. Scarcely a day passes in which hundreds of instances of debasement, misery and crime do not arise to plead for the necessity of placing a check upon the progress of a system that causes so much shame, poverty and wickedness to persons, to families, to communities, and to the country at large. No one who has reached years of active employment has escaped some contact, more or less intimate, some personal knowledge more or less painful of the degradation of drink. Happy is the man or woman, (provided such can be found) who has never been forced to attain such knowledge, either of themselves, or through the medium of intimate friends, whose error is often a greater shock than would be a personal fall. Many learn the fatal truth in the days of childhood, mere infancy in fact; and the time of life proverbially the "happy" time, is to them anything but joyous. A drunken father or mother, brother or sister, husband or wife, son or daughter, relative or friend, employer or employee, partner or other business connection, is at once an idea terrible and unhappy, yet how few there are who can deny the existence among them of such a demon of discomfort. If there be any who have no experience of grief caused by drink, well may they be considered favoured among God's creatures on earth. Let them pray fervently for a continuance of an ignorance which is indeed bliss. A desire to be wise in this particular would be a something 'twere gross flattery to call folly. It would be only worthy of a demon of the most malignant order.

The evils caused by the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage are so apparent to all, and have been felt by so many, that there is no single person in the country who will not in honesty deplore them and wish they were removed. The manner in which this is to be done raises a very mountain of argument in which men have dug and sifted for years, but which still remains a mountain apparently as large as ever. The Prohibitionist argues on the common sense basis that where there is no liquor none will be drunk, but the probem of how to do away with the liquor still remains. A thousand and one issues arise in the path that leads to the era of "no liquor." Were a Prohibitory Liquor Bill introduced at the next Session of Parliament it is very questionable if it would pass. The indirect questions involved are so various and so perplexing that they would cause so great a divergence of attention from the main question as to leave it out of the mental sight of members when they came to the vote. This was undoubtedly in the mind of the Premier when he received the late Prohibition delegation and told them he questioned if the public sentiment of the country was ready for such a law. We have not the least doubt that Mr. Mackenzie would favour the introduction of total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the Dominion to-morrow, could he see clearly how it could be done; neither he, nor any other person is willing to see the passage of such a measure, would like to see a Prohibitory Bill introduced in the face of a certainty of its defeat. No good end could be served by such a course, It would rather tend to throw the prohibitionist cause infinitely farther back than the fair position which we contend it now holds. Prohibition is now able to make itself felt, and has caused itself to be felt in various parts of the Province through the Dunkin Act, which enables municipalities to express their views on the subject in an unmistakable manner. In some townships this law has been in operation for years, and its working has proved far from unsatisfactory; in a few counties it is now being carried out, certainly without distress to the people; and in many other counties it will come into operation in a few months. In other counties still preparations are being made to give the people an opportunity of trying its effects. In one county in which the vote was recently taken on this measure it was defeated, principally we learn through ignorance of its workings and interested misrepresentation of its effects, and in several instances the Councils refused to grant the prayer of the petitions asking for its submission to the vote of the people.—Why any Council should thus act is beyond our comprehension, unless indeed the majority of its members were opposed to the passage of such a By-law, and at the same time afraid it would carry.—By voting the By-law down in Council they were guilty of a gross usurpation of arbitrary power utterly at variance with Canadian ideas of popular rights, an offence which should lead to their prompt replacement by men more tolerant, and possessed of a finer feeling as regards their position—one properly involving consideration for the popular will, not autocracy in opposition to it. The Dunkin Act By-law is not one that can be at all reasonably dealt with by the Council. If a respectable petition be presented that body asking for its submission their simple duty is to permit the people to exercise the right of voting "yea", or "nay" upon it. The refusal of the Council to grant such right is an usurpation of power, utterly at variance with our system of government, which is the same in municipal as in higher legislative matters.

The submission of the By-law in connection with the Dunkin Bill in all the counties of the Province will give a fair opportunity of judging how far popular opinion has been educated in favour of a Prohibitory Liquor Law for Ontario; and the passage of the Dunkin Act in a majority of the counties will pave the way for the next step, that of petitioning the Ontario Legislature to pass an Act prohibiting the sale of liquors in the Province. It being once clearly shown that a majority of the electors are in favour of such a law, the Legislature cannot fairly disregard the evidence of a strong demand; and then will come the time to push the inquiry, as a legislative question, into the rights of the Provincial and Dominion Legislatures in the important bearing this question has on the question of revenue and other matters pertaining more immediately to the legal aspects of the measure. It is by then scrupulously carrying the outer works, instead of by mad assaults on the citadel, that the war will be carried to a successful issue.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 14, 1876.

For want of space we are compelled to leave over Father Stafford's address together with other interesting matter till next week.

RICE LAKE was frozen over on the 2nd instant.

GOOD SKATING on the Little Lake, and the boys are enjoying it immensely.

THERE was no fire on Thursday evening last, although the alarm was given. The cause was a blazing chimney on Hunter Street.

SOIREE.—There will be a Soiree in connection with the Fourth Line Sabbath School Smith, on New Year's day, to be held in Union Temple.

THE fact that all the hotels will be closed on New Year's DAY, will be apt to lessen the list of callers to the ladies who set up the drinks."

LOOK HERE.—The place to get your Christmas Goods is at—— Well just read the advertisements in the EXAMINER and you will find out.

MACMILAN has for sale a Sermon preached by Bishop Bethune of Toronto, on the occasion of the decease of the late John Hillyard Cameron. Price ten cents.

SANTA CLAUS.—This old favorite will be in the riches of his glory at Mr. Hall's Confectionery Store, during the holidays. Every one interested should note this.

Business men who advertise in the EXAMINER are about the only persons who feel the revival of trade as Christmas approaches. This is the right time of the year to use Printers Ink judiciously.

THE MONTGOMERY CASE.—"Bill" Montgomery was up here a His Honor, Judge Dean, when he elected to be tried by a jury. His trial will come off on the 16th inst., in Lindsay, before Judge Desmiteau.

SLEIGHING.—On Saturday the first sleighing of the season took place, but it was soon at an end, and those who were anxious for the "first ride" were very glad to return to the wheels before evening.

HAND SLEIGHS.—Hand Sleighs with Malleable iron Knees are much more durable and stronger than wooden knees. A very good assortment for sale at H. Rose's, suitable for a Christmas present to children. Also a few first class Cruets for sale cheap.

No. 2 WARD.—In accordance with the request of many of the ratepayers of Number 2 Ward, Mr. John Kider has consented to become a candidate for municipal honors. Mr. Elder is a gentleman of considerable ability, and, no doubt would make an active member of the Council.

HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.—We call the attention of our readers to the report of the meeting of the Board of Trade, Ottawa, at which W. H. Scott, M. P. P., and Major Boulton of Lakefield, represented the Huron and Quebec Railway. The report will be found on our first page.

No. 1 WARD.—In accordance with the request of the ratepayers of number One Ward, Mr. J. R. Ormond has announced himself a candidate for municipal honors in that ward.—Mr. Ormond is one of our successful business men, and it will be pleasing to many to hear his name mentioned in connection with municipal politics.

BABES GRAIN.—The little folks have only to read this heading to excite their fancy to the highest pitch, and papas will have many sweet little voices chattering out the holly-crowned monarch's name: "Oh, papa take me to see Santa Claus?" Papa cannot resist, and there is no better place to go than David Lemay's Confectionery Store.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—Intermediate Examinations. The following note has been received by Public School Inspectors:—"The Minister has decided as more convenient, that the proceedings at the Intermediate Examination on Monday, 18th December, shall commence at ONE, and close at 4.15 p.m." All interested will please take a note of this.

ANNUAL BALL.—We understand that the Orange Young Britons of this town intend holding their Annual Ball in Mr. Bradburn's New Hall, on Christmas night, when the Hall will be appropriately decorated for the occasion As the committee are putting forth every effort to make this one of the most enjoyable and successful Balls ever held in this town, a pleasant time may be looked for. Tickets $1.50.

POLICE COURT.—On Thursday last, Messrs. Robertson & Carlisle of the TIMES appeared through Mr. H. J. Smith, before the P. M., for the non-payment of wages. Mr. Smith acknowledged the indebtedness. John Pollard received judgment for $7.50, and $2.70 costs, to be paid in 21 days, and in default, to be levied by distress. T. L. Bolster, obtained a judgment against the same defendants for $12.31 and $2.70 costs, to be paid in 21 days.

SNOW SHOE CLUB.—A meeting was held in the Caisse House on Thursday evening last, for the purpose of organizing a Snow Shoe Club at which the following officers were elected:—H. Calcutt, President; K. J. Toker, Vice-President; D. H. Burritt, Secretary; J. Gilmour, Treasurer, and A. McNeil, Captain. The name of the Club to be the "Peterboro Tique Blue." There will be an adjourned meeting this evening in the Caisse House, at 8 o'clock, sharp.

MESSRS. W. HARTY & Co. are desirous of acquainting the numerous patrons that their usually large stock has been largely increased to meet the demands during the Christmas times. The goods are of the best quality in groceries, and their liquors are of the best brands. Their friends and the public are invited in this issue to inspect their stock and select early. The holiday festivities will require more than a common supply. This is a rare chance for those wishing to lay in a supply for the holidays.

THE CANADIAN MONTHLY for December has arrived. Among the "most original papers" are "Our Public Indebtedness," by A. T. Drummond, B. A., L.L.B., Montreal; "Our English Shakespere," by J. King, M. A., Berlin, and a personal sketch of Cardinal Antonelli, by E. Ransford, Toronto. Two brief poems by Fidelis, Kingston, on "November Fancies," are superior. The serials are of the usual order, and "Current Events" is bookish. The book reviews and musical department are well written.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.—The regular monthly meeting of this Association was held on Tuesday evening, the President, John McClelland, Esq., in the chair. It was decided to have the Poultry Show on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 24th and 25th of January. All lovers of well-bred fowl would do well to lend their aid to make this (show a successful) one, as by doing so they will not only benefit themselves but others by introducing the best birds into this section of the country. Mr. McClelland will give any necessary information to parties requiring

A business house in a neighboring town recently sent an account by mail to a Reverend gentleman; in reply they received a postal card inscribed, "See Matthew xvii. 20th and 21st verse." Turning up the passage, they read as follows: "But the same servant went out and found one of his fellow servants, which owed him a hundred pence; and he laid hands on him and took him by the throat, saying pay me what thou owest. And his fellow servant fell down at his feet and besought him, saying, have patience with me and I will pay thee all."

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—Thus early, Mr James Vick, of Rochester, has published the first number of his "Floral Guide" for 1877. We find a particular pleasure in noticing the GUIDE as it is a gem of typography, embellished with an elegant colored plate and any number of engravings. The present number contains, in addition to many upon Horticulture, a seasonable glimmer, which lovers of flowers will appreciate. Mr. Vick has an enviable reputation as a gardener, his seeds and bulbs are always found to germinate, and his GUIDE is certain to be well relished.

PERTH County Council will not submit the Dunkin Act.

EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION.—The question of abolishing the exemption from taxation on Church and other property, has lately attracted considerable attention throughout the Province, and has been taken up by the City Council of Toronto, who have appointed a committee to ascertain the feelings of other municipalities on the subject. With this end petitions to the Legislature praying it to take action, have been sent to every municipality in Ontario. It is probable that a measure will be introduced in the Ontario Legislature at its coming session, in accordance with the wishes of the petitioners.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The following gentlemen are mentioned as candidates for Councillors:—1st Ward—Messrs. D. Haggart, J. R. Ormond, W. McBain, J. McGee, T. Cahill and L. Lapointe. 2nd Ward—Messrs. John McClelland, J. Elder, R. H. Smith, W. Lech and John Haggart. 3rd Ward—Messrs. G. Hamilton, Wm Hamilton, T. G. Hess, J. B. McWilliams, A. Rutherford and E. C. Hill. 4th Ward—Messrs D. W. Dumble, H. Deane, T. Elliott and R. Donaldson. Every voter should carefully consider the merits and abilities of each candidate and elect the most capable without prejudice.

STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT.—The only thing required to enlighten the inhabitants of the county on the true principles of domestic economy is to call on Mr. Kelly, Mr. Lundy's old stand, Market Block, where he has opened a branch of W. Fairweather's & Co's store, and is experiencing a great rush of purchasers, who are laying in their winter supply at slaughtering prices. Mr. Kelly is courteous and attentive, and will do all in his power to accommodate as many ladies and gentlemen as can make it convenient to pay him a visit. He is offering the goods at such prices that they will not be long on the shelves.

SABBATH SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.—The Anniversary Services in connection with the Charlotte Street Methodist Sabbath School will be held as follows:—Sermons will be preached on Sabbath, Dec. 17th, at 11 a.m. by the Rev. R. J. Shorey, and at 7 p.m. by the Rev. Mr. Allock Sabbath afternoon at 2.30 there will be an open session of the school, when the Rev'ds Shorey, Allock and Pastors of the Church will address the children, parents and friends of the school On Tuesday evening there will be a public meeting in the church at which there will be short addresses, dialogues, recitations and singing by the children. All are invited to attend these meetings.

GRANGERS AND INSURANCE.—At a late meeting of the Dominion Executive, the Committee on Insurance appointed at the last session meeting, have completed their scheme for conducting a fire insurance company under the auspices of the Dominion Grange, presented their report, which, after some slight revisions, was adopted, and the committee instructed to proceed with the organization of the company. In the manner and according to the Act governing mutual insurance companies in Ontario.—While this will at first only give Grangers the privilege of doing business in Ontario, further steps will be taken upon the completion of the organization to extend it to the other Provinces

HANDFORD'S LECTURES.—A good many not over reverent young men have been making enquiries during the week, as to the kind of Chain his Sable Majesty is in the habit of using. The required information, may be obtained at Bradburn's Hall to-night, for the modest sum of fifteen cents. We are glad to learn that there is every prospect of a full attendance, and we trust that to-morrow night also many of our lecture-loving readers will avail them selves of the opportunity of hearing Mr. Handford in his celebrated lecture on Martin Luther. Those who have heard these lectures in other places speak in the highest terms of the abilities of the lecturer, and of his power to interest his audience.

CHRISTMAS GROCERIES.—Rush & Elliott have received a large supply of groceries, wines and liquors, purchased especially for the holiday season and are desirous that the people should know where they can be supplied with all their wants for Christmas and New Year's pleasantries. The groceries are of best quality and they will dispose of them at very reasonable prices. The stock is complete in every department, and they invite an inspection of it by their customers and the general public. Their liquors are of the popular brands and warranted to be what they are represented. Intending purchasers would do well to visit their establishment and examine their goods and prices and qualities, so as to be able to judge for themselves. This firm have been very successful since they commenced business, and are determined to retain their extensive patronage by fair dealing and selling at bottom prices.

FATHER STAFFORD ON TEMPERANCE.—Shortly after the return of the Rev. Father Stafford from his visit to the old country, he delivered a public lecture in Lindsay descriptive of what he saw there, both from an ordinary [illegible] His interesting and eloquent lecture, taken from the Lindsay Post part of which we published last week, and in this issue will be found the remainder, and we trust it will be read carefully by one and all our readers. His tale of the terrible ravages of alcoholic beverages in the motherland, and the fearful hold the vice of intemperance has taken upon the vitals of the people, should teach the dwellers in this young country to deal with the monster in time, and throttle it before it has gained such a mastery over body, soul and mind as it seems to have acquired in Britain. It will be remembered that Father Stafford is a native of Lanark county.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.—Prof. and Madame Martin will give a musical entertainment in the Opera House, on Wednesday evening, 27th inst. From the ability of the teachers, and the care they have taken in the instruction of their pupils, we cannot but expect a first-class entertainment. This concert has a character which should draw all the music-loving population of Peterborough. It is given by Mr. Martin's pupils; all residents of the town, most of them being young. No doubt a great many will be pleased to see how musical talent, which is often unfortunately remains in a latent state may be developed. In some of the pieces we believe about fifty performers will take part.—We hope to see a large attendance present on the occasion, to show to Mr. Martin that the people appreciate his efforts to promote the musical advancement of the town. Prices as usual. For further particulars see programmes.

PETERBOROUGH LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—This Association met as usual on Tuesday evening last, Mr. H. T. Beck, B. A., in the chair Mr. Lesdrate read "Barbara Frietchie" by Whittier. Mr. F. B. Edwards, M. A., read an essay entitled, "Protection in Canada." The following question was then discussed: "Whether is it better to have civil cases decided by courts of law or by arbitrators who are not bound by legal precedent." Mr. G. M. Roger opened the debate in support of the former proposition. Mr. K. H. D. Hall in support of the latter; the debate being open for discussion several other members of the Society spoke on the subject. After summing up the argument the chairman gave his decision in favor of those adduced in support of the former proposition. The question for debate at the next meeting will be: "Ought a member of parliament to vote according to the wishes of his constituents, or be governed by his own opinion?"

A SHOOTBY.—Last week our town was in quite an uproar, when information was received that Constable Beavis, Inspector of build ings, etc., was on the war-path, revolver in hand, to pull down or have pulled down or to order to be pulled down wooden sheds lately erected by Mr. Roddy within what is known as the "fire limits." His powder was dry, his hand steady, his eye straight and his heart heavy, but duty had to be done, and Mr. Beavis was the man to do it. Doubly armed—1st with authority, and 2nd: with a revolver—loaded or unloaded deponent saith not—and proceeding to said shed he ordered its, that is the shed's removal. Mr. Roddy said no: whereupon deponent saith he saw arms presented, heard angry words, but heard no shots. As Mr. Christopher Leary's conveyance was in the shed, it was permitted to stand, and Mr. Beavis, a humane and generous hearted man, unwilling to shed human coat blood, replaced his revolver in his breast pocket and left quite satisfied that he had done his duty fearlessly, and hence that the town was safe—for another month at least—when a new Council will provide said officer with a spear or some other deadly weapon, with which to protect the Town Council and the Citizens, in case of an attempt to trample on the liberties and laws of the Parliament of Peterboro. But there stands the shed still, and we learn that not a single bullet hole can be found in Mr. Roddy, as he was too small a mark to be shot at by Mr Beavis.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER.—There was a very pleasant gathering in Germany's Hotel Lakefield, on Thursday evening last, on the occasion of a complimentary dinner given to Mr. A. P. Bower, on his leaving Lakefield.—John Hall, Esq., occupied the chair, supported on his right by the guest of the evening, and on his left by Major Boulton. There was a full "muster" and a good time was spent. After the substantial repast, peppered in "mine host" German's best style had been dispensed of, Mr. Hall, on behalf of the gentlemen present, addressed Mr. Bower in a few happily chosen remarks, suppositive of the esteem in which he was held by them and their regret at parting with whom he might term one of the old residents. He closed his remarks by presenting the guest of the evening with a handsome gold watch chain as a mark of the esteem in which he was held by the company, and concluded by reading the following address.

Mr. A. P. Bower:

DEAR SIR,—In behalf of your many friends, here assembled to do you honor, I am happy to express the high esteem in which you are held by them. During the six years you have resided among us, we have, both in our intercourse, found your actions guided by sterling principles, and your conduct governed by the strictest integrity. As a token of the respect you hold for your worthy character and gentlemanly bearing, we also for the active part you have always taken in furthering any and every enterprise, whether of a public or private nature, which has had for its object the advancement and prosperity of our village, and I am sure that all have felt that the village is not only losing a gentleman in the social from our midst of a citizen of your character and business abilities. Your genial disposition, urbanity of manner and warmth of feeling have made for you many friends who will look back with pleasure to the happy days they have spent with you in Lakefield. And now in behalf of your friends present, and of those present, I request you to offer you this slender gift as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by them. We hope you will accept it not on account of any value which it may possess but as a memento of the very many friends with whom you are about to part. May you long live to wear it, and may you, in the future home to which you are about to remove, enjoy the rich blessings of health, happiness and prosperity.

Signed in behalf of your friends,

JOHN HULL.

Mr. Bower replied, thanking them for the kind and flattering address, accompanied by so valuable and useful a present on the occasion of his removal from the village. After the address the company adjourned to the parlour, where the usual toasts were given. "The guest of the evening" was the first, which was received with great enthusiasm. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. We join with Mr. Bower's many friends in Lakefield, in wishing him health, happiness and prosperity in his new home.

To the Ratepayers of the Second Ward Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I have been urged by several ratepayers to become a candidate for the Second Ward, as a Councillman, and have, after due consideration, consented to their wishes, believing, as it is admitted, that a change is wanted, and that such men, (who have a real interest in the town's prosperity, and are possessed of a good share of business tact) as we are wanted to overmanage and bring our town affairs into a safe and prosperous condition. Having no other motive for coming forward, as I am not a man for seeking fame or honor, I have no other interest of my own to serve, therefore leave my name to the consideration of the ratepayers to judge me, by the past sixteen years that I am amongst them, whether I am worthy of their confidence or not. As the pressure of business prevents me to call on the ratepayers soliciting their votes, I wish to say that if elected I shall practice the same economy which has carried me through life and made me prosper, but if otherwise, my ambition will not be wounded.

Your Obedient Servant,

WILLIAM LECH.

DIED.

MILLER—At her residence in Richland, Kalamazoo county, Michigan, of Consumption, Hattie, wife of Thomas F. Miller, aged 21 years 4 months and 25 days.

The deceased was a long and patient sufferer. For nearly a year she had been wasting slowly away by the hand of that dread disease—consumption. She was a sincere christian woman, a loving wife and mother, and a good neighbor, beloved and respected by all who knew her.—Her death was a triumphant one, and she passed away as she had lived, peaceful and happy. Just before she died she called her friends and loved ones around her bedside, and her countenance beaming with light from the future world, talked with them concerning their spiritual welfare and bade them all to meet her in heaven. Her funeral services took place from the Richland church on Tuesday, Oct. 31st, 1876; Rev. J. White officiating, assisted by Rev. E. H. Day. She leaves a husband and three children and a large group of relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Deceased was second daughter of the late Thos. Ryan, Esq., of Otonabee.

A Girl that is 'Finished'.

Josh Billings gives the following :—My dear Gertrude.—You tell me that yu have been 2 years at boarding skool, and have just finished yure edukashun, and want to know what yu shall do next. Listen, my gushing Gertrude, and I will tell yu. Git up in the morning in good season, go down into the kitchen, seize a potatoe by the throat with one hand and a knife with the other, skin a potatoe and a dozen more just like it, stir up the buckwheat batter, look into the oven and see how the biskut are doin, bustle around generally, step on the cat's tail and help your good mother to get breakfast. After breakfast put up the young children's luncheon for skool, help to wash the dishes, sweep sum, put the things in order, sumtime during the day knit at least 2 inches and a half on sum 1 of yure brother's little blue woolen stockings for next winter. In other words, go to work and make yurself useful, becom ornamental, and if yu hav enny time left after the beds are all made, pitch into the pianna and make the old rattle box scream with music. Do this for 1 year and sum likely young fellow in the naberhood will hear of it, and begin to hang around yu, and say sweeter things than ever yu heard before, and will finally giv yu a chance to keep house on yure own hook. You follow my advice, Gerty, and see if he don't propose.

How Boy's Marbles are Made.

Almost all the marbles with which boys everywhere amuse themselves, in season and out of season, on sidewalks and in sandy spots, are made at Oberstein, Germany. There are large agate quarries and mills in the neighborhood, and the refuse is turned to account in providing the small stone balls for experts to knuckle with. The stone is broken into small cubes by blows of a light hammer. These small blocks of stone are thrown by the shovel into the hopper of a small mill, formed of a bedstone, having its surface grooved with concentric furrows. Above this is the 'runner,' which is of some hard wood, having a level face on its lower surface The upper block is made to revolve rapidly, water being delivered upon the grooves of the bedstone, where the marbles are being rounded. It takes about fifteen minutes to finish a half bushel of good marbles, all ready for the boys' knuckles. One mill will turn 160,000 marbles per week. The hardest 'crackers,' as the boys call them, are made by a slower process, somewhat analogous, however, to the other.

No Organ for Old Si.

Some of the members were discussing the question of getting an organ for the church. Old Si remarked :

"When yer passes 'round de hat for 'musement jest skip me !"

"Whaffer we do dat ?"

"'Kase I don't want none ob dis heah bellus music in de church dat I'se 'pending on for salvashun !"

"What kin' of music do you want ?"

"I want de same ole music dat de good Lawd wound up in de nigger's no'l, and dat biles out in streems ob praise dat wakes de naborhood from solid slumbers !"

"Jess plane singin', eh ?"

"Plane singin', yer idgit ; do yer call dat plane singin', when de kongergashun jess flings beck hits heads and sings Bend down de charryut f'm de bottom of bo'l lungses at once ?"

"I calls dat plane singin'."

"Den yer all better stick ter plane singin', too, 'kase I'me tinkin' dat de only win' organ dat yer needs to look arter is de horn ob de Angil Gabril'."

They concluded to drop the organ question.—Atlanta Herald.

The Hottest Spot on Earth.

One of the hottest regions on the earth is along the Persian Gulf, where little or no rain falls. At Bahrin the arid shore has no fresh water, yet a comparatively numerous population contrives to exist there, thanks to copious springs which burst forth from the bottom of the sea. The fresh water is got by diving, the diver, sitting in his boat winds a great goat skin bag around the left arm, the hand grasping its mouth ; then he takes in his right hand a heavy stone, to which is attached a strong line, and thus equipped he plunges in and quickly reaches the bottom. Instantly opening the bag over the strong jet of fresh water he springs up in the ascending current, at the same time closing the bag, and is helped aboard. The stone is then hauled up, and the diver, after taking breath, plunges in again. The source of these copious submarine springs is thought to be in the green hills of Oman, some 500 or 600 miles distant.

Loss of memory is ever the first indication of a disorder or degeneration of Nervous element. The rapidity with which the mind is restored by the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup, of Hypophosphites is perhaps the best proof of its power in re-establishing the strength of the nervous system.

Incomparable.—Buffalo, N. Y., February, 1873.

James I. Fellows, Esq.—Dear Sir : Please forward another lot of your Syrup of Hypophosphites.

I have used other preparations of hypophosphites (not being able to procure this), but they do not compare with yours, which I think is the best medicine for the nervous system I ever used.

I will add all I can personally and through the press, as I believe it cannot be so generally known.

Yours truly, W. T. SORNER.

Idleness.—If idleness does not produce vice or misfortune oft commonly produces melancholy ; therefore let every man be occupied, in the highest employment of which his nature is capable ; and if he is suffering from rheumatic pains, colds or common complaints, and desirous of getting immediate relief, let him try a bottle of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer." It can be had at any Druggist's, and most of the country merchants in the Dominion, at 25 cents per bottle.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.
Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No other company received such a recognition in the department. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the board of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SECOND DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO MOONSHINE THE PUBLIC. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

[From the Official Report.]

One of the Testimonials !

From Dr DUNCAN McCALLUM, Montreal—
I the undersigned have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured

I owes this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of that genuine article

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Invetorate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of maledicting or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develops into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, internal decay may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, in time, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous Disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

Ayers Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Colds, Coughs, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing been produced, that could equal the confidence of mankind, and the world-wide remedy for pulmonary complaints. The wonderful cures it has effected, the real good it has done, and the countless number of lives it has saved, from the grave, are more than can be recorded in the most extended obituary. It has become household property in every civilized country on the globe, and there is scarcely a community, or the land or naval force, that has not been robbed of its most valuable protector against disease. While subject to sudden forms of disease and to many maladies, it is at the same time the most reliable remedy that can be given to the world, for the relief and cure of all the various affections of the throat, lungs, and the whole pulmonary organism, and has become a household word in every family, and rightly so, as no one sometimes suffer it to exist, and especially, all should be provided with this antidote for Consumption.

Although Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease is seated within, have been completely quelled, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral, so complete is its mastery over the disorders of the lung and throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need only publish the certificates of those nearest home, in order that the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure.

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, this remedy is free from every form of mineral poison, and contains no quinine or other form of bark. Containing no principle that will produce injurious effects on the most delicate invalid, or any other person, it is safe to use in all cases that require a powerful antidote for the disease. It will cure the Fever and Ague of the chronic form, however obstinate, and protect the system against the return of the disease, when it has been expelled. Those who live in districts where they are subject to attacks of Fever and Ague, and require to travel, should never be without this remedy. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all druggists everywhere.

CATARRH.
Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, an Dropplngs in Throat Disappear.

St. Armand, P. Q. Sept. 13, 1876.

Mr. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir,—Being anxious that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you that it has done for me. I am twenty nine years old, but been cut off health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become unable to do my work. I was unable to do so much work as formerly, had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades, through the chest, with a tight band around me, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down with occasional dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which cured my pain and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so that I be able to endure hard and constant labour, such as chopping and clearing land as which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery has astonished many who knew of my case, and I feel grateful for your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly, HENRY STIBBS,

O What a Change.

(For the Peterborough EXAMINER.)

Lines written on visiting the bereaved home of my late amiable and dearly beloved friend, JANE SANDERSON, whose sudden death by drowning cast a gloom over the whole neighborhood, where she was universally esteemed.

Oh! what a change, in that fond home
For she who was its light,
And joy, and hope, sank quick and wrapp'd
It in the folds of night.

We felt it in the tender clasp.
The sadden'd fond embrace.
We saw it in the blanching hair.
The sorrow-furrow'd face.

And, oh we miss'd her welcome smile.
Her graceful form, and fair.
We miss'd her in the manti'd gloom
Shadowing every where.

Oh! what a change since that last time.
That happy meeting when.
Brothers and sisters ALL were there.
Never to meet again.

A circle all unbroke, alas!
How little did they think
That she, the centre of their hopes,
Was on the grave's cold brink.

Twere hard to bear ev'n had they stood
Around her dying bed,
To close the eyes of death away.
Before her spirit fled.

No last farewell was granted them.
With spirits all aglow
In midst of health and joyous life.
At morn, they saw her go.

But ere the sun behind the hills
Had cast its lingering ray,
The sad, sad tidings came, that she
From earth had pass'd away.

While sailing with her chosen friends.
The boat turned quickly o'er.
They reach'd not earthly, but her soul
Had found the Heavenly Shore.

"Until I bring her lifeless form
You need not look for me,"
Her brother said with bleeding heart.
And friends came fast to be.

Sharers, and helpers, in their grief.
Through days of agony,
'Till the Otonabee gave her up
Looking so peacefully.

Then mourning friends with muffl'd steps
Her cold remains bring home.
But oh how chang'd! now cold in death.
And ready for the tomb.

'Twere vain to tell of anguish'd hearts
For strong men wept that day.
When borne to her last resting-place
In long and sad array.

O grieve not overmuch dear friends.
For you may meet on high.
A circle all unbroken, in
Your home beyond the sky.

E. BECKET.

North Monaghan, Nov. 22nd, 1876.

A Christmas Carol.

BY CHARLES DICKENS.

I care not for Spring, on his fickle wing
Let the blossoms and buds be borne;
He woos them amain with his treacherous rain,
And he scatters them ere the morn.
An inconstant elf, he knows not himself,
Nor his own changing mind an hour.
He'll smile in your face, and with wry grimace,
He'll wither your youngest flower.

Let the Summer sun to his bright home run.
He shall never be sought by me;
When he's dimmed by a cloud I can laugh aloud
And care not how sulky he be!
For his darling child is the madness wild.
That sports in fierce fever's train,
And whose love is so fleet it does not last long
As many have found to their pain.

A mild harvest night by the tranquil light
Of the maddest and gentle moon.
Has a far sweeter charm for me I ween.
Than the broad and the unbinding noon.
But every had sevabeth my grief.
As it lurks beneath the tree;
And let Autumn air be never so fair.
It by no means agrees with me.

But my song I troll out for Christmas stout
The hearty, the true and the bold,
My voice will I raise in blessing and praise.
Give three cheers for this Christmas old!
We'll usher him in with a merry din
The gayer the greeting sure men,
And we'll keep him up, while there's bite or sup,
And in fellowship good, we'll part.

In his fine honest pride, he scorns to hide.
One jot of his hard weather scars;
But they're no disgrace, for there's much the
On the cheeks of our bravest tars.
Then again I'll sing 'till the roof doth ring.
And it echoes from wall to wall.
To the stout old wight, fair welcome to-night.
As the King of the seasons all!

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 21, 1876.

The Compliments of the Season.

The old year is fast spending his declining strength, and in a very few days will have to bid us a final farewell. Before that sad event, however, merry Christmas with all its pleasures, and cheerful associations will come and go. Since last we had the pleasure of wishing our many readers the compliments of the season, what changes have been chronicled? What joys and sorrows have had possession of the human heart, and have left their impression for good or evil perhaps never to be erased. It is of no avail to utter useless regrets for what we have left undone, or what we have found others doing amiss. The best and safest remedy against the ills and sorrows which annoy and vex, is to begin again the struggle for right. Time is fleeting, and evanescent. If not improved, results are not easily calculated. We would therefore offer our advice to our friends and patrons that while enjoying life not to forget that its energies can be wasted. We need hardly tender it, as we feel satisfied that ere another issue of the EXAMINER the enjoyment of merry meetings and good cheer will be sufficient to render homilies useless. We therefore conclude by wishing our patrons all the Compliments of the season.

THE PARLIAMENTARY SESSION.

The Conservative organs are striving to propagate the idea that the delay in opening the Session of the Ontario Legislature is a deep-laid plot; and that the reason given, the bringing down of work on the Consolidation of the Statutes is but a pretence; ("a lying statement foisted upon an outraged public")—and that same "with intent to deceive." It is well known that the work of Consolidating the laws of the Province, entails an enormous amount of work, particularly as many of these laws were passed by a government that went in for Statutes of expediency, and are therefore somewhat questionable, to say nothing of the irreconcilable character of many of them. It is a work that is not only difficult of accomplishment, it also requires to be done in the most perfect manner possible, and that it shall be brought to something like a finished state before being laid before the House. It is also desirable that the Legislature have this matter under consideration at the approaching Session. The only way to bring about all these contingencies was the postponement of the Session for a few weeks to allow the Commissioners who have the work of consolidation in hand to place it in a condition fit for the consideration of the Legislature. There is a certain quantity of matter to be gone over and revised: and hurrying over it would impair the quality of the work, a thing above all others to be avoided.—Some Tory Caviller, whose personality is not worth remembering has said additional help should have been engaged sooner than that the Session should be delayed. The hiring of extra help would have raised a Tory howl, and not without reason, for it would have been next to useless. The Commissioners now engaged in the work have got it in such condition as is only perfectly understood by themselves; and to bring another man in would be a hindrance rather than an aid to them.—For the new hand to learn what the others had done would require a longer time than would suffice for the completion of the whole; and any attempt to assist, however well meant on the part of the "aide" would only tend to confuse by disarranging the parts already gone through. Hence it will be seen that the importance of allowing the Commissioners engaged in consolidating the Statutes time to bring their work to a fit condition to be laid before Parliament was a good and sufficient reason for delay in Session.

Those who profess to believe that this is not the true reason for delay in assembling parliament, assume another reason of their own supposition. Let us examine its probability, or rather its improbabilities. They assert that the Ontario Legislative Session is called so late in order that it may last after the opening of,—or overlap—the Session of the Dominion Parliament, and we are told that this is so arranged that the public attention may be divided between the two Houses and thus be distracted from the misdeeds of both ministries. The fault-finders are all imbued with the patriotic desire that Grit rule shall speedily end at Ottawa and Toronto; but they fear if these two wicked governments should come under parliamentary criticism at the same time the very enormity of their joint guilt will prevent people from seeing any of it. We would suppose that the chance of bringing so much Grit enormity to the notice of the country at once would rather be in favour of those who so loudly cry that the misdeeds of Reformers are so great as to demand their deposition from the Treasury Benches. The opposition members will be able—now that duel representatation is happily done away with—to attend and speak and vote in both Houses, as well as if the Sessions were months apart; and they can, if it so please them act in direct concert in the two assemblies in pressing the points of their policy—(always provided they have one) on public attention. Simultaneous Sessions on the other hand precludes any chance of one government playing into the hands of the other. The duties of each is before it and require its attention; and even were there foolishly preconcerted plans, they could easily be upset by so watchful and so virtuous an opposition. Common sense teaches that the holding of the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments at the same time tends altogether to favour justice and honesty, while it gives little or no chance to loud-mouthed slander and misrepresentation. This may be wherein it is so distasteful to the Conservative party. Who knows?

The objection that the Parliamentary Session in January is inconvenient is simply abased, when we remember that those who say so seem to prefer an opening in December, and an adjournment over the holidays. In the beginning of the year people have just as much, if not more, spare time on their hands as toward the end; and in this respect the calling together of Parliament after the holidays is to be preferred. As regards the municipal elections the late session is much better than the earlier. This year members of parliament will have an opportunity of taking an active part in the municipal contests, of personally judging the feelings of their constituents on vital topics, and of carrying with them to Toronto a well understood idea of what is expected of them in these matters; whereas by a December Session they are absent in Parliament during the most interesting and important period in the municipal affairs of their locality. When the Session opens at Toronto next month, the municipal elections will be over, members of Parliament having had a fair chance to use their influence in them, and to get properly washed up for the more extended business of the province, into which they can go with minds active and alive to the most important interests of their constituents.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

This line in which Peterboro is largely interested, has been placed in a much more favorable position by the late vote by Belleville of an additional bonus of $50,000 on the completion of the line to this town. While the majority of 250 by which the By-law was carried shows that the people of Belleville have confidence in the ultimate success of this railway scheme, the especial and strict conditions laid down, as clearly demonstrate that they know how to carefully guard their interests and those of others to whom the road will prove an advantage. Terms such as those made in this instance not only tend to directly guard the interests of the bonusing municipalities; they are also well calculated to preserve the integrity of those who have the line in hand, and to urge them to make efforts towards carrying the work through as speedily as possible. They are at once an encouragement and an incentive. The promised bonus is an immediate assistance to the Company, in aiding their credit; and it is to be hoped these generous terms will prove the investment a good one for the town at the southern terminus. The Company has already expended $340,000 in the work, and have twelve miles of road built, with an expensive bridge over the Moira river, and other bridges over Rawdon creek. The iron is all laid down for that distance besides which there are twenty-three miles of grading done, with the right of way mostly paid for. It would be a great pity did this amount of work lie any longer without further improvement, and we are heartily glad to see the prospects of this road looking up.

THE TORONTO "TRIBUNE."

This paper, published in the interest of Roman Catholics, has changed hands, Mr. Thomas McCrossen is now publisher and proprietor. It will, in future, give the present Local Government an independent support. The change had become necessary owing to the Irish Canadian having become rampant on the question of nationality and the bitterness with which it opposes the Scotch element in the Cabinets at both Ottawa and Toronto. Those articles had attracted the attention of Archbishop Lynch, who had again and again remonstrated with Mr. Boyle in reference to them, and no moderation being effected, the Archbishop has published a note condemnatory of the course of the Irish Canadian and expressing sympathy with the liberal policy of the Tribune. A moderate and liberal policy must tend more to the interest of the Province, and hence to Catholics themselves, than the bitter tirades that the Canadian has contained for months, and for which the EXAMINER several months ago, took the Canadian to task. While we would leave the Canadian to its own course, we cannot refrain from recommending the Tribune to that class of our citizens who will be likely to read a catholic paper. The ability and at the same time the moderation of the Tribune must be to the advantage of that people to support it liberally, which we trust they will do.

The following is the note of the Archbishop:

ST. MICHAEL'S PALACE,
TORONTO, DEC. 6, 1876.

To whom it may Concern:

For some time past we have been deeply pained by the tone of some of the articles in the Irish Canadian newspaper, considered by many to speak our sentiments. We took the liberty of expressing personally and through others, more than once, to the proprietor, our disapproval of these articles; not that we wished to interfere with the liberty of the press, but to clear ourselves from the apparent identification with views they set forth. The little attention paid to our well-meant remonstrances, showed how slight was the pressure which we exercised on that journal.

Under these circumstances, we feel bound to make known to the public:

1st. The Catholic body, as such, has not as far as we know, any accredited organ in the Province.

2nd. No association of persons, or journals has any right to dictate on subjects affecting Catholic interests, without consulting the Prelates of the Church, who are the natural guardians of these interests.

3rd. Any attempt to cause dissension and distrust amongst our citizens, and especially amongst the Catholics of this Province, by stirring up national prejudices, and personal antagonisms is injurious to Catholic interests as well as to the community at large, and should be strictly avoided.

(Signed) † JOHN JOSEPH LYNCH,
Archbishop of Toronto.

The New Lieutenant Governor of Quebec.

The Privy Council at a meeting held on Friday last appointed the Hon. Leo Letellier de St. Just to the position of Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, rendered vacant by the death of Lieutenant-Governor Caron. In Mr. Letellier the Province has a worthy successor to the lamented Mr. Caron. The new Lieutenant-Governor is a man of long and honorable political experience, and a Liberal of such steadfast principle as to be well deserving of the high honor conferred upon him by the Government.—Beside a thorough understanding of the constitutional functions pertaining to the position he now occupies, he has always evinced a firm fidelity to the right, and a love of fair play, characteristics which tend to make him naturally fitted to perform the duties devolving upon him. His knowledge has been gained during a long and unstained record of public life. He was born at Oseelle, on the 12th May 1820, and is consequently in his fifty-seventh year, still hale and vigorous of mind, as has been proved by his conduct and voice in affairs of late. He was educated at St. Anne College, and subsequently married a lady of Quebec, to which city he now goes as the chief personage of the Province. He represented Kamouraska in the Canadian Assembly during the Session of 1851. He was a candidate for the same seat at the general election in 1852, and again in 1857, but was in both instances defeated. He was again unsuccessful in his candidature for the Quebec Assembly in 1869, as also in L'Islet in 1871. From 1860 until the Union he represented "Granville" division in the Legislative Council. He was a member of the Executive Council and Minister of Agriculture from May 1863 to March 64, and was sworn in as Privy Councilor and again appointed Minister of Agriculture on the 7th November, 1873. In May, 1867, he was called to the Senate where he was a co-leader with Hon. R. W. Scott for the Government. In this capacity he earned the respect of both political parties, and we are sure none of his Senatorial will object to his elevation, but rather rejoice over his preferment, while all of them will regret his loss from among them at their meetings. With this, as with all other appointments of good men to official positions, appears the disadvantage of their withdrawal from active public life, and consequently the loss to the whole Dominion of their more practical services. The long, earnest, and beneficial work done by Mr. Letellier, however, fairly entitle him to a respite.

RESULT OF THE CARDWELL ELECTION.

In a late issue we remarked that we should not be surprised if Mr. D'Alton McCarthey was elected for Cardwell, and the result was proved the correctness of our surmises, the opposition candidate being returned by a majority of nearly three hundred votes. We do not wish to take and credit on this communication for any extraordinary amount of foresight as we based our remarks then on the knowledge that Cardwell is a strongly Conservative constituency; and the issue of the contest is good proof of our assertion. The Tory Journals evince a lively sense of satisfaction over the fact that Mr. McCarthey's majority is so much larger than that whereby the late member was returned. A comparison of the two majorities is rather a proof that in Cardwell, as elsewhere, the honest abhorrance in which even Conservatives build the misdeeds of the John A. Macdonald Ministry is to some extent passing away, and that a number of them are willing to sink their conscientious conviction to slavish party service. We do not think any one of these highly pleased Tories will go so far as to say that Mr. McCarthey is a more able man than the late J. Hillyard Cameron; then how can they account for the small majority of the giant as compared with that of the pigmy in the same constituency? They must consider that either one or the other election bore exceptional features, and by such an admission the whole foundation of their fabric is destroyed, and down comes their house of cards. The facts are that in the former election the recollection of the scandalers abuse of office by a Tory government was so fresh in the minds of the electors that they could not be induced to outrage their consciences in the support of a Tory candidate, even when that candidate was a man of ability and standing; but now that they again allow partizanship to usurp the place of principal, they give a larger vote to a man much smaller in every way you can look at him. In the House the proportion of parties is not changed in respect to members; but the opposition has; unfortunately for it and the country; lost a superior man and given his place to one far inferior.

No. 1 WARD MEETING.

A very well attended meeting of the Electors of No. 1 Ward was held in the house of Mr. Halpin on Tuesday evening, to hear from the old Councillors and Mayor an account of the manner in which they had conducted themselves during year. Mr. Wm Helm was elected chairman.

The Chairman having duly opened the meeting by stating its object called upon

Who began by referring to the pleasure he had experienced at meeting his old friends. He thanked the electors for their support in the past two contests, and asked them again for that support, and said that he had been the means of calling these meetings together and invited his opponent, Mr. Menzies to be present and state his views, but as yet he had not put in an appearance. He also had sent private invitations to several parties who had accused the present Council of incompetence and extravagance to be present and show the Ratepayers what the extravagance was. He strongly denounced parties who were accusing him and others on the street corners and elsewhere of incompetence and of not attending these meetings and show the ratepayers where the money of the town had been mispent. He then reviewed the "fly sheet" which was signed by a "ratepayer," to defute all the charges contained therein, and challenged the writer to meet him on any platform and substantiate his statements. He then referred to the streets and bridges and said that the expense had been kept down as much as possible, although it had run over its appropriation, and in referring to the benefits the town would derive from the Smith Street Bridge, spoke of the slackness of Ashburnham in giving them the $200 to drive the trade out of Ashburnham, as now they had a bridge in the north of the Town which had been erected to draw the trade into northern parts of the Town, and they had also a bridge in the east which accommodates the eastern portion of the county. He said that the ratepayer of No. 1 Ward must not be jealous, for about 5 years ago the Locks bridge had been broken down and it had to be erected also and the ratepayers at the north of the town had to pay their share of the expenses, and that they had to make a swing on it. He said in a short while we would see the Huron & Quebec Railway in progress, and next summer he hoped to see the men working on it between here and Belleville With regard to the rate that the town had this year, it was not to be compared with other towns.

In answer to a ratepayer as to whether the $150,000 to the Huron and Quebec Railway was a debt or not. He said he only wished it was, as more communication was what this town wanted, and he thought that it would only be a short while till Peterboro would have a through line.

He compared the rate of this town with other towns as follows: London 18 mills. Cobourg 20, Kingston 16, Toronto 15 with a deficiency of about $150,000 which had to be met by the issuing of debentures. Chatham 23½, Trenton 18½, Berlin 30, Newburg 20, Thorold 25, St. Thomas 16, Smith Falls 12½, Belleville 17, and Peterboro 11½, and he wished the ratepayers to distinctly understand that there was nearly one-half of that amount for the school rate which the Town Council had no control over. All the member of the Council had acted harmoniously together during the year.

MR. HAGGART also addressed the ratepayers and announced his intention of again being a candidate.

MR. CAHILL said that it had not been his intention to be a candidate, but as he had received a requisition from the ratepayers he could not decline, and announced himself again a candidate for Municipal Honors.

MR. TAYLOR announced himself a candidate for re-election and referred to the money that had been spent in charity during the year, and also stating that he had not said a great deal at the Board this year, as it took a man about a year to get into the workings of the Council.

MR. J. R. OLIVER said that he was a candidate for Municipal Honors in the South Ward. But when he allowed his name to appear before the ratepayers he had heard that some of the old Councillors had desired not to be candidates again. And if the ratepayers wished to elect him he would do his best for the town generally. He did not believe in the carrying over of moneys from one year to another, as it was a very bad practice. He then reviewed the work of the different committees during the year.

MR. MCBAIN said that he had been requested by several of the ratepayers to be a candidate, and he had consented, and if elected would do his duty to the best of his ability.

MR. MCGEE spoke of his intention of being a candidate, and was opposed to the way the present Council had managed their business.

After some of the ratepayers had addressed the meeting, a motion was passed expressing the confidence that they had in the present Mayor. The meeting then adjourned.

A SAD AFFAIR.

A sad affair took place at Selwyn on Thursday last, whilst David Ray of Smith and Thos. Clarkson of Lakefield were in Johnston's tavern at Selwyn. They had some words which so aggravated Clarkson that he struck Rae a box on the head.—Rae fell, and shortly after, if not almost instantly expired. Clarkson gave himself up immediately. It is not our intention to comment on this melancholy affair. The simple story is, whiskey did it. Both men when sober were inoffensive and harmless, but whisky makes demon's of men who would otherwise be civil and useful citizens. Our sincere sympathies are with Mr. Rae's family in the sad occurrence, and with Clarkson also for having thus placed himself in such a dreadful position. No matter how light the punishment, the fact that he caused the life of a fellow will be as much as he can bear.

The following is the evidence taken down at the Coroner's Inquest:

THE JURY.

FRANCIS J. BELL, Foreman; John Preston, Peter Preston, William Leonard, Wm. Middleton, John Middleton, Joseph Stabler, John Kennedy, Charles McIlmoyl, Watson Carter, Nathan Nichells, Silas Pearson, Wm. J. Wallace.

EDWARD FITZGERALD, of the township of Smith, County of Peterboro', farmer, being sworn said:—I reside in this township, knew deceased, was with him in the bar-room of this hotel about 3:30 P. M, this afternoon—Gerald Fitzgerald, Thomas Dever, and Thomas Clarkson were also there. Had only been there about five minutes. Got a glass of hot stuff but did not drink it, Clarkson and Ray came in out of the dining room; both were quiet. When I came in my brother Gerald read me a piece from a newspaper and upon their entering I looked for it to show it to them. Some one denied that it was there; Clarkson made some remark which I cannot remember, Ray said 'you are good at swinging your lip!' when Clarkson asked "Do you mean it?" "Then had a few more words and Clarkson struck deceased with his fist first, but I cannot say whether it was closed or not. Ray fell at once. He made no remark after. Could not say whether he struck his head against anything when falling. Ray never spoke after he fell but groaned once or twice. Mrs. Johnston came in and applied cold water to his head. Did not hear Mrs. Johnston refuse admittance to the bar. Gerald charged deceased into this room (the sitting room) a few minutes after we thought him dead. Ray and Clarkson were both sober, so far as I know. They did not appear to have had any previous quarrels, but both seemed to be good friends. Did not notice any marks on Ray's face. Would not consider that the parties had been drinking—they may have done so, but they did not show it. Do not think Clarkson had anything in his hand when he struck Ray. Was close to Ray when Clarkson struck him.

Cross-examined by Clarkson, he having first been cautioned by the Coroner. Ray was near the bar-room door. He told him to "stack your dry goods." Did not see any other blow struck. Ray stood near the stove—was lying pretty close to it when he was picked up. Do not think he could have fallen against the stove when he was struck. Do not think the blow ought to kill a man. Never heard of any quarrel between the parties. Have always heard that Clarkson bore a good character. Ray was the first to offer an insult. Gerald had hold of Clarkson, to prevent him from fighting, I think. Do not think the blow was struck with an intent to do Ray any injury. I am aware that Ray was in the habit of drinking. Am sure Clarkson struck him—he did not shove him. Think Clarkson struck him on the head. They had a scuffle before the blow was struck. Ray was on the floor before Clarkson threw him down—only in a sitting position close to the stove. Cannot say how close.

GERALD FITZGERALD of the village of Selwyn, blacksmith, being sworn said:—I was attending bar for Mr. Johnston who was away from home to-day. Knew Ray and Clarkson—the latter had been here all the previous night on business. He had been in and out all day. Ray came in after dinner—he was in and out until between 3 and 4 P. M. when the trouble occurred. Ray did not drink more than twice that I know of. Clarkson only drank once while I was at the bar. Was there when the row began. Ray challenged Clarkson to fight—He told him (Clarkson) to "stack his dry goods." They scuffled around for a little while, when Ray went to the floor—He was not knocked down. He got up again and I came from behind the bar and caught Clarkson, but cannot say where or how I caught him. Clarkson told me to let go. Ray was determined to fight. Clarkson threw me off, and when I looked around, Ray was down on the floor. I went to him as soon as I got Clarkson quiet. Ray did not speak. Got some water and poured it over his face. When Mrs. Johnston came to the door I shut it and told her all would be quiet. Ray was then breathing. I thought he was stunned. I brought him into the dining room. He was then bleeding at the nose. Ray and Clarkson had no previous quarrel to my knowledge. Did not do anything to bring Ray to, except the water, as I was to frightened. He was to far from the stove in my opinion to have struck his head against it in going down. Cannot say whether Ray fell, was shoved or knocked down. Ray began the row—It was began and ended in about a minute. Consider Ray must have fallen as he did. He could not have touched the stove. They were not the worse of liquor. Clarkson gave me the swing to get rid of me. I went up against the wall. It was after I was thrown off that Ray got the blow. Remember Clarkson giving me a shove.

Cross-examined by Clarkson: Ray was taking Miss Sanderson, his cousin, to Harvey, I cannot say whether he intended to take her beyond here or not. Am not say whether I would have fallen had the wall not been there. I had hold of Clarkson—Think I had him by the right arm and my other arm was around him. Do not think Clarkson was in a position to injure any man. I was the first man touched Ray after he was down. Do not think Ray received any injury sufficient to cause death. Did not hear the first of the conversation, and the first of the row that I saw was Ray wanting Clarkson to come out and fight. Have never known Clarkson to be quarrelsome.

THOMAS DEVER, of the township of Smith, in the county of Peterborough, farmer, being sworn deposed as follows:—Have heard the evidence of last witness and agreed with it. Did not see the blow struck. Clarkson was sitting on a bench behind the stove when Ray came from behind the bar and made some remark, and then told Clarkson to get up and "take of his duds," or words to that effect. Clarkson got up, took off his coat asked Ray if he meant it, and then the scuffle began. When I saw Ray down he was about a foot and a half from the stove. Do not think he could have touched it in falling. Ray never spoke or moved after he fell. Did not see Clarkson strike Ray. Ray fell heavily; he lay on his back. Clarkson made no effor to strike or kick Ray after he was down.

Cross-examined by Clarkson. Have known you four or five years. Never knew you to be quarrelsome. Do not think you did anything to Ray to cause death.

R. KINCAID, M. D. of the town of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough, medical doctor, being duly sworn saith:—I was summoned by telegraph by Dr. Bell, Coroner, Lakefield, to hold a post mortem examination on the body of the deceased. I found the body lying in the sitting room of Johnston's Hotel at Selwyn, with the head towards the south and the arms across the chest. Noticed no external marks of violence, except one small spot on the right side of the forehead, evidently not of recent origin, and not of sufficient extent to account for death. I then opened the skull and on opening the calvarium (or skull cap) found the membranes of the brain tissue itself sound and natural. On the left side of the brain, however, I found a large quantity of suffused blood—say four or six ounces—with one or two small clots. As there had been a rupture of one or more of the cerebral arteries the cause of death now appeared quite evident but I proceeded with the post mortem and opened the thorax, the different organs of which were found sound and healthy. I next opened the abdominal cavity and found the organs of digestion sound and natural—the liver especially being in a remarkably sound state. It was now quite evident that the hemorrhage into the cavity of the brain was the cause of death and that the form of death was by cerebral apoplexy. During my examination I discovered no marks of violence of any account; no fracture of the skull, nor any disease whatever. The deceased, therefore, in my opinion, must have died of cerebral appoplexy, evidently produced by excitement and falling on the hard floor.

WILLIAM ADAMS, M. D., of the village of Lakefield, County of Peterborough, Physician, Surgeon, &c., being sworn said:—I have assisted Dr. Kincaid, in making the post mortem examination of the body of David Ray. I have heard his notes of evidance given and agree with him. An artery may be ruptured by natural causes, or from external violence. A blow may leave no external marks, yet may cause rupture of an artery internally. I agree with Dr. Kincaid's opinion as to cause of death.

This closed the evidence and the jury, having been charged by the Coroner, after a short deliberation returned the following

VERDICT

That Thomas Clarkson on the fourteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, at Selwyn, in the township of Smith, in the County of Peterborough, did feloniously and unlawfully kill and slay one David Ray, against the peace of our Lady the Queen, her crown and dignity. In witness whereof as well the said Coroner, as the jurors aforesaid have hereunto set and subscribed their hands and seals the day and year first above mentioned.

ALEX. BELL, M. D.,
Coroner Co. Peterborough.

Clarkson was then Committed by the Coroner to the County jail to stand his trial at the next Assizes.

Since the above was put in type Clarkson has been bailed out—himself in $1,000 and two sureties in $500 each.

The late Lieutenant Governor Caron.

After a long illness Lieutenant Governor Caron, of Quebec, died on the evening of Wednesday 13th inst. The Globe gives the following sketch of his life:—

The late Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec was the son of Mr. Augustine Caron, of St. Anne, Seminary of Beaupre, county Montmorency, at which place Rene Augouard Caron was born in the year 1900. His education was obtained first at the Quebec Seminary, and afterwards at the College of St. Pierre. He was called to the Bar of Lower Canada in January, 1829, created a Queen's Counsel in 1848, and in 1853 was appointed a Judge of the Superior Court of Lower Canada, being transferred to the Queen's Bench two years afterwards.

His political career commenced in 1834, when he was elected to represent the Upper Town of Quebec in the Lower Canadian Assembly, but, at the end of two years, terminated his connection with the constituency by resignation. In 1838 he was called to the Legislative Council of Lower Canada, although owing to the pending union of the Provinces, he did not take his seat in the Upper Chamber. In 1841, the union having been accomplished, Mr. Caron became a Legislative Councillor of the Province of Canada, was Speaker of the Council from Nov. 1843 to May 1847, and from March 1848 to his elevation to the Bench in August 1853, having also, during a portion of that period, been a member of the Executive Council. In 1873, on the expiration of Sir Narcisse Belleau's term of office, Judge Caron became Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, which position he held at the time of his death.

In addition to the offices already referred to, Lieutenant-Governor Caron had been President of the General Council of the Quebec Bar, of the Institut Canadien of the Literary and Historical Society, and of the Societe de St. Jean Baptiste He was also a member of the Corporation of Quebec, and for several years Mayor of that city. He held the titles of L. L. D of Laval University, Commander of the Order of St. Gregory, and Knight Commander of the same Order. He had also usefully discharged the duties of a Commissioner for the codification of the civil law of Lower Canada from 1858 till the work—one of great labour and importance—was finally accomplished in 1867.

Lieutenant-Governor Caron was a moderate Conservative in politics, and a man of conciliatory manner. He was employed as a mediator between the Government of Lord Metcalfe and the Liberal French of Lower Canada, in which mission, however, he failed entirely. His judical appointment long since removed his name from the Roll of Canadian politicians.

SELWYN MURDER.

The following letter appears in the Globe.—

To the Editor of the Globe.

SIR,—Another victim of the demon intemperance has to be added to the already long list, viz., that of David Ray, of Smith who was killed yesterday at Selwyn by J. Clarkson, of Lakefield, in the bar-room of the only hotel in Selwyn.

Mr. Ray was a member of one of the most respectable families in the township of Smith. Some of the facts relative to this disgraceful affair are somewhat as follows:—The two men—Clarkson and Ray—had been drinking together during the day. A quarrel arose between them concerning something Clarkson had said. Rae, feeling insulted at what the other said to him, challenged him to a "free fight." Both prepared for the "conflict," intoxicated by the liquor they had been drinking. Clarkson soon levelled his antagonist, and would have kicked him after he fell, but for a "boss" compasion. But it was unnecessary—the work was already done. Ray was a corpse in a few minutes. The blow that killed him was received on the right temple.

Clarkson, on the advice of his friends, gave himself up at once to the authorities. The coroner, Dr. Bell of Lakefield held an inquest in the evening, when a verdict of "manslaughter" was returned against Clarkson.

The inquest was held in the tavern, and before it was all over the crowd assembled had a 'jolly good time together. Official gentlemen present could not agree very well and the result was another affray, with less serious consequences. Who knows, but it might have been otherwise; but for the misfortune of one of the officials whose lower limbs became strangely weak, when he found the wall of the room a wonderful help in his fruitless endeavours to stand erect. But this was not the only case, for with others it went so far that the use of a revolver was threatened.

I think it entirely too bad that we have to put up with such officials. This, and the attempted murder a few weeks ago, are arousing men to see the necessity of Prohibition. They are both the direct result of using strong drink, not only on the days they occurred, but for some time previous. Surely this is a loud cry to the people not only of this township, but to the whole country for the utter extinction of that traffic which is so destructive both to the bodies and souls of men.

Yours, &c., &c.,
SOBRIETY.

Selwyn, Dec. 15, 1876.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—As your paper is always open for the discussion of important subjects, I would ask a small space on the very important subject of "Temperance." I feel sorry that I was unable to attend the public temperance meeting that was held in Peterborough on the fifth inst., for the purpose of discussing the merits of the Dunkin Act, and for submitting it to the people through the County Council. It ought to be the endeavor and also the prayer of every right-thinking man to stamp out the greatest evil that our great Dominion is cursed with. There is a class of men that are putting forth every effort to prevent the passage of the said Act, to which fact I can attest from personal experience. Being in one of your sister towns a few days ago and having put up my team and had dinner at the hotel—where I had stopped for years—the proprietor having got one of those petitions against submitting the Act to the County Council, he asked me to sign it, but I refused to do so, whereupon he said that he did not want such men as me in his house at all, and that I ought to be charged for the very seat that I sat on. Now, Mr. Editor, these are not heresay, but facts, that cannot be denied; but what can we expect of men that make their living by such a soul-destroying and soul-damning traffic, that brings such misery to thousands of homes, that causes so much crime, that that fills our gaols and penitentiaries, and bring so many to the gallows! No pen can describe the misery of the drunkard's family, and if it could it would be too harrowing to our feelings to relate. It surely is the duty of our Legislatures to put a stop to the many feature and sale of the accursed thing, and thereby bring peace and happiness to our beloved land, and stamp out the misery which it entails on so many of our people.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.—The Montreal courts are now engaged in deciding a novel case. A Tradesman has sued the Trades Union for $1,000 damages on the grounds that the defendants had in a tyrannical spirit prevented him accepting employment unless on terms fixed by the Trades Union; and he further prays that the Association be declared illegal.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 21, 1876.

Ward Politicians are becoming very much excited.

The recent snow storms have spoiled the skating on the Lake.

LEAP YEAR is on its last legs, and the old maids of Peterboro' are desperate.

TRAMS are crossing Rice Lake from Hiawatha to Harwood. The ice is reported to be in first-class condition.

CHRISTMAS good cheer is announced in great abundance in our advertising columns, last week and this.

No. 2 WARD heads the list with candidates. If ere they have the prophetic number "Seven" and not a blow struck yet.

WHAT we want to know is how Prof. Baldwin could turn water into wine unless he had some "spirits" to assist him.

SOMETHING THAT EVERYBODY SHOULD SEE.—Mr. A. Hall's Christmas Tree. It is beautiful and beautifully decked with good things.

A BIG PUSH.—The weather during the past week made a big push to fulfil Vennor's prophecy, which it succeeded in doing to the satisfaction of any weather prophet.

A PERTH, ONT. man threatens to publish under the heading "the short and simple annals of the poor" the names of all who have not paid their debts to him for five years.

JUDGING from the tameness of the meeting in the Music Hall on Friday night, the ratepayers are not prepared to split any great amount of enthusiasm over the elections.

REMOVAL.—Mr. T. Belcher, Architect and Civil Engineer, has removed his office to the rooms over the new Express Office, and two doors south of the Bank of Commerce, Cox's new block.

REGISTERING PARCELS.—The registration fee on parcels sent by mail must be paid in ordinary postage stamps, the registration stamps being for letters only. This will be news to the Post office clerks, although not a new law.

CHRISTMAS TREE.—There will be a Christmas Tree in the old School House, Ashburnham, on Friday evening, 22nd instant. A Magic Lantern will also be exhibited. All are invited to attend.

THERE were three and a half miles of sidewalk laid down in the Town of Peterboro during the present year—at least so Mr. Rutherford Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee says, and it must be so.

ASSAULT.—Johanna McCliggott vs. Johanna McCliggott. This was a case of assault between mother and daughter, the mother being fined $1.00 and $4.00 costs, for unlawfully chastising her disobedient offspring.

LEAVING TOWN.—We are sorry to hear of Mr. M. Collins' intention to leave town at an early date. Mr. Collins, though a resident and doing business here for only a few months, has made many warm friends, who will regret his departure.

NO. 2 WARD.—Mr. H. H. Smith is a candidate for municipal honours for No. 2 ward Mr. Smith is a shrewd, active young man, and ought to make a good Councillor. We earnestly advise the electors to select the best men in this and all the wards.

HAND SLEIGHS.—Hand Sleighs with Malleable Iron Knees are much more durable and stronger than wooden knees. A very good assortment for sale at H. Dent's, suitable for a Christmas present to children. Also a few first class Organs for sale cheap.

TOWN ELECTION.—The Town Clerk has issued his proclamation for the Mayoralty nomination, which is to take place at the Council Chamber, to-morrow, 2nd inst. Nominations for Councilmen will take place in the various Wards at noon on the same day.

SNOW SHOE CLUB.—At a meeting of the Snow Shoe Club, held in the Hufman House last evening, the By-laws were submitted to the Club and adopted. The Club will meet for a tramp on Wednesday evening next at 7.45 sharp, at the corner of Reid and McDonnell streets. A full turn out is requested.

SUICIDE.—On Thursday last, a farmer named Wm. Young, living in Galway, committed suicide by hanging himself in his own barn, it appears that he went out in the morning in his usual health and spirits, and was discovered in the evening by his son. No cause for the act is known.

SKATING RINK.—The lovers of this healthful exercise will be pleased to learn that the Skating Rink in Ashburnham is ready for use on certain days. As the Curling Club have gone to considerable expense in fitting it up, we hope they will be liberally patronized by our skating citizens.

CHRISTMAS GOODS.—Mr. L. Lipsett has received his Christmas stock, and solicits inspection from the people. It comprises oranges, figs, candy, toys, chocolate and confectionery of all kinds. The favourite brands of oysters constantly on hand. The stock is choice and will repay inspection.

THE GAME LAWS.—The season for killing deer closed on the first instant. The penalty for killing after that date is not to exceed $50 or less than $10. Any person who exposes deer for sale more than one month from the above date is liable to the same penalty. The whole of the fine goes to the prosecutor.

WE draw the attention of our readers to the requisition in another part of the paper requesting Mr. Thos. Cahill to allow himself to be again put in nomination for the South Ward. Mr. Cahill has been in the Council for three years, and has been during that time considered one of the very best.

CONCERT.—On Wednesday evening next Prof. and Madame Martin, assisted by their pupils, will give an entertainment in the New Opera House, where they no doubt will draw a large audience. As many as 50 performers will take part in some of the pieces. All our music-loving citizens should attend.

O. Y. B. BALL.—The Orange Young Briton's will hold their annual ball in the Opera House on Christmas night. Extensive preparations have been made, and a pleasant time is anticipated. We learn that it is their intention to present the best lady waltzer with a fine pair of "lady's dancing boots," manufactured at the fashionable boot and shoe establishment of Mr. Wm. McCullagh.

THE INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATIONS.—The Examination from promotion to the Collegiate Institute commenced on Tuesday. There were 42 candidates. The result will not be known for about a week. The Intermediate Examination commenced on Monday, and will be concluded to-day. There are 37 candidates The result in this case may not be known for two weeks.

DECLINED THE RESPONSIBILITY.—T. G. Mallitt, Esq., requests us to announce that he will not become a candidate for municipal honours in No. 3 Ward. It is a pity that he will not allow himself to become a candidate as he would fill one of the civic chairs with credit to himself and with honor to the town. It is just such men as Mr. Hallitt that we want to see around the Council Board.

THE WEATHER during Saturday, Sunday and Monday was unusually severe, high winds and severe frosts being the general order, with a light fall of snow. The Christmas of 1876 promises not to be a green one, unless indeed one of those changes for which 76 has been noted should set aside our calculations. In regard to weather, as well as everything else, there is no knowing what a day may bring forth.

NAMAU MILLS.—The members of Nanaon Temple, I. O. of G. T., intend holding their Annual Soiree on New Year's Day. It is expected that the occasion will be a very pleasant one. The singers are busy preparing, and a number of speakers have promised to be present. Mr. Ormiston, the Peterborough Vocalist, has also promised to be present. The proceeds, we believe, are for the benefit of the Temple.

SNOW SHOE CLUB.—A meeting of the Club was held in the Cabas House on Thursday evening, 16th inst., at which several new members were added, and a committee appointed. The committee are E. B. Edwards, F. J. Lewis, R. H. Wood, Geo. Hilliard, jr., and Geo. Dennistoun. A meeting of the committee was held in the Huffman House on Tuesday evening for the purpose of drafting By-laws.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.—We learn that Messrs. Mowry & Forsyth have applied for a patent for an improvement for sawing machines, which they have discovered. It consists of a safety saw guide for drag saws, which is always on the saw, whether it is in the log or not, and consequently makes a machine of that kind perfectly safe. They are using it on their Little Giant Sawing Machine, but it can be applied to any kind of drag saw.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. The Montreal Society, organized for this object has passed the following resolution:—"This committee desire to record their entire disapproval of the practice of pigeon shooting (from the trap) and shooting turkeys (for so-called sport.)" In this connection the "Animal World" says:—"The Prince of Wales has positively relinquished the practice of Pigeon shooting, and a Prussian court has decided that pigeon shooting is illegal."

SOIREE.—There will be a Grand Soiree in connection with the Presbyterian Church Springville, on Christmas Day. Addresses will be delivered by the Revd's Messrs. Cleland, of Port Hope; Torrance, of Peterborough; Hastie of Lindsay; Cameron, of Millbrook; and others. Tea to be served at 5 o'clock, p. m. The Peterboro Brass Band will be in attendance, and altogether the entertainment with a choice selection of music. Proceeds to be devoted to the repairing of the church.

A GOOD IDEA.—In the Perth County Council on Wednesday, according to the Beacon, Mr. Trow brought up the subject of shade trees, and advocated the plan of granting a bonus to farmers, who would plant shade trees in front of their farms, and a By-law was introduced for the purpose. The benefits of tree planting have long been seen and appreciated by the citizens of the United States, and should it become general in Canada, it would be of immense advantage to the country.

WE clip the following from the North Ontario OBSERVER, Port Perry, which speaks for itself:—"Our late young and intelligent townsman, Mr. Franz L. Doll, Watchmaker and Jeweler, has located in the Town of Peterboro, and opened out a choice stock. We congratulate our Peterboro friends on the acquisition into their midst of an active, reliable young business man, and a thoroughly skilled workman. We hope that the change may be mutually advantageous, and that the young man may speedily secure, as he well deserves, a large and profitable business."

THE VERY THING NEEDED.—Good Councillors. No. 4 ward is selecting good men to whom the ratepayers can depute their business with safety. There can be no better man selected than D. W. Dumble, Esq., and to elect him will be an honor to the ward. Mr. Deane is also an excellent man. Mr. Sperry, too, is another excellent choice. Messrs. Elliott, Lee and Baptie are also candidates. Mr. Elliott is a safe man, and well tried. Messrs. Lee and Baptie are untried men, but might make good Councillors, if elected. No. 4 ward is making choice of as good men as any of the wards.

THE new bronze cents issued by the Government are coming into circulation. The Head of Her Majesty on the new coin is like that on the twenty five and fifty cent pieces, whereas the old cents bore no crown upon the head. The only other difference is the date "1876." We may here state that the difference between the old and new cents is similar to that between the twenty and twenty-five cent pieces. The twenty cent piece has no crown; the quarter dollar has. Attention to this may save any danger of losing five cents, as the two silver coins mentioned are very nearly the same size.

APPLICATION will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, for an Act to confirm and establish the present Status of the Cobourg, Peterboro and Marmora Railway and Mining Company; to amend the Acts relating to the said Company; to authorise a further issue by the said Company of preference Debentures; to enable the said Company to dispose of its surplus lands, and to acquire lands in the Town of Cobourg, for the purpose of erecting furnaces, and carrying on the manufacture of iron thereon, and to grant further powers and privileges to the said Company, and for other purposes.

A CORNER IN COAL OIL.—A western exchange says:—"The western oil ring is now reduced to five members, who had sufficient moral courage yesterday to advance the price $2.85 per barrel. Probable profits on this transaction, $150,000. We understand that arrangements have been made by the ring for all the crude oil in Petrolia to come into their possession, thus shutting out all competitors. Householders in humble circumstances will find this winter that oil will represent no mean item in their domestic accounts, while others, who can afford the fixtures, will certainly put in gas, as it is undoubtedly cheaper at the present time."

SOLID APPRECIATION.—We clip the following from the Napanee EXPRESS:—"Mr. John Campbell, M. A., formerly head master of the Napanee High School, but now living in Peterboro, had sent him by Express from Napanee on Wednesday night, a magnificent silver-plated and chased Water Pitcher, of beautiful design, worth forty dollars, purchased at the jewelry store of Mr. Fred Chinneck, Dundas St. This superb gift was accompanied by the follow address not signed:

To Mr. John W Campbell, M. A., Peterborough:

This present is sent from a few of your former friends and pupils, to express in a small degree our high appreciation of your labors among us."

MR. HANDFORD'S LECTURES.—We have seldom had the privilege of listening to more eloquent lectures than those delivered by this gentleman on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. In matter, style and delivery, they left little to be desired, Mr. Handford speaks with a force and power rarely to be seen even in our most popular public speakers. The audiences were correct to say were small, but the few that braved the fury of Friday night's storm felt themselves amply repaid with the hour and a half's combined instruction and amusement afforded them. We trust Mr. Handford will again visit Peterborough, and we venture to assure him that if Mr. Vennor will only promise us anything like a reasonable weather, a crowded audience will greet his return.

YOUNG CANADIANS' L. O. L.—At the December monthly meeting of the above lodge, held last Tuesday evening, the following were elected officers for the current year:—William Thompson, Master; A. H. Delaney, Deputy-Master; Geo. Brown, Chaplain; George Hall, Treasurer; H. Cummings, Secretary; Harry English, Asst-Secretary; A. McIntosh, D. of C.; John Record, Inside Tyler. Committee.—John Stalinger, John Hinton, Alex. Hamilton, Robert Stewart and Alex. Miller. Sick Committee,—Wm. Carter, Joseph Hall and Wm. McElvain. At the same meeting it was resolved to celebrate their sixth anniversary by a social assembly, to be held in their Hall on the evening of New Year's Day, and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

SHOULD RECONSIDER.—Mr. John McClelland at the last meeting of the Board of School Trustees intimated that he would not be a candidate for re-election to serve as Trustee. This is much to be regretted as Mr. McClelland has been one of the most active members of the Board, having served on the most important committees where sacrifice of time and labour were necessary. And every member of the Board will bear us out in saying that he always discharged the work that fell to him with a view to economy. He was Chairman of the Property Committee, and in building the South Ward School, succeeded in completing the work within the first estimates, a task that is always difficult. The best men in the town are required on the School Board, and hence our desire that he should reconsider the matter, and after due consideration change his mind.

THE LINDSAY POST in commenting on the verdict of Common Assault brought in by the jury against "Bill" Montgomery for the beating of the man Wallis, in Bobcaygeon, who was appointed by the government as a detective, says:—"The verdict of the jury in the Montgomery case is severely commented upon by all who are acquainted with the facts. The evidence was plain enough that the assault was of the most outrageous character; but the jury looked at the matter with a leniency that is supported by no one but the boon companions of the rough character on trial. One thing is evident—the spirit of rowdyism of which this fellow was the leading representative must be stamped out. The jury had an opportunity to administer justice sternly but they failed, and it is not right that their failure should bring discredit upon anyone else in the county but themselves.

EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION.—This is a question which should be considered by all the candidates for municipal honors. The Legislative Assembly will be in Session long enough to give the new Council an opportunity of expressing their opinion, and of sending a petition if they are desirous for the abolition of all exemption. All property should be assessed and share the burden of local taxation. If an individual erects a dwelling house for himself it is assessed. If a congregation or a church build one for their pastor, it is exempted from being assessed. Where is the equality? Why should the one be taxed and the other go untaxed? There are hundreds of thousands of dollars now locked up from taxation by the law of exemption. Let every member of the municipal councils of the different corporations sign a petition asking the Legislative Assembly to repeal all exemptions on real estate. Now is the time to agitate the question.

PETERBOROUGH LITERARY ASSOCIATION. This Association met as usual on Tuesday eve'g last, Mr. Possnette, B. A., in the chair. Mr. Barrowman read Tennyson's poem entitled, "Wages". Mr. Roger then took the chair when the following question was discussed: "Ought a Member of Parliament to vote according to the wishes of his constituents or be governed by his own opinion?" Mr. E. B. Edwards, M. A., Mr. Ledgate and Mr. Edwards argued in support of the first proposition: Mr. Possnette B. A., Mr. Beck, B. A., and Mr. Borrowman, in support of the second. The Chairman after summing up the arguments left it to the members present to decide who gave their decision in favor of the second proposition. The Society adjourned till the 4th of January.

LECTURE.—Rev. Mr. Affleck delivered his lecture on "Home, Hope, Happiness and Heaven," in the George Street Methodist Church on Saturday evening last. There were a larger number present than could possibly have been expected considering the severity of the weather, and the many who were prevented also by their business, showing the high esteem in which the Rev. gentleman is held by the people of Peterboro. Those who did attend were well repaid by listening to the highly instructive and pleasing lecture which was there delivered. The greater part of his lecture was confined to the first word of his subject, "Home," which contained many thoughts and utterances new to the audience. The lecture throughout was listened to with marked respect. At the close a vote of thanks was moved and seconded to the Rev. Mr. Affleck for his highly instructive and pleasing lecture. The proceeds were applied to the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church.

LOOK AT THIS! Long Bros. are selling Jewellery and Fancy Goods of every description at cost price for two weeks only.

FAREWELL SUPPER.—A number of the friends of Mr. D. D. Gallelly assembled at the Commercial House on Wednesday evening, 13th inst., to give him a Complimentary Supper on the eve of his departure from Peterboro' to fill an engagement with Lumsden, the Scottish Vocalist, who visited this place a short time ago. The chair was occupied by J. R. Ormond, Esq., with the guest of the evening on the right, while John Elder, Esq., filled the Vice chair.—After the usual patriotic toasts, "Our Guest" was given in a few well chosen remarks by the Chairman. Mr. Gallelly responded, and the evening passed off very pleasantly. We also learn that the Choir of the Presbyterian Church presented him with a handsome Dressing Case, as an expression of the esteem in which he was held by them. Mr. G. carries with him the best wishes of a large number of friends in Peterboro', and we join with them in wishing him every success in his new undertaking.

Christmas Cakes in great variety, Iced and Plain. Mixed Cakes and Biscuits of all kinds fresh every day. Homemade Cakes Iced at LONG BROS., Simcoe street, 2 doors west of Nichols & Hall's.

PRESENTATIONS.—On Friday last, at the close of the classes in the Union School, several of the teachers were made the recipients of handsome presents. The pupils of the class about to be promoted from Mr. John Braden's room, presented him with a handsome writing desk and several copies of the works of popular poets, accompanied by an address, to which Mr Braden made a suitable impromptu reply, as he had not been made aware of his pupils' intentions until a few minutes before the presentation. Miss Annie Perry read the address; Miss Mary Shannon presented the desk, and Master John Robertson the books. Mr. Braden on behalf of the teachers presented Mr. Jeffers, the Principal, with a handsome writing desk. Mr. Jeffers replied in suitable terms, thanking the teachers for the momento of their good-will towards him. Miss Jennie Brown presented Mr. Blackadar, Mathematical Master, with several copies of English Classic Authors, and also an address, on behalf of the young ladies of his class. Mr. Blackadar replied extempore, thanking them for this token of their esteem.

ALL are invited to call and see Long Brother's Christmas Tree and their large Panorama Eggs for Christmas presents. Hearts of all sizes very cheap. A very large assortment of French Creams, Candies and other mixtures, pure and good.

THE PROTESTANT HOME.—The President of the Protestant Home acknowledges with thanks the receipt of $16.00 from members of the Grand Jury of the Quarter Sessions, per Jas Hall, Esq. The Committee of the Protestant Home, at their last meeting, resolved to discontinue out-door relief for the present, feeling that the funds at their disposal would be quite inadequate for the demands made upon them, and regret being compelled to refuse needy applicants but during the past year, besides receiving no grant from the Town Council, the annual subscription list has been much less, and other sources of income withdrawn; so that after the many expenditures of last winter they have to accomplish to be able to meet the expenses of the Home during another winter. The Committee hope to be able to give their usual donations of beef and Groceries, at Christmas, to the outside poor who may apply and be found worthy, and to enable them to do this they would most gratefully receive contributions from farmers and friends generally, who in the past have so kindly come to their aid.

THE MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES.

Candidates and rumours of candidates are numerous, and, although Nomination Day is close at hand, it is very difficult to state who and who are not in the field. If dame rumour is to be believed, the probabilities are about as follows:

THE MAYORALTY.—For the Mayoralty Messrs Wm. Toole and T. Menzies, are the candidates.

NO 1 WARD.—In this Ward, besides the present Councillors, Messrs. J. R. Ormond, A. McBain and J. McGee are the new candidates.

NO. 2 WARD.—Matters in this Ward are slightly mixed. Reported to be two or three "Tickets" spoken of. The old Council will again be candidates, and Messrs. J. Elder, J. Haggart, and H. H. Smith are the new candidates.

NO. 3 WARD.—In this Ward the candidates are Messrs. J. B. McWilliams, A. Rutherford, W. Hamilton, Geo. Edmison, W. A. King, John Douglass and W. Yelland.

NO. 4 WARD.—In this Ward Messrs. D. W. Dumble, T. Elliott, H. Denne, W. Lee, A. Sperry and A. Baptie are the likely men.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday evening.

Present—Messrs. Cahill, Hopkins, Elliott, Cook, McClelland, Menzies, Dixon and Rutherford.

In the absence of the Mayor, Councillor Dixon was called to the Chair.

The Minutes of the previous meetings were read over and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John Helm, Toronto, asking the Clerk to bring before the Council the form of the petition he had sent them in reference to the exemption of Church Property from Taxation. The Blanks were ordered to be filled in on the motion of Mr. Dixon and the corporate seal attached thereto, and the clerk was instructed to send him such information as they may require.

From John Helm, Toronto, stating that there would be a meeting in Toronto in reference to the exemption from taxation of Church Property, and asking them if they were in favor of it to send a representative to Toronto to attend the meeting.

Moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr Hopkins—That with reference to the communication from the Toronto City Council with regard to the Assessment Act, that the Mayor and Clerk be a deputation to attend the convention called for that purpose.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Rutherford—That it is not expedient to send a delegation to Toronto as the statement of our exemptions to be sent by the Clerk will be sufficient to represent us and be less cost to the Town.

Mr. McClelland said that it would be worth more than the expense to the Town to send a deputation to Toronto on this important business.

A vote being taken and the motion carried Mr. Rutherford raised the point of order, it causing an outlay of money, and the motion was laid over as a notice of motion till the next meeting.

From Scott & Edwards stating that the application for a new trial in the Court of Queen's Bench, in the matter of Wood vs. Town of Peterborough has been refused, and that judgement had been entered against him and that they had not yet issued execution but awaited instructions as they understood the plaintiff had no property.

From Messrs. Scott & Edwards informing the Council that the appeal case of Rann vs. Walsh, which was an appeal from a conviction under the Market By-law, the conviction was quashed with costs. In the appeal case of Bowyer vs. Campbell an appeal from the conviction under the fraudulent trustees By-law, the conviction was quashed but without costs, chiefly on the ground that Campbell

(There is a very wide difference somewhere as the Report places the amount at $13,051.32. The difference between the Report and Mr. Cummings' books is therefore $3,454.67, which we cannot find fully account for in the Report read to the Council. There is an item of $ 1930 which is not fully explained, and it is either contained in the above synopsis of the accounts or not, as no information is vouchsafed. We have included it as a separate item of expense. But if it is contained in any other item or in several other items the expenditure on streets and bridges is $14,478 99, instead of $ 10,379.44, as stated in the Report. In either case the difference requires an explanation.

Mr. Rutherford said that he had another matter to refer, to which was the Fire By-law He said that the By-law had in many instances been violated, and with reference to Mr. Reddy's shed, he had received a letter from Mr. Clexton, who is Mr. Reddy's landlord, stating if they were allowed to remain standing till spring, he would build brick all round them. He said the Committee did not want to take the responsibility on themselves in dealing with the subject and left the matter in the hands of the Council.

The Mayor said that it was left in the hands of the Committee to deal with.

Mr. Rutherford said the Committee asked the Council's advice in the matter.

Mr. McClelland said the Committee asked the Council's advice in the matter and he thought it was a reasonable request. He was of the opinion that the Council should allow Mr. Clexton the time he asked.

Mr. Elliott was quite willing to give him extension of time if he would go security for the loss that might be sustained in the case of fire.

Mr. Menzies agreed with Mr. McClelland.

Mr. Haggart asked if leaving the matter over till spring effected the suit now pending in the Court, if it did not, then by all means extend the time and leave it in the hands of the Committee to deal with.

Mr. McClelland said that he was quite sure that either of the parties concerned in the shed would pay all the costs incurred in the suit up to the present time, if they would only allow the sheds to remain standing.

The Mayor said that they should get something definite in the matter from Mr. Clexton.

Mr. McClelland said that he had seen Mr Reddy since, and he was willing to pay the expenses himself if they left the sheds standing till spring.

Mr. Haggart said that there had been a good deal of talk about how busy Mr. Beavis made himself, but if Mr. Beavis out steps his duty the people have the law in their hands, and he was of the opinion that this Council should back up the men they appoint in the discharge of their duty.

Moved by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Dixon—That Mr. Clexton's letter in reference to sheds erected by Mr. Roddy be left to the Building Committee with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council. Carried.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Cahill, chairman of the Finance Committee, submitted the following report, which on motion was received and adopted.

Geo. Armstrong, repairing hose	$3 90
Cornstock, coffins &c	13 00
Hall, Jones & Co, goods	3 24
T. W. Robinson & Co	4 80
G. A. Stewart, surveying	23 00
W. & D. Hopkins, repairing hose	12 50
McKee & Davidson, nails etc	85 61
John McDonald lumber account	490 00

The Committee also recommend that the usual annual grant of $100 be given to the Mechanics Institute this year. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Rutherford—That the Mayor and Treasurer be indemnified in borrowing money to pay the two last named accounts in the Finance Committee's Report just presented to the Council. Carried.

The Mayor stated that the Collector had asked for an extension of time in the collecting of the taxes, but he thought that it would interfere with the Collector's Bonds to extend the time, and advised the Council to leave the Rolls in his hands till the next meeting as he has power to collect them till the Rolls are taken from him.

The Council then adjourned for three weeks.

ONEMEE.

PENTON HOUSE.—We are happy to announce that the "Penton House," so favorably known to the general public, and especially to commercial men visiting the enterprising village of Omemee, has just been leased by Mr. Bowman, of Peterborough, whose experience as a hotel manager, in every branch, is well known. On the evening of the 7th instant Mr. Bowman gave an opening entertainment, which, for style, in the arrangements, quality of the viands, and general attention to all requirements of the various guests, who so promptly responded to Mr. B's invitation, could, we think, not be surpassed in any of our cities. The party numbered about 36, and sat down to supper about 9 p. m. The Vice chairs were filled by Messrs. Stevenson and Cottingham, who, each in their turn, performed their duties at the table, &c. in a highly satisfactory manner. We cannot on the present occasion give the various speeches for want of space; but, suffice it to say that the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were ably attended to in the hands of the chairman and the two gentlemen above named as Vice-chairmen. The evening was very pleasantly spent. Several songs were sung, also recitations, etc.—COM.

A MUCELY GOVERNED COUNTRY.—Mexico has no less than three governments at present: two Presidents and a Military Dictator. The whole country is in a sad state of disorder.

"GRAY'S SYRUP" will be found invaluable in preventing that dryness of the mouth and throat complained of by public speakers and singers who have used the ordinary cough lozenges or troches. It is peculiarly efficacious in all affections of the chest, lungs and throat, and we can speak highly of it as a family cough remedy. When purchasing, ask for Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum and take no substitute. 47

BY-LAW No.—

A BY-LAW to raise by way of loan the sum of Twenty thousand Dollars for purposes therein mentioned

WHEREAS, the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough have agreed to expend the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in constructing, making and repairing the roads and bridges within the said County.

And whereas, to carry into effect the said recited object, it will be necessary for the said Municipal Council to raise by way of loan the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, it will require the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars to be raised annually by special rate, for the payment of said debt or loan and interest, as also hereinafter mentioned.

And whereas, the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality of the said County of Peterborough, irrespective of any future increase of the same, and also irrespective of any income to be derived from the temporary investments of the sinking fund hereinafter mentioned, or any part thereof, according to the last revised and equalized Assessment Rolls of the Municipality, is the sum of Eight Million Five Hundred and Seventy-two Thousand One Hundred and Seventy-eight Dollars.

And whereas, the existing debt of the Municipality of the County of Peterborough exclusive of a liability if any to the Grand Junction Railway Company to the amount of Seventy-five Thousand Dollars heretofore voted by way of bonus to the said Company and exclusive of a liability to the Huron and Quebec Railway Company to the amount of One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars heretofore voted by way of bonus to the said Company, by By-law of said County No. 430, which have not yet become claims, and for which Debentures have not been issued, is for principal the sum of Thirty-three Thousand Dollars and for interest the sum of Twenty-two Thousand and Twenty Dollars, and there is nothing in arrear on account of said principal or interest.

And whereas, for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said principal sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars, as hereinafter mentioned, it will require an equal annual special rate of Twenty-six One-Hundredths of a Mill in the Dollar, in addition to all rates to be levied in each year.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the County of Peterborough,

1. That it shall be lawful for the Warden of the said County to raise by way of loan, from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same, upon the credit of the Debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said County of Peterborough, for the purposes, and with the objects above recited.

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Warden to cause any number of Debentures to be made for such sums of money as may be required, not less than one hundred dollars each, and not to exceed in the whole the said sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars; and that the said Debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Municipality, and be signed by the said Warden, and countersigned by the Treasurer of said County.

3. That said Debentures shall be made payable in twenty years, from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality, and shall have attached to them coupons, for the payment of interest.

4. That the said Debentures shall bear interest at and after the rate of six per centum per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly on the Thirtieth day of June, and the Thirty-first day of December in each year, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Municipality.

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures, and the interest at the rate aforesaid, to become due thereon, an equal special rate of Twenty-six One-Hundredths of a Mill in the Dollar, shall, in addition to all other rates, be raised, levied and collected in each year upon all the rateable property in the said Municipality, during the continuance of the said Debentures, or any of them.

6. That this By-law shall take effect, and come into operation upon the 31st of December, 1876.

THE above is a true copy of a proposed By-law to be taken into consideration by the

THE AMERICAN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THIS DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the ablest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR EQUALLY DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO MISLEAD THE PEOPLE. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.]

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch; ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display."

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, as Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with occasional dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I ascribe entirely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

JOHN MOLONEY'S OLD STAND.

I Wish that I'd been Born a Boy.

I wish that I'd been born a boy.
It really do, indeed.
If just to teach some young men now
A little how to succeed.

I wouldn't wear a false moustache
Upon my upper lip;
If one at all, I'd grow my own.
To be in fashion's dip.

I wouldn't wear a pin of brass
Upon my shirt bosom,—no.
I'd sport the gold, with diamonds real.
Or else not wish to show.

I wouldn't scent myself with musk.
That gives might think me sweet;
I wouldn't, like some young men round.
My washerwoman cheat.

Because a young Miss glanced at me.
I'd not imagine on,
That she had fallen straight in love.
Or wish'd me for a beau.

I wouldn't look to, no, no, no.
My Mammy for support,
Like many young men that I know.
Who here and there resort.

I'd be a man, and not a mouse.
And go to work at once,
Put my own shoulder to the wheel.
And make use of my senses.

I wouldn't sport my mother's watch
To show off as a ball;
I wouldn't wear a gimmil fob chain
Had I no watch at all.

I wouldn't run a great long bill.
Be it for what it may.
Fore I'd show out in broad-cloth clothes.
I would my tailor pay.

I would not strike a woman, no.
He's not a man who would,
Or take an advantage of old age.
But add such if I could.

Yes, if I'd been born a boy,
All lovely I'd be sure,
And there's some fellows that I know.
I'd like to thrash right well.

WHAT THEY MADE OF IT

We are sure that the Conservatives throughout the Dominion, taken as a party, from the leader of "clean hands" to the smallest touter and claquer in the ranks now feel supremely sorry that the late action for Contempt of Court in the case of the Queen vs. Wilkinson should have been brought against the Hon. Geo. Brown. The infinite charges which constituted their whole political stock in trade have been swept away by a blast of judicial air from the Court into which their intended victim was dragged. The counter-charges by which they diligently sought to draw public attention from the charter-selling and other evil deeds of their friends of the late Ministry have been disproven on oath by a Senator of the Dominion. The accusations of corruption they have made against the Reform Party, and by which they hoped to justify themselves on the plea that they were no more than their political opponents, have been laid to rest by sworn testimony they are bound to respect. In short their whole policy of slander has had the bottom knocked completely out of it, and can never be made to hold water again unless they prefer an accusation of perjury against Mr. Brown, which the most reckless of them will hardly dare to attempt. Below we give extracts from Mr. Brown's affidavit, covering the political aspect of the case, and which we commend to the attention of those who prate of the "party of hypocricy," etc., and to those who are in the habit of declaring that "one party is just about as bad as the other," we trust a perusal of these TRUTHS will cure the pycological strabismus of the one class and act as a mental tonic to the other. To the patient with a predilection to Toryism the dose will prove bitter, but we prescribe it for his good.

Among other things that George Brown, of the City of Toronto, Senator maketh oath and says are these:—

I say that shortly after the general election of 1872, it became known that very large sums of money had been received by members of the then Government of the Dominion of Canada from parties to whom the said Government had just made an improvident concession for the construction of a railroad connecting the existing railway system of Canada with a port on the Pacific Ocean.

* * * *

I say that the evidence before the said Royal Commission left no possible ground for doubt that these vast sums of money so obtained from the contractors for the Pacific Railway were expended in carrying the elections and I say that the strong feeling aroused thereby throughout the country caused the Government to resign office.

I say that many of the newspaper organs and public speakers of the Conservative party, on the retirement of their leaders from office in consequence of the "Pacific Scandal," commenced personal attacks on members of the Liberal party, and sought especially to find against them such accusations as might be represented as in some sense offsets to the conduct of the Conservative leaders in the Pacific Scandal.

* * * *

I am aware that at the general elections for the Canadian House of Commons, which took place in the year 1872, there was a General Election Fund for promoting in a legal and proper manner the political interests of the Reform party of the Province of Ontario; I have a personal knowledge at the extent and objects of that fund, and of the manner of its application; and I say that the entire amount of the said General Election Fund was less than thirty-eight hundred dollars, and consisted entirely of voluntary subscriptions from members of the Reform party; and I say further; I have no doubt whatever that this was the only General Election Fund of the Reform party for the Province of Ontario at the said General Election of 1872; as I never heard of the existence of any other such fund, and had any such existed I am sure I must have known it.

I say that the said fund was raised for the purposes of promoting the [illegible] the Reform party in the Province of Ontario at the said General Election of 1872, and for no other purpose whatever, and that no part thereof for corrupt or any other illegal or immoral purpose; and that, so far as I know and believe, no portion of the money was applied to any such purpose by those to whom it was apportioned.

I say that the letter written by me on 15th of August, 1872, to the Hon. John Simpson, requesting him to subscribe to the said General Election Fund, and which was commented upon by Mr. Justice Wilson in his judgment of 29th of June, 1873, was one out of either three or four similar letters written by me to personal and political friends; that no other such letter, and no other letter of any description, was written by me requesting subscriptions to the said General Election Fund of 1872, or to any other political purpose at that election; that I have no knowledge of any letters having been written by anybody requesting subscriptions to the said fund, except the other three or four which were written by me, and I do not believe that any were written.

I say that the Hon. John Simpson did not contribute anything to the said General Election Fund in response to my letter, or in any other way, and that the entire amount sent or received in response to the said three or four letters written by this deponent was either $122 or $123. And I say further that the largest amount I hoped to receive from Mr. Simpson in response to my letter was one hundred dollars.

* * * *

I say that my said letter to the Hon John Simpson was not written for corrupt purposes—was not written to interfere with the freedom of elections—and was not an invitation to anybody to commit the offence of bribery and corruption at the polls. I say that was on the contrary, simply an application for a reasonable subscription from a member of the Reform party towards maintaining the efficiency of his political party, and thereby promoting the cause of good government.

I say that the urgent tone of my said letter to Mr. Simpson arose from the fact that in making preliminary arrangements in regard to a Liberal candidate to represent the East Riding of the City of Toronto, in which we anticipated (and rightly anticipated as the event proved a very hot contest, it became necessary to give a promise that the sum of five hundred dollars would be contributed from the said General Election Fund to the actually necessary and lawful expenses of the Liberal candidate in that Riding; that this promise was given by me on behalf of myself and others; that when the time came for its fulfilment the General Election Fund had been exhausted, and a special effort had to be made to provide the said sum of five hundred dollars or break faith. I say that the said amount not having been forthcoming, I paid it from my own funds in order to fulfil my promise, the balance between the said sum of $122 or $123 received as aforesaid being a personal contribution by me to said fund. And I further say that the said sum of $500 was the only apportionment of so large an amount made to any constituency from the said General Election Fund; that the next highest sum given was either $250 or $300; and that the balance of the $3,700 composing the fund was apportioned in sums varying from $20 to $200.

I say that the "grand stand to be made on Saturday" at the East Toronto election spoken of in my said letter to Mr. Simpson, referred to the thorough organization of the Ward Committees, and the systematic arrangements for bringing up promptly and fully the voters for the Liberal candidate, and the vigilant exertions at the polls to detect and prevent the admission of fraudulent votes. The "beg push" letter spoken of in the said letter had the same meaning.

Surely this sworn testimony is enough to convince all detractors and doubters of the Reform party who have been made so by vague and reckless statements intended to affect it. There may be, and we believe there are, dishonest men connected with the Reform party, but that they wield a controlling influence, or that the whole party is corrupt is the belief of no one; though some whose party has been proved corrupt in the highest tribunals would like to make it appear that their political leaders and companions are no worse than their opponents. Let the judgment on Mr. Brown's case of "contempt" be what it may the evidence it has brought out has been the means of clearing away, the political smoke raised by the Tories for the blinding of the people.

NEW POSTAL REGULATIONS.

On and from the 1st January, 1877, an arrangement will come into effect, providing for the transmission of Post Cards between Canada and the United Kingdom, and for the assimilation of the charges on printed and book post matter, and trade patterns and samples of merchandize passing between Canada and the United Kingdom, to the postal rates of the General Postal Union, under the following regulations:

Special Post Cards to be used, for transmission to the United Kingdom, are in course of preparation, and will be issued for sale to the Public at two cents each. These Cards will pass at that rate, subject to the general conditions applicable to Post Cards sent within the Dominion, and whether forwarded in the Mails for England and the United States or by Canada Packet.

On transient newspapers addressed to the United Kingdom the rate will be two cents per 4 oz., or fraction of 4 oz. weight of a newspaper posted [illegible]

[illegible] 1st January, 1877, the rate of Letter Postage from Canada to Newfoundland will be 5 cents per 2 oz.—prepayment by stamp compulsory

[illegible] dom, includes all printed matter other than newspapers, and all matter permitted by the Postal Regulations to pass at Book Post rates. On all such matter sent to the United Kingdom, the rate will be two cents per 2 oz. or fraction of 2 oz. and must be prepaid by postage stamp.

The charge on Patterns and Samples of Merchandize will be the same as on Book Packets—two cents per 2 oz or fraction of 2 oz., to be prepaid by postage stamp. The articles sent to or received from the United Kingdom by post as Patterns or Samples, must be bona fide trade patterns or samples of merchandize. Goods sent for sale, or in execution of an order—however small the quantity may be—or any articles sent by one private individual to another, which are not actually Trade Patterns or Samples, are not admissible.

It will be observed that the rates to be charged on Post Cards, Newspapers, other printed and Book Post matter, and Patterns and Samples sent to the United Kingdom, will be the same, whether sent in the mails forwarded to England via the United States, or in those made up for the Canada Packets with the single exception of Canada Newspapers from the office of publication to subscribers in the United Kingdom, which, if forwarded in the mails sent via the United States, must be prepaid in like manner with other newspapers so sent; but when forwarded by Canada Packet, such Newspapers may continue to pass as if addressed to places within the Dominion.

From the 1st January, 1877, the rate of Letter Postage from Canada to Newfoundland will be 5 cents per 2 oz.—prepayment by stamp compulsory

GIVING CHILDREN PLEASURE.

It is so very easy to give children pleasure, to make life a pleasure to them that something I fear because it is so easy we only do it by chance, in a haphazard way, not understanding the full importance of giving our children every simple pleasure that we can devise.

Thus we see how differently the same thing can be done for a child; warming and cheering it, or leaving it with no special memory of the deed. Take the matter of sleeping rooms. Here are two mothers living next door to one another; each has a boy of seven or eight years old, and in the general rearranging of rooms in the spring each mother decides that her boy shall sleep alone.

Tom has a comfortable bed in a good sized room; the bureau is full of clothes not in use; he finds it locked, and is told to come to mother if he wants any change of clothing. He asks for a looking glass, and the request is considered in the light of a good joke, as he can't pretend to "do" his own hair.

"You're just to sleep in that room, says his mother," "and mind you don't" "litter it up with any of your trash."

Harry's mother is house cleaning, and he complains bitterly of the times takes, as he has to "mind" baby and mamma is too tired to romp and tell stories, but on the last day of the cleaning Harry gets his reward for help he has been in many little ways to his mother.

"Harry, darling, you are getting such a big boy, and are really such a good boy, too that mamma is doing to give you a little room for your very own."

"For me to sleep in?"

"Yes dear, and play in sometimes; and where you can kneel quite alone, and ask God bless you and those you love; and it may be, if you should forget and be naughty you would have to sit there alone a long time—but we'll hope that won't happen. Come and see your own little bedroom."

It is a little hall-room. The walls are merely whitewashed and the window low and small, but mamma has managed a pretty little curtain out of one of baby's long dresses, the cot-bed has a white spread; a small bureau-washstand containing Harry's clothing, with everything duly arranged for him to wash his own face and hands, and chair comprise the furniture. Harry sees a pretty photography of two little children playing about their mother's knee, a bright chromo of a bunch of flower tacked up against the wall (what cares he that it is a "tin-picture," as the children call them), and above the washstand, on a level with the proud little boy's face, hangs a small looking-glass, while over it he easily reads the large card; "Be ye kind one to another, [tender hearted, forgiving one another."

The child is delighted. He has grown mentally since he entered the door, and his heart is softened to listen to the few earnest words mamma says about his duties, and he tries to follow each word of the simple prayer she offers up that God will be pleased to be with her little boy.

Do you see the difference between these two mothers?

There was no expense about the fitting up of Harry's room, but his mother watches for every opportunity to give her boy a pleasure.

HAPPY is the man who is out of debt, let his property be ever so small. The evils of debt have been most forcibly illustrated during the protracted stringency of the times. Many a man who had enough enough to make him comfortably has lost every dollar by having it invested in property on which he had given a mortgage, which he has been unable to carry. No matter how much a man is worth, if he is heavily in debt, his situation is precarious, and his life is troubled. Let every young man lay down the rule, and stick to it never to run in debt.

WHEN WHISKY MAY BE TAKEN MEDICINALLY.

After goose, or Irish stew, or any delicacy of the season into which onions may have been seasonably entered.

Invariably after salmon.

When there is washing being done at home.

When the painters are in the house.

When a person feels faint and doesn't know what is the matter with him.

When a friend turns up after an absence of several years, or when you are parting with a friend whom you do not expect for several years

When a person has the toothache.

When a person has lost at cards or has come into property.

When a person has met with a great misfortune, or made a tremendous bargain.

When a person has quarrelled, and when a reconcilliation has taken place.

When a man is going to be married to a beautiful young lady, and has made her a present of a $500 set of jewelry, and she elopes with her music teacher.

When a person takes a ride in a buggy or is on a sea voyage, or goes out between the acts of a five act tragedy, or before ascending in a balloon, or after coming off the jury of a coroner's inquest, or when you are sitting up for your wife, or when a friend drops in to smoke a cigar, and, in fact upon all suitable occasions of sadness and merriment.

LOCAL.

THE QUEEN VS. MONTGOMERY.—The prisoner was brought into the dock on Saturday afternoon to receive sentence for assaulting Wallis. When asked if he had anything to say he did not reply; and His Honor said in view of the lenient verdict of the jury and the grave character of his offence he would give him the most severe punishment left in his power—one year in the Central Prison . . . . Montgomery was then arraigned for assaulting Margaret Emsure, of Bobcaygeon, on the 28th of March, 1875. Mrs. Emsure was placed in the witness box and swore that she was in her house and in company with a Mrs. Willett, in Bobcaygeon, when the prisoner rushed in and ordered both out and on her refusing to go dragged her towards the door and in doing so kicked her in the side. She received several severe injuries which placed her under medical attendance for three weeks. Dr. McCamus in his evidence testified that he remembered examining the complainant after the assault and found two ribs fractured. The evidence for the defence went to show that the prisoner was a tenant of the complainant and was in possession of the house in which the alleged assault was made, although he did not at the time occupy it. Mrs. Emsure had been trying to get prisoner out of the house and the matter was brought before the Deputy County Judge, but no order to get possession was granted her. The prisoner found her in company with Mrs. Willett trespassing on the premises and ordered them out telling them that he still had possession of the building, and upon Mrs. Emsure refusing to go she was forced out by the prisoner, but none of the witnesses saw prisoner kick her. His Honor in charging the jury summarily disposed of the two first counts—to maim and disfigure—in the indictment and explained the law with regard to the last count—assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm. He showed that the law sanctioned necessary force to eject a trespasser upon refusal to go after being asked. He left it with the jury to decide whether unnecessary force had been used by the prisoner in ejecting the complainant from the house. The jury after a short absence returned with a verdict of not guilty.

THE QUEEN V. MONTGOMERY.—The prisoner was arraigned for the larceny of a buffalo robe from Emsur, in Bobcaygeon, in April, 1874. It appeared from the evidence that he had been in the habit of borrowing the robe whenever he wanted it, and Emsur and his wife at last decided not to give it to him. The next time he came for it Mrs Emsur refused to give it to him, when he forcibly took it, at the same time kicking the woman. Mr. Hudspeth, for the prisoner, contended that there was no larceny established, there being no felonious intent, and that the case should not go to the jury. Mr. Devlin, for the Crown, adverted to the row's conduct of the prisoner, and to his seizure of the robe, and maintained that the larceny was established His Honor decided that as there did not appear to be felonious intent, the remedy should rather be a civil action for trespass, and he would therefore acquit the prisoner on that count.—Post.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 28, 1876.

The Approaching Legislative Session.

On the eve of the opening of another Session of the Provincial Parliament it is as well to consider beforehand which measures are likely to arise, and on which legislation may be based. Of course no one can yet tell what governmental measures will be foreshadowed by the Speech from the Throne, and until it is actually delivered we cannot do more than conjecture the probabilities in respect to the business of the Session. A pretty correct surmise as to some at least of the questions that will come up may be formed by a consideration of those matters which are publicly of the most pressing character, and those that the Ministry in the faithful discharge of their duties will probably seek legislation upon for the future good of the Province.

It is already well known that the work of the Commissioners for the consideration of the Statutes will be laid before the House are the close of the Session, and from the fact that the opening of Parliament has been delayed to this end, it is reasonable to hope that the revision of the laws of the Province will be complete.—The House will then be able to consider amendments offered in their relation to the whole, and to discuss and determine any points that may lead to debate in the important light of homogenity.

Another matter directly affecting the Courts that is likely to come up is the question of extending the system of legal reporting by trained short-hand writers. The taking down verbatim of evidence and judgments has been found to work so well in the Courts in which it has been tried that there is a strong feeling in favour of its further introduction. There has been a proposition to employ a reporter for at least one of the County Judges, Judge Mackenzie, of York, in which County a very large proportion of the judicial business pertaining to courts is done. Of course the appointment of such an attache to a County will lie with the Crown, and will depend very much upon what the County Council may say; so that if this branch of the question should arise during the coming Session it may probably be in the shape of a clause in a bill, to give power to County Councils generally to determine whether they will admit a reporter to assist their County Judge.

There will certainly be some allusion to the question of the boundary between Ontario and the Dominion, the arbitration in which case has, through the non-attendance of Sir Edward Thornton, and other circumstances, been broken up, for the time at least. For these reasons only a person cognisant of all the details of the question can form any approximation to the steps that will be taken in respect thereto.

It is very probable that a new School Bill will be introduced by the Minister of Education, based upon his observations into the working of the present law. The last Act was principally a combination of former Acts with certain new features demanded by the progress of our schools. Some portions of this Act have been found to work badly, while certain clauses so conflict that some have been declared illegal by the judges. A new measure is demanded which will do away with such discrepencies and give the Province as thoroughly practical a system as possible. We see that an opposition paper is trying to raise a cry of alarm on the hypothesis that the Minister of Education intends to move for the compulsory establishment of of township boards of school trustees.—The Minister since his appointment, as before, has shown himself a man of sense. He is deserving of praise for the energy he has displayed in his new and exceedingly important position; but with all his diligence in seeking for errors to correct and in suggesting improvements, he has never yet by word or act given any reason for the supposition that he favours township boards to the exclusion of the section boards of school trustees. Even were its expediency certain, the time has not arrived for such a sweeping change; and no one knows this better than Mr. Crooks. There is a possibility, however, that any School Bill that may be introduced will provide for changing from section to township boards with greater facility than it can be done at present.

Another measure likely to be introduced is one in relation to the Civil Service. The officials of this Province and matters pertaining to them and their position do not need re-organization so much as do those of other governments, notably those of the United States and the Dominion; but Ontario may learn a lesson from the misfortunes of her neighbours, and, by taking timely steps toward prevention, escape the errors into which they have fallen.

Some work will also in all likelihood be placed before the House in an overhauling of the provisions of the Licensing Act; and it is probable that means will be taken to make it less easy for offenders to escape punishment for infractions of the law. The amendments made will therefore be principally of a technical character.

The subject of Exemptions from Taxation is sure to come up in some shape or other, the Province at large being evidently ready for such a modification of the Assessment law as will distribute the burden of taxation fairly and equitably upon all who claim citizenship or directly enjoy the advantage of our country's civil institutions. This being a matter still under discussion and preparation outside legislative circles; and one in which new hints and suggestions are being daily made, it would be scarcely prudent to attempt any prediction in regard to the position it will assume before Parliament.

It is safe to say that no inconsiderable amount of legislation will take place in respect to Railways in the Province; besides which there are scores of notices already published showing that there will be a great many private bills submitted for the formation of joint stock companies, and kindred associations. A number of towns, too, intend applying for Acts of Incorporation. The same index (notices of application to Parliament,) points us to the fact that the question of Orange Incorporation will again be brought forward, in which case it will doubtless be made the foundation for a big display of oratory in the party sense from the Opposition side of the House. As usual the [illegible] of private bill-legislation will take up a great portion of the time of the Session.

THE RELIEF OF THE POOR.

At th is season when Christians are reminded of God's chiefest gift to man, and which is held as a festival commemorative of His wondrous love, it is meet that gratitude should awaken Christian duty. Canadians can have no excuse for forgetting one of the principal injunctions of the Master whom they acknowledge in their Christmas celebrations, as the season is itself strongly suggestive of the necessitive of the poorer classes. The command, "Give to the poor" is plain and unmistakeable as are the blessings promised to those who obey it. In no case does Divine teaching give us any distinction as to degrees of poverty, or the character of those to whom we are commanded to minister. The scripture injunction does not apply to the "very" poor, or the "deserving" poor; but to the poor in the broadest sense of the word. "The poor ye have always with you" is literally true; for no matter in what company we may be we have the necessitous with us, did we but know their needs. The writer now bears in imagination the exclamation "Oh, that means that everyone is poor somehow; but I can't relive everybody!" Hold on, poor reader. Let's see if you can't be helped a little here. You cannot relieve everybody 'tis true, however much you may wish to do it; but out of the multitudes included in the expression "everybody" there is at least one, probably more, there is no one so able to relieve as yourself. You are not expected to do impossibilities; neither are you expected to do nothing simply because you can't do everything. You have peculiar advantages which other people do not possess, jus as they have opportunities that do not come to you. Do not covet their chances, but draw on your own. There is a very profitable work that you can engage in with the resources at your command, and thus you will relieve your own poverty; for the very poorest people we know of are those who don't understand how to go to work where they have splendid opportunities for engaging in the best paying business in the world. You probably can't run an enormous trade in this particular line, because you haven't got the capital; but there's a sure return for what you do put into it. Just you try "lending to the Lord" and "laying up treasure in season," and you will find how easily and quickly you can extend the business.

The relief of the poor is not a mere expenditure of money—a giving of so much within a stated time, or a certain portion of ones income—a person who gives to every beggar that asks may accidently do some good, but is certain to waste the greater portion of his easy donations. Relieving poverty includes much more than money; and the poorest people need sympathy and encouragement as much as pecuniary assistance. These cannot beg; and many of them are bravely fighting for existence in our cities, towns and villages,—waging an unequal war with Death, who will at last prove their friend—while the least sensitive mendicants live a lazy life on the alms of the public. Even the charitable societies fail to find these shrinking and uncomplaining ones, who are left to suffer and to die because they will neither buy nor steal, and that too within reach of hundreds able and willing to relieve them, did they but know.

In a town the size of Peterboro none would go unrelieved if proper steps were taken. A Benevolent Society can do much, but its operations are limited. It is to be feared that too much reliance is placed on such societies, and that many consider their duty done when they have contributed to its funds. It cannot if it would seek for cases of distress, for its funds are seldom more than adequate for very slight aid to those for whom direct application is made. Everyone who gives five dollars to a society must not expect it to relieve him of fifty dollars worth of charity. The Young Men's Christian Association through the researches of its members about town can do something in discovering those who should be relieved, but still not much can be done in this way either. The system of relief to the poor should begin in families, first extending to those related by ties of blood and marriage, and then if more be possible to other cases within the knowledge of the household. This will make each relief a labor of love, and more will be given than money could procure. Lest any should be missed each church in the town should make it a special point to "minister to the necessities of the saints." For this purpose a committee in each congregation should be appointed, the minister being one "to seek and to save." In this prominent christian society ladies are well adapted, they being possessed of better tact for the performance of the delicate tasks that are sure to arise when are men. Indeed the destination of the word lady (hlaf-giefy) gives her the preferment in bitowes of charity. With committees from all the churches actively engaged in this good work, substantially backed up by the corporation, and aided, even though unwillingly, by the extension of charity from private households, no poor resident of Peterboro would be allowed to suffer. [illegible] Society or the Police authorities would then attend without distinction to visiting tramps, whether undeserving impostors, professional mendicants or more dangerous gamblers, and deal with them according to their deserts.

THE NEW ROUTE FOR THE ENGLISH MAIL.

Last week the plan of making Halifax the port for the dispatching and receiving the mails between Canada and Britain was fairly inaugurated. The train going east over the [illegible] Railway with the English mail reached Halifax several hours before the Allan steamer from Portland. On the arrival of the steamer, the Polynesian, she took on the mails and also a considerable number of passengers from various points in Canada, and in due hour steamed out on her way ocean-ward, at one o'clock in the morning. At half-past ten the same day the Prussian arrived from Liverpool and transferred the mails to the shore by a tender, leaving within the hour for Portland, and at 12.15 the mails left by a special train for the west, an effort being made to get them to Montreal in twenty-eight hours. Moncton was reached at 6.15, the average rate of speed being thirty-seven miles per hour. This is reckoned very good time considering that there was quite a quantity of snow on the track, and the railway authorities say that under favorable circumstances forty-five miles an hour can be made. The mails were delivered in Montreal at six o'clock on Tuesday, the time from Halifax being 29 hours and 45 minutes, the usual time taken to run the distance being 41 hours. The mails for the west were sent on from Montreal and letters and papers for Peterboro reached Port Hope on Wednesday morning and arrived here by the regular mail per Midland Railway on Thursday. With a direct rail connection with Montreal, such as we hope to have before very long, people here could have read their English news fully a day earlier, at the same time as residents in towns along the line of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The Prussian reached Portland, the old port of delivery of our mails, at 9 o'clock Tuesday night. Now supposing the mails to have been instantly put on a special train, (which is not always done) and run through in the usual time, 29 hours, they would have reached Montreal at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, or seven hours later than their delivery there by way of Halifax. Thus we see that the receiving of these mails at a Canadian port not only renders us in a measure independant, but outside of that, it proves an actual advantage.

ANOTHER BITTER PILL FOR THE TORIES.

The speech delivered by the Governor General in Victoria, British Columbia, in September last was a hard blow to the Conservative leaders, who were trying by all means in their power to stir up strife in that western Province, and to place Premier Mackenzie and his Pacific Scandal policy in a bad light. The very unequivocal, yet without intemperate language used by Lord Dufferin on that occasion in expressing his confidence in Mr. Mackenzie and his satisfaction at the course pursued by the Reform Government, struck the opposition organs and orators dumb. This loss of voice lasted till sundry criticisms from the English press, written in ignorance of the facts and the true position of the affair gave an opportunity for the parrot cry that Lord Dufferin had exceeded his Vice-regal functions. If such was their honest belief, they must have looked for an official censure upon the Governor-General—a despatch from the Colonial Office expressing dissatisfaction, or at least regret, for His Excellency's error. An Imperial communication has reached Lord Dufferin in reference to this very matter, and here it is:—

THE EARL OF CARNARVON TO THE EARL OF DUFFERIN.

Copy.
Canada.
No. 327.

DOWNING STREET,
November 7, 1875.

MY LORD,—I have received your despatch of the 25th of September, enclosing a printed copy of the speech which you delivered on the 21st of September last to a delegation consisting of some of the leading citizens of Victoria upon the subject of the construction of the Pacific Railway.

I cannot convey to you in adequate terms my appreciation of the ability with which you have dealt with this very difficult question, and of the admirable language in which you brought your views before the delegation.

Your speech, I cannot doubt, will have the best effect upon the public opinion of British Columbia, and indeed of every part of the Dominion; and will, I hope, contribute greatly to induce that calm and dispassionate view which is called for in a case surrounded by so many and great difficulties as is the present controversy.

I have, etc.,
CARNARVON.

Governor-General,
The Right Honorable,
The Earl of Dufferin, K. P., G. C. M. G., K. C. B., &c., &c., &c.

This then is the way in which Tory Government in England looks on what Tories in Canada considered a "partizan" interference and a "betrayal of trust" on the part of the Queen's representative in the Dominion. It is really a pity that the condoners of the Pacific Scandal, and upholders of unconstitutional bartering of official prerogatives cannot refrain from putting themselves in the way of such rebuffs. They have been punished; and that severely, for their crimes; but it really would seem that they are trying the sympathetic dodge, and to that end strive to get all the picks they can. We do feel a sort of contemptious pity for them; but still we cannot weep.

A RECIPE FOR INEBRIATES.

A city correspondent of the New York Sun, furnishes the readers of that journal, in response to many requests, with a recipe for the cure of intemperance, which, he says, under Providence, proved efficacious in the reclamation of a friend who, for many years, was a slave to the wine cup. He believes in treating inebriety as a disease, and in calling upon the Materia Medica for help in effecting a cure. The Sun's correspondent is a gentleman in whose discretion it has confidence. We publish the recipe for the benefit of all concerned. If there are any habitual drunkards in our midst—and what community is without them—who really desire to reform, because now men, they could do well to test the cure here prescribed to them and follow the directions in every particular.

"In the first place," says the correspondent, "get a bottle of Fluid Extract of Cinchona, costing about 75 cents, and a bottle of Compound Fluid Extract of Sarsaparilla, costing about $1.50. These are both to be had at any druggist's. Then get a pint bottle, and fill it one-third full of the Cinchona, and two-thirds full of the Sarsaparilla. Then fill the bottle with water, and shake well. Take a wineglassful of this mixture before each meal, and one before retiring. Keep this up for a month, and you will find that the desire for liquor will have entirely left you. Your appetite will be restored, your digestion improved, your nerves strengthened, your blood purified, and your whole system toned up. Your friends will notice the change in your appearance, and will congratulate you upon it. Your wife will bless you, your children will love you, and you will be a new man. Your business will improve, your credit will be restored, and you will be a happy man. Don't forget the directions, and don't neglect to get the medicines mentioned. Don't substitute anything else for them, and don't take any liquor while you are using the medicine. Don't drink any liquor at all, if you can help it, but if you must drink, drink moderately. Don't drink enough to make you drunk, and don't drink enough to make you sick. Don't drink at all CURLLIANA.—The Curlers in town are enjoying themselves in their rink. They have it lighted, and both day and night the besoms are busy, and in Curling terms you may hear: "Soup him up," "that's a grand ane," and other such phrases not intelligible to us Canucks.

O. Y. B. BALL.—The Annual Ball of the Orange Young Britons of this town was held in the Opera House on Monday evening. There were over fifty-five couple present, and a most enjoyable night was spent. The Opera House was beautifully decorated on the occasion.

POLICE COURT.—On Tuesday morning Thos. Connoly was charged with being drunk on the streets, raising a disturbance, and resisting the Constable. Sent up for two months at hard labor. Campbell was also sent up for two months for being drunk and having no means of support.

OBIT.—We regret to have to chronicle the decease from [illegible] of Mr. Earl, wife of Mr. B. Earl, English teacher in the Collegiate Institute. She was a very amiable and excellent lady, and much beloved by all who knew her. Her remains left here on Wednesday, for interment with her relatives in the County of York.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—We notice that the Corporation of Belleville is putting into effect the By-law compelling the clearing of snow from off the roofs of buildings on the principal business streets, and from the sidewalks throughout the town, those fronting vacant lots included. Here is a good example for the Peterboro Corporation. Who will take the necessary action?

IMPORTANT TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—The JOURNAL OF EDUCATION would remind School Trustees that the law requires them to have a School Census of their School Section Division or Municipality taken before 31st December.—The Census should distinguish the names, ages and residences of the children, with a view to see whether they have attended some school, or have been otherwise educated as required by [illegible].—We have received several communications in reference to the Municipal Election, both in Town and County, but we have refused to take any part against or for these whom the people have nominated. Our advice is to select the best men. During the year we have not failed to point out delinquencies. Now the electors have the matter in their own hands, and if they neglect their duty let them suffer.

TO THE FARMERS.—It may not be generally known that every year there are many available improvements made on wood sawing machines, to perfect their construction and add to their strength and convenience, safety in using them, and handy and convenient appliances for operating the machines. Farmers will do well to call and see these specialities fully combined in Peter Hamilton's new improved self-cutting Sawing Machine.

AXES.—Mr. George Stothem is now selling the B. & Axe, and X. Cut Saws. They are highly recommended for their excellency and superiority, surpassing all others in the market. We are informed that not more than one in one hundred and twenty prove in any way defective, and only two X Cut Saws have been returned to Mr. Stothem in five years sales. Every person in need of an axe should get one of his B. & Axes, they need no [illegible].

HOLIDAY NUMBER.—The Christmas number of BELFORD'S MAGAZINE is out, and is decidedly a credit to the publishers. Besides the serials, it contains several good holiday stories, and some excellent poetry. "Topics of the times" and "Old Prints" are interesting as usual, and the book reviewers are written with spirit and very readable. The comic pages are not wanting in humour. The illustrations are neat and appropriate, and include a clever Xmas picture.

REMEMBER THE CARRIER BOYS.—Our [illegible] we must admit, have accomplished their humble, yet [illegible] mission to the satisfaction of the [illegible] of the EXAMINER. Few comparisons have been made of their non-delivery. This is very creditable to the young lads, and we hope our patrons will not forget the customary New Year's gift. On Monday, when the boys perhaps will call upon them and present [illegible] a Calendar for 1877 together with an Address.

CLOSE SEASON.—The following extract from a bill just issued by the Fish, Game and Inland Revenue Birds Society will be found of interest:—Deer shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st December and 1st September. Wild turkeys, grouse, pheasants and partridge shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st January and 1st September. Quail shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st January and 1st October. Woodcock shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st January and 1st July. Snipe shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st May and 15th August. Hares and Rabbits shall not be hunted, taken or killed between 1st March and 1st September.

GOOD WORDS.—A contemporary says, and its [illegible] of [illegible] endorsed [illegible] every [illegible] "Examiner" is devoted to [illegible] to all readers in business. [illegible] the history of every locality which he finds it [illegible] and [illegible] and happy, and in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centential authorities to bestow. At the SEWING COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THE DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best productions of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that [illegible] deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently the recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the highest of mechanical experts. Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, as Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 16, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Sir,—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your Constitutional CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old, have been out of health for about five years, and employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but commenced using your remedy last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain across the shoulder blades and through the kidneys, with very bad headache, and a terrible tearing of down upon the lungs, so that my condition, when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, and bottle of which cured me, and gave me no further symptoms, and after taking [illegible] bottles I was restored to health, able to do about my usual work, and enjoy life as I had not done for years. I can recommend it to any one suffering with Catarrh in the [illegible] of your Catarrh Remedy.

Price $1 per bottle.

Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, &c. The New Route for the English Mail.

CORRECTED.—In our last issue an article on the above was put into the form before final correction, the figures being somewhat astray. We regret this, but in this issue make amends by republishing the article with proper correction as below;

The plan of making Halifax the port for the dispatching and receiving the mails between Canada and Britain has been fairly inaugurated. The train first going east over the Intercolonial Railway with the English mail reached Halifax on the 19th inst., several hours before the Allan steamer from Portland. On the arrival of the steamer, the Polynesian, she took on the mails and also a considerable number of passengers from various points in Canada, and in one hour steamed out on her way ocean-ward, at 1 o'clock on Monday morning. At half-past ten the same day the Prussian arrived from Liverpool and transferred the mails to the shore by a tender, leaving within the hour for Portland, and at 12.15 the mails left by a special train for the west, an effort being made to get them to Montreal in twenty-eight hours. Moncton was reached at 6.15, the average rate of speed being thirty-seven miles per hour. This is reckoned very good time, considering that there was quite a quantity of snow on the track, and the railway authorities say that under favorable circumstances forty-five miles an hour can be made.—The mails were delivered in Montreal at six o'clock on Tuesday, the time from Halifax being 29 hours and 45 minutes, the usual time taken to run the distance being 41 hours. The mails for the west were sent on from Montreal and letters and papers for Peterboro reached Port Hope on Wednesday morning and arrived here by the regular mail per Midland R. R., at noon. With a direct rail connection with Montreal, such as we hope to have before very long, people here could have read their English Mail at the same time as residents in towns along the line of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The Prussian reached Portland, the old port of delivery of our mails, at 9 o clock Tuesday night. Now supposing the mails to have been instantly put on a special train, (which is not always done) and run through in the usual time, 17 hours, they would have reached Montreal at 2 p.m., on Wednesday, or twenty hours later than their delivery by way of Halifax.

Allowing for running into Halifax and out again, and for difference in time, five hours, which is ample, we have a clear gain of fifteen hours to Montreal, which means a full day to Peterboro.'

The Samaritan, the second steamer bringing the mail to Halifax, reached that port at 9 30 a.m., on Thursday last, and at 10.30 the mails left by Intercolonial Railway. Moncton was reached at 4.50 p.m., and Levis at 9 o'clock the next morning, the mails being delivered in Quebec in less than twenty-three hours. The run to Montreal in good time and on Saturday morning the mails for delivery and distribution at Port Hope were left there by the regular morning train going west, at 9.10. The Samaritan arrived at Portland at ten o'clock the same morning, which, allowing for the difference of time, would be about the same time her mails were delivered at Port Hope. The English mail for Peterboro' thus reached here at noon on Saturday, whereas by way of Portland we could not possibly have had them till Monday, and possibly (on account of Sunday intervening, and there being no regular Grand Trunk express west on Monday morning,) not till Tuesday. Thus we see that the receiving of these mails at a Canadian port not only renders us wholly independent, but outside of that, it proves an actual advantage.

GRAND TRUNK ENGINEERS STRIKE.

The long threatened strike of the locomotive men on the Grand Trunk Railway took place on Friday evening. Whatever may have been the difference between these employees and the Company, and whatever justice the claims of the strike may have possessed, they have certainly by the manner in which they have carried out their last desperate move forfeited the sympathy of the public.

The differences between the men now on strike and their employers undoubtedly bore different aspects from the respective points of view taken by either side. It matters not in what the conflicting nature of the question was based, the whole matter is one of great importance to both the Company and the men. Such being the case, it seems madness to at once throw aside all chance of concession or compromise by the assumption of a positively belligerent position. So far, however, only the interests of the parties more directly concerned are involved; but here the matter does not end. The great body of the public, whose good is to be considered before that of any Company or Brotherhood, is also keenly concerned, and the strikers in this instance have apparently studied how they could most seriously let the blow fall upon this third and hitherto unconcerned party. A strike in any fashion would have been a public inconvenience, in the diminishing it not occasion of the carrying facilities of the road, and the consequent disarrangement of travel and trade; but when the withdrawal of the men from service is proceeded and followed by deliberate blocking of the line, and injury to the property of the road, the outrage is not merely upon the Company, but upon the whole community as well. Had the men in an orderly and inoffensive manner left their work, the public might have had some sympathy for them; but when they chose to leave their engines in out-of-the-way places along the line in the midst of a snow-storm, to be drifted in and instead of taking precautions to prevent, actually arranged for, or did damage to the machinery, their conduct can only be characterized as inexcusably malicious. Not satisfied with indirect injury to the public. Some of them were guilty of a still greater offence in leaving passengers mid-way on their journey, not, as might have been expected, at some town where accommodation could be found but in the open country, to pass the storming night upon the cars, with disappointment and anxiety added to the other discomforts of their situation. A number of persons in Toronto had that day chartered a special train, which was therefore for the time their property; yet the men running it after getting a short distance over the line left the special and its occupants in the snow, certain as to their inability to reach the place to which they had intended to go, and uncertain as to how they were to get back home. Such acts as these have rendered the present strike and the strikers disgraceful in the public estimation; and those who might otherwise have given them that countenance on which the success of their coup so largely depended, can now tender them nothing but the most unqualified condemnation.

Exit from Public Buildings.

The dreadful disaster which occurred recently in Brooklyn Theatre has called attention to the great necessity that exists for ample means of rapid egress from all large buildings into which it is usual to collect a crowd of people. In theatres especially, in which fire, beyond its usual uses of heating and lighting, becomes a means of enhancing the brilliancy of the scenes and adding to the effect of tableaux, the chances of a conflagration and the dangers therefrom are particularly great. But in all places of public resort in a climate like that of Canada, in which fire of necessity must be used in at least two ways, there must be more or less apprehension of the "useful servant" at some time becoming the implacable master.—Hence there should be in all such buildings ready means for the extinguishment of fires, and what is of still more consequence, the saving of human lives. The saving of life cannot be effected by the mere fighting and subduing of the flames, even where this is done before they have gained any headway; for when a large assembly crowded into a building tries to escape in a mass, loss of life is almost sure to ensue from the crush, especially when there is but one narrow way to get out, as is the case in the majority of our public buildings. This was plainly shown in the panics which occurred in Washington and in Montreal on Christmas, when there was really no danger at all from fire; yet many people were injured in an attempt to escape from an imaginary peril. The sad fate of an old man and twelve children by the destruction by fire of a Convent at Sainte Elizabeth, Province of Quebec, is another instance, nearer home, of the need of improved means of egress from buildings. This Convent contained only about one hundred people at the time of the fire on Christmas night; but of this comparatively small number, as crowds are reckoned, thirteen perished in the flames, in spite of the brave exertions of the Lady Superior. This disaster has awakened a melancholy interest throughout Canada in the question of better provision for escape from burning or otherwise dangerous buildings, and throughout the whole country this subject is being discussed with an earnestness that should lead to some good result.

Canada has an excellent law, passed a few years ago, which renders it imperative that the doors of all public buildings shall open outwards. This is good so far as it goes, and is perhaps the full extent to which a law of very general application can be made to go; but how many of our buildings with doors opening outward are so fashioned as to allow the exit in a few moments of a panic-stricken crowd? madly rushing to the one point of egress, pressing upon and wedging in his or her neighbour, bruising, maiming, and even trampling upon others, intent only on an unreasoning desire to push toward the door, each helps to form an impassable barrier to those behind, and an inextricable mass in front. In this way the single door is made rather an instrument of death than a means of safety. When in addition to an inadequate exit there is a stairway to descend, as in the case with most of our public halls, the chances of life give way still farther to those of death. Out of a few hundred people mad with terror, crushing, pushing, knocking down and trampling each other upon a not very wide stairway, many are sure to be killed or at least terribly maimed.—This being the case when the danger feared is only imaginary, how much more fearful must be the consequences when those held back by the living and dying barrier formed by their fellows are roasting in the flames or being crushed to death by the fall of timbers and masonry! The greatest want in most public buildings is doors. We need more and wider passages whereby egress may be made. These should not be, as in many churches all in one end of the building, where those coming out at one interfere with the stream of humanity issuing from the other. Not a few churches are so built that those coming from the galleries so meet those from the body of the church as to impede materially the exit of all, even in the calm of Sabbath decorum. Fancy then the result of a panic and a mad rush under such circumstances. The doors should be at different points about the building, and in number they should be in some sort of proportion to the capacity of the edifice, whatever its character may be. If it be conceded that one door is sufficient for the easy exit of one hundred persons, then in a building calculated to hold one thousand people there should be ten different means of egress, or granting but one good wide doorway to two hundred, the thousand should have five equally easy ways of getting out. In up-stairs halls the number of ways of egress should be increased, instead of being less, as is always the case. The expense then attendant upon the construction of such halls would probably prevent their being built; but, all things considered, that would be no excuse for inexcusable grief. If the sad awakening of the public mind on this subject, by late disasters should give rise to further legislation thereon, we trust that it will be in the way we have pointed out—the proportioning of ways of egress from public buildings to the number of people they will contain.

ATTACKING THE JUDICIARY.

It will be remembered that the rule in the Court of Queen's Bench, calling upon the Hon. Geo. Brown to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him, for his article in the Globe upon Justice Wilson's judgment of Jung last in the libel case of Simpson v. Wilkinson, was moved by Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, since elected in Cardwell as a supporter of Sir John A. Macdonald and the Tory party. The Conservative press of the end of the country to the was unanimous in its condemnation of Mr. Brown's article, which was characterized as a "gross and outrageous attack upon the Bench," and the Tory prints from the east down to the Review eagerly took upon themselves the task of defending the honour and sanctity of the Judiciary. It now remains to be seen whether their zeal in this regard was real, or merely assumed for the purpose of striking at a prominent political opponent. Seeing that they were so valorously indignant over an indirect case—one that has now been before the Court and by the Court dismissed, they have an excellent opportunity of showing their disinterestedness by transferring their condemnations to a direct attack on the Bench, though not of contempt of court as the phrase is usually construed. If they are perfectly consistent in their loudly expressed concern for the immaculacy of the Judges it will not matter to them that the offender is one of their own party. In such an all-important matter they will surely sink every consideration of political character and look only to the preservation of the high respect in which the Judiciary of the country should be held. When the probity of the Bench is concerned, all merely political views should be excluded, as they are supposed to be from the minds of the Judges when exercising their official functions. Instead of diminishing the zeal of these champions of the Judicial position should increase when the object of their indignation is a person from their own ranks—the very Captain and leader of the crusade—will they suffer their ire to cool and freeze to inactivity because of the little fact that the traitor arises from among them—or rather from their front rank? We shall see.

While the case against Mr. Brown was pending Mr. McCarthy was called away from his self-imposed task of championing the Bench, to again try his fortunes in an attempt to get into Parliament. In the very Conservative constituency of Cardwell he was nominated at the command of the United Empire Club, of Toronto, and hoping to there find a solace for his many rejections by the people of his own County he departed to enter upon his canvass, leaving the care of his "Big Push" case to his partner, Mr. Christopher Robinson. While addressing a meeting of electors of Cardwell at a place called Cataract, this same McCarthy who had such an honor of any implication on the Judges as to institute an action against Mr. Brown for an indignant protest against the uncalled-for use of his name in a suit with which he had no connection, used the following language, as established by several good witnesses:—

"He, (Mr. McCarthy) questioned the necessity for a Supreme Court in Canada with the large expenditure it entailed. It had, however, provided several friends of the Government with comfortable and lucrative births. Although he was not familiar with the qualifications of the Judges appointed to that Court, THE ALLEGED GROSS IGNORANCE OF MR. FOURNIER WITH REGARD TO THE SUPREME COURT ACT WAS SPOKEN OF AS EVIDENCE OF A LACK OF QUALIFICATION. THE APPOINTMENTS TO THE BENCH BY THE PRESENT GOVERNMENT HAD BEEN SUCH AS WERE CALCULATED TO SHAKE THE CONFIDENCE OF THE COUNTRY IN THE JUDICIARY. For instance, Mr. Moss, (a gentleman about his own Mr. McCarthy's) age, WITH PERHAPS A LITTLE, ALTHOUGH NOT VERY MUCH, BETTER STANDING at the Bar, had been appointed judge over the heads of old, experienced, and eminent judges, such as Justices Hagarty and Wilson. Messrs. Burton and Patterson, BOTH OF WHOM WERE OBSCURE MEN WITH LITTLE OR NO STANDING AT THE BAR had also been appointed in the same way, and, as a consequence, THE COUNTRY WOULD NOT BE EXPECTED TO HAVE A HIGH RESPECT FOR DECISIONS GIVEN BY JUDGES SUCH AS THESE. He would not say that these appointments had been made for political purposes, but the Grits had a queer way of doing things, and ordinary people could not help wondering how it was that young men without experience should be appointed over the heads of able and experienced judges like Judges Wilson and Hagarty."

Thus at the very time he appeared before the country as the chief defender of the Judges, Mr. McCarthy was guilty of an egotistical, impertinent, and wholly uncalled-for attack on several occupants of the Bench. His utterances were caught by a newspaper man present at the meeting, and afterward appeared in the Globe along with pretty severe comments on the inconsistency of the doughty McCarthy,—so severe indeed that that valiant but vacillating personage addressed an answer to the Globe which appeared in that paper on Friday last. In this letter so far from freeing himself from the charge is he, that he actually makes an acknowledgment thereof. Not that any such acknowledgment was necessary to fasten the offence upon him, for there are those who heard his speech who are ready to testify as to its substance; but he now stands before men of both political parties a self-condemned detractor of the Judiciary at a time when he was prominent in its supposed defence. We now await the indignant denunciations of this outrageous offence by the Tory press.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT!

Speech from the Throne.

(From our Special Reporter by Telegram.)

The Second Session of the Third Parliament of Ontario was opened yesterday, 3rd instant, by the Lieut.-Governor, at 3 p. m., with the usual ceremonies.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

The following is the speech from the Throne, received by special telegram for the EXAMINER:—

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly.—I have to your pleasure in welcoming you with the annual duties of the session of the provincial Legislature. It is a pleasure to have it in my power to announce that the learned Commissioners for the consolidation of the statute have completed their important and laborious undertaking, and that the result is ready to be submitted to you. I hope that it will be found practicable to give to the people of the Province at your present session the benefit of this work with such amendments in the existing laws as your wisdom may suggest or approve. Bills embodying various amendments which have the recommendation of the Commissioners will be laid before you. A measure giving votes to the sons of farmers in certain cases will be submitted for your consideration; also a Bill for extending the Voters List Act with necessary modifications to municipal elections. Further progress and improvement may be looked for in the great cause of education, now that it has reached another stage of development under the Act of last session which assigned the administration of educational affairs to a responsible department, it is proposed to ask your assistance towards improving the qualifications of teachers and in securing to all the schools teachers properly trained in the best method of teaching. Reports will be laid before you as to the working of the law respecting the sale of fermented and spirituous liquors. Under the Act of last session it will be seen that the Act has already had a beneficial effect in diminishing the evils against which it was directed, a Bill will be offered for your consideration embodying some amendments which have been suggested by experience as calculated to advance the efficient working of the law. An agreement has been arrived at with the Government of the Dominion for the purchase of the Rockwood Lunatic Asylum subject to your approval and the approval of the Parliament of the Dominion. Should this agreement go into effect the criminal lunatics now confined in this asylum will be removed and room will thereby be obtained for other patients, but I regret to say that it seems that still further provision must be made at this session for the accommodation of the Insane. If our means of receiving and caring for these inflicted persons are to keep pace with the annual requirements which unhappily are to be anticipated. I regret to find also that there is a necessity for increased accommodation for the blind, and for deaf mutes; the propriety of an appropriation for additions to the existing establishment for the instruction of these unfortunate classes will therefore demand your humane consideration.—Notwithstanding the large sums hitherto applied in aid of important railway enterprises, urgent applications are made on behalf of some of the unfinished as well as of the other projected railways for fresh grants. I commend to your prudent attention any of these applications which may be brought before you. The safety of the records in the Crown lands department being of great importance to the whole community, I invite you to consider whether there is any sufficient reason for further delay in erecting such a fire-proof building as may afford the needed security in future. It is with satisfaction I note that while the laborious and prudent character of our people has saved us from much of the depression which still prevails in so many Countries, their energy and intelligence are opening up new markets for the produce of the Province. I rejoice to be able from a personal visit to give my testimony to the success which attended the exhibition of Canadian resources at Philadelphia; too much credit cannot be given to the great zeal and the intelligent efforts which were displayed in every department by the people of Ontario, and which largely contributed to Canada gaining a proud position in its rivalry with older and larger communities. Since the last session the difference between Ontario and Quebec have continued to receive the attention of my government, besides some correspondence on the subject.—Members of my Government met as Ottawa, by appointment, a Committee of the Government of Quebec, and after discussion, a course of action to obtain without further loss of time an authoritative decision as to the award of 1870 was mutually arranged, such a decision being found to be essential to either an acceptance of the award or any settlement of the important matters embraced in it, for the determination of the provincial boundaries by the agreed method of an arbitration. The appointment of a new arbitrator, on behalf of the province, recently became necessary; the distinguished judge who was to occupy that position having requested to be relieved from it. Meanwhile a provisional line had been mutually determined upon in terms of the resolution of the Legislative Assembly at a former session. A considerable amount of additional material for the ascertainment of the ultimate boundaries had been collected. A new and an extensive statement of the case of Ontario had been prepared, and a considerable part of the documentary and other evidence affecting the questions at issue had been printed. Almost everything is now ready for the final decision within a few months by able and competent referees of questions, which, for two centuries have given occasion to keen controversy and often to fierce conflicts between the nations as well as the great public bodies who have from time to time claimed positions of the disputed territory. I have given directions that the public accounts for 1876 shall be laid before you, the estimates for the various branches of the public service for the present year have been prepared and will be submitted to you; you will find that they have been framed with every regard to economy as well as efficiency. I trust that your deliberations will receive the divine blessing and will result in advancing the prosperity and happiness of all classes of the people.

TURKISH REFORMS.

A new constitution has been promulgated by the Turkish government, and in its main features it shows that were Mahometanism exclusiveness is yielding to the advance of human enlightment. Some of the clauses of the summary telegraphed across the ocean, and which we give below, are expressive of the introduction of sundry reforms but lately made in the most advanced Christian States, and are hence considered among the greatest political and social advances:—

The individuality of the Empire is to be maintained. The Sultan is Caliph of the Mussulmans and Sovereign of all the Ottomans. His prerogatives are to be similar to those of the Constitutional Sovereigns of the west. The subjects of the Empire are to be called Ottomans, whose liberty is to be inviolable. Islamism (Mahometanism) is to be the religion of the State, but the free exercise of worship is to be subject by all classes holding religious opinions different from those recognized by the Empire. The places of the Press and free education are to be guaranteed, and primary education is to be compulsory. All classes of subject are henceforth to be regarded as equal in the eyes of the law; and religion is not to be regarded as inviolable. All persons before Courts of law are to be public, the rights of defence in all cases are to be recognized, and all judgements of the Courts are to be published. The Constitution provides that the Ministry will have no right to interfere in judicial matters. Confiscation, statute labour, torture, and inquisition are to be prohibited. Ministerial responsibility will be established. Ministers impeached by the Chamber will be judged by a high Court, consisting of the chief judicial and administrative functionaries. No public official will be dismissed without legitimate grounds. Their responsibility in maintaining the fact of not be released from it, from a superior having received contrary to law. Two those orders are instituted, a Chamber Chamber and Senate. They will receive all messages from the Sultan and have the function of voting and expressing opinions. The system of imperative mandate is prohibited. The initiative of framing laws belongs to the Ministers and the Chamber of Deputies. The laws submitted by the Chamber of Deputies and revised by the Senate will require Imperial sanction. The Senate cannot reject laws contrary to the constitution. Judges and functionaries are irremovable. A Court of Account, which is irremovable, except by the vote of the Chamber of Deputies, will annually present to the Chamber a complete financial account. The Provincial Administration will be in the broadest basis of decentralization. General and Municipal Counsel are to be formed by election. Finally, the Constitution is only to be modified by the votes of both Chambers and the sanction of the Sultan.

Sudden Death.

A gloom was cast over our town on Thursday evening last, on hearing the intelligence that Mr. William Johnston, a respected citizen of this town had suddenly expired, at the close of a Sabbath School Social in St. Paul's Church. Mr. Johnston had during the day been at the funeral of Mr. Edward Foster, and once or twice complained of a severe soreness around his heart, but still was able to go about. The Anniversary Social in connection with the Sabbath School being held in the Church in the evening, Mr. Johnston went to it, and appeared quite active in making everything pleasant and happy for all present. At the close of the Social he was gathering up the hymn books to place them away, and while in the act of placing them in the library, suddenly fell down and expired without uttering a word. The cause of his decease is believed to have been heart disease. Mr. Johnston has been a resident of Peterborough about 30 years, and has been highly respected as a citizen. He was Assessor in conjunction with Mr. B. Rowe during the past three years, and at the time of his decease was a member of the Grammar School Board. He was an earnest Sabbath School worker, and a warm and consistent friend of temperance. He held a high position in the Volunteer force of the Country, and in every position in which he was placed was deservedly respected. His family have our warmest sympathy in their sudden and trying bereavement.—His remains were interred on Saturday, and were followed to their last resting place by a large number of his fellow citizens, the funeral being conducted with Military honors. It was one of the largest we have seen.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

The people of the town have been making sweeping changes. The whole Council consists of new men except Messrs. Haggart and Cahill. Mr. Toole is re-elected with a narrow majority, narrow enough to say to him "be more careful, you stand on slippery places." Mr. Menzies made a good "fun" and would have been elected but for the source from whence he sought aid, as man's associations sometimes injure him as in this case, for otherwise Mr. Menzies is well known and very popular, as the small majority against him fully testifies. We regret that Mr. McClelland will not be in the new council, he is an excellent public servant, careful and well informed in all the wants of the town. A new "ring" in the second Ward has succeeded for the time but it is more than balanced by the excellent men returned in Nos. 3 and 4. Perhaps some one will ask what is this "ring?" well, it is said to be this, that some of the candidates pledged themselves to reduce the license fee if elected, and in this way secured the support of the license victuallers. If this be true they are not to be envied their honors, for if gained in that way they will soon show their ears; let us hope that these rumors are not true. Messrs. Dumble, McWilliams, Hamilton, Yelland, Cahill and Haggart are good men. Mr. Smith has an opportunity to make for himself a good name, as have also Messrs. Elder, Baptie, McBain and Miller, and we are willing to hope that our town affairs will be better managed this year than they were last. Of the dead councillors we will speak no evil; let them enjoy a few years repose, as defeated they will be better able to see after their own business.

THE SELWYN TRAGEDY.

It is with reluctance that we again refer to this sad and melancholy affair. Indeed we would not but by special request, as it is thought the published reports do injustice to the unfortunate young man in not giving full particulars of the circumstances which led to his being at Johnston's hotel when the fatal affair occurred.

The young man Ray had left home with his cousin, a young woman, whom he intended taking to her home, or at least some place where she was wishing to go. Having done this he returned homeward. Calling in Johnston's on his way, Johnston got his horse and buggy to go to a funeral while he was warming himself. During the absence of Johnston, Clarkson who was present, chaffed Ray about some little event, and the bar-tender pretended to read something about the matter out of a newspaper. Ray averred that was not in the paper, when Clarkson said he could soon find it for him. This led to angry words, a scuffle, and the fatal blows which deprived the poor young man of his life.

These are the facts, as we are assured by a letter now before us. The letter despite the false rumor that the young man had gone there for a "spree," as he merely stopped to warm himself, and while there joins led to words and words to the sad consequences which our readers are already well informed. The letter refers to the young man's religious convictions during the months previous, but the writer thereof will excuse us if we pass over this portion by merely beseeching all who wish to cherish religious conviction to eschew bar-rooms and taverns as they would the path that leads to sorrow, misery and death. We trust that this explanation will fully reveal all the circumstances connected with this tragedy, and relieve the unfortunate deceased from any stigma arising out of false rumors or impressions concerning his being at the place.

We cannot, however, drop this matter now without a few words on the indifference to sun a mild form, of those around the inquest, who could allow his dead body to remain there and a post mortem examination to take place without informing his relatives as soon as possible, and the parties most deserve great blame, when it was well known that the residence of his father was not more than three or four miles distant.

Our deepest sympathies are with the bereaved relatives; and if anything that we could say would but relieve their sorrow, we could be gladly performed, and our columns would be freely given to

THE ASHTABULA CATASTROPHE.

Cleveland, O., 4 p. m.—The chief officials of the Lake Shore road have arrived at Ashtabula, and are doing everything to clear away the debris of the wrecked train. It is hoped that an arrangement will be elected for the transfer of a limited number of passengers to night. The work of removing bodies from the wreck is still going on. Forty have already been brought out, and there are still evidence of many more under the debris. It is impossible to identify more than three bodies. All the rest are burned, charred and blackened beyond recognition.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 31.—A correspondent Ashtabula telegraphs at noon: I have just returned from the ruins, and have seen the remains of at least a dozen bodies, only one of which has any semblance whatever of a human body. By the side of another heap of embers a pair of scissors, also a tuft of greyish hair; no other means of identification could be found. Tae iron of the bridge is twisted in endless confusion with that of the cars, while the locomotive is a wreck in every part by this time. Nearly all the woodwork is burned away.

The following special to the Leader is the latest received up to one o'clock: Charles S. Carter of Brooklyn, N. Y., says he was sitting in a palace car with three others, engaged in a game of cards. Suddenly he heard the window glass in the forward part of the car breaking, and almost instantly the car began to fall. He was seated with his back toward the front, and as he went down he sat as quiet as he could, and held on. When the car struck at the bottom of the ravine he found himself almost unhurt, although one of the gentlemen playing with him, whose name he did not know, was killed instantly, while another, a Mr. Shepherd, of New York, had his leg broken. It seems that the train just about covered the bridge when it fell, as fragments lie across the ravine, touching the base of the abutments on either end. When one stands at the foot of the ravine and looks up, it seems an utter impossibility that any man could take a leap from so great a height and live, yet a number escaped, comparatively unharmed, and had it not been for the fire probably not one-third would have been lost. The water in the creek is only about three feet deep, and it is thought by some that when it is dragged a number of bodies may be found

BODIES RECOVERED

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 31.—Among the sufferers by the Ashtabula disaster in the hospital here, last night, were Charles D. Patterson, of Waterloo, and Wm. Donor, of Niagara Falls. Up to six o'clock last night 34 bodies had been recovered. Few will be identified.

THE KILLED.

A special to the Commercial says the killed are not less than 100, and may reach 120. Only 54 out of 174 passengers have been found. Rev. A. H. Washburn rector of Grace Church, Cleveland is lost. 30 of the wounded are distributed among the city hospitals. The mails and baggage are lost. A temporary bridge cannot be ready before ten days. The dead are mostly from New York, New England and Illinois. The cars and most of the bodies are entirely consumed. The bodies preserved were saved by the water. The bridge was 150 feet span, and was built in 1865. The fall is attributed to frost. The following are supposed to have been killed: G. B. Stow, employee of R. B. Oe., David Chittenden, Cleveland; Philip McNeal, baggageman; Harry Wagner, sleeping car conductor; E. C. Crane, New Haven, Ct.; W. P. Coggswell, Chicago; Levi Hart, Akron; Waite, Toledo; and Lawrence Lonergan, Express Messenger; George Kepler and A. D. Strong, Ashtabula; A. A. Stockwell, Ashtabula; G. A. Fernington, Express Messenger, Buffalo; Miss Minnie Mixer and Louis Barnard, Buffalo; Mrs. Capt. Thomas and daughter, Chicago; Mrs. Bradley's child and nurse; M. P. Coggswell, Chicago; L. W. Hart, Akron; Dr. O. W. Washburn, Cleveland Rector of Grace Episcopal Church; Mrs. George matron, and Mattie George, Cleveland; John Pickering Chicago; Wm. Clems, Bellevue, Ohio.

INQUEST.

A. L. Stone, a brakeman on the rear car, who miraculously escaped unhurt, was the first witness examined before the coroner's jury. He thought 160 persons were on the train; the express was going at the rate of twelve miles an hour, a little faster than ordinary when approaching the bridge, owing to the snow; the cars were heated by Baker's heaters and stoves.

Conductor B. Hern said the train consisted of locomotive, smoker, 3 ordinary cars, drawing-room car, 3 sleepers, and baggage cars. It is thought that 131 passengers were on board. It is anticipated that trains will be run regularly on the line to-morrow, passengers and baggage being transferred around the chasm by sleighs.

The testimony of the other witnesses does not differ from that of the conductor and brakeman. The jury will make an exhaustive investigation.

Scores of persons have arrived in search of information regarding missing friends. Little satisfaction can be given. Telegrams are also continually received for news. Boxes in the freight house containing bodies were numbered to-day for identification. There are thirty-six bodies or masses of charred and blackened flesh. The following are supposed to be indentified: Mrs. E. Cook, Wellington; Maggie L. Lewis, St. Louis; Lucy C. Thomas, Buffalo; Mrs. G. E. Palmer, Binghampton; Isaac Meyer and Birdie Meyer, Cleveland; L. D. Waite, Buffalo; Clarence Gage, Charleston, Ill.

Ashtabula, Ohio, Dec. 31.—During the entire day over 100 men have continued clearing the debris of the wrecked train and bridge in the Ashtabula river. Only two more bodies were recovered and some burned pieces of flesh. The belief is that many passengers were almost wholly consumed. Peter Livenbro, the fireman of the engine which went down at Ashtabula died to-day. The remains supposed to be those of Robt. Strudet, of New York city, have been found in the wreck.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 4, 1877.

Tenders are advertised for the erection of a new Brick Church, in Ashburnham, to be known as St. Luke's Church.

Funeral.—We understand that Mr. C. R. D. Booth has been appointed Bailiff of the Division Court at Lakefield. The appointment is considered a good one.

Cut this out, and bear it in mind, that when you want neat, stylish printing of any kind go direct to the Examiner office and leave your order, which will be executed in a manner that cannot fail to please.

Accident Sale.—Remember that Haggart Bros. have consigned instruments to sell by Public Auction on Tuesday, 9th of January, the entire farm stock, implements, etc., of the late William Fowler, of the Township of Emily. Sale at 12 o'clock, sharp.

The Quarterly.—We have received the current number of The Quarterly published by the students of the Hamilton Collegiate Institute. It is highly creditable to that Institution. Such papers in connection with our Collegiate Institutions should be encouraged.

The Protestant Home.—The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks the following donations for Christmas: Mrs. Fairweather, parcel of tea: Mrs. Jas. Reid, tea, sugar and parcel of tea: Miss Nicholls, turkey and goose: Mrs. Bingham, a goose.

Young Canadians Ball.—This event took place at the Orange Hall on New Year's night, and was a very agreeable affair. The Hall was handsomely fitted up for the occasion.—Music was furnished by Prof. Nix's Quadrille Band and dancing was kept up with a lively spirit till an early hour.

Accident.—On New Year's Day a runaway ensued on Simcoe street, which resulted in a kick from the animal on Geo. Sovereign, which might have proved serious. Dr. Hall was immediately sent for and dressed the wound. We understand the boy is doing as well as could be expected.

Unregistered Parcels.—The notice which has appeared in reference to the registration fee to be paid on parcels sent by mail was disorderly. The clause of the law reads, "parcels may be registered on affixing thereto a 10c. cent registered letter stamp, in addition to stamps representing the postage," instead of as represented, by "ordinary postage stamps."

Young Irishmen's Ball.—This Ball which was held in the Mus: Hall on New Years evening last, equalled very pleasantly. Some 70 couples were present and "tripped it on the light fantastic," until late in the "we sma' hours." The ball was very pleasantly conducted. The supper that served in the Science Rooms, and was all that could be desired. Prof Fruffman's Quadrille Band supplied the music.

Rescue Life Saved.—The people of the Smith line Smith, held a very successful Sabbath School Soiree on New Year's Day. Miss Graham provided excellent music for the occasion. Rosie Radcliffe, and Messrs. Cassie, Mc Clelland and Matthews, delivered appropriate addresses. Recitations and dialogues by the children added to the pleasures of the evening. The address by Elder Radcliffe was especially appropriate and touching, reaching the hearts of many.

Go On.—The people in the vicinity of Selwyn are circulating a petition to the Lloppo Commissioners to cancel the license of the hotel at Selwyn. It has become so notorious that there are no two opinions as to the wisdom of this being done at once. It has already earned notoriety enough to last forever. They are also about to request the Township Council to pass a By-law that no tavern be kept there in future. Go on! get rid of all such nuisances, until none but respectable houses are permitted to exist.

New Grocery Store.—When Mother Hubbard went to her cupboard and found no provisions, the joy died out of her life. So it is with every modern housekeeper whose larder is similarly empty. There is no excuse for this domestic state of things in Peterborough when Mr. Geo. L. Mitchell has opened out a large and select stock of Groceries, Liquors, &c., in A. Morton's old stand. Everything in provisions a house to be found there, and all orders carefully and promptly attended to. Read his advertisement.

Vennor Again.—Mr. Vennor the weather prophet, is out with another prophecy. He says: "We shall have a great deal of snow in January, and there is a considerable amount of snow in store for us during the winter of 1877. There will be another very cold snap in January, as well as a pretty general thaw, and another severe one in February. More snow will fall before New Year's Day, and it's my impression that this next fall will be a heavy one in Montreal, but the whole winter will be a short one."

A Reproof.—A contemporary thus sarcastically reproves a careless and cruel practice into which some owners of horses have fallen:—"Drive your horse into town and leave him unblanketed and perspiring in front of a store while you go in to do your trading. It is the surest way in the world to attract a crowd as the policeman gets into the sleigh to drive the animal away to warmer quarters, and it is barely possible that some compulsion may be used to make it shrink of such careless or brutal negligence."

The School Board.—On Wednesday 10th Inst., the people will be called upon to elect two Trustees. We advise them to choose good men. But every one who thinks himself a good man may not prove himself to be one. This is a bad measure to use as a standard: Vox populi is considered a good standard but it is not infallible. How as these are the only standards in use except the standard used by the 4th S. tail. As the first two standards are doubtful in their application, a little cream properly applied might secure a verdict from the third standard, at least some weak-minded members thereof. Try it, all who wish to test its virtues.

A Call Accepted.—We learn that the Rev. D. Mulhern, of Belleville has accepted a unanimous and cordial call to the pastorate of the Baptist Church in the important and progressive town of Peterborough, and expects to enter on his labours there the first or second Sabbath of the New Year. We most heartily wish Bro. Mulhern great success in the important field which he is now entering. During his short pastorate in Belleville he has been the means of accomplishing an important work for the Baptist cause in that town. The membership of the church has been largely increased and so has the congregation. We understand he leaves because he prefers a self-sustaining church and he believes the finger of God points his way.—Canadian Baptist.

Good Nature.—Good nature is the best feature in the face—wit may raise admiration, judgment may command respect and knowledge attention. Beauty may fascinate the heart with love, but good nature has a more powerful charm—she adds to thousand acquisitions to the charms of beauty, and gives a relish of magnificence to the most homely face. A cheerful temper is as good tempered during disappointments, crosses, and misfortunes, as during prosperity, and independence to shine forth in the midst of pain and poverty. Good nature never frets or fidgets at trifles, nor can the remembrance of present grievances disturb future ease. Then proceed to B. Thompson & Son, and have your photograph taken in the same good style as they have done all to please.

Board of Trade.—On Friday evening last, a meeting was held in the rooms of the Board of Trade, for the purpose of taking steps towards the formation of a Board of Trade for Peterborough. The steps were successful, and the following officers were elected by John Hutchins, Esq., and W. Mason, Esq., acted as Scrutineers. The annual public meeting was fully attended, and a variety of By-laws were approved of. The meeting after appointing the following officers adjourned till the Second Tuesday in January, when the General meeting will be held in the Council Chamber, to commence at 8 p.m.:—President, W. Clinton, Esq.; Vice-President, Geo. A. Cox, Esq.; Treasurer, W. Lash, Esq.; Council.—Messrs. W. G. Thompson, John Hutchins, J. R. Ormond, R. Davidson, T. G. Hastie, J. Garvey, W. McCullough, R. Romaine, W. J. Mason, W. Hamilton, Thos. Menzies, and G. R. Hately.

Police Court.—On Thursday morning Tilly Brown was brought before the Police Magistrate, and hereof on Bottle of Insult of support was committed to gaol for four months. On the same morning Hannah Bennett, of Ashburnham, was on the same grounds, committed for two months.....On Tuesday morning Jos. Goodman of Ashburnham was brought up before the P. M. for assaulting his wife, and committed until Wednesday evening, when he was fined $1.00, and $4.50 costs. On Tuesday morning John Welsh of Ashburnham was brought up for charging his wife and committed until Wednesday morning, when he had to give bail for the amount fixed, and one in himself for $100, to keep the peace for one year.....On the same day John Hopkinson was charged by L. F. Carpenter with assaulting him on Charlotte Street. Fined $5.00 and $3.50 costs.

Railway Accident.—A railway accident occurred on the Midland Railway, near Bethany, on Saturday last. A wood sprained was going out early in the morning and when at the place mentioned, the engine displaced a rail, the engine passed safely over, but the two next five or six feet and were thrown off the track. Fortunately no person were seriously injured, although Conductor Reynolds, A. Dewney, J. Howard, and Miss Corrin received trifling and contusions; the less caused was the most severely injured, but was able with assistance to walk to the cab when they reached Port Hope. A large number of people assembled at the station to relieve the wants of the injured parties when informed. The Midland is a very safe road, and notoriously free from accidents, but such an accident, even with the greatest precaution, at this season of the year, is oft-times unavoidable.

W. Fairweather & Co.—This week Messrs. W. Fairweather & Co. advertise to commence to sell the whole of their stock off by Public Auction, commencing on Saturday next. The stock is one of the largest and best kept stocks in town, and as Mr. Fairweather intends to sell the whole stock out as soon as possible they have re-marked the whole stock down to cost, and in many lines to 25 per cent less than cost. Mr. Fairweather is fully determined to sell out, as he says he has something much better to go into than the retail trade. Their stock is large and well assorted in Dress Goods in Merinoes, Cords, Lustres, &c. Their stock of Silks in Black and Colored and Velvets are unsurpassed by any retail store outside the cities. They have a very large stock of staple goods, such as Table Linens, Sheetings, White and Grey Cottons, Towelling and Towels, which are well worth seeing.

Masonic.—The Installation of the newly-elected officers of the Peterborough Lodge No. 76, A. F. and A.M., took place on Wednesday evening, 27th instant, being the anniversary of the festival of St. John the Evangelist. After the Installation ceremonies had been gone through, the members of the lodge sat down to a supper in their lodge room, at which a very pleasant and festival time was spent. The following are the officers who were installed by R. W. B. C. D. Macdonald, assisted by W. B. J. R. Ormond, and W B. Dr. Holywell: W. B. Robert Elder, W. M.; W. B. Henry Rose, I. P. M.; B. Walter Paterson, Jr., S. W.; B. Daniel Bolaghan, J. M.; B. Henry Cullen, Chap.; B. Wm. Menzies, Treas.; B. Geo. Stinson, Sec.; B. Alex. Boyle, S. D.; B. L. Mitchell, J. D.; B. Adam Hall, I. G.; B. J. R. Ormond, D. of C.; B. F. W. Partridge, Organist; B. James Paterson, S. S.; B. William Towle, J. G.; B. W. Hall, Tyler.

The Week of Prayer.—Next week will be observed throughout the christian world as a time of special prayer. We are glad that arrangements have been made for holding special meetings in this town. The services will be conducted as follows:—

Monday, January 8th.—St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Address by Rev. Mr. Wilkinson.

Tuesday, January 9th.—Bible Christian Church. Address by Rev. Mr. Watson.

Wednesday, January 10th.—George Street Methodist Church. Address by Rev. Mr. Torrance.

Thursday, January 11th.—St. Andrew's Church. Address by Rev. Mr. Gordon.

Friday, January 12th.—Charlotte Street Methodist Church. Address by Rev. Mr. Torrance. Each service to commenced at half-past seven.

George Street Methodist Church.—Next Sabbath morning at eleven, the services will be especially for the children of the congregation.

Vote of Condolence.—At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mechanic's Institute, held in their rooms on Saturday, the President stated the object of the meeting, when the following resolutions were adopted:—"Moved by Rev. V. Cozens, seconded by Mr. Geo. E. Snow,—That the Directors of the Mechanic's Institute have heard with unfeigned sorrow of the sudden death of their late Secretary, Mr. William Johnston,—one who had taken a lively, energetic and intelligent interest in the management of the affairs of the Institute from its organization in 1868. That while bowing with all humility to the wise, although inscrutable dispensation of Providence, they cannot abstain from giving expression to the sense they entertain of the great loss sustained not only by the Institute, but by the town at large in the removal of one of its most useful and respected inhabitants. And that they tender to the bereaved relatives of the deceased their heartfelt confidence and sympathy in this their hour of severe affliction, and that the Secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to the family of the deceased. The motion was carried: and it was resolved that the members of the Board should attend the funeral in a body. The book-keeping class on Friday night adjourned for a week out of respect for the memory of the late Secretary.

Professor Martin's Concert.—On Wednesday evening, Professor and Madame Martin gave a grand Concert of vocal and instrumental music in Bradburn's New Hall. The audience was large and appreciative. The playing on the piano by several of Mr. Martin's pupils was exceedingly good. Mrs. Martin played a Solo in excellent style, and was enthusiastically encored. Several of the ladies displayed careful training and great skill in performance. Among those especially the Misses Edmison, Elsworth, Erret, Cottingham, and Sullivan, deserve notice, and the Duet by Miss Minnie Stevenson and Miss Emma Cox was also nicely played for children so young. The singing of the Solos, Duets, and Choruses by Mr. Martin's classes, was delightful, many of the pieces being rendered with a skill rarely surpassed by professional Concert Singers, and attesting Mr. Martin's skill in training and conducting Classes, very few over attempting the Classic Music of the Masters of harmony. "The Heavens are Telling," by Haydon, was beautifully rendered by the class, and the R. C. Choir. In this as well as other pieces the Misses Gordon, Stratton, Elsworth and Dalton of Lakefield proved by the excellent voices only requiring practice to enable Peterboro' to rival other places in the sweetest melodies. The favorite portion of the Concert was the reading of the 1 Corinthians, by Miss Gordon and Graham: both young ladies have charming voices, and the audience showed their appreciation of this beautiful piece by repeated encores. Mrs. Martin in a very fine pianist, as attested by her playing of "Lucia di Lammermoor," which she did with great skill and ability. Professor Martin may well feel proud of the success of his pupils in both vocal and instrumental music.

St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham.—The Christmas tree of St. Lukes Church Sunday School took place in the old school house on Friday evening last. The children assembled in the church where they were addressed by the Incumbent, the Rev. C. R. Bradshaw, after which they marched down to the school, where the teachers had prepared a very pretty tree for them. Each pupil received a gift off the tree and a bag of cakes and sweetmeats. Some of the teachers took advantage of the occasion and presented each other with gifts both useful and ornamental. The ladies of the congregation presented Mrs. Bradshaw with a handsome fur cap. After they were done with the tree a very good Magic Lantern (kindly lent by Mr. Dobson) was shown; the views were both pleasing and instructive, and seemed to be very much enjoyed by the pupils and the audience. At the close of the entertainment Mrs. David Rogers' class waited upon her with the following address:—

Mrs. David Rogers, Ashburnham: Dear Teacher,—We cannot let the happy season of Christmas pass without showing our gratitude in some degree for your kindness to us. Your class is small, but we are all very fond of you, and we want to say in return for your kindness to us, and the trouble you take to teach us so patiently, if we have not as yet, given you as much pleasure as we could wish, we hope we will in the future. We have been trying to think of something we could do for you, and we have decided to ask you to accept a book of Psalms from us. We hope you will like it, and that you will read a psalm or verse, and a prayer with God's blessing upon it, every day. We hope you will always remember us, and that we will meet you in heaven. Then proceed to B. Thompson & Son, and have your photograph taken in the same good style as they have done all to please.

THE UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE.

The present political trouble in the United States over the election of a President has given rise to speculations upon the disadvantages of the republican form of Government, and to comparisons between our own political institutions and those of our American cousins. One of the principal sources of congratulation is, or should be, at least, in such communities as the superiority of our Civil Service. Some attention is to be paid to it during the present session; but more for the purpose of preventing than for correcting errors. The day of preventive has gone by on the other side of the lakes and the afternoon of the day of correction has come, as may be fully judged from the following vigorous though humorous remarks of Mark Twain at a political meeting not long ago;—

"Our present civil system, born of General Jackson and the Democratic party, is so idiotic, so contemptible, so grotesque, that it would make the very savages of Dahomey jear, and the very gods of solemnity laugh. We will not have a blacksmith who never lifted a sledge. We will not hire a school teacher who does not know the alphabet. We will not have a man about us in our business life, in any walk of it, low or high, unless he has served an apprenticeship and can prove that he is capable of doing the work he offers to do. We even require a plumber to know something—(laughter, and a pause by the speaker)—about his business (renewed laughter), that he shall at least know which ends of a pipe is the inside. (Roars of laughter.) But when you come to our civil service we suddenly lift great numbers of our citizens into public offices, with forenamen. We put the rank and file of a political horse into the Senate. We take a fathead who cannot keep a book of tallys from a brewery and appoint him Secretary of Legation (laughter.) Under a Treasury appointment are four cousins of money first, second, twenty-seventh through the line, and blind of an inspector, whose duty it is to count the coin. It reminds with a two or three hundred dollar coin getting thrown. (Great laughter.) Under our consular system we have consuls all over the world who can't speak the language but their own, and if you ask me why it comes so that go sailing all over the world through floods of moods and tempests and flourishing the garlic of sweetness and light of speech. When found to be a failure at home a foreign ambassador who is discussed all over with—with—with indescribable (laughter); but we immediately send one in his place whose moral character has a perceptible shady tint to it, and the is he brays when you propound his case going to roar. We shamefully train and educate our naval officers and military men, and we ripen and perfect their capabilities through long and costly experiences, and keep hold of the efficient servants through a just system of promotion. This is exactly what we hope to do with our civil service.

SPRINGVILLE.

At the close of the examination in Pole Mount School, Caven, on the afternoon of Thursday, Dec. 21st a pleasing incident occurred. Mr. George Peters, who has taught eight years in the district being about to leave, was presented with an elegant Silver Cruet-stand and a beautiful Silver Butter-cooler, having suitable inscriptions engraved upon them. The articles were presented on behalf of the pupils by Miss Jennie Howden and Miss Susie Dundess, and a complimentary address was read by Mr. Elijah Wilson. Mr. Peters, who was taken completely by surprise, and who seemed much affected, replied briefly, expressing his thanks for the valuable presents and for the many kindnesses received by himself and family during his long stay in the section.—Com.

Now that protection is such a good thing on the showing of the Tories, we should like to know why Sir John re-mained twenty years in power without increasing the tariff? If farmers suffer now 7½ cent. for protection they suffered all the same for Sir John, else in power, but he did nothing to relieve them. If manufacturers are failing from the same cause, why did he not discover the cause and apply the remedy in twenty years? There was a worse crisis during Sir John's reign than the present one, but he didn't protect anybody or anything. The whole protection cry is a stupendous fraud—a mere trick invented by a party of besmirched politicians. The men who use such a cry are simply trying to hoodwink farmers, and they know it—aye, and boast of it too, some of them.—Stratford Beacon.

THE SELWYN AFFAIR.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I see that the late accident at Selwyn has called forth some very cutting remarks by correspondents through the columns of your paper, the last issue of which contains a letter from Dr. Bell of Lakefield, in reply to a previous one signed "Sobriety," in which he recommends "Sobriety" to try and "improve the morals of that now celebrated place" in a manner quite uncalled for under the circumstances. I am of opinion that there is at least one locality, not many miles distant, which requires a Missionary even worse than we do, as I feel perfectly safe in saying that I defy the Dr. or any person else to say that any of the inhabitants in the neighborhood of Selwyn acted in any way discreditable save one, and I think it would be well for the Dr. if it becomes his painful duty again to hold an inquest on a body in a public house to instruct some of the not-over-temperate slang-whangers and blood-suckers of Lakefield to remain at home, as I believe Selwyn has obtained its present very unenviable notoriety, in a very great measure, through the conduct of the citizens of his own village. I do not deem it necessary to give any names, as I consider it is generally known throughout the circle of acquaintance who the disgraced parties were.

I do not attempt to defend "Sobriety" as I cannot fully endorse his statements. I must say that the Dr., in the discharge of his duties as Coroner, acted in a most gentlemanly and courteous manner so far as I know, but I consider there was a grave mistake in proceeding with the inquest and post-mortem until there was satisfactory evidence that the friends of the deceased were duly notified, as I consider them worthy of the esteem and sympathy of the public.

I must also say in justice to other parties, that there were many from Lakefield whose conduct was all that could be desired.

I adopt the Dr's principal of appearing over my own name, and hoping it may be long ere such sentiments are expressed again in connection with so sad an occurrence. I remain, yours &c.,

F. J. BELL.

Selwyn, Jan'y 2nd.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir.—The quarterly list of convictions up to Dec. 31st, 1876, having reached me, I do not observe the case of Johnson of this place being fined for the selling of liquor unlawfully, on the information of Mrs. Gegan. Probably our Inspector or the Considerate Justices before whom he was supposed to have been arraigned, will answer "Why this truuness."

When purchasing, ask for Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum and take no substitute. 6-tf

MARRIED

Nicholls—Ryan.—At the Manse, Lakefield, on the 1st of January, by the Rev. M. Clark, Mr. Alex. Nicholls, of Smith, to Miss Rebecca Ryan, of Peterborough.

DIED.

Died at the residence of Charles Dunlop, Esq., McDonnell St., Peterborough, on the evening of Saturday, December 30th, 1876, Clara Maria Payne Lizadale, the devoted and only daughter of the Rev. Theophilus George, of Lizadale, Ontombore, and St. Mary's, Birmingham.

The deceased lady was a great, great granddaughter of Lord Chief Justice Eyre Lizadale Hale, and from the early age of fifteen years was actively engaged in doing good, spreading the knowledge of the Gospel, and the principles of the Office of Bristol and London. Rest.

"Hold thou me up and I shall be safe."
A mind at perfect peace with God.
Oh, what a world is this!
A sinner reconciled through blood.
Pain, then indeed is peace.

With sorrow we record the death of Agnes, wife of Mr. David Rogers, of Ashburnham, and daughter of James Lang, Esq., of Peterborough, which took place on the 27th ult. after that most loathsome and painful disease, cancer in the mouth, which for the last eight months of her life caused her much suffering. Her end was peace. She was a member of the Methodist Church for many years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She was a kind and affectionate wife and mother, a sincere friend, and a consistent christian. She has left a husband and seven children to mourn their loss, but not as those who have no hope. They sorrow not as others which have no hope, for they know that their loss is her eternal gain. She has gone to be with Christ, which is far better. Her remains were interred in the Methodist burying ground, Ashburnham, on the 29th ult., the funeral being largely attended by friends from Peterborough and Ashburnham.

PUBLISHED BY J. R. STRATTON.]

THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER, THURSDAY JANUARY 4, 1877.

Be Careful what you Say.

In speaking of a person's faults,
Pray consider your own;
Remember the mote that offends others
Should seldom throw a stone:
If we have nothing else to do
But talk of those who sin,
We turn the ointment to perfume,
And from that point, begin.
We have no right to judge a man
Until he's fairly tried;
Should we not also remember,
We know the world is wide:
Some day, [illegible]
The old as well as young:
Perhaps we may, for aught we know,
Have fifty to their one.
I'll tell you of a better plan,
Which will be found full well:
I try my own defects to cure
Before of others tell:
And though I sometimes hope to be
No worse than some I know,
Matters distinguished quite
The fruits of others go.
Then let us all, when we commence
To slander friend or foe,
Remember curses, sometimes like
Our chickens, come to roost.
Don't speak of others' faults until
We have none of our own.

—Chicago Tribune.

—Advice to Cooks.—The editor of the Journal of Horticulture, London, says sawdust is a good thing for earthing celery, placing it between the rows and around the plants after the leaves and stalks have been brought together, sprinkling a little about them as we do to compost and insure blanching perfectly. It is better, he thinks than soil not being so liable to cause stalks to rot and is a good protection against frost. The only objection is that some sawdust may impart a taste to the celery.

CAUTION IN VISITING THE SICK.—Do not visit the sick when you are fatigued or when in a state of perspiration, or with the stomach empty—for in such conditions you are liable to take the infection. When the disease is very contagious, take the side of the patient which is near the window. Do not enter the room the first thing in the morning, before it has been aired; and when you come away take some food, change your clothing immediately, and expose the latter to the air for some days.

TURPENTINE FOR WOUNDS.—For all ordinary burns, spirits of turpentine will be found to give a great relief from pain. Turpentine is also an excellent application in case of punctured wounds It relieves the pain at once, promotes a rapid healing, and tends to prevent the bad results so much to be dreaded. A child having a thoroughly wounds made with a pitchfork in the hand, being filled up immediately with turpentine, greatly to the comfort of the patient. People have no idea what it must irritate and sting, which is not the fact.

OFFENSIVE BREATH.—Take from to ten drops of the concentrated solution of chloride of soda in a wineglassful of pure spring water. Rinse immediately after the ablutions of the morning are completed, it will sweeten the breath by disinfecting the stomach, which, far from being injured, will be benefited by the medicine. In some cases the odor from carious teeth is combined with that of the stomach. If the mouth is well-rinsed with a teaspoonful of the solution of alum in a tumbler of water, the bad odor of the teeth will be removed.

CHAPPED HANDS.—Remember that one can leave the hands in soap-suds with soft soap without injury to the skin if the hands are dipped in vinegar or lemon juice immediately after. The acids, chiefly the corrosive effects of the alkali and make the hands soft and white. Indian meal and vinegar or lemon juice used on the hands when roughened by cold or labor, will heal and soften them. Rub the hands in this; then wash off thoroughly and rub in glycerine. Those who suffer from chapped hands in the winter will will find this comforting.

TREATMENT OF LOCKJAW.—A Montreal report says: "A patient is now in the General Hospital who is suffering from lockjaw, brought on by a bad wound in his foot. His body was rigid jaws immovable, and the case critical, when the physician in attendance decided on a mode of treatment practised on the Continent. He opened the thigh of the sufferer, and laying bare the sciatic nerve pulled upon it, with the best results, causing the unnatural tension of the patient's muscles and tendons to relax, and giving him relief from the horrible agony he was suffering."

TRIMMING A LADY'S EARS.—We learn from Saratoga Springs that one of the belles of that place has had a difficult operation performed upon her ears for the purpose of reducing them to the ordinary size of such appendages. The lady is accomplished and pleasing to all who meet her, but up to this time she has suffered from the fact that her ears were far beyond the proper dimensions. No art of the hairdresser or milliner could be employed successfully in hiding this deformity, and she resolved to go to New York and have them cut down. She consulted with a skilled surgeon and refusing to take chloroform, suffered bravely while undergoing the operation. The surgeon believes that she ears will be all right again within a few weeks.—Price Reporter.

DEFECTS OF THE EYE.—In a recent discussion before the Physical Society, London, one of the speakers remarked that, though the eye has been considered to be achromatic because it practically is so, it is easy to cite evidence of the defects of the organ in this respect. For instance, to short sited persons the moon appears to have a blue fringe; and, in using the spectroscope, the red and blue ends of the spectrum cannot be seen with equal distinctness without refocusing the focusing glass. Again, a black patch of paper, on a blue ground, appears to have a fringed edge if viewed from even a short distance, while a black patch on a red ground when observed under similar condition, has a positively distinct margin. In the opinion of the speaker referred to, it is the overlapping of images in the eye which produces the mental impression that there is no want of achromatism.

MARRIAGES AND DIVORCES.—The London Times, in speaking of the enormous increase in divorces, says that it would be utterly impossible to tell how many constitutions have been imprired, how many digestions ruined, how many complexions spoiled, and how many persons carried, through medicine. The wine philosophy the present day is gradually delivering us from these potent perils. Nature has small-fighting power within her; there is a kind of vis medicatrix in the physical frame. Treat the body kindly—let it much pure air as possible get to the lungs, and as much fresh water as is needful be applied to the flesh, and as much healthy exercise as duty permits be given to the muscles, and an early rising an often abstinence will allow to effectual to the recruitment of all brain, nerve, and physical power. A GREAT NATIONAL WORK.

The Illustrated History of the Centennial Exhibition, with a full description of the Great Buildings and all the objects of interest Exhibited in them. By James D. McCabe, author of "The Centennial History of the United States," Etc. Embellished with over 300 fine engravings of buildings and scenes in the Great Exhibition.

The National Publishing Co. of Philadelphia have issued a large and handsome volume bearing the above title. The intense interest everywhere manifested in the great Exhibition, and the eager desire to obtain a complete and connected account of it, will unquestionably cause this book to have a very extensive sale.

This History of the Centennial Exhibition is not a dry list of the articles exhibited. It is a superb volume of 874 pages, from the pen of one of the most popular authors of the day. Mr. McCabe received the constant and sympathetic assistance of the Centennial authorities, and enjoyed peculiar advantages in the preparation of this work. He went, note-book in hand, through every department of the Exhibition, and the result of his labors is a work abounding in brilliant descriptions of the great World's Fair. He traces the history of the great enterprise from its inception to its accomplishment in clear style. He takes us through every part of the Exhibition grounds, giving pleasant accounts of every building and other feature of interest within the. We are taken through the Main Building, Machinery Hall, the Agricultural and Horticultural Halls, the Art Gallery, the Government Building, and the Annex. Each structures, and our deepest attention is held all the time by the descriptions of the rare and beautiful objects contained in them.

The book is written with a vigor and brilliancy which render it a complete and life-like picture of the great World's Fair, and which make it invaluable to all classes of our people. To those who have visited the Exhibition it will be a pleasing souvenir of their visit, and enable them to recall the magnificent scenes they have witnessed. To those who could not make the journey, the book is a necessity, for it will enable them to enjoy the delights of a thorough acquaintance with the great Exhibition in the quietude of their own homes.

There is not another book in print which gives one-fourth of the information contained in this work. It is superbly illustrated, and the price is so low that all can afford to obtain a copy. The book is sold by subscription only, and the publishers want agents in every county.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

The wife makes the home, and the home makes the man.

Help others when you can. Never give what you cannot afford, simply because it is fashionable.

Systematize your business, and keep your eye on little expenses. Small leaks sink great ships.

When a man dies, men inquire what he has left behind: angels inquire what he has sent before him.

An envious man repines as much at the manner in which his neighbors live, as if he maintained them.

The mind of childhood is the tenderest, holiest thing of earth. Let parents stand as watchers at the temple, least any unclean thing should enter.

It is foolish to expect the five following things from the following persons: A present from a poor man—service from a lazy man—succor from an enemy—counsel from an envious man—and true love from a prude.

A generous mind identifies itself with all around it; a selfish one identifies things with itself. The generous seeks happiness in promoting that of others; the selfish man reduces all things to his own interest.

Never sit down and brood over trouble of any kind. If you are vexed with yourself or the world, this is no way to obtain satisfaction. Find yourself employment that will keep your mind active; and if depend upon it, this will force out unwelcome thoughts.

When a person speaks unkindly, he has dressed himself clean to no purpose. The clothing of our minds is certainly to be regarded before that of bodies. To betray in a man's talk a corrupt imagination is a much greater offence against the conversation of gentlemen than any negligence of dress imaginable.

Our success in life generally bears a direct proportion to the exertions we make; and if we aim at nothing we shall certainly achieve nothing. By the resolution of labor and energy is often happens that poverty and contempt, disaster steal a march upon prosperity and honor, and overwhelm us with reverence and shame.

A Scotchman being examined by his minister, was asked: "What kind of a man was Adam?" "Oh, just like ither folk." The minister insisted on having a more special description of the first man, and pressed for more explanation. "Weel," said the Scott, "nobody got ony thing by him, and many lost."

SLEEPING WITH A BOA-CONSTRICTOR.—Sam. Johnson, of this city, formerly deputy constable, has had the care of an immense snake of the boa-constrictor species, left in his charge by the proprietor of a side-show. The snake had been sick, and finding that it should die if it was carried about from place to place, its owner made an arrangement with Johnston to take care of it until such time as it should be sent for, to again appear on exhibition. Johnston had tried to establish friendly relations with the snake, and flattered himself that he had succeeded very well. Two or three nights ago, when the weather turned so suddenly cold, Johnson found that the inn was becoming too chilly for comfort by half past. With a strange disregard of consequences, he took the half-frozen snake from its box and placed it in his own warm bed from which he had risen. He then returned to bed, intending, when the snake should revive from its chilled and benumbed condition to replace it in his box. Johnson fell into a doze, and then into a deep sleep. From his sound slumber he was awakened by a horrible sense of suffocation about his chest. He found that a monster had him in the deadly coils of the boa-constrictor, which had been warmed to life. The unfortunate man comprehended in an instant his fearful danger. Great drops of sweat started to his brow and, in an agony of horror, he realized the nature of his peril. With the energy of despair, he grasped the snake with both hands, and with almost superhuman strength, and in a manner he does not himself, recollected at last in unwinding its baneful folds from his body dropped the strangling thing to the floor where it lay coiled and in its old position. A moment more attack succeeded the flight and horror the strange ordeal occasioned.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINES triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the Sew Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and one Medalist Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centential authorities to bestow. Its COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THE LAST CENTENNIAL. Here then thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries assured for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867. Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the ablest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SPECIAL MERIT IN SEWING MACHINES IS BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO BOOMERANG THE PUBLIC. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.]

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine accompanied in the line work manship of its parts, great originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch, ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display.

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reasons:—

"Superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the Undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of Repairing all classes of Sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the steeall line.

Come One! Come All! I give Mitchell a call.
Whose Sewing Machines are both large & small
They are a regular success both handsome and neat
And as for their work It can't be beat:
They do their work both neat and well,
And at the "Centennial" they did Excel.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, as Sweatings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir,—Being unaware that others may have something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. For five years I was a sick man, I had been out of health for about five years. I had completed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued trying to get recovered until last, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do hardly a day's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the stomach, with very bad head, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with an eternal dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which caused my pains and gave me an increased appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and a laborious labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have since pursued the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER.

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections; also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

A VOICE WITHIN US.

There's a voice that is ever within us,
If we own no craven fear within us,
As we press along life's journey,
Taking our appointed part;
And it bids us bear our burden,
Heavy though it seem and fret,
And with strong and hopeful vigour
Put our shoulder to the wheel.

What though clouds are darkling o'er us,
They but hide a troubled sky;
Or should storm clouds fall around us,
From the sunshine bids them fly.
Never doubt and faint and falter,
Heart, be stout and true as steel!
Fortune smiles on brave endeavour—
Put your shoulder to the wheel.

Folded hands will never aid us.
To uplift the load of care;
Up and stirring be your motto,
Meek to suffer, strong to bear.
Tis not chance that guides our footsteps,
Or our destiny can seal!
With a will, then, strong and steady,
Put your shoulder to the wheel.

Men of worth have conn'd the lesson.
Men of might have tried its truth,
Aged lips have breathed the maxim
In the listening ear of youth;
And be sure throughout life's journey
Many a wounded heart would heal,
If we all as friends and brothers,
Put our shoulder to the wheel.

The Bench and the Press.

On Friday, Dec. 29th, in the Court of Queen's Bench, Toronto, a decision was arrived at in the contempt case against Senator Brown, which now has become a cause célebre among the legal cases of the world, this being the first time, in the history of Canada at least, in which the relations of the Bench and Press to each other, and to the public, have been so fully discussed. Chief Justice Harrison in his ruling held that the rule should be made absolute, Justice Morrison on the other hand ruling that it should be discharged. Mr. Wilson, the other Judge of the Court, being more directly interested in the motion did not take part in the deliberations; and the Court being divided, the motion fell to the ground. While we do not go so far as those who claim that this result was pre-arranged by the two Judges, we do not think that the manner in which the case was disposed of was on the whole the best possible under the circumstances. It leaves political parties, one of which was chiefly instrumental in forcing the question on the attention of the Court, just where they were before it arose, neither that we can see having gained or lost in the prosecution of the matter since the lucid explanation under oath of the political situation made by Mr. Brown in his speech before the Court when showing cause. For that opportunity he and the Reform party have to thank their impetuous political opponents, whereas the Conservatives have reason to feel sorry that such a chance to upset the foundations of their "policy of slander" was given. Not only does the disposition made of the case practically withold an expression of party triumph from both sides; what is more important still, it completely clears the Court of any connection, even implied, with practical politics—as danger into which it seemed destined to fall. On the whole we think the country has great reason to be satisfied with the issue—or want of issue—of the case.

As the different judgments of the two gentlemen constituting the Court will be—indeed have already been—made the material for political thunderbolts launched from the press, it may not be amiss, now that they are fairly before the country, to inspect them somewhat, as to their character and the ground covered by each. The remarks of the Chief Justice were a learned dissertation on the time-honoured dignity of the Bench, tacked together by numerous references to the "authorities" on the law of contempt, in relation to suitors and to the Court itself, the nature of the offence and the necessity of its punishment in order that the even course of the law may not be obstructed. As an effort thus far it was masterly to a high degree; but while in it the law is plainly laid down in its general aspects, we find that the judicial mind of the Chief occupant of the Bench, failed to apply it to the case immediately before him. Throughout his scholarly utterances on attacks upon the Bench, and undue interference in causes before the Courts there seems to be a studious avoidance of the points wherein the article in the Globe, then before the Court, might be supposed to overstep the legal line of comment and discussion. In two or three instances he remarked that a person aggrieved by the act of a Judge in the discharge of his official duty is not wholly without remedy, though not by action at law; but he omitted to show that in such a case the remedy—by impeachment—offers no fair chance to the person aggrieved, inasmuch as the case then comes before the power that appointed the Judge, which by a decision against its appointee would be in a measure a confession of error, or at least mistake on the part of the appointing body. The extreme recourse being so unsatisfactory, and the law giving no procedure against a Judge for anything he may say when performing his judicial functions, the occupant of the Bench has the power given him to scandalize or abuse with impunity any one whom he so chooses to attack. That the Judges seldom exercise this arbitrary power is highly creditable to the whole Bench, and this is one great reason why our judiciary is held in such deserved respect. The grand point to which public attention is drawn by the case lately before the Court of Queen's Bench is, where the liberty of the press, and we may include the rights of the individual are to end ere they be met and repelled by this traditionary autocracy, which though generally dormant or mildly active, may at any moment be roused to aggressive and then dangerous vigour.—Herein we are left completely in the dark by the extended judgment of the Chief Justice.

The judgment of Mr. Morrison was unlike that of his brother Justice, chiefly confined to the direct merits of the case in hand. He showed that the appliants had not made his complaint in reasonable time; that he had failed to sustain the charge of constructive contempt on the allegation that the article complained of prejudiced him in his trial for libel yet to come on; and that he was not entitled under his complaint to ask the Court to punish for a direct Contempt of the Court itself in the article complained of. On the points at issue between the parties in the cause, and their relations to the Court, which were, to say the least, rather abruptly disposed of by the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Morrison dwelt at some length and showed a painstaking desire to explain the character of the direct issues. Mr. Wilkinson, the applicant, only laid complaint after many months, during which time he had stated directly in his paper that he believed the article on which the complaint was based, would not prejudice his case in the least in the its effect. This gives grounds for at least a suspicion that there were other influences at work to induce him to make a complaint at all of an article by which he seemed rather pleased than aggrieved. Beside this he had from week to week in his paper made the should be refused.

The Chief Justice then announced that the motion fell to the ground.

After the judgment of the Court had been delivered, Mr. Brown, who was present, asked to be allowed to make a short statement. He said that he now regretted having written that part of the article in the Globe which presupposed that when Justice Wilson delivered his judgment he had before him his (Brown's) letters, published in the Globe over his own signature, denying any corrupt intent in writing the "Big Push" letter. When he wrote the Globe article he had firmly believed that Justice Wilson had that letter from which a quotation was made before him as part of an affidavit, but knowing now that he was wrong he withdrew all he said on the erroneous supposition and would take the first opportunity of giving his apology the same publicity as the article.

THE "BIG PUSH" CONTEMPT CASE.

THE JUDGES DISAGREE AND THE MOTION FALLS TO THE GROUND.

In the Courtof Queen's Bench, Toronto, judgment was given in the motion for an attachment against Hon. Geo. Brown for contempt of court. The Chief Justice in the course of a long judgement, referred to the liberty of the press as one of the great bulwarks of British freedom. He pointed out what was held to be its limits, and said that between them the press became a mighty power for evil. The publication of the proceedings of the Courts without comment, provided it was fair and honest, was of such great advantage to the public that even if it occasionally affected suiters accidentally, it would be unwise in the Courts to interdict it. This privilege, however, did not imply that journalists should be allowed to to make gross attacks upon judges on account of anything they might feel bound to utter in the discharge of their duties. If any one felt himself libelled or aggrieved by anything said by a judge; if he thought there was any wrong or corruption chargeable to any judge, he had his ordinary remedy and should not therefore feel called upon to publish in the press defamatory articles calculated to bring the whole judiciary system into contempt and weaken its power for good. That the Courts should be protected against such attacks either upon themselves as Courts, or upon any of their members in their judicial capacity, was not so much necessary in justice to the judges themselves, as for the benefit of the community. Mr. Brown had made one great mistake in pressing that in attacking Justice Wilson's judgment he was not attacking the finding of the Court, for Justice Wilson's remarks on the occasion were just as much the judgment of the Court as were those of the Chief Justice. He then referred to the English law and practice in cases of contempt, and said that the powers of the Colonial Courts were held to be the same in that respect. He defined three different kinds of contempt: first, that which has a tendency to scandalize the courts itself; second, abusing parties concerned in cases; third, prejudicing the public against litigants in pending cases. He took up the points raised by Mr. Brown in his defence, holding that the case was really pending when the Globe article was written; that the present application was made in time; that the writer, whatever disclaimers he might make as to intent, should be held responsible for the natural effect of his article; that the Globe article was certainly calculated to prejudice Wilkinson's case, if in no other way than its stating that Wilkinson was guilty of a number of libels, though only three had been selected by Mr. Simpson; that the belief of Brown or Wilkinson as to the effect of this article had nothing to do with the matter, as the question was whether the article was calculated to produce certain effects He held also, after quoting from the article, that its effect was to scandalize the Court and bring it into contempt. The article, he held, was not one called for by a journalist's duty to the public, and was not therefore priveleged. He held that the rule should be made absolute.

Justice Morrison said he had arrived at the conclusion that the rule should not be granted. He held that the applicant was two late in making the application, as if the Court should exercise its arbitrary power in the way asked for it should be done promptly. He held that Wilkinson was greatly to blame himself in making the matter one of public discussion and was not therefore justified now in asking the protection of the Court. The matter had, previously to the publication of the Globe's article, been made a subject of strong political controversy. He could not see that there was anything in the article calculated per se to injure the applicants case. The counsel for Wilkinson had not called individual portions of it which were claimed to have that effect. Taking all the circumstances of the case into consideration, to commit Mr. Brown for contempt of Court would be to circumscribe the liberty of the press in a manner and to a degree which he would be sorry to see in this country. He referred to authorities to show that Wilkinson's proper procedure in such a case was by information or indictment. The next question was whether the applicant having failed to show contemptive contempts so far as his own was concerned, had a right to ask the Court to protect his own dignity. He (Morrison) held that he was not, and that by so doing a precedent would be established, opening a door for applications which under the assumption of vindicating the dignity of the Court would be made political ends of. This extreme power of the Court were it exercised at all, should only be exercised in extreme cases and it should only be initiated by the Court itself for its own protection. A case which was even remotely connected with politics was not one in which he felt disposed to lay down a precedent which might prove a dangerous one. It had been contended that the article having been brought to its attention, the Court should take notice of it; but he thought that if the Court took cognizance of it at all it should have been at once, and not after five months. He held that the rule of controversy both defensive and offensive, thereby choosing the proper tribunal, with the effect as it turned out of debarring him from carrying a similar case into Court. That the Court should have taken measures to punish the defendant for the direct contempt contained in the Globe article forced in its notice by Mr. Wilkinson would have been far from a preservation of its dignity. As Justice Morrison declared, there is no precedent for such a course, and very properly so; for it would be anything but dignified should the court be thus led to take cognizance of ever so gross an offence upon itself toward which it had all along preserved the position of dignified indifference. By the punishment of the defendant in the case before it last Friday for a direct contempt, at the instance of Wilkinson, the Court would, so far from asserting its dignity, have rendered itself supremely ridiculous, besides establishing a precedent dangerous both to the liberty of the press and the majesty of the judiciary. The conclusion of the case may be briefly summed up as a clear demonstration of the good sense of the Court combined with a just appreciation of its honour, and what may be look ed upon as a dignified rebuke to both applicant and defendant.

The apology offered by Mr. Brown at the conclusion of the judgment is certainly not the least pleasing feature of this now notorious case; and the withdrawal of the accusation of deliberate untruth made against Justice Wilson under a mistaken idea is creditable alike to his head and heart.

Strike on the Grand Trunk.

The long threatened strike of the engine men in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway on Friday, Dec. 29 became an accomplished fact, and since then the road along its whole length has enjoyed an almost total suspension of business.

On Friday afternoon in anticipation of the strike instructions were despatched to the different station masters along the road to allow no trains to leave any stations. Previous to the arrival of the warning the engineman on the outgoing trains had been questioned as to the probability of a strike taking place, and in reply they stated that if instructions were received from the leading officials of the Brotherhood to strike, strike they would on the moment; but that so far no such advice had reached them. At nine o'clock, however, the expected orders were issued, and at that hour every engineman in active service on the line, with two exceptions, brought his locomotive to a standstill and extinguishes his fires. The men running the evening London train, westward bound, and those in charge of an eastward bound train from Stratford, which reached Toronto at mid night, form the exception noted. The driver of the latter train, on reaching Stratford, was thrown off his engine and badly abused by the men collected at that point, sustaining considerable injuries.

The train from Montreal was left by the locomotive driver about five miles east of Cobourg. About sixty passengers were brought to Cobourg during night and next morning. A fearful snow storm was raging all night and the train was completely snowed up. About ten locomotives were at Cobourg station, the trains being left at different points along the line.

As there was only too much reason to fear, it appears that the strike was not conducted without violence on the part of the discontented men. A body of fifty masked men assembled at the round-house, in Toronto, and after indulging in threats against the Company and the loyal officials, they did considerable damage to property and severely injured one man, named Marshall. During the evening another body of men proceeded to Scarboro' bank, where they shunted their engines from the main line, with the object of impeding traffic. The Nipissing train was thus stopped, and many of the passengers suffered severely from the cold. The driver of a special train chartered to take a party of Orangemen from Toronto to Weston, started with his load at nine o'clock, slowed off, stopped at the Queen-street crossing, put out his fires, and left his passengers, many of them ladies, out in the lurch in the storm.

On Saturday a loyal engineerman named Kay was assaulted in the St. James Hotel, near the Union Station, Toronto, by a prominent member of the Locometive Brotherhood, Eaton by name, assisted by one Johnston. Kay snapped a revolver at one of his assailants. Warrants were issued and the whole three lodged in gaol. Some violence to men and machinery was done at other points along the line, notably at Bolville, where a number of men willing to work were captured by the strikers, locked up in their lodgerooms and compelled to join the Brotherhood. The volunteers were called out to maintain order, but despite the rifles and bayonets of the military the strikers disabled a couple of engines which it was attempted to send out. The local volunteers evidently dislike the idea of shooting and bayonetting friends and acquaintances, and it is thought advisable to obtain companies from the back country, and to move volunteer forces to strange towns along the line.

One great inconvenience of the strike is the interruption it causes in the mail service. The postal authorities have employed sleighs to carry mails until traffic is re-established. A train was despatched from Toronto with mails eastward on Sunday morning and reached Cobourg. After that orders were issued that no trains were to move till Government answered request to provide protection to the line. The volunteers received orders on Monday, and on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock a train was despatched east with mails, and carrying a strong military guard under command of Lieut-Col. Dorie. If these decisive measures fail to overawe the strikers, trouble and bloodshed may be anticipated. The strikers rendered desperate may descend to tearing up portions of the line, in which numerous arrests are sure to follow. It is probable should a compromise be not effected that arrests by wholesale will be made on charges of assault, intimidation and injury to property, and that the men active among the strikers will find themselves lodged where they will do least harm. The whole country is suffering the effects of this mov

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 11, 1877.

A Splendid Chance.

At the present time there are quite a number of persons out of employment in the County. We offer them a splendid chance to make a little money. We will pay Five Dollars for every twelve yearly subscribers sent to us with the amount of the subscription! This is no Chromo business, but a bona fide transaction.—The offer will only remain open for a short time, and now is the hour to act on it. It will take but a few hours work to earn the money, and we allow the getter up of the Club to deduct the amount from what he collects. All letters should be registered.

A QUESTION IN "SIMPLE DIVISION."

IS Mr. SCOTT A VAN-COURIER OR A VICTIM?

Mr. Scott—our Mr Scott—on whom Grip made a witty pun on his entry into the House, has taken the position of second-lieutenant of the Ontario Opposition. We are of opinion that he is deserving of a higher rank; for certainly there is no honour in playing second-fiddle to such men as Lauder and Macdougall,—the martyr and the mountebank. During the debate on the Address Mr. Scott made a speech, of which we produce the Mail's report in another column. This we do lest some might say the Globe reporters did not do justice to his words of burning eloquence. He is among the best, if not the best Speaker the Opposition has; and seeing that he is our own Mr. Scott, we like to give him every possible chance. It is not a bad effort; indeed considered as an Opposition speech, it is a very good one. With some of its sentiments we entirely agree; nor is there much of it we think it necessary to combat, particularly as the suggestions are to come up in their regular order during the Session. Mr. Scott's speech was like the busy bee; it gathered the sweetness of Reform principles in front, while it carried the sting in its tail. All its honeyed eloquence was but an introduction to its abrupt peroration. He was put forward to move the amendment, he did, and this very fact is evidence that the leaders of the Opposition have no definite policy on the question of exemptions, and did not therefore wish to have anything to do with it. If further proof be wanted, it is furnished by the amendment itself which is as follows:—

"That this House regrets, in view of the great interest manifested in the question by people at large, that His Honour has not been pleased to make reference to the subject of the law relating to the taxation of property for municipal purposes, and the existing exemptions from such taxation."

Here we find no opinion expressed as to the merits of the matter referred to,—not the faintest shadow of a desire to make a question out of that the absence of which from the Speech they asked the House to express regret upon. There is a studious avoidance of any reference that could possibly be construed into a sign by which the Opposition might be judged to be either in favour of or opposed to exemptions. The whole thing was a piece of the veriest clap-trap, by which the Opposition could not surely hope to obtain a vote of want of confidence in the Government, while it is certainly not calculated to raise them in the estimation of the public, a something they very much need We are sorry that Mr. Scott should have consented to be made the instrument of this puerile trick; for we are free to confess we expect better things of him. If the purpose was to create a comparison to his disadvantage between him and other members of his party to whom he might become a formidable rival, it was well planned; therefore there is the greater pity that he should have innocently walked into the snare set for him by more experienced and wily politicians.

The effect of the amendment of the opposition was such as the government could have desired; it gave an excellent opportunity of obtaining the sense of the House on a subject that was sure to come up at a later period of the session. It showed that the Opposition is more divided in its views upon the subject, than the supporters of the Ministry possibly can be. The debate plainly proved that the opinion of the House is not sufficiently crystallized to deal with the question in any definite way; and this alone is a sufficient demonstration of the wisdom of the government in refraining from promising any measure in relation to it in the Speech. The whole affair has been a manifest disadvantage to the Opposition. They have made themselves ridiculous; have played into the hands of the government; and brought anything but encouragement to their friends, by provoking a vote which showed forty-one to twenty-nine against them in a House of seventy one. Indeed they could not have looked for any other result under the circumstances; and from the fact that leaders of a party, particularly of one attended as is the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, do not bring forward a test vote without some certain purpose in view, there is the more reason to suspect some ulterior motive like to that we have referred above.

PUNISHMENT OF BRIBERY.

The prevalence of bribery at elections is a source of regret to all right-thinking citizens who desire to see the workings of our politico-social institutions untrammelled, and free as their founders intended. In many cases it is the few "loose fish" who can be bought up by unprincipled purchasers that determine the election of a candidate, supposed to be "the choice of the sovereign people," In this way the whole end and aim of the popular representative of which we are inclined to boast so loudly, is utterly defeated; and our free system of selecting representatives is upset by the base designs of purchased ambition. It is safe to say that where bribery at elections prevails to any extent the choice of representatives is not made by the people as a whole, but merely by a small minority of the people, and that minority the very worst that could be selected from the community. The law very properly considers that men who will sell their franchise should be deprived of the right to vote; and as the men who "approach" the "approachable" are similar in character, the law provides for their disfranchisement also. As certainly as the man elected is a fitting representative of the electing body, so sure is the man elected by means of bribery one who in his turn can be bought over to perpetrate dishonourable acts. In no way except by the influence of money on purchasable electors can we account for the election to the Provincial Legislature, and to the House of Commons too, of representatives so utterly illiterate, so totally unsuited to represent the constituencies for which they hold their seats. We have not far to go to see examples of that to which reference has just been made. We cannot insult the intelligence of the people of these constituencies by even thinking, much less stating, that these are the men of their choice. On the contrary we can only consider them the choice of the purchasable voters, who virtually elected them and whose representatives they are. Being the choice of the bribeable, all will admit that they are capital representations of the class with whom they have dealt for their seats.

But though this logical view of the matter will free the entire body of electors from the responsibility of having elected men unfitted for the position they occupy, it will not free the whole electorate from the disgrace of permitting their clearest rights to be usurped by the meanest minds among them. A gross injustice is done them; and instead of merely lamenting over it, they should take means to remove it, or if that be impossible, to prevent its repetition. This can only be done by an uncompromising war upon the usurping power maintained by the briber and the bribed. Both the buyer and the seller of a vote are punishable by law, and should be made to feel its utmost vigour. The people owe it to themselves as a measure of simple self-defence that bribery should be promptly and decisively stamped out. The remedy against the offender is plain; and the offended if they do not use it they are worse than foolish—they are slavish. The great difficulty in this, as in other matters of public import, is expressed in the adage "What is everybody's business is nobody's business." The trouble lay, not in any lack of proofs of bribery, but in the finding of some one to take the initiative in bringing cases into Court. The duty of an informer is not an enviable one at any time, though we believe the popular objection is not so much to the act itself as to the suspicion attachable to it, that it is undertaken from motives of private feeling or personal gain. This suspicion is what causes the "informer" to be publicly execrated; and we are fully persuaded that our laws of a prohibitory character nullify themselves when they contain a clause giving a part or the whole of the fine to the informant. Such a disposition of the money exacted at once gives grounds for the suspicion that legal process is invoked for pecuniary profit rather than for public protection; and there are few, if any, heroic enough to lay themselves open to such a suspicion from a simple desire to serve the public, particularly when those for whom the service is performed are rather prone to ill-judgement as to individual motive. The making of the fine for bribery recoverable, as an ordinary debt, by the person informing, has we are fully persuaded, prevented prosecutions for this gross offence against the public weal; and the sooner that portion of the law is amended the sooner will the punishment of bribery become prompt and effective, as it should be. We are of the same opinion regarding the half-fine clause of the Liquor Law, and other statutes of an important character, but now imperative from the cause we have mentioned.

In connection with this question it is pleasing to observe that three of the bribers during the contest in Lincoln, which resulted in the return of Mr. Rykert, since unseated, have been brought to book for their misdeeds. They were all prominent agents and intimate friends of Rykert, who thus shows by his associates, as he had previously by his engagements in Private Bill Legislation, what manner of man he is. The evidence against these offenders was given by themselves during the scrutiny before the Registrar, and they were thus virtually condemned out of their own mouths. On application of counsel they were summoned to appear in accordance with the Act of last Session of the Legislature, 39 Victoria. Though they did not answer the summonses, proof of personal service and of the acts committed was plain, and the Court in obedience to the Statute imposed the proper penalties on them. One was fined $1,600 for five separate offences; another $600 for four offences; and the third $200 for one case of bribery proved. The fines are to be paid on or before the 16th inst., the alternative being imprisonment; and besides each of them is declared disqualified from being elected to the Legislative Assembly, from voting, and from holding any office under the Crown or in any municipality for a term of eight years. Some Conservative Journals, we are sorry to see have attempted to bestow the dignity of political martyrdom upon these self-convicted and hang-faced bribers; but the great body of electors, the victims of such offences, are not likely to see it in that light. We hear that four more of the Lincoln corruptionists are to be punished in a similar manner, and heartily rejoice at the news. We trust, for the honor of the Province, the improvement of the Legislature, and the benefit of the people that the good work thus commenced will go on till bribers and bribed shall have so wholesome a terror of the law through certain punishment, that bribery shall be unknown except as a tradition.

LESSON OF THE GRAND TRUNK STRIKE.

A very old proverb declares sententiously, as all proverbs do, that "when there's smoke there must be fire." This is but an allegorical way of stating the axiom that there can be no cause without an effect; while it at the same time admits the equally wise remark that "a small fire may make much smoke." The strike of the Grand Trunk engineers being regarded as the effect, we naturally look for a cause. We believe it will be found in the inefficiency of the management, which is proved as plainly by the capitulation to the strikers as it may be deduced from the reasons that led to the strike.

The difficulty began in the early part of 1875 when the General Manager called for a reduction in the wages of 12½ per cent, this he had a perfect right to do, just as each and every one of the men had a right to refuse the reduced rate and and withdraw from the Company's employ. But the great majority of men on this, as on other railway lines, had in order to guard against what they regard as the "tyranny of the employers" subjected themselves to a still more arbitrary rule—including the tyranny of the mind—by subscribing to the articles constituting them a united Brotherhood. If each man's entrance to the union was entirely voluntary on his part, as we fear is not always the case, it may be looked on as his own affair; but whatever the inducements that lead him to sign the constitution of the body, a regard for his pledged word, his sign-manual, and his honor, forces him to strictly observe to its laws while he remains a member of the association, irrespective of his private feelings or the personal effects upon him of such acquiescence. Whatever his thoughts, there is only one course open to him,—object obedience—for he would never attempt to withdraw from the union at a time when a strike has been made. The person who deserted at such a time would be looked upon, and not without cause, as a craven—a mere fair-weather sailor—and a traitor to the cause he had espoused. These are considerations worthy the attention of all tradesmen who may be called on in any way to become members of a union. Let them think well upon taking such a step whether the surrender of individual judgment and loss of independent action will not subject them to a tyranny far worse than that which ever was or ever can be, exercised by capital over labour.

After the objection of the men as a body to a reduction in 1875, we find a compromise entered into between them and the Manager, an evidence of inability on his part to carry out what he had time and again declared his intention. He must in this connection be regarded as weak, either in the expression of a determination or in the failure to make it good. From the statement of the engineers that this settlement was unfair in many respects we take it to have been a somewhat patched-up affair, satisfactory to neither party. The uselessness of any compromise which is not based on strictly equitable principles, and entered into heartily by the parties involved in it, is plainly demonstrated by the fate of this one.

An agreement having been entered into, and signed by both parties, no matter at what sacrifice they subscribe to it, their plain duty was to abide by that contract document. This seems to have been done for three months, at the end of which time the Company lost all regard for the pledge in writing given by their Manager. If this breach of contract was without his consent it should have led to his resignation; if with his cognizance and assent, his baseness is apparent. No man having once entered into an agreement has a right to wilfully break it. He may without compromising his honour seek a consultation with a view to an amendment of the terms; but without such consultation, to deliberately disregard his pledges is an offence against his own character, against the rights acknowledged by him, of the other party to the agreement, and against society, which suffers from such an example, to say nothing of more practical effects

Josh Billings says:—"There is one trate or the human karakter that the devil himself must envy, and that is, the more we hav injured a man the more we despize him." This seems to have been the case as regards the engineers injured by the breach of agreement made with them. The Company we are told paid no further regard to their claims, and after taking little advantages of ten, twenty-five and fifty cents, finally tried to take away all that had been promised. This appears to have been done in obedience to a general order for retrenchment, a much needed principle in railway management, and to Mr. Hickson it is due to say that he does not appear to have been fully cognisant of the cheese-paring method in which an attempt at economy was made. There is a saving which is not economy, and this appears to have been the kind adopted by the G. T. R. officials. They cut away portions of the parent branch while they allowed fungi to grow. The injured and despised workmen were "docked" or discharged, that the District Superintendents might pocket a percentage of the savings effected. This introduction of Belknapism is the worse feature connected with the whole affair, and probably was the most direct cause of the strike that has so severely affected the country at large. The government that despises its subjects thereby makes them disloyal; so the government into which corruption creeps stirs up rebellion. As in other instances so in this, the breach of faith in the withdrawal of subscribed rights was followed by murmurings, and measures of a corrupt nature brought forth open revolt.

The strike made, the same weakness displayed in the vacillation that led to it was shown by the management of the road in dealing with the strikers, and eventually surrendering to them. The action of the engineers in leaving passengers at the mercy of a severe storm on a winter night lost them the sympathy of the public, without which their strike could not succeed; but the Company's officials do not seem to have been able to appreciate the advantage then given them. Further discussion of the subject seem add here the inner facts to the manifest disadvantage of the management of the line; and leaving but a poor case at best the officials hang out the white flag. It is to be hoped that both parties to the dispute have learned the lessons it is calculated to teach them, and that they will profit by them for the future.

Another important view of the affair is the attention it has drawn to the advantage of another through line of railway for Canada. The cessation of traffic, interruption of mail facilities, and consequent prostration of trade, even for a few days, has shown how dependent the country is upon this one line of road, and how deeply affected all interests may be by any loss of its services, either by accident or design. The safety of our commercial, social, and even political relations lies in the construction of the proposed Ontario and Quebec Railway, the establishment of which will prevent unpleasant experiences as that through which the country has just passed—arising too from no more than a squabble between a private corporation and its workmen.

The advantages to be prevented by the new line are so great, and the advantages so many, that it is but reasonable to hope, public attention having been forcibly, if rather unpleasantly, called to them, that popular interest has been awakened to such an extent as to call forth energetic action towards the pushing of the project to a quick and successful completion.

MR. SCOTT'S SPEECH ON THE ADDRESS.

—From the "Mail."

Mr. SCOTT said that they were not informed in the Speech why the Legislature was not called together until this late period. The mover and seconder had expressed the opinion that this was a more convenient season than an earlier one would be, but they did not, in saying this, speak for the Administration. He believed that it was more convenient to members in general to have the House meet earlier. The two or three weeks interval which had hitherto been customary at the holiday time had been of great advantage to many members in enabling them to consider measures, which they were not always able to do satisfactorily during the session, although they gave all their time to the work. He thought that some changes should be made in the Voters' List Act in order that it might accomplish all that had been intended. It was his opinion that the voters' lists should be complete and final, and that any scrutiny of them should take place before instead of subsequent to the election, thereby avoiding a great deal of expense which was not necessarily incurred when a scrutiny took place in a contested election. He did not believe that the license law had accomplished all that had been expected of it, and that a great mistake was made in taking the licensing power out of the hands of the former local Boards and putting in the hands of persons appointed by the Government of the day.

It being six o'clock the Speaker let the chair.

After recess Mr. SCOTT resumed his remarks on the Speech. He said it occurred to him that the Government in their amendment to the liquor bill might be actuated by the proposition of the hon. member who moved the adoption of the address that as liquor drinking was on the decrease while lunacy was on the increase it might be well to do away with all restrictions on the liquor traffic, preferring as it seemed, that we should become a nation of drunkards rather than a nation of lunatics. Some suggestions had been made with reference to the erection of new Parliament Buildings. He was not prepared to say that the feeling of the Province was in favor of their erection, but he was sure that the feeling of the country was that when it did become necessary to move the expenditure, Toronto was the place at which the buildings should be erected. There was another subject on which he wished to speak, and that was the recent difficulty at the Central Prison. It would have been better if the inquiry into the alleged acts of cruelty at that institution had been openly disclosed to the public so as to leave no suspicion on the public mind that there was something which the Government desired to cover. He was quite sure—although he did not think anything had been concealed—that an open and full investigation of the circumstances by a committee of the House would have a tendency to remove any feeling which existed in the minds of the public that there had been something concealed. There were many subjects for congratulation other than those to which reference had been made in the address. For instance the House might have been congratulated on the marked and manifest improvement in the principles of Reform during the past few years. No allusion whatever had been made to the recent appointment which had been made to the shrievalty of a western part of this Province, to which an hon. gentleman had retired on his laurels, or rather on his emoluments. No doubt hon. gentlemen would remember that they had violated the principle which was declared by the leader of the party—whose mantle the Hon Attorney-General wore—some years ago when he moved the following resolution:—"that it be resolved that having regard to the existing system of dispensing Government patronage, no member of this House shall be appointed to any office of emolument which shall be vacant in his constituency." That resolution was used to a large extent in the Province for the purpose of getting the people to vote against the then Administration, but all that had since been changed. The Speech might have congratulated the Ministry that there was absolutely no principal involved in it, except that which promised the extension of the franchise to farmers' sons. Why the franchise should be conferred on farmers' sons was a question which would have to be explained hereafter. In his part of the country mechanics and merchants had sons, and to the ordinary-minded the question would probably arise to why they should not have the franchise also. How the matter got into the speech at all was a question, but very probably the Hon. Attorney-General on looking at the speech before the Queen was inserted became convinced of the absence of anything like a reform, and went to work and inserted it. It was evident that the idea was taken from the now celebrated Aurora speech. If the hon. gentleman had carefully scanned that speech he probably noticed that it was held to be the duty of the Ministry of the day to watch the progress of public opinion, and when it was found what public opinion was on a certain question it was the duty of the Ministry to crystalize it into the form of an Act of Parliament. That was a principle with which he (Mr. Scott) and many others could agree, but he had yet to see that public opinion had demanded the extension of the franchise to farmers sons. Honorable gentleman were well aware that public opinion had, however, been expressed on another question, viz., that of the exemption of a certain class of property from taxations. There might be some reasons why the subject had not been taken up by the Ministry. At all events it was evident that one hon. gentleman, a member of the Government, had given the public to understand very clearly what his views were on the subject, and his determination to support no Ministry that would favour exemptions, was probably the cause of the absence of any reference to the matter in the Speech. In conclusion he moved in amendment the addition of the following to clause fifteen:—"That this House regrets, in view to the great interest manifested in the question by the people at large that his Honour has not been pleased to make reference to the subject of the law relating to the taxation of property for municipal purposes and the existing exemptions from taxation."

Seasonable Advice.—When trade grew slack and notes fell due, the merchants face grew long and thin; his dreams were troubled through the night with Sheriff's Bailiffs, all in sight. At last his wife says him said: "Now up at once, get out of bed, and get your paper, ink and pen, and say these words unto all men." "By goods I wish to sell to you, and to your well good daughters, too; my prices are so low, that each will buy before they go." He did so by his wife advised, and in the Examiner they found. Crowds crammed bought at once for the prices were such, the dreams were right, the Sheriff's had left, and the merchant's heart Printer's ink repay. He told us with a knowing wink how he was saved by Printer's Ink.—Cold.

THE LATE TRAGEDY at SELWYN.

(The following Letter appeared in the "Globe" on Monday last.)

(To the Editor of the Globe.)

Sir,—I have observed several communications in the newspapers regarding the death of the late David Ray, which happened at Selwyn, about six miles from this place. "Sobriety" speaks of it as the result of a drunken row. This would, I am sure, pierce his poor mother to the heart. I beg to say that Ray was quite sober when the blow that sent him into eternity was struck, and he had been temperate and attentive to his business since early last spring, with one exception. This I have from his employer. He drove a friend home that afternoon, and on his way home Johnston the hotel-keeper, asked him for the loan of his horse to go to a funeral there, which he loaned him, and while waiting for his return the fatal deed was done. It seems that he and Clarkson were conversing in friendly terms when Gerald Fitzgerald, the bar-tender, picked up a newspaper and pretended to read something out of it that was not in it. This aroused Ray's feelings. Edward Fitzgerald, brother of the bar-tender, took the paper and said he could not find it. Clarkson, who dealt the fatal blow, said, "Give it to me, I will find it." Ray said to him that he was good at put-ting in his lip. The result was the fatal blow. This happened within four miles of Ray's home and his parents were not communicated with till twelve hours after the dreadful deed had happened, although Johnston drove Ray's horse to Lakefield, passing within ten minutes drive of his (Ray's) father's door.

From the letter signed "Sobriety," which appeared in your paper a few days ago, one would suppose that Clarkson and Ray, or one of them, were under the influence of liquor, which is simply untrue. If you will kindly allow the above space in your valuable journal, you will oblige,

Yours, &c.,
W.

Lakefield, Jan. 4, 1877.

Some day's ago the following telegram from Belleville appeared in the Globe:—

There is considerable excitement in railroad circles here at present. Messrs. Pardee & Lloyd, promoters of the North Hastings Railway, have been endeavoring to obtain control of the Grand Junction, and with this object they have expended from $8,000 to $10,000 in the purchase of stock in the Company. To checkmate this the Grand Junction directors at a meeting passed a by-law authorizing the issue of $200,000 additional stock, which being done, four or five directors subscribed for it on the spot. On this, Messrs. Pardee & Lloyd proceeded to Toronto, where, after negotiations in which they were opposed by the Grand Junction Company and Mr. Alex. Brown, their prospective contractor, they succeeded in purchasing a judgement for $50,000 obtained by Messrs. Bickford & Cameron for iron, &c., supplied to the Company; also a judgment for $100,000 against A. Brooks, late contractor for the construction of the road; also Messrs. Bickford & Cameron's position in a suit against the Company now pending in the Supreme Court, together with all the legal and equitable rights of these gentlemen in and to the property of the Company. The struggle for the control of the road is exciting a great deal of interest, and is likely to be arduous, though probably not protracted.

The above is a good proof that the Grand Junction, now that there is a greater probability of its construction, by the probabilities of the use of part of the Huron and Ontario line, is being better thought of by finances. It is now considered to be worth fighting over.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 11, 1877.

"Only 46 weeks in 1877. The other six are Lent.

His who has tided over the Holidays need not swear off now.

The Ratepaying question is very good and business still keeps brisk.

No Arrests.—There was absolutely nothing before the Police Magistrate during the past week.

Fast and reckless driving on public thoroughfares is destined to furnish an inquest or so, if persisted in.

Installation.—The installation of the members of the Town Council for 1877 takes place on Monday next.

Presbytery Meeting.—The Presbytery of Peterborough will meet in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday next, at 10 a.m.

Poultry Society.—This organization will hold a meeting in the Council Chamber this evening. A full attendance is requested.

Our Carrier Boys beg to tender their thanks to their numerous patrons for the kindly greeting given them on New Year's Day.

It wouldn't be a bad idea to pin the little boy's pronouncement of "cold" to your memory nowadays: "Positive, cold, comparative, cough: superlative, coffin."

Casualties.—The following names are mentioned for the Cleanship for the Town of Peterborough:—Messrs. J. Collins, O. Barlee, C. D. Macdonald and John Sewers.

Mechanic's Institute.—The annual sale of Papers and Periodicals will be held in the Reading Room, on Thursday evening, the 13th instant, at half-past seven o'clock.

The Weatherly.—It is rumoured that T. G. Choate, Esq., Rockrest Dummer, and John Burnham, Esq., Reeve of Ashburnham, will be candidates for the Wardenship for 1877.

County Lodge I. O. of G. T. will hold its next session in the Temperance Hall, Peterborough, on Friday, 19 instant. A full meeting is requested, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

St. George's Society.—The annual meeting of the St. George's Society for the election of officers, will be held in the Council Chamber, on Wednesday evening, the 17th instant, at eight o'clock, sharp.

For want of space we are compelled to leave over till next week, Mr. Al Graham's "lines addressed to the St. Andrew's Society:" and Mr. Wm. Telford's "Lines on Electioneering Times," written for the Examiner.

We wonder if Mr. Creighton will bring forward his little Bill to allow women to vote at municipal elections this Session. It was defeated last year by a vote of 33 to 31. By all means give the "dear creatures" a vote.

Insurance.—Mr. J. H. Roper, Manager of the Peterboro Branch of the Bank of Toronto, has succeeded Mr. Murray Smith, Esq., as Agent of the Royal Canadian Insurance Co'y and is prepared to do business on the very liberal terms for which the Company is noted.

Ill.—Owing to a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism William Montgomery has not yet been removed from the Lindsay Gaol to the Central Prison. He has received the best of care from the Gaol Surgeon and other officials, and is now recovering rapidly.

Change of Business.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Mr W. Mathias has sold out the Bookstore business to Mr. F. W. Rubidge, who will carry on the business the same as usual. The stock being now replenished will be found very complete.

June 30.—Will the friends of temperance in this town and county read Mr. Scott's speech, as reported in the Mail, from which we have copied it. In it he gives the strongest proof of his friendliness to the Licensed Victuallers. These Good Templars who voted for him must now be proud of their man.

On Saturday last, at 9.30 a.m., the mails from Britain were delivered at Ottawa from Halifax, and it was not till Monday at 4.30 p.m., that the passengers, who had gone on to Portland in the schooner, arrived. This is a difference in time of fifty-five hours in favour of the Halifax route.

Entertainment.—The members of Friendship Temple, I. O. of G. T., intend celebrating their Twentieth Anniversary on Friday evening, 13th inst., by a Literary and Musical Entertainment in the Temperance Hall, commencing at 7.30 p.m. Good music will be provided. Tickets 25cts., or two for 35cts.

A "victim" hands us in the following—after Longfellow—a good way: "Snow on side-walks must remind us, we can all down most sublime, and in rising leave behind us imprints on the snow of time; imprints, that, perhaps another, walking over the key place, a sanguine, but most careless brother, seeing, shall avoid the pain."

If a former issue we stated that Mr. Thomas D. Belcher, Engineer in charge of the Newcastle District Works, had removed his office from Simcoe Street, but this was a mistake, and Mr. Belcher's office is still over the Montreal Telegraph Office, Simcoe street.—See advertisement. Mr. John Belcher Architect, having removed.

At the late meeting of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association the following resolution was unanimously carried:—"That the Government of Ontario be requested by the Council to grant to the Ontario Veterinary College $200 annually, in order to make the institution more efficient for improving veterinary skill throughout Ontario."

The County Council for 1877.—The following gentlemen will comprise the members of the County Council of the County of Peterborough for 1877:—Messrs. R. E. Birdsall, Jas. Millar, C. A. Boulton, John Burnham, Thos. G. Choate, John Lang, John Moloney, M. Sanderson, P. J. Bell, E. Collins, D. Outside, W. Blewitt, J. Golborne, W. Burgess, J. P. Brown, and — Clarke.

A Good Hit.—An Exchange says:—"The meanest and greatest man after a newspaper is the man who is too mean to subscribe. He is always waiting for the latest paper, and it is not two minutes on the owner's premises till he pounces upon it and never puts up until every line is read. Then he will perhaps cast it aside with the remark that he could make a better one himself."

Removal.—Adam Hall has removed back to Simcoe Street, next door to Hall, Innes & Co's, and adjoining the new Ontario Bank building. Mr. Hall's new premises will give additional comfort and convenience to himself as well as to his customers. He intends keeping a larger and more varied assortment of Boots & Shoes than heretofore. As usual he pays special attention to Ordered Work.

The notice appeared in the St. Johnsville Portrait:—The editor was last Thursday afternoon presented by Mrs. Bartlett with two plump girls! aggregate weight seventeen pounds, avoirdupois. Gentlemen, show your hands. And the editor of the Amsterdam Recorder opens up with much haste and some nervousness: "We plead not guilty," he says, "and show our hands. We had nothing what ever to do with it."

Slushers Without Bells.—We would draw attention to the dangerous practice of sleighs travelling through our streets without bells to warn the pedestrian of their approach. The principal offenders are farmers, but all transgressors should bear in mind that they are liable to the penalty of a heavy fine for the attempt. So long as sleighing remains the police should keep a lookout for such persons, and make a few examples. The safety of the public demands it.

St. John's Church.—The usual Christmas fete of St. John's Church Sunday School was held on Friday evening, 5th instant. The Rector read the Evening Service in the Church, in the course of which short addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Clarke of Lakefield, and Rev. Mr. Watson of Peterboro. Readings were given on by Miss Grundy, Mr. D. Kennedy and Mr. A. Clegg, and music supplied by Mrs. Wigg and the Misses Wigg, Martyn and Cameron.—The ladies were active in their exertions to make all feel at home and enjoy themselves. The Entertainment was in every respect a success, the debt being paid off the Temple with a small surplus to their credit.

Installation of Officers.—The following Officers were installed in the Peterboro' Lodge, No. 111, I.O.O.F., on Thursday evening last.

Bro. R. Elder, P.G.
" A. C. Fisher, N. G.

Several eminent Sabbath School workers from different parts are expected to take part in the proceedings, and as all the services are open to the public we predict a very large attendance and a most interesting time. There was quite a large attendance, and those present enjoyed the proceedings immensely. Mr. Pentland occupied the chair, and addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Clarke of Lakefield, and Rev. Mr. Watson of Peterboro. Readings were given on by Miss Grundy, Mr. D. Kennedy and Mr. A. CHARITY REPORT.

The Chairman of the Charity Committee reported as follows: Having examined the several applications referred to them they recommend that the applications of Cornelius Halpin asking the Council to pay for the board of Wm. McDonald be so far complied with by allowing him Ten Dollars therefor. As to the application of Mrs. E. Taylor, they do not think they can recommend the prayer. The application of Geo. Davis and a number of others asking for work or bread, your committee would respectfully refer it to the Council, considering it more properly belonging to them than to your committee.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN COOK,
Chairman.

The report was received and adopted.

FIRE REPORT.

The Chairman of the Fire Committee reported as follows: Gentlemen,—The Fire Committee having considered the several recommendations made by the Chief and Assistant Engineers beg to report as follows: That as to the procuring of a new engine house we would suggest to our successors to procure a new engine house with hose tower attached, as it is impossible to preserve the hose without it, and also a shed for the hooks and ladders, as it is necessary to keep the engine house warm to dry the hose and keep the engine and apparatus from freezing, that it seems the joints of the ladders and wagons which renders them unsafe for use, and requires extra attention on that account. As to the purchasing of a team of horses we would suggest the purchase of one good strong horse and rigging which would cost say three hundred dollars; and as most of the fires occur in the night this horse could be employed every day on our streets and thereby save the Council paying from one to two dollars a day for carting our carting this year has cost for drawing plank, &c., $170.50, for drawing charity wood, $36.50, and for drawing engine and hose carts, $36, making a total of $243.50; this does not include work that may be done with a dump cart) which amount would be good interest on the outlay. As to the Secretary of the Fire Brigade's commissioners asking the appointment of the Chief and Assistant Engineers, we recommend that John Gibbs be Chief, and G. L. Mitchell be Assistant Engineer. We also recommend that the Clerk request the Reeve of Ashburnham to pay the $36.50 now due this Fire Department, as soon as possible.

All of which is respectfully submitted

W. PATTERSON, Jr.,

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The following letter will be of interest to the great majority of our readers:—

To the Editor of the Monetary Times.

Sir,—I have to thank some person for sending me a copy of your paper of 29th ult., containing an excellent article upon the affairs of the Midland Railway, and by this mail I send you a copy of the Money Market Review giving the Midland Railway Co.'s report of the late meeting of the bondholders. My London correspondent calls the report "simply a false misrepresentation of what took place." This is true to the extent that the report omitted the damnatory facts contained in the discussion I had before the meeting, and gave a version of the proceedings well calculated to cast a couleur de rose over the management of the line in Canada and the position of the trustees here. This underst'd, I may now inform you that a committee of bondholders is, as I write, in course of formation in London "who will take steps to protect themselves, and will have the effect of stopping Ruper's "little game." You will observe that I quote. It is known to the few who manage our public enterprises, but many of the majority of all who take an interest in public affairs, that the great majority of investors in stocks and securities, reside out of London, in all parts of the kingdom from Aberdeen to Land's End; and that they entrust the management of their affairs to brokers who, on most occasions, hold their proxies and can control all meetings of holders to suit the broker's idea of the situation. In the case of the late meeting of the, so-called, bondholders of the Midland, the proxy-holders were there in force, and out of the 26 or 40 people present, I am informed, that not more than a half dozen of them were bona fide bondholders, the other being qualified for the occasion. There was method in the arrangement from the beginning. The white-wash brush was to be passed over the scene. The chairman coolly informed the meeting that nothing would be permitted to be brought forward, having reference to the state of affairs anterior to the last general meeting two years ago when all past transgressions had been condoned. This of course shut off all enquiry into the manipulation Mr. Burton's report and current—upon which the present arrangement was forged before reached the printer's hands. This I think it will be granted, would be an interesting enquiry in the interest of those who embarked upon the faith of that report. The same ruling similarly excluded Mr. Gray's evidence as to Mr. Hogarth's system of book-keeping, and this too in the face of a specific charge of false entries.

As this subject is likely to attract attention for some time to come, perhaps it would be well to know who is who. I have said that the brokers hold the proxies of the non-resident bondholders; now the brokers, in their turn, to divert attention and avoid comment, employ their porters. Under this head I place the chairman of the trustees, Mr. Barnes, and the agent for the stock-holders, Mr. Hanley. When I met Mr. Hanley in London he described Mr. Barnes to me as one of a close knot in London or Sussex who had the management of the Midland Railway in their hands. I have since ascertained that Mr. Barnes is a director of banker being that formerly he was connected with a bank which has since failed in operation.

Mr. Barnes' official habitation is a room 7 by 9 on the planetary flesh of a one-storyfire engine house in Queen Victoria street. The occupant would undoubtedly be sold as a sort of catch penny to the chance sterm sheep side of it. I enter into the particulars because Mr. Barnes's unencumbered time would go out next Monday and look after the interests of himself; if he do so, it will only be another illustration of the impudence of the bondholders in the management; and you may as well know in advance who is who. This is then the class of men I have to deal with; and of course they are not forewarned to cover the ring in the back-ground. But still to preserve some sense and, in my opinion, the organization now forming in London, with the information I possess, will make it most complete. Let the issues rest on the right shoulders. Let the parties who hold a reckless and irresponsible control of the road. When this is accomplished, when the earnings of the road are handled in accordance with the agreement between the bondholders and the company, then the Midland Railway will cease to be a scandal in Threadneedle street.

Another point, Mr. Editor, I wish to call attention to is the necessity there is for a search ing Parliamentary enquiry into the affairs of this corporation. It has participated in the Government aid to railways to the full extent and will if I mistake not, be again in the lobby. Port Hope and the municipalities have had their bonus granting power severely taxed, and it is but justice to the tax payer that he should know what has become of his money. Since the Midland under practical railway management, with a proper account of its transactions, as it had during the accountant-ship of Mr. Gray, and its difficulties will disappear. We should hear no more of strikes, wages, warrants, detention of cars, daily settlement of accounts with other roads, detention of cars for charges, and the question of cord-wood about the streets of Port Hope, &c.

Yours etc.,
T. C. WALLBRIDGE.

Thomas Wilson applied to the Council for an abatement of his taxes producing a certificate from Mr Clement, P. L. S., that the north half of lot No 1 in the 5th concession only containing 117 acres, he having paid his taxes on 135 acres. By-law No 151 was passed authorizing the Treasurer to pay all township officers and the current account of the year. After making some change respecting the status labour of parties applying.—On motion the Council adjourned to the 15th inst.,—Con.

RAILWAY PROJECTS.

(From the Ottawa Free Press.)

Our esteemed contemporary the London Advertiser, alludes to the proposal to give Government aid to a railway between Ottawa and Toronto, in the following language.—"It is not yet known whether the advocates of a railway from Toronto to Ottawa will try to get an appropriation from the Ontario Legislature this session. If they do try, it will devolve upon the Government to proceed with caution. That a road intended to serve the back townships should have one of its termini at Toronto is not essential to its prosperity. A correspondent of the Montreal Gazette urges the claims of a railway from Ottawa to Lake Huron, which will certainly do more for colonization, and have a better chance to attract the through traffic of the Western States, than a line running from Toronto to Ottawa within a few miles of the Grand Trunk. The more northern road would be important for military purposes, as it would soon be intersected by all lines running north and south; and it is necessary to consider the inexhaustible water power existing through its whole route; the already discovered mines and minerals in this course now valueless; the vast pine districts it would traverse, the fine agricultural land it would at once cause to be peopled up and last, but not least, in a humanitarian point of view the said it would give to the present industrious settlers scattered thickly throughout its course, who have no outlet or market, but who, to travel to and from any existing line of railway have to waste as much time as it takes a ship to cross the Atlantic." If our contemporary will make reference to any map of the Province, it will find that the projected line is calculated to open and develop those sections of the Counties of Lanark; Renfrew, Frontenac, Addington, Hastings, Peterboro, and Victoria, whose growth and prosperity is now retarded by the want of Railway facilities. There is no portion of Ontario that could be opened up with greater benefit to the whole Province than that large and important district. As to the suggestion of the Gazette correspondent, that it would be preferable to aid a line from Ottawa to Lake Huron, that is a transparent absurdity. Our contemporary ought to know that the Dominion Government is pledged to build such a line, and that a contract for its construction has already been entered into. A line from Toronto to Ottawa would not only open up a country that stands in great need of such development, but it would form an integral portion of a system of railways, affording a second trunk line from the West to the Atlantic seaboard, through Canadian territory, and through the Province of Ontario.

New Grains For Canada.

At the meeting of the Agricultural and Arts Association of Ontario, held at Toronto on Thursday, Mr. Wm. Saunders, of London, called attention to the fact that it was intended to bring a large number of samples of grain for sowing to this country from Philadelphia. This step was both desirable and commendable. At the same time he must put forward a word of caution in regard to the probably bad result which might arise from this movement. When he was down at the Exhibition at Philadelphia he had seen a large number of sample wheats and other grains which had been introduced from abroad. In these grains were found a large number of insect pests, which entomologists say were principally the pea bug weevil, cabbage butterfly, and gooseberry fly. Now these insects had in many places been introduced into the country, and had done injury to the grain crops; although these brought from certain points had not got acclimated to the climate, and died out. He thought that the Council should take some steps to prevent the possibility of such a thing happening in Canada, and that before the grains so imported are allowed to be distributed they should be examined.

Hon. Mr. Christy, thought the Government would appoint an entomologist to examine these grains before they are allowed to be sent. He was glad Mr. Saunders had brought up the matter, as Philadelphia was an important market. When in Philadelphia he had ample opportunities of observing the ravages of the insects referred to. The weevil was the worst that the numerous. This was rife in Europe and especially in examples from Australia, particularly Tasmania. It could also be found in the Southern States of America, as well as in Egypt. In the samples from Canada this insect was, as far as he could learn, not found. He had concluded, therefore, that the weevil cannot exist in our cold northern latitudes, but in the warm latitudes of the south. The opinion was strengthened by the fact that in Ohio, wheat from Tennessee in which was the weevil, throve well enough. These facts show that we need not dread the weevil in Canada, for there it will not acclimatize. The insect which farmers in Canada suppose is the weevil is another pest altogether in the majority of cases.

Mr. Stock said he had suffered in the grain which he had in his barns.

After some further remarks, Mr. Saunders moved, seconded by Mr. Young, "That in the opinion of this Association it is very necessary before any distribution of the grain said seeds recently obtained at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia is made for [illegible] that the Government be requested to take steps to have these carefully examined, and every precaution be taken to prevent the introduction of new pests."

The motion was unanimously carried, and Mr. Sanders was thanked for introducing the matter.

"Grat's Syrup" will be found invaluable in preventing that dryness of the mouth and throat complained of by public speakers and singers who have used the ordinary cough lozenges or troches. It is peculiarly efficacious in all affections of the chest, lungs and throat, and we can speak highly of it as a family cough remedy. When purchasing, ask for Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum and take no substitute. 47

—ELECTRICITY—

What they Say of it! A few Facts for the People.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of them is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which has the following to say:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and find it is equally, as good for horse as for man."—A. Mayhew, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Russan, township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three a four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit.—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which annoyed me very much. Mr. Mayhew of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

No Time Like the Old Time

BY O. W. HOLMES.

There is no time like the old time.
When you and I were young,
When the buds of April blossomed,
And the birds of spring-time sung!
The garden's brightest glories,
By summer's suns are nursed,
But oh, the sweet, sweet violets,
The flowers that opened first.

There is no place like the old place.
Where you and I were born,
Where we lifted first our eyelids
On the splendors of the morn;
From the milk-white breast that warmed us;
From the clinging arms that bore,
Where the dear eyes glistened o'er us.
That will look on us no more.

There is no friend like the old friend.
Who has shared our morning days—
No greetings like his welcome,
No homage like his praise;
Fame in the manhood sunflower,
With gaudy crown of gold;
But friendship is the breathing rose.
With sweets in every fold.

There is no love like the old love.
That we courted in our pride;
Though our leaves are falling, falling,
And were finding side by side;
There are blossoms all around us.
With the colors of our dawn,
And we live in borrowed sunshine
When the light of day is gone.

Our California Letter.

ANAHEIM, CAL., Dec. 26, 1876.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR.—Since the date of my last letter we have all been in the excitement of a remarkable election contest, and although I had nothing to do in the matter I felt the excitement as well as our sovereign neighbours, and it appears that the whole question is in a muddle and may yet rest the nation much to solve the problem. I have noticed extracts from Canadian papers to shew that the Tilden party government would be best for Canada. In some sense this may be true as regards Reciprocity, but so far as protection goes both parties seem alike. A Democratic Congress held away last winter, and now as a result, Canada lumber has been taxed $2.00 per thousand, and that done by the party supported by Canada, at least, so many people say. Protection is killing us time after time. Opinions are as numerous as are the boxes here; I noticed monogolians registered themselves as residents of the precinct where I voted, in order to enable them to vote, as the law requires that persons required to vote must be on the register of the county and must reside in the place a certain number of days before the election, a great many of whom could not be found now with a search warrant. Some vagabonds a few days before the election stole from our premises a horse, no doubt to carry them home after depositing the vote for their party. Many cases of thieving took place about that time, and several animals have been stolen while standing hitched to a post in the public street of the town. Two were taken last week with saddles and bridles on just as they stood at the posts, the owner being in some of the stores, and no doubt a watch was kept on them. And now for other matters. Looking over the year now about to close, in many senses it has not been a prosperous one. Money has been high, from 18 to 24 per cent having been paid, at which rates little improvements can be made; crops have not been on the whole so abundant, and prices have been low. Prices have now advanced considerably, but then the chief portion of the crop is out of the farmers hands. The tendency now is towards a dry year, which means a raise in price of all produce, we have only had slight showers of rain as yet, and not sufficient to start grasses or grain. All signs fail sometimes, yet the signs indicate dry weather. This last three months has been warmer than usual and sometimes uncomfortable. Lately however, we have had frost at night and chilly winds, during the day the sun comes out hot, and feels as if the heat radiated from a glowing mass of iron, such is the impression on the face. Our irregation system has not yet been a success. Two years ago the law allowed us to form a district and tax the land, we done so and the law is declared unconstitutional. A company has now taken hold of the work but have as yet done nothing towards the completion of it, it is in fact another monopoly for which this county is so famous. Already there has been expended about $40,000 on the work, and as much more will be required, so you will see it is a work of magnitude. There has not been much land taken up in this section during the year, most of the settlers have gone to the south of us where a large town is building up in the midst of a prosperous settlement, and where flowing water can be got by boring down about 100 feet and Putting down a 7 inch pipe, the water flows over the top sometimes over five inches. A well of this capacity flowing steady will irrigate a large quantity of land during the year. When not used for irregating they are kept capped so as to prevent an unnecessary waste of water. This way of irrigation is much cheaper than any other way, and under ones own control, and having water plenty one can raise all kinks of crops here. Work is very scarce here this year and more people have called on us looking for work than ever before, all seemingly in poor circumstances, this I attribute to the flaming stories printed and circulated in the East regarding this country. There are several Canadians here, young men, some have left again and gone to British Columbia, they have written back and more are likely to follow. Those who have gone have succeeded in getting work when they landed, but as yet I have not heard any further particulars. In conclusion permit me to wish the readers of the EXAMINER the compliments of the season, and remain,

Yours truly,
J. HUNTER.

HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

—From Friday's "Globe"

Mr. W. H. Scott, M.P.P., President of the Huron and Quebec Railway Company with others of the directors, yesterday waited on the Attorney-General, and laid before him the position of their railway, with a view to prepairing the Government for an application for Government aid to the line. It is the desire of the directors to push the construction of the road from Toronto to Ottawa with all possible speed, as it considered an opportune time to build this much needed line. Already considerable municipal bonuses have been granted, and other municipalities have now under consideration other by-laws which will shortly be submitted. The merits and claims of the railway were admitted by the Attorney-General, but he intimated that until the municipalities by their aid to the road justified the Government in aiding it, they could not give substantial assistance, as, however necessary the road, only combined action by the municipalities more directly interested would warrant the voting of public money to the line.

We understand that the Grand Junction Railway Company are contemplating the propriety of utilizing the line of the Ottawa and Quebec Railway through the County of Peterboro' a distance of about twenty-six miles. The Government grant voted to the Grand Junction would, in that case, be utilized for both Companies, and a better line would be obtained than the original survey of the Grand Junction. Besides, it is folly to run two lines almost parallel.

The Toronto and Ottawa Railway would no doubt be an immediately paying line. On the west it would compete for the trade of all the railways of Western Ontario centreing in Toronto. It would also, as feeders, have the Midland, the Victoria the Kingston and Pembroke, and other lines. The construction of this line is but a question of time. It is a necessity but as railways can only be built now-a-days in Canada with municipal and Government aid, it rests with the people from Toronto to Ottawa to say whether this opportune line, when everything in connection with railway construction is at the lowest, shall be allowed to pass unutilized.

The failure of the steamer "Northern Light," intended for winter navigation between Prince Edward Island and the mainland, is declared by Mr. Sewell, the builder, to be the fault of the snow at a part of the boat.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed by the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THIS DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the ablest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SO CALLY DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO HOODWINK THE PEOPLE. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.]

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch, ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display.

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reason:—

"Superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of Repairing all classes of Sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the stencil line.

Come One! Come All! give Mitchell a call. Whose Sewing Machines are both large & small They are in appearance both handsome and neat And so for their work IT can't be beat: They do their work both neat and well, And at the "Centennial" they did Excel.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, an Dropplogs in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old, and been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very large back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pain and gave me an increased appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections: also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 18, 1877.

FARMERS' SONS AND THE FRANCHISE.

We cannot say that we are greatly enamored of the proposition now before the Ontario Legislature to give votes to the sons of farmers. The idea, as is well known, was first directly promulgated by the Hon. Edward Blake in his celebrated "Aurora Speech;" but even that eminent orator's use of it as a glittering generality wherewith to adorn his popular address has not been able to place it before the country in a manner such as to commend it to the public as a necessary reform, or make it a matter of popular desire. As one of the "disturbing" elements of the extraordinary oratorical talent of the Minister of Justice, it for a very brief time attracted attention, rather, however, on account of its novelty and the manner in which it was presented, than because of any inquiry into the intrinsic features of the proposition. Indeed it cannot be said that it ever stirred popular thought to a consideration of its practicability, or that it created more than a ripple on the surface of the sea of civil sentiment. The rapidity and natural ease with which it ceased to be a subject of comment in the press or on the platform, and even of common conversation, are the best proofs that the country looked at in the light of a flowery figure in an orate speech rather than legitimate birth of statesmanlike conception. For a few brief days it was an object of simple admiration, but not of thought; then it disappeared from sight and mind, like a pleasant dream, until retold before the assembled wisdom of the Province, in the Legislative Assembly in Toronto, where they are asked to give an interpretation of the vision.

Seeing that this measure is not the result of a demand for a necessary reform springing from the popular will, nor a remedy for some glaring abuse, we take it to be one of those ideal creations which are so attractive to great and imaginative minds, but which are always found thoroughly impracticable in that they lack the sympathy of a rather unimaginative population, which sympathy and which support we take to be the basis of all real reforms. True Reform consists in carefully conforming the legal enactments to the progress of the people, with a view to securing the largest measure of peace and happiness which will developo further progress—a building up, not a cobbling of the con-titution. The builder rests his improvements on the foundation already laid, and aims at symmetry to the grand whole; the cobbler cuts into the original that he may tack on the new piece which startingly indicates the imperfection it pretends to hide.

We have not yet received the Bill which proposes to give the franchise to farmers' sons; therefore we cannot enter into a consideration of its particulars.—We must content ourselves with a general view of some of the principles attaching to such an Act. We do not suppose that it is proposed to give votes to the sons of farmers simply because they are the sons of farmers. Such a proposition need only be mentioned to be laughed out of court. The idea rather is, to give certain farmers' sons votes, because they are farmers. But why give further representation to the agricultural class? They are now overbalanced by any undue preponderance; indeed they are already considered the preponderating element. They do not, for they cannot, claim further power on the ground that they are unjustly dealt with by being outnumbered and outvoted by any other antagonistic class. Having thus already their fair share of power in the affairs of the country is it just that they should ask an extension of that power? We think not; and are glad to do them the justice of saying they have not asked it. But the agricultural class while it does not claim, and does not ask any extension of civil power will not be likely to object to having greatness thrust upon it. It were folly to refuse so tempting an offer; and while the agricultural class stands ready to receive the great favour it is proposed to confer upon it, the members of that class are the first to recognise the absurdity, if not flat injustice of the undue power it will give them, and the power once gained will not go unused. The temptation is too great for human nature to resist. The power once put in exercise will necessitate the giving of an equalising power to other classes, and as this can only be done by further enfranchisements, the certain outcome will be the establishment of manhood suffrage, pure and simple, as the only way out of the difficulties created; and whether this will not produce greater evils of itself is a question that is by no means clear in the minds of many honest and consistent Reformers.

The proposed measure either goes too far, or it does not go far enough. It will on these considerations escape the respect and support of the House. Moderate Reformers will oppose it as leading to manhood suffrage, while extreme Reformers will oppose it because it does not lead directly to that end. The Conservative minority will of course oppose it, if for no other reason than that it has the name of a Reform measure. Availing themselves alike gladly of the caution of the moderates and the discontent of the extremists of the Reform ranks, the Opposition will make the Bill a strong means of attack on the Ministry; and we are not therefore without fears that if the measure be pressed we shall have the mortification of witnessing a Canadian "Cave of Adullam." These being our views, based on honest convictions, we trust that a vote will not be urged on the House, and that the Bill will ultimately be withdrawn, to give place to a more comprehensive measure, or no measure at all. If the object be the attainment of manhood suffrage we are quite willing to take up that question in its own character; but we have no sympathy in favour of piecemeal legislation. It is not only useless: it is positively dangerous.

A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF.

Of all the twenty-[illegible] members of the Legislature who voted for Mr. Scott's amendment [illegible] who spoke upon the subject all clearly define his position in regard to it. Mr. Scott himself was careful to say nothing at all upon the question, and is only fairly [illegible] whether he is really in favour of abolishing all tax exemptions. Those of the Opposition who did present their views, were by no means fairly agreed how far they would go, and some of them even showed themselves largely in favour of exemptions.—Yet the motion was so very non-assertive that these men could vote for it in common with those who may be supposed to oppose exemptions, and that too without the least strain on their consciences.—Those who attempt to loosen Mr. Scott as the champion of abolition of exemptions must, by taking such a decided view of his undecided actions, take the consequences of placing the member for East Peterboro' in a very awkward position. If the Opposition vote be held to be a condemnation of exemptions, Dr. O'Sullivan must take his stand along with those who would tax Church property and all other property in the land. This is his only position in the premises. The Doctor's views may not be in accord with those it is said Mr. Scott holds, and we believe they are not. This being the case, and the motion being based on a principle of opposition to exemptions, as we are told by Mr. Scott's political friends—and they are also Dr. O'Sullivan's—they are by such a contention accusing the Doctor of violating his conscience and disregarding the well-understood wishes of those who elected him. The position is plainly this:—If Mr Scott's motion condemned exemptions, then Dr O'Sullivan in supporting it proclaims himself opposed to exemptions; but if Dr. O'Sullivan is not opposed to exemptions, then Mr. Scott's motion was not condemnatory of exemptions. In either case the political friends of Mr. Scott and Dr. O'Sullivan have been guilty of trying to hold two contradictory positions at the same time. This they cannot do. They must choose one or other horn of the dilemma, and either condemn Dr. O'Sullivan for sacrificing his principle, or acknowledge Mr. Scott guilty of a piece of insincere bounce.—That the latter view is the one commonly accepted in the country will be seen from the following extracts from contemporaries; and whether the ludicrous light cast upon Mr. Scott is due to his own folly or the knavery of others he himself best knows:—

The Fergus News-Record says:—"Mr. Scott's motion appears to us extremely inconsistent. It does not oblige any principle. It does not say that the exemptions are right or that they are wrong. It does not even say that they are partly right and partly wrong. It says nothing in fact."

The Toronto correspondent of the Lindsay Post, describing the debate says:—

"The farcical character of the amendment was apparent to all, and the Ministry could await the result with perfect confidence. To vote for it did not imply that the member voting favored abolition and to vote against it did not imply the reverse. The speakers were divided on both sides, the strongest points both for and against exemptions being made apparent by supporters of the Ministry."

The Stratford Beacon says:—"Events have shown that the Opposition were wise in not saying what kind of a 'reference' they wished its tenor to make. The greatest diversity of opinion prevailed among themselves, though the majority, and notably Mr. Laudee, were careful to declare that they had no sympathy with Mr. Aldermen Hallam and his committee."

And the Cornwall Freeholder, from which Tory papers have of late drawn crumbs of comfort, says of the vote:—"Very bad generalship is this of the Opposition. The vote had one effect for which the Government may thank the testimony to blunder, and that the good will of the Opposition. It enabled the Government to show to the Legislature and to the country that they had in the House a sufficiently large majority and that they had it well in hand. To have those facts well established at the outset, and established too by a step the effect of which must be to make that majority larger and to weaken public confidence in the Opposition is to present the Government in the enjoyment of very excellent circumstances which we trust they will continue to deserve."

PUBLIC WORKS.

The report of Commissioner of Public Works has just been received, and from it we gather that a re-vote for $2,000, intended to be spent on improving the navigation between Lakefield and Young's Point is likely to lapse, the report says the booms not being needed. The sum of $4000 is to be expended on rebuilding the Lindsay dam; the Norland dam is to be completed; a new dam constructed at Grass Lake; Big Falls on Burnt River is to be improved; as is also the Three Brothers Falls in Snowdon; several piers are to be built at other places in Burnt River, and Balsam River, with a view to making the latter a reservoir for supply for navigation.

The report contains reference to the railway systems of the Province, but we regret that the promoters of the Huron & Quebec Railway have not been able to place their scheme before the Government in such a light as to secure for it a place in the Provincial railway schemes. This very important section of Central Canada is deeply interested in its speedy construction, and we trust that something will be done this session to get it placed among those railways that will receive Provincial aid towards its construction. The people from Ottawa to Lake Huron are united in regard to the necessity there is for such a road. If they would but unite to get it under construction they cannot but succeed.

We notice that the Beaverton Bee hums in some manner with the remarks of the EXAMINER on the franchise to farmers' sons. It says:—"The measure is not a necessity in the eyes of the people, and until there can be a case made out for showing that the sons of farmers are labouring under disabilities that others are not subject to, there seems no cause for a lowering of the franchise on their behalf."

Journalistic Hypocrites.

Not long ago we had occasion to remark politically, "Scratch an Independent and you will find a Tory;" and now we have an opportunity of pointing to another proof of our position, that whenever a Reformer is always proud to acknowledge his principles, the Tory who from shame or from necessary motives fears to acknowledge his true character cloaks it beneath the thin guise of the name, "Independent." It may not be generally known, yet it is a fact, that a weekly and weekly paper was some months ago started in the neighbouring village of Lakefield. It sought support from all under the assumption that it was thoroughly independent in politics. Such, however, was not its tone. In spite of the fool's garb it wore, the knave's peculiarities would display themselves. The spirit within showed itself in the matter it contained, and its few readers were greatly disgusted to find that what had been palmed off on them as a real "bird of freedom" was nothing but a very common barn-yard fowl, resting on the fence." The ridiculous position was plainly apparent; but the share of the fool's garb it wore, the knave's peculiarities would display themselves. The spirit within showed itself in the matter it contained, and its few readers were greatly disgusted to find that what had been palmed off on them as a real "bird of freedom" was nothing but a very common barn-yard fowl, resting on the fence." The ridiculous position was plainly apparent; but the share of the world-be champion, who seeing his only quarry in those last-mentioned, now throws off the mask of the hypocrisy, and essays to roar for them like any lion bold. This decision is announced in last week's issue of the the adventurous sheet of which we have been speaking. The "manager" jumps off the palings and into the ring with a tragedy air he is coming a circus actor, and some of his remarks upon the change are as side-splitting as the harlequin's jokes. For instance he says:—"We will hope for the best, feeling confident that the majority of our readers and the general public will believe that we at least are endeavoring to act honestly with them." Probably he means "least" to read "last." The quotations read either way is exceedingly refreshing in these dull times, but it is beaten by the naivete with which we are told in the next sentence, that "it is generally known the manager is of Conservative proclivities." There's where the trouble lay. The Russian is a Russian till scratched; but then he shows his "Tartar proclivities." So this "Indes pendent" if he had not been divested of his mask, would have remained an "Independent" still, though possessing all his "Conservative proclivities." Yet he evidently wishes to be thought honest, for he reiterates, "We believe in adopting our present course we are acting honorably to all parties." If these be his ideas of honor we are sorry for the Conservatives of Lakefield if they adopt him. For the Reformers we fell no pity. They have been taught a lesson they should have known before; and can now console themselves with the reflection that it is better to have an open enemy than a concealed one. But the biggest joke of this very funny mountebank is the grand eloquent assertion, "nothing short of a pure and honest government will suit us" joined with a proposition for a Conservative ministry headed by such men as Hon James Macdonald, of Pictou, Mark Twain and Charles Dudley Warner are nowhere beside this fellow; and he may yet earn involuntary fame as a humorist.

It is in order to state that this "honest" journal of Lakefield is but a branch from another "Independent" and virtue-assuming paper published in Peterboro. We have but to remark that the twig shows the kind of wood to be found in the stem. However basswood may be veneered it it is but basswood still.

In its present course, like all young hopefuls, it has selected company not likely to be an honor to it or that will tend to its own moral or political elevation But be it so, the News has joined itself to its idols. There can be no hope for it—its end can easily be predicted. The present manager has done much to make the News a popular village paper; while admiring his pluck in declaring his principles, all must consider the step a foolish one, at variance with the well understood arrangement when the News was started, and unjust to the Reformers who are stockholders in the concern. In future Reformers cannot out of self respect and party fealty give it the support they have been doing in the past. The Manager cannot hope for the continued sympathy of those who have hitherto been warm friends. The old adage "those to be destroyed, etc., are first made mad," is to be again verified.

Newspaper "Exchanges" & "Credits"

The Port Hope Guide complains that we copied an account of an accident from its columns without giving it credit for it. In the first place we do not know that the item was copied from the Guide; in the second, we are sorry to hear that our sensitive contemporary deserves the credit of the accident; and in the third place we think our fellow pencil-propeller should feel flattered if we did prefer his account to one written by a member of our own staff. Items of news are common property in the eyes of sensible newspaper men, and that one is saved the trouble of writing an account of an accident, by clipping a mention of the same incident, learned also by another, should give pleasure to him who is copied. To a generous man it will be a happiness to save a fellow-toiler even a little work; and jealousy in such a case can only be produced in the mind of a curmudgeon.

It is a small thing at best in one professing to be a journalist even to desire, much less claim, credit for the writing of a few lines of simple narrative, and while good, whole-souled newspaper men are glad to be copied and look upon it as a tribute what may be called their itemizing talent, they consider it extremely bad taste to demand credit for such work.—Indeed the old and absurd custom of appending or prefixing to a clipped item of news the name of the paper from which it was taken is fast becoming obsolete; and sensible newspaper men are glad of it, if for no other reason than that it relieves compositors from an incessant running to and fro from the "italic" case. That "italics" are giving way in great measure to the use of "quotation marks" is another matter for mutual congratulation among journalists and printers. The only case in which "credits" and "quotations" are now deemed necessary are when opinions are offered, where original remarks are made, or when there has been some clear display of enterprise on the part of the journal first giving news, whereby that news is made the special property of that paper. The publisher—we cannot conscientiously give him the title of journalist—who in a case of ordinary and generally attainable news claims a "credit" when it is copied, besides buying himself open to a suspicion of trying to obtain a free advertisement, is apt to drive his contemporaries to the alternative of avoiding contemptible and unpleasant references to them by throwing the very sensitive exchange unopened on the floor, and seeking the favour of selecting news items from more courteous journals.

The system of "exchange" among newspapers must surely mean more than the mere transmission of papers by post.—"Exchange" of news is included in the term, and if our columns are not more valuable in that respect to our complaining contemporary than are his to us, the sooner he cuts us off his exchange list the better. Certainly we shall not ask for any exchange with [illegible] item. At the same time we shall be happy to give "credit" for remarks or opinions we find in the Guide, when we shall discover remarks or opinions worth our notice.

We have now devoted more verbiage to this "small" matter than we intended when we commenced; but that is owing to our taking occasion in connection with it to express certain views we hold in respect to this question of "credits"; views which we believe will be endorsed by the great majority of our contemporaries—even by the "injured" being of the Guide after he has forced himself to think upon it.

MR. SCOTT, WHIMSICAL.

Our readers will have seen from the speech of Mr. Scott, which we published last week, that he differs with the views formerly advanced in the EXAMINER regarding the best time for calling the House together. Mr. Scott thinks the session should be commenced before the holidays, that the members should be sent home during the vacation to think over measures; and then be sent back again. We hold, and hold, that members should rather devote themselves to the interests of their constituents as shown largely in municipal matters above the end of the year, and thus go to the House to work without interruption in intelligently furthering the affairs of those who elected them. That we are not alone in our position on this question may be judged by the following reference to the question by a correspondent:—

"The debate has been the means of settling the propriety of calling the Legislature together after New Year instead of before. Both the mover and seconder of the address expressed themselves favorable to this arrangement on the ground of convenience to the members, and the Treasurer in a few remarks on the time for bringing down the Public Accounts added a still more powerful reason. There was the possibility under such a system of having the accounts for the whole of the year just closed investigated by the Public Accounts committee instead of the accounts for nine months only. Other reasons will occur to every one who thinks the subject over seriously, and so strong are these that I feel like venturing to predict that we shall never again, unless under very special necessity for it, have a so-called early session."

WANTS TO BE KICKED BY A SENATOR.

That indefatigable publisher of pestiferous political matter, Wilkinson of the West Durham News, is evidently longing for the day when he will be made a martyr by reason of zeal for his party. Apparently the Simpson libel suit is not coming on fast enough to suit the defendant's desire for fame; so he has taken to tempting the fates further in the direction of charges against men by whom it would render him happy to be kicked. If he could only promote punishment upon himself by a Senator he would be perfectly delighted. His latest attempt to stir up Senatorial retaliation is the declaration that he is fully persuaded of the truth of the story respecting one Miller, who is said to have said he spent $27,000 for Mr. Geo. Brown in South Ontario, mostly for bribery purposes. It will be remembered that Mr. Brown denied all knowledge of any man Miller, before the Court of Queen's Bench, and on oath; yet Wilkinson in his paper says he believes the story notwithstanding Mr. Brown's affidavit. Thus he flatly accuses the Honorable Senator of perjury. In connection with his aggrivated repetition of the slander he publishes a letter signed "N. Hopkins, jr., M. D.," in which the writer says he heard the story told by Miller, as before stated by Wilkinson. Thus the second conspirator has been found; but where is the third? We look anxiously for the production of that "good, pious young man" Miller, who so well upheld the character given him by spending $27,000, mostly for bribery purposes. Why not produce the "pious" bribery agent? We believe he is to be found; then why is he not brought forth? Probably the two worthies, Wilkinson and Hopkins, know that the story of the "good, pious young man" would knock the bottom out of theirs; and before that is done they would like the kicking they so much desire to have been administered.

HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

The Norwood Register of last week says:—Major Boulton one of the Directors of the Huron and Quebec Railway, passed through this village on Tuesday on his way to the County of Hastings, on Railway business. He purposes asking, on behalf of this Railway, to have a By-law submitted at the forecoming meeting of the Council of that County, to grant aid to this project. He informed us that if a sufficient amount of bonuses could be obtained to satisfy the Government that the municipalities interested really desired the construction of the road, public aid would be obtained during the present session of the Local Legislature. Major Boulton also informed us that the Company are desirous of locating the line between the Narrows and the Town of Peterborough this winter, and are making arrangements to send a surveying party over the projected route. It is expected that the surveyors will commence operations in about a fortnight.

FOUR RULES.

In view of the Brooklyn disaster, to which with others of similar character we referred in a late issue, the controller of the London Theatres, the Lord Chamberlain, has issued four rules of "absolute necessity," as follows:—

1. All doors and barriers to open outward, or to be fixed back during the time when the public are within the theatres.

2. All gangways, passages, and staircases intended for the exit of the audience to be kept entirely free from obstructions, whether permanent or temporary

3. No part of the auditorium to be without at least two means of exit in case of need.

4. All doors not habitually used for exit, but available as additional means of escape in case of alarm, to be indicated by painted placards in plain characters.

The London public are hooting up the Lord Chamberlain, and wonder that instead of looking to the provision of exits in public buildings should "go yourself and further.

WHAT WILL IT DO?

Some time during the present meeting at Toronto of the Ontario Legislature, application will be made for "an Act to legalize certain by-laws of the corporation of the County and Village of Lindsay granting aid, by way of bonus, to the Huron and Quebec Railway Company, and to enable the corporation of the town of Peterboro', and other municipalities interested in the construction of the said Company to grant aid, by way of bonus, or otherwise, to the said Company." The project which the Lindsay men are so much interested in is to be brought before the Legislature by those who have already passed our County By-law, and having been endorsed by the votes of the people resident in the several municipalities and sections through which the Huron and Quebec Railway is intended to pass. We have noted too, with great satisfaction, the favorable views expressed by the leading newspapers that have taken up the subject as one of importance to all classes of people in the Province. The route described in the by-law submitted to our ratepayers some time ago carries the line into sections of country the richness of which is not excelled by many, if any, portions of Ontario. The scheme has met with general approbation, we are glad to say, when it is need scarcely mention whose judgment is equal as can be relied upon, and who have estimated the natural sources of prosperity that are yet to be developed by a means of transportation that will enable the producers to cope with other sections. Such a line will serve as a colonization road; for the country is yet, so to speak, untapped by any connecting link leading into the interior. It would be important for military reasons,—an item which is of great significance, even though there be at present no visible indications of our country being drawn into any hostile operations.

We must remember, when we consider the progress already made in some places upon the proposed route, the great disadvantages under which the people have labored; we must not forget, although in many sections the country is well settled by various industrial classes who have been attracted thither by the promising surroundings, the fact that this road will plunge into tracts of country, rich in many ways, where there is no outlet for produce, but where there is as much time wasted in teaming to a market place as it takes a vessel to cross the Atlantic. In fact, should the question which heads this article suggest itself to the mind of any intelligent individual, a thousand answers must instantaneously crowd before him and demonstrate the necessity of a railroad being constructed through that part of the country which the Huron & Quebec Company propose to construct their road. Consider the water-power that lines the proposed line; think of the mineral wealth existing in its undeveloped state; see the fine agricultural and grazing country, not settled as yet in many portions, to say extent; bring up in your mind the existence of the vast pine districts that are not touched by the lumberman; and of the manufacturing classes in some portions who cannot compete with those in other sections. If you should ask what will the Huron & Quebec Railway do, just contemplate the development of the interests named in the foregoing sentence, besides many others that must arise, and the good that will be done by this road will be obvious to the most near-sighted. When once a railroad passes through this country connecting with the city markets of that part of the country whose natural products are so rich, we will see this water-power utilized, and a thousand wheels and spindles being turned in the manufacturers interest; the mines will be worked, and yield wealth for their work-rs; the farmer's land once idle, will grow grain for foreign as well as home consumption, and his cattle will be exported to profitable markets; the ring of the lumberman's axe will be heard in those rich pine forests, and the boom of the saw will tell of the millions of feet of lumber that go to make up a part of Canada's wealth; the manufacturer will send his goods into markets in other countries where the prices paid will make his business a lucrative one.

As one place that, from its situation in a section whose natural resources are great, will undoubtedly become a great beneficiary by this line of road, we might mention Lemark village. The people of that place are alive to the fact, and see fully the benefit that must accrue them by some means of direct and speedy communication with the great market places of the country. The surrounding country possessed wealth in innumerable branches, and is yet unfortunately situated out of reach of any place where its products can be disposed of at remunerative prices, after having been drawn by teams with great waste of time.

Seeing the great good that could be done all along the route, it is to be most sincerely hoped that so long the Huron and Quebec Railway will be pushed forward.—Carleton Place Herald.

CANADA PAST AND PRESENT.

Mr. J. B. Brown, who was one of the early residents in Western Canada, and who paid it a visit, after an absence of 30 years, last summer, was one of the speakers at the Royal Canadian Institute, where Rev. Donald Fraser delivered an address on "Canada as it is, and as I remember it." In the course of his remarks, he said:—I have the pleasure of knowing Canada well. I first visited the colony thirty-seven years ago. Whilst I was there I made the acquaintance of the gentleman selected by the Duke of Richmond to be one of the judges of cattle sent by Canada to the Philadelphia Exhibition, and I heard him with much pleasure speak so well of the farmers of Canada. I travelled in both Eastern and Western Canada, and I cannot at all agree or sympathise with what Mr. Fisher has said about "cutting adrift." I was in Canada when the whole country, as it was said, was in the hands of a family. The "Family Compact" we all remember, and we also know the great services of Charles Buller and Lord Durham, to whom all honor are ever due, as men who gave time more to present our great colony of Canada than any two other men, to my knowledge. It was said at that time that Canada was not fit for responsible government. There are certain people engaging much attention now who are said to be so; but try a man and tell him that his prosperity is at stake, and when he has that responsibility thrown on him he will be able to manage himself. Charles Buller told the Canadians so, and Lord Durham told them so. Our Imperial Government acted on it, and there is now no more loyal country than Canada. I met gentlemen in high official position in Canada, and I also had the pleasure of meeting Lord Dufferin in Philadelphia, one of the best and most popular Governors Canada could wish to have, and I gathered from them and from many others belonging to all classes of society, that the loyalty of the Canadian people is cordial and unquestioned. The tone of loyalty was everywhere remarkable from the highest to the lowest. American guests must have told me, "We never knew the loyalty of Canada stands so high." I believe the Canadians will better ourselves a drift from the Empire if the Empire continues as true to their future as it always [illegible] now. In conclusion, Mr. Brown spoke of the great advancement exhibited by Western Canada during the past 30 years. The City of London, which 37 years ago was in the woods, a little village, with backwoods all round it, he had seen, but a few weeks ago, a large city, with a mayor, over 30 churches, a stately custom-house, and upon $2,000 inhabitants. (Cheer, hear.) When he formerly visited London, in 1830, it took him two days to reach it from Toronto, much of the journey in a lumbering stage coach over "corduroy" roads, but during his recent visit he had performed the journey by rail in a Pullman car, and in a few hours.

Mr. Pierce Graham, Member for Frontenac, in the Ontario Legislature, died on Friday last, in his 68th year. Mr. Graham was a Conservative in politics, and although he had not taken any prominent part in the business of the House, was very assiduous during last Session in attending to his duties.

If you should ask what will the Huron & Quebec Railway do, just contemplate the development of the interests named in the foregoing sentence, besides many others that must arise, and the good that will be done by this road will be obvious to the most near-sighted. When once a railroad passes through this country connecting with the city markets of that part of the country whose natural products are so rich, we will see this water-power utilized, and a thousand wheels and spindles being turned in the manufacturers interest; the mines will be worked, and yield wealth for their work-rs; the farmer's land once idle, will grow grain for foreign as well as home consumption, and his cattle will be exported to profitable markets; the ring of the lumberman's axe will be heard in those rich pine forests, and the boom of the saw will tell of the millions of feet of lumber that go to make up a part of Canada's wealth; the manufacturer will send his goods into markets in other countries where the prices paid will make his business a lucrative one.

As one place that, from its situation in a section whose natural resources are great, will undoubtedly become a great beneficiary by this line of road, we might mention Lemark village. The people of that place are alive to the fact, and see fully the benefit that must accrue them by some means of direct and speedy communication with the great market places of the country. The surrounding country possessed wealth in innumerable branches, and is yet unfortunately situated out of reach of any place where its products can be disposed of at remunerative prices, after having been drawn by teams with great waste of time.

Seeing the great good that could be done all along the route, it is to be most sincerely hoped that so long the Huron and Quebec Railway will be pushed forward.—Carleton Place Herald.

CANADA PAST AND PRESENT.

Mr. J. B. Brown, who was one of the early residents in Western Canada, and who paid it a visit, after an absence of 30 years, last summer, was one of the speakers at the Royal Canadian Institute, where Rev. Donald Fraser delivered an address on "Canada as it is, and as I remember it." In the course of his remarks, he said:—I have the pleasure of knowing Canada well. I first visited the colony thirty-seven years ago. Whilst I was there I made the acquaintance of the gentleman selected by the Duke of Richmond to be one of the judges of cattle sent by Canada to the Philadelphia Exhibition, and I heard him with much pleasure speak so well of the farmers of Canada. I travelled in both Eastern and Western Canada, and I cannot at all agree or sympathise with what Mr. Fisher has said about "cutting adrift." I was in Canada when the whole country, as it was said, was in the hands of a family. The "Family Compact" we all remember, and we also know the great services of Charles Buller and Lord Durham, to whom all honor are ever due, as men who gave time more to present our great colony of Canada than any two other men, to my knowledge. It was said at that time that Canada was not fit for responsible government. There are certain people engaging much attention now who are said to be so; but try a man and tell him that his prosperity is at stake, and when he has that responsibility thrown on him he will be able to manage himself. Charles Buller told the Canadians so, and Lord Durham told them so. Our Imperial Government acted on it, and there is now no more loyal country than Canada. I met gentlemen in high official position in Canada, and I also had the pleasure of meeting Lord Dufferin in Philadelphia, one of the best and most popular Governors Canada could wish to have, and I gathered from them and from many others belonging to all classes of society, that the loyalty of the Canadian people is cordial and unquestioned. The tone of loyalty was everywhere remarkable from the highest to the lowest. American guests must have told me, "We never knew the loyalty of Canada stands so high." I believe the Canadians will better ourselves a drift from the Empire if the Empire continues as true to their future as it always [illegible] now. In conclusion, Mr. Brown spoke of the great advancement exhibited by Western Canada during the past 30 years. The City of London, which 37 years ago was in the woods, a little village, with backwoods all round it, he had seen, but a few weeks ago, a large city, with a mayor, over 30 churches, a stately custom-house, and upon $2,000 inhabitants. (Cheer, hear.) When he formerly visited London, in 1830, it took him two days to reach it from Toronto, much of the journey in a lumbering stage coach over "corduroy" roads, but during his recent visit he had performed the journey by rail in a Pullman car, and in a few hours.

Mr. Pierce Graham, Member for Frontenac, in the Ontario Legislature, died on Friday last, in his 68th year. Mr. Graham was a Conservative in politics, and although he had not taken any prominent part in the business of the House, was very assiduous during last Session in attending to his duties.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

December 30th 1876.

The Council met at the call of the Reeve. All the members present.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Mr. Reburn informed the Council respecting the death of Wm J. Butler and called at his place hoping to be allowed to step as he was wholly unable to proceed further, that after remaining a month, during them a very considerable amount of trouble, he expired on the 15th inst., and he remains were interred in the Little Lake Cemetry. Moved by Mr. Bowermanbe, seconded by Mr. Lowry—That the thanks of this Council be and are hereby tendered to Mr. Robson for the kind, efficient and compassionate manner in which she attended to the late Wm J. Butler during a tedious sickness, which involved considerable trouble and expense, and that an order be given in her favor for $36 on the township Treasurer—Carried. Orders were given for balance of salaries for 1876, also to Geo Bivey $14 for labor of himself. D. Galloway, J. Bidgood and 3 sons in connection with the survey of quarter line across 8th and 9th Concessions.

Charity—Mrs. Cullanyl and Mrs. Chase each 2 cor[illegible]

Barber, the Toronto bank defaulter, was tried before the Police Magistrate on Tuesday and Wednesday last and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The evidence of his operations, which was shown as the case proceeded, is positively refreshing. When taken before the directors in Montreal, it is said that he suggested to them to carry his speculations, as they would be certain to turn out well. He had evidently the impression that his offence would be condoned, and he be allowed to go. So it was, as otherwise he could easily have escaped from the train between Montreal and Toronto. He carried $800,000 of Bank of Montreal stock on margins, and the bank will lose about $62,000 by his stealings. The Tel gram asserts that a strong effort was made to hush up the affair, and that if $40 000 of the defalcation had been made good, the prosecution would have been dropped. This, however, was more than Barber's friends could do for him, and in consequence he will be compelled to exchange his luxurious quarters in Toronto for the cold walls of a cell in the Kingston penitentiary.

James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the N. Y. Herald, has come to grief. He was to have been married on Thursday of last week, to Miss May, of New York, who will be remembered as accompanied him on his lightning trip through Canada last winter. The ceremony was to have been performed by Cardinal McCloskey, and berths had been secured on the Cunard steamer Russia for the happy couple, who were to go to Europe for an extended tour. The time drawing near for the marriage, Mr. Bennett did not appear, and during the day, as he came out of the Union Club, he was assaulted by Mr. Frederick May, brother of the expectant bride, who struck him several times on the face with a rawhide, and gave him a severe whipping. The cause of the assault is said to be that Bennett had called on Dr. May, the father of his fiancee, on Wednesday evening, while in a state of intoxication, and had been very violent and abusive, using language which Mr. Frederick May, on hearing of it in the morning, felt bound to resent as he did. Soon after the horse whipping, Bennett challenged May to a duel, which took place near Maryland, Maryland, on Monday. Three shots were fired without injury to either party, and both declaring themselves satisfied, they left the ground.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 18, 1877.

THE County Council meets on Tuesday January 23rd.

THE Dunkin By-law at Kingston has been defeated by 164.

SEVERAL runaways during the past week without serious results.

Do not fail to attend the Entertainment in the Good Templars Hall, to-morrow evening.

SNOW SHOEING.—The Snow Shoe Club have had several tramps, but until lately the snow has not been deep enough.

SALE OF PERIODICALS.—Remember the Annual Sale of Papers and Periodicals in the Room of the Mechanic's Institute, this evening, at 7.30 p.m.

NOTHING has been done about cleaning the snow off the streets by the old Council. It is to be hoped that this matter will receive the attention of the new one.

A Yankee editor in response to a subscriber who grumbles that his morning paper was intolerably damp, says :—" That is because there is so much fun upon it."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—Edward Long, charged with attempting to shoot Mr. George Mackie, of the Queen's Hotel Port Hope, was committed for trial on Friday last.

SERENADE.—The Firemen's Band serenaded the New Council in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening. But as a matter of fact, no person knew their intentions.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.—The Missionary meetings in connection with the Ashburnham Bible Christian Church will be held this evening, chair to be taken at 7.30 p.m.

QUERY.—Why is the Local Member for East Peterboro' in Parliament like the guest at the Marriage Feast, who had not on a wedding garment? Because there, he—is—speechless.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.—There was rather a good attendance at the "City Father Exhibition" on Monday evening, but it was a grand failure, the Council only receiving the report on the Standing Committees.

DRIVING PARTIES are numerous these evenings. The neighbouring villages receive frequent visitors. Two different parties left town Friday evening, one for near Mathers' Corners, and the other for Lakefield.

THE CHICAGO JOURNAL owns up as follows :—" There are people in the world who would make just as much stir, and do just as much good, and benefit society just as much—and we don't know but more—were they killed and stuffed.

SPECIAL MEETING.—Their will be a special meeting of the Orangemen of West Peterboro in the Orange Hall on Tuesday evening next, at 7.30 p.m. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be brought before the meeting.

THE COBOURG Star has changed hands. Messrs. Wilson & Piper, the new proprietors, have improved its appearance, and are determined to make it a power in this locality. They have our best wishes for their success in making it a power for good.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—We solicit correspondence from all parts of the County.—There are many things of interest to our readers which we can never hear of unless our friends send us the facts. We ask that all communications be brief and to the point.

N. F. R.—Crispin and his brother were borne at Rome. Whence, becoming christianized about 286 A. D., they travelled through France, making many converts, meanwhile supporting himself by shoemaking. Hence Crispin became the patron saint of shoemakers.

STUMPING IT.—Messrs. J. Dickson and A. McMillan, who have been taking out stumps during last summer, took out no less than 2,600 of those troublesome obstacles to farmers. If they go on at this rate, they will soon clear the county of the remains of the ancient pine forest.

CANADA POULTRY JOURNAL.—We have received No. 4 of this Journal published at Brantford, by the Canadian Poultry Journal Co., at $1 a year. It is a neatly got up monthly, contains everything breeders or others should know, and ought to be in the hands of all who keep poultry, pigeons, &c.

ACCIDENT.—We learn that Master Frank Hilliard, son of Geo. Hilliard, Esq., had his eye severely injured at school on Wednesday last, by a boy throwing a pen. It appears that the boy was throwing the pen up, and in its descent it struck the former in the eye. It is said that he will loose the sight of it.

A Kingston correspondent of the Tribune mentions a rumour that "for several months past the editorial columns of the Irish Canadian have been supplied by a Protestant: in fact, an Irish Orange Tory, a follower of Sir John's, who, Jackall-like, preceded his Chief from Ottawa and took up his residence in To ronto."

DESERVED PRAISE.—Post Master Rogers kindly and considerately opened the post office after six o'clock on Saturday evening, on the arrival of the train, to enable the citizens to get their mail matter. Mr. Rogers' civility and courtesy is proverbial, and this last effort to oblige and accommodate the public is only in keeping with his general acts.

MECHANIC'S INSTITUTE.—A special meeting of the Directors of the Mechanic's Institute was held on Thursday, January 4th. Mr. G. E. Shaw was appointed Secretary until the next annual meeting, in the place of the late William Johnston; and Library Committees were authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $200, in the purchase of books for the Library.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.—This Association met on Thursday evening last. In the absence of the President, J. McWilliams, Esq., occupied the chair. After the general routine of business had been transacted, it was resolved to adjourn the Show till the 27th and 28th Feb., and the entrance fee to be ten cents. After some general business had been transacted the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

HANGING OF SLEIGHS.—The Port Hope Guide says : "The only person who enjoys the sight of boys hanging on to the farmers' sleighs is the Coroner. Small children pile on these sleighs disregardless of life and limb ; we think our school teachers should give them a warning and if necessary a warning. We know that in writing this we may be cutting off a delightful source of locals, but we mean the sentiment.

BAD ROADS.—The roads in some sections of the county are nearly impassable, owing to the large snow drifts. In some instances the snow has drifted six feet high, and drivers have to run the animals frequently in order clearing the snow-engaging remarks. Vernon's prognostications in regard to the temperature of the atmosphere contemplated by heavy falls of snow, are again verified by the present cold snap.

THE MUSES.—To help the memory,
"Clio to History stamps the hour
Euterpe glows with lyric fire ;
Thalia rules the comic muse ;
Melpomene the tragic lines ;
Terpsichore the choral dance ;
Erato love and clemency ;
Uranin touches of the stars ;
Polyhimnia hymns her songs to music ;
Calliope has an epic flavour ;
And these are the muses altogether."

ASPHYXIA.—We have noticed very frequently of late occurrence of narrow escapes from small stoves, caused by the escape of gas from coal stoves. Occasionally a want of proper precaution on the part of a housekeeper has been attended with serious consequences, and therefore is however our readers and the public to have a care as to the way in which they leave their coal-heating stoves when they retire to rest. Were the hampers properly regulated no accidents would happen.

CONSIDERATE.—It appears that there is "no" a place in the Township of Dummer, and as a consequence nothing can be obtained "to cheer" the monotony during these dull winter days. The Councillors met on monday last, and to meet and part "dry" was not to be tolerated. No hotel keeper could provide them with anything but water, neat. With a view to remedying this evil, it is said the Councillors had a "drop" brought up from Town, or perhaps from Ashburnham. This was thoughtful, and calculated to relieve the sadness duties of the Council. —Corr.

IMPROVE YOUR UNDERSTANDINGS.—Mr. S. White will sell his stock of Boots and Shoes during the next two months at reduced rates for cash. Mr. White is well known as a manufacturer of first class first ware, and his excellent system of dispose of his work for cash at reduced prices should induce all requiring new boots and shoes for winter and spring wear to call on Mr. White at once.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—The Anniversary Services of the George St. Methodist Church will be held on Sabbath the 21st and Monday 22nd January. Sermons will be preached in the George Street Church at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., on Sabbath the 21st by the Rev. S. P. Rose, of Belleville. The Anniversary Meeting will be held on Monday 22nd, at 7 p.m. The programme will consist of recitations, dialogues and singing, by the children of the School. Addresses by the Rev. S. P. Rose, the resident Ministers and others. Admission 25 cts., children of the School 10 cts.

SCHOOL MATTERS.—The Port Hope Times says :—" That a copy of the minutes of every school meeting annual or special must be sent by the chairman to the Inspector of schools under penalty of a fine for non-compliance. Clerks of townships are also required to send to the Inspector notice of all business done by their Councils having anything to do with school matters or schools. They are also required to prepare, and post up, in their respective villages, a map of their townships, showing the boundaries of their school sections. A copy of this map must be sent to the county clerk also. Non-compliance with any of these provisions of the law makes the clerk liable to a fine."

DAIRYMAN'S ASSOCIATION OF ONTARIO.—The annual convention of this Association will be held at Belleville, commencing on the 14th of February, and the committee hope to make it both beneficial and interesting to the dairymen and farmer's generally. Addresses will be delivered by several eminent gentlemen and a large attendance is anticipated. Any parties wishing to attend and become members may obtain certificates by applying at once to the Secretary, Mr. J. C. Hegler. Ingersoll, on presentation of which to the different railway stations, they will be entitled, owing to the special arrangements made with them companies, to obtain, at one fare and a third the double journey.

HOCUS HALVES.—A contemporary says: —" Simultaneously with the appearance of new silver 50-cent pieces, counterfeits have gone to work and made imitations, and we would advise those who are in the habit of handling American silver to be on the lookout for them. The new counterfeit is the work of an artist. It is made of a combination of metals very nearly of the same specific gravity as silver, finished perfectly, and triple-silver plated, so that by the eye and the hand it is beyond detection. It even has a good ring, only a little duller than that of the genuine coin, and in possession of detection by practical ears. The fact of its light weight can also be detected by the scales. For general distribution it is a dangerous work of art."

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, Jan. 9th, when there was a good attendance.—The following officers were appointed :—Mr. George Barlee, President, (re-elected) ; Mr. McClelland, Vice-President, (re-elected) ; Mr. R. A. Brown, Secretary-Treasurer, (re-elected) ; Directors :—Rev. T. Clementi, Jas. Best, Chas. Ormond, G. Menzies, A. M. Macdougall, John Burnham, J. English, C. H. Sheffield, and C. F. Henderson. The President, Mr. Barlee, was appointed delegate to the Provincial Exhibition It was resolved to contribute $10 towards the Central Show to be held next Autumn at Lindsay, and Mr. McClelland and the Secretary were appointed delegates to attend the meetings of the Central Association.

FAILURE.—Our readers will learn with regret of the failure of Messrs. J. & R. O'Neill of formerly of Port Hope. The Monetary Times in referring to them last week says :—" The assignment of the large and pretentious Dry Goods House of J. & R. O'Neill, Montreal, will take many of our readers by surprise, though among those well posted. It has not been entirely unexpected, as it was well known for some time past that it has taxed the ability of the partners to put off the evil day ; to this end they have made strenuous efforts, but the continuance of hard times and heavy English payments falling due, has been more than they could overcome. This firm for a number of years done the leading business at Port Hope, and left there some five years ago to establish themselves in Montreal, where they succeeded in working up an extensive trade. Last summer they obtained an extension from their European creditors of 12 months, the first payment of which is about due. The direct liabilities are estimated at about $170,000, principally in Europe."

GIVE YOUR CHILD A PAPER.—A child beginning to read is delighted with a newspaper, because he reads of names and things which are familiar, and he will progress accordingly A newspaper in one year is worth a quarter's schooling to a child. Every father must consider that information is connected with advancement. The mother of a family, being one of its heads and having a more immediate charge of children, should herself be instructed A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life, and is braced for emergency. Children amused by reading or study are, of course, more considerate and easily governed. How many thoughtless young men have spent their evenings in a tavern of grog-shop, who ought to have been reading ? How many parents who have not spent $50 in books or papers for their families, would have given thousands to reclaim a son or daughter, who had thoughtlessly, but normally, fallen into temptation from want of wise counsel, or from lack of something to occupy their mind !

"NOW'S THE TIME AND NOW'S THE HOUR."—Although the "times" are hard and money is scarce everywhere but at the banks and in the financial reports in the papers, "the delicate hint" reprinted last week from the Napanee Beaver had a charming effect on quite a number of subscribers who consulted the address label on the paper and finding that the date thereon was not the 31st Dec., '77, were at once conscience smitten and came down handsomely at once. This is the way the Belleville Chronicle puts the matter, and these are our sentiments exactly :—" Money Wanted.—This is the season of the year when we expect payment for weekly subscriptions. Farmers who cannot pay in the fall usually find it hard to pay at all. We must have subscriptions paid at least once a year, and NOW IS THE TIME." This month of January should witness numerous changes in the figures on the address labels those who don't make it 31st Dec. '77, should bring the date down to 31st Dec., '76. How any persons can sleep soundly when he knows this matter is not attended to is a conundrum even Josh Billings could not solve.

TOWN COUNCIL.

WINDING UP THE BUSINESS FOR THE YEAR.

The supposed last meeting of the '76 Council of the Town of Peterboro' was held in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening last.

All the members present but Mr. Rutherford.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mrs. Storm, asking the Council to give her some wood. Her husband was away looking for work. Referred to the Mayor with power to act.

Moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr. Barnes,—That the Council go into committee of the whole to receive the recommendation of the committee of the Memorial. Mr. Dumble in the chair.

The Mayor said that he could not recede from the position that he had taken on Monday, since then many other people had petitioned to have the Market square sold, and he had acted in accordance with the Railway memorial. This deputation had been accumulating for 14 years. The last he had on his record from the Town Council on the 13th December was for $1,250, which had made no impression on Messrs. Grand Trunk Railway officials. He was willing to sell all within the given limits. Mr. Stevenson said that the land in the south of the town commencing to about $1,000 might be sold for $500 an acre.

Mr. McClelland said that he had seen Mr. Stevenson last night and would there was power to sell. Mr. Stevenson knew that the Council were quite willing to have the Market square sold, as they were willing to let it them any money that they wanted during the year at 5 per cent.

The Seventh and Eighth classes were then called out.

Mr. Cahill asked if it was going to cost the town anything.

Mr. McClelland said that it was generally liked that it was a public act and would not cost the town anything.

The committee then rose and reported progress.

Mr. Menzies moved a third reading, and that the By-law, together with the Memorial be forwarded to the Legislature, and that Mr. Stevenson be the bearer of the same.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the Clerk and Treasurer be directed to apply to the Commissioners of the Town Plot to pay over to the Town Treasurer any moneys they may have on hand or may have after receipt from the sale of land in the south end of the town not otherwise appropriated.—Carried.

Mr. Cahill, as chairman of the Finance Committee submitted the following report, recommending the payment of the following accounts :

J. Hall, rent of hall	$ 10
C. Hill, rent of hall	10
T. Donnelly, horse hire	2 50
Grant & Edwards, hire of engines	175 00
Jas. Hay Esq., oil for engines	12 00
Mrs. Storm, relief	2 00
Ormond & Walsh	2 00
T. Ross	3 00
T. Davidson, Secretary at a salary of $200 per annum

Mr. Hamilton asked whether the Council would this Board derive that advantage instead to the Dominion Board.

Mr. Mason said we would have the privilege of sending two of these delegates to their annual meeting, which was very desirable.

Mr. Erskine said it was desirable that some members would come prepared to discuss subjects what would be of interest to the Board generally. As to the cash and credit system he thought it would be a very good subject for debate, and he hoped that some of the members would prepare or bring forward certain subjects for discussion in the future.

On motion the meeting adjourned, to be called together by the Secretary on hearing from the Secretary of the Dominion Board in reference to this Board affiliating with them.

OTONABEE.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held at Keene, on Saturday last, when the following officers were appointed :

Vice President.—Alex. McFee.
Secretary.—J. M. Drummond.
Treasurer.—George Read.
Directors.—John Miller, D. D. Henderson, George Elson, Robert Handbidge, Thos Thompson, Thos. Lesitch, Thos. Bustard, H. Nelson, Wm. Miller.

GRANGING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Bold Monopoly and Faction we'll ever keep at bay
And Dishonesty shall tremble when Farmers clear the way.

SIR,—The subject of Granging is coming pretty prominently before the farmers of this County, and no doubt its importance will as it forces itself upon the serious attention of every farmer in the Province.

For several years past farmers have felt that the position they occupied socially and commercially was far from being commensurate or just with what their wealth and intelligence entitled them to.

Commercially they were the prey of monopolies and combinations that had sprung up like mushrooms on every hand arrogating to themselves the sole right to manage the business affairs of the country.

Almost every idle sharper too who was too lazy to work, got himself appointed an agent of some kind or other with a few bottles of patent medicine started out to make a living by imposing upon the farmers, in many cases this imposition amounted to actual and deliberate fraud.

To successfully contend this kind, as well as other oppressive imposition the system of Granging was called into existence. An institution admirably adapted in this respect to the wants of the intelligent farmer. One that is yet destined to become of equal importance to the farming community with the public schools of the country.

From a social point of view there is nothing that can compare with the Grange. Here, for a circle of three or four miles around, the farmers, their wives, and sons and daughters who are old enough to comprehend and take part in the business, meet usually about twice a month for the transaction of business. These meetings are (when they come to understand it) conducted in an intelligent and business like manner.

Each Grange is governed by an efficient staff of officers, whose duty it is to conduct all business in a speedy and proper manner. Each : there experience in seeding, harvesting, thrashing, draining, the management of stock, the dairy, apiary, and in fact the generous management of field and garden, dairy and pantry, are united and compared with each other, thus the contact of mind with mind brightens and expands the intellect and brings out new thoughts and ideas that would else be confined from the very isolation of their position have "wasted their sweetness on the desert air."

Who can calculate the influence of this primary school of agricultural instruction upon the enquiring mind of those engaged in its practical pursuits ! Who can tell how many young men may be saved from habits of vice and dissipation by the social provision the Grange affords ! Who can tell the influence up in their mind in after life of the lessons they may learn, the hints they may receive from association in this way with the parents of their neighborhood and their pure minded and amiable daughters.

Farmers should take advantage of this season of the year to meet together and talk over their plans and assist each other to make arrangements for the coming spring and summer, help one another as much as possible to guard against the failures of previous seasons, get interested in each others welfare, divest ourselves of that morose selfishness which our city cousins accuse us so much of and thus break the monotony of our heretofore rather sober and plodding life.

Leave the old paths where your fathers trudged
Wrought out existence 'mid poverty's pain.
Left in your hands are the keys that they handed
Let them not rest with inaction again.

GRANGER.

Otonabee, Jan 15th, 1877.

SELWYN.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—I wish to correct some statements which have appeared in your paper in regard to myself in connection with Ray's unfortunate death.

1st. I did not drive Ray's horse to the funeral, but took it to Lakefield, as it was fresher and faster than my own.

2nd. When I arrived there I met Dr. Bell, and asked if I had better not go over to Ray's at once and inform them. Before he had time to reply another party said it was his business to do that and that I need not trouble myself. The Dr. said I very well, do as it come before you come out," and on the arrival of the party here he informed the Dr. in reply to a question. "Yes, I called at Ray's on the way here."

I have seen the Dr. and he will bear me out in the above statement ; so you see Mr. Editor, that the charges I was so inhuman as not to think of informing Ray's friends, are false, and made to injure me.

Kindly give this a place in your paper, and you will oblige,

Yours, &c,
ARCH JOHNSTON.

Selwyn, Jan. 15th, 1877.

"DOWN IN THE MOUTH."—Where there is a continual dropping down from the head of the mouth, with a loss of appetite, and a general nasal catarrhal and throat affection, you may rest assured that you have a bad case of Catarrh, which requires prompt attention. Delay is dangerous, as the disease is apt to become chronic, and then it is difficult to eradicate. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, should be used in connection with the Nasal Douche. These standard remedies have been used in thousands of cases, and have never failed to effect a cure. Their proprietors have the most flattering testimonials in their possession from persons who have been entirely cured after all other remedies had failed. —ELECTRICITY—

WHAT YOU SAY OF IT! A NEW FACTOR FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but a few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, Read the following testimonial :—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last two years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it above with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equality as good for horses as for man."—A. Hughes, Lambton, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, who of the best medicines they have ever used ; it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc. and is worthy of its greatest confidence."—Joseph Rogers, township Percy, writes,—I was persuaded to try Thomas Eclectric Oil for a disease from which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—E. H. Hamilton, of Acton, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle which assumed one week from Mr Mayhew of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured It is some remarkable medicine.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Lines Addressed to the Members of the St. Andrew's Society.

(For the Examiner.)

Scotch friends, most of you here, like me
Have come among the stormy sea,
To find in Canada, a home
Where you may make welcome to come,
And where you have, your father and mother,
And the land where you were the noblest
The dangers of the deep did face
To find out here, a resting place,
Where why to foreign lands have been
Our countrymen everywhere are seen:
We meet like us here, on this day
Of all thousands be, in the same way;
Around the festive board to tell
The days here have for Scotland still,
Tell of them, who have gone before
Our fathers, in the days of yore.
Our loving spouse, and lasting strife,
Yet for auld's sake, laid down their life.
And not for country alone
But some were for their own;
Some were for liberty they fought
And did not rest till it was got.
From tyrants rule themselves to free
They fought and gained their liberty.
Still in a measure we come
In the liberty we got from home
Now come we would to unite
Combating against tyranny.
To wherever part Scotchmen doth go
Friends of land and liberty are so;
Can not their part, be it their fate
To labour, or to toil for bread,
Industry and tangle, and lastly trust
In providence, oft they're lost
In lake of misery the darkest cloud,
Cannot be for ought, and must,
Yet, into the gloomy Lake there is low,
As doth our Scotch Mackenzie now.
The many like him we could name—
Brave Canada's pride in poetical rank.
Who are at heart, good and true,
Surpassed by none, excelled by few.
But time is hast'ning on apace,
When here, there will be but one race,
When here one will by the nation's name
Be called, from which their father's came.
Their speech throughout will be the same,
And from the country take their name.
And Scotch, and English, Irish too,
Will forever extinct be all called;
One spirit reign throughout the whole
For one God reigneth, o'er us all.
Let Bannockburn and the Boyne
Be with the fathers, O' long syne,
There is no reason why there should be
Strife to a mind to disagree,
For there's no nation that we know
That hath a code of laws to show
Such as the British nation can
With equal rights for every man.
As brethren then, let us adore,
Our country, for she's brought and reared us here;
In union join, in earnest call,
On God who rules, to bless us all;
Our trades supply, we be in full
A people He can own and bless,

"It's fun," protested the boy.

"So may be, but it's so dangerous.—Only half an hour ago I saw a lad of your size run over and almost cut in two. Only the other day I was reading of a boy who was carried off by a farmer and thrown into the well. Again I was reading of a boy who was cut into four pieces by a sleigh. Then there was that boy in Chicago who had his head taken clean off, and the one in Boston who got fast on the sleigh and was dragged to death. Keep clear of teams, my son!"

About two hours after the boy was seen in the street waiting for a "hitch." His sister ran out and called:

"Don't you remember what father said?"

"Yes, sir," he answered.

"About all those boys being cut up and smashed and mangled?"

"Yes, sir"

"And there you are waiting for a team?"

"That's what I'm doing, sis. I'm willing to risk all them chances every day in the week for a ride, and now you stand there and see me flop into that grocer's sleigh. Dad can't scuff me!"—Detroit Free Press.

What Our Churches Cost Us.

Scribner for January contains an article with the above title in which various comparisons are made to prove the relative cheapness of church work. We quote the author's summing up:

We have found it costs less to carry on the average church than the average business establishment; less for the subsistence of those who perform the necessary service, and less for their savings and accumulations, less to the community, and less to the individual patron. The church is worked more cheaply than any self supporting business, because it is worked at no higher figure than the bare cost and more often at less than actual cost, as a similar charitable institution, and, to a large part of our population, a missionary society. As dispassionately and dryly as becomes the statement of statistical facts, we have shown that no such pecuniary return is made on investments regularly made in other lines; that no such compensation is granted by the wealthiest churches to the ablest pastors, as is commonly granted by large secular corporations to those at their head; that service in the lyceum is more highly paid than service in the church, even where the same individual serves in each; that concerts and theatres cost more than churches; that various articles of luxury, and even our very dogs, make a larger figure in our expenses than the subsistence of the ministers of the Churches; and, finally that it costs Christians less to support their religious institutions than it anciently cost the Jews to support theirs, and less than it now costs the heathen to support theirs.

USEFUL RECEIPTS.

If you are made miserable with chills and fever, dissolve fifteen grains of citric acid in a cup of hot coffee, and drink it just before the chills attack you. It has been known to cure the worst cases of this disease. Lime, lemon or sour orange juice will have the same effect.

An excellent poultice is made by taking a sufficient quantity of flaxseed meal and pouring on it, little by little, enough cold water to make it of suitable thickness. Then heat the entire mass. A small piece of lard is sometimes added to keep it from adhering to the part.

FRESH MEAT GRIDDLES.

Chop bits of fresh meat and cold roast meat, season with pepper and salt, make a griddle batter, put a spoonful on a well buttered iron, then a spoonful of the chopped meat and on this another spoonful of batter. When cooked on one side turn—when done, send to the table hot. They are very nice for breakfast or lunch.

GLOSS FOR LINEN.

"Starch Lustre" is a substance used for washing purposes, which, when added to starch, causes the linen to which it is applied to assume not only a high polish but a dazzling whiteness. A portion of the size of an old-fashioned cent added to a half pound of starch, and boiled with it for two or three minutes, will produce the best results. This substance is nothing more than stearine, paraffine or wax, colored by a slight mixture of ultramarine blue.

INDIAN CORN.

It is generally supposed that our Indian corn or maize, is a native of America, having been found among the Indians at the time of the discovery of the country. But nothing is known positively in regard to its native country beyond mere tradition, as it has never been found growing wild anywhere. The Japanese seem to have been well acquainted with maize for a long time, and possess varieties of which we know nothing until of late years; but whether they procured it originally from America, or the Americans from Japan, will probably remain one of the unsolved problems.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and deemed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honor and one Medal of Merit. This is a double victory, for the highest award which it was in the power of the Centential authorities to bestow. No other Company received such a distinction in this department. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the highest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SIMILAR DISTINCTION SUBMITTED BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS BOTH AN ATTEMPT TO MISLEAD THE PUBLIC. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.)

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A LOCK-STITCH Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great orginality, great assemability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch; ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display."

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reasons:—

"superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of repairing all classes of sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the stencil line.

Come One! Come All! gives Mitchell a call. Where the Sewing Machines are both large & small They are in appearance both handsome and neat And as for their work I'll can't be beat: They do their work both neat and well, And at the "Centennial" they did excel.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Few Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, as Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q., Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir,—It is common that others may know describing of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old, had been out of health for about five years. I had catarrh of the worst description, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do as much work as I used. Had severe soreness and pain under my shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very low spirits, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with my usual droppings in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which raised my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER.

Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, he will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. NEW YEAR.

(For the Examiner.)

The old year's gone! Let sorrow smile on none;
Its wicked is after terrors;
Its cries hath run, since time began,
In spite of joy or mourning.

Throughout the year full many a tear
Was shed for friends departed,
Others have had, what's made them glad:
Hence thro' the year light-hearted.

In lap of ease, free from disease,
One thro' the year's been resting;
Another has had to and suffered pain
His mortal state attesting.

State of unrest, is life, at best,
Mixture of joy and sorrow;
To-day it may be birthe and gay,
But all in grief to-morrow.

A changing state, doth seem the fate
Of man, in every climate;
Hence he's most blest, whose mind doth rest,
On things beyond earth's remnant.
A. GRAHAM.
Otonabee.

THE WHOLE STORY.

Oh! yes—I'll tell you the story,
The very moment you've asked.
You see the supper was ended,
And I was slicing some bread,
And Richard came into the pantry,
His face was exceedingly red.

And he opened his half-shut fingers,
And gave me the glimpses of a ring;
And then—oh! yes, I remember,
The kettle began to sing,
And Fanny came in with her baby,
The cunningest bunch of a thing.

And the biscuits were cut in a minute—
Well, what came next? Let me see—
Oh! Fanny was there with her baby,
And we all sat down to tea;
And grandma looked over her glasses
So queer at Richard and me.

But it wasn't till after milking
That he said what he had to say.
How was it? Oh! Fanny had taken
The baby and gone away—
The funniest rogue of a fellow—
He had a new tooth that day.

We were standing under the plum tree,
And Richard said something low,
But I was timid and flustered,
And trembled, I almost know,
For old red is the haviest of milkers,
And bridle so horrido slow.

And then—but one hasn't here was I?
Oh! the stars grew thick overhead,
But we stood under the plum tree
Till the chickens flew up to bed.
Well, he loves me, and we're to be married.
And that is—about what he said.

MILLBROOK.

HORRIBLE AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—Last night we were horrified to hear that a young man, working in Mr. Bee's Saw Mill, in the north of Hope, had been cut in two by a circular saw. Possibly before going to press we may be able to give full particulars.
Since the above was in type, we have received the following particulars:—Joseph Liney, aged 17 years, in the employ of Mr. James Fair, was in Jno Bee's Saw Mill, near McCamus's, on business, yesterday afternoon. While there, a heavy slab had to be removed; deceased volunteered assistance, and, while in the act of lifting, his foot struck against the large circular saw, and was instantly cut off, at the same moment the poor fellow was thrown on the saw, and, as quick as thought he was cut in two across the body. Deceased used to work for Mr. W. G. Wallace, near Millbrook. His parents live in the neighbourhood of the accident.
NOTICE.—The annual meeting of the Fairdale Cheese Manufacturing Co'y, was held in the Town Hall, at Centreville, on Monday, the 8th day of Jan.; the Directors reported a loss on the business for the past of $110,00; and that the Company is now indebted to the President to the amount of $217.

Watchmaking in America.

A FOREIGNER'S TESTIMONY.

Speech, Delivered in the Amphitheatre of the Primary College of La Chaux-de-Fonds, Tuesday, the 14th of November, by M Edouard Favre-Perret, Member of the International Jury on Watches at the Exhibition at Philadelphia, and one of the Swiss Commissioners to the United States.

Mr. Arnold Grosjean, President of the Board of Commerce, announced that M. Edouard Favre-Perret, member of the International Jury on watches of the Exhibition at Philadelphia, has kindly consented to repeat, at la Chaux-de-Fonds, the speech already delivered by him at Locle and Neuchatel, on the situation of the Industry of Watchmaking in the United States.

THE ADDRESS.

"Gentlemen:—I must, to start with, announce to you that you have not an orator before you, but a manufacturer, and as such I ask your indulgence, I shall give you information which, unlikely is not obscerful, on the condition of Swiss watchmaking compared with the American competition. I shall tell you of facts simply, such as I have seen them, such as I have understood them. Frankness is here more necessary than anything else, for it is not by palliating the bad sides of a difficult situation that we can succeed in improving it.
"For a long time we have heard here of an American competition, without believing it. The skeptics—and there were many of them—denied the possibility of a competition at once so rapid and so important. To-day we are forced to believe the proofs of it, and to acknowledge the existence of a formidable manufacture.
"We have had the proofs of it under our eyes; we have seen the American factories, and we have been able to satisfy ourselves exactly as to their power. We have treated the American manufacture as we have treated the neighbouring manufactures—in the future of which we did not wish to believe at first, and which form to-day a most serious competition. I refer to Besancon, Bienne, St. Imier, Morat and Schaffhausen.
"For a long time America had been the principal market for our watches—our milk cow, so to speak. To-day we must earnestly prepare to struggle with the Americans on the fields where hitherto we have been the masters.—Some of you have known Mr. Dennison, who was, we may say, the father of American watchmaking. Mr. Dennison travelled through the Canton of Neuchatel, studying our mode of manufacturing, seeking to inform himself of everything, and carefully noting the weak parts in our industry. After his return to the United States, he founded a factory at Boston—"The Boston Watch Company." This was in 1854. The capital—scarcely $100,000—was subscribed by capitalists more than by practical business men.—In the beginning the company turned out only the rough skeleton movement, and attended to the finishing; all other parts, such as trains, balances jewels, &c., &c., were imported from Switzerland. Little by little, however, the factory extended its operations, and produced other parts. Notwithstanding all this progress, this mode of doing things not suiting the American character, so little inclined to let capital remain almost unproductive, the capitalists abandoned the factory and it failed in 1856.
"Another American, Mr. Robbins, whom you have also known, gentlemen when he had business relations with us, counted a good speculation, and he's in the entire factory, tools included, for $75,000. A new company—

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 25, 1877.

THE WARDEN.

The County Council met here on Tuesday last and unanimously elected John Burnham, Esq., Reeve of Ashburnham, Warden for the year. He was proposed by Richard Birdsall, Esq., Reeve of Asphodel, and seconded by Jas. Miller, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee. Although the names of T. G. Choate, Esq., and Major Boulton had been rumoured as probable candidates, there were no propositions, so that Mr. Burnham was elected by acclamation so to speak. Mr. Burnham will make a good Warden. He will be careful of the taxpayer's interest, and not at all likely to squander much of their taxes, as in doing so he would be endangering his own pocket and that of his own friends in the county, as both his proposer and seconder are large property holders. He has the satisfaction too, to know that both gentlemen are not only large property holders, but the two largest men in the county, or perhaps of any county in the Province. While paying due tribute to the excellences and courtesy of the late Warden, who was always deserving of respect during his term of two years, we believe he acted wisely in aiding in the election of Mr. Burnham.

There are other deserving and able men in the council whose turn may next come, as for instance, Messrs. Choate, Sanderson, Burgess, Collins, Golborne, Major Boulton, but they can afford to wait their turn, as in due time they are not likely to be overlooked.

TOM WHITE as a PROTECTIONIST

The friends of Mr. Thomas White, Jr., familiarly known as Tom White—and he has many personal friends hereabout—will be surprised to learn that he has become an advocate of Protection, knowing as they do that he was but lately a warm friend of Free Trade. Mr. White is nothing if not a politician, though he has been by no means a successful one; and his utterances upon Free Trade on the one hand and Protection on the other are not the result of views he holds on these questions, but are merely intended as subordinate supporters to the position his political party may for the time occupy. Four years ago at the meeting of the Dominion Board of Trade he introduced a resolution strongly savouring of Free Trade, and supported it by a speech that was far from encouraging to Protectionists. His party was then in power, and were therefore opposed to any meddling with the tariff; and he as a dutiful and inveterate party hack felt bound to sustain their position whenever occasion offered. But his party went out of power, and being weighed down with the load of their many sins found it difficult to secure a good party cry. At last their own John A. was forced, rather than chose, to adopt Protection as a principle of the party; and at the Board of Trade meeting we discover Tom White, late supporter of a tariff for revenue purposes only, and eloquent enunciator of Free Trade doctrines before the same body four short years ago, actually speaking, resolving and voting for a protectionist tariff, and working harder in that direction than he had ever found it necessary in the opposite. These instances will serve to show how loose are Mr. White's convictions on Free Trade and Protection—if indeed he have any settled conviction either way, which is doubtful. He believes in their free importation into his speeches as raw material for the manufacture of platform thunder; and like every other small manufacturer he would like his wares to be forced upon the public by the shutting out of opposition, which he knows they cannot stand; but, like his prototype in actual business, this he cannot accomplish.

As we have remarked, Mr. White's chief glory is in being a politician. Being a newspaper man he naturally believes in advertising; but all his newspaper experience has not taught him to be judicious. For years he has persistently displayed his political side to the world, and proclaimed himself as willing—nay eager—to serve his country in the House of Commons. He has delivered political speeches on all possible occasions, displayed political feeling in season and out of season, and offered himself, on trial, to some half-dozen constituencies; but all in vain. He cannot "get himself away;" for the simple reason that in the slang significance of the term he has done so long ago. A politician is not one of those things of which it can be said, "Every family should have one." Cheapness in such a case is synonymous with inferiority; and when people go in for any luxury they studiously avoid choosing what they call "sheap and nasty." Thus Mr. White, through the facility with which he has bent himself to the defense and support of all the changes and exigencies of his party, has lessened whatever influence he might otherwise have had, if even Conservatives consider his prolific platitudes as so much idle vapouring; and some of the shrewd men of the party even wish that he could be induced to hold his tongue.

The late address by Mr. White to the London Board of Trade (published in this town last week for the shape of a supplement to the Review) is a fair average example of his productions. Its central idea is opposition to the Reform Government by an attempt to show that its fiscal policy is injurious to the country.—This design was thinly clothed over with the profession that the subject of Protection versus Free Trade would not be dealt with in its relation to party at all, a thing utterly impossible by a professional politician, as is Mr. White. Having no fixed ideas of his own on the subject he assumed to speak upon, beyond the probable political bearing of certain points, Mr. White was compelled to try the experiment of covering up his Tory tracks with liberal quotations from Protectionist writers and vague generalities that may mean anything or nothing. Of these, his address is for the most part made up; and wherever he attempts to enter into particulars of the applicability of Protectionist Canadian industries—which was the professed purpose—he is invariably [illegible] by courtesy we must [illegible] on entirely erroneous [illegible], some of them [illegible] to suit. For them he [illegible] largely from such [illegible] Granger, Greely and Henry [illegible] that Mr. Cartwright, our [illegible] Minister of F[illegible] prosperity of the people can [illegible] that the p[illegible] by legislation, when the [illegible] not be effected [illegible] Cartwright never made [illegible] truth is that Mr. [illegible] favour of Free trade legislation for the [illegible] —and being in favour of the people, could not [illegible] any such absurd statement. What Mr. Cartwright did say was that it is not in the power of any government "to make a country prosperous by the mere stroke of a pen or the enactment of Acts of Parliament." This means that legislation alone will not have the desired effect, an idea which coincides well with Mr. White's own doubly repeated expression, "under certain conditions." So we see that after all Mr. Cartwright and Mr. White agree upon this theory, though they may differ somewhat as to the practical application of the "certain conditions." Indeed these "certain conditions" so affect the question in all its effective bearings as to completely demolish Mr. White's rendering of history, for to them, can be traced the causes of activity or depression of trade at different periods,—not to a high or low tariff as is attempted to be shown by Mr. White. His borrowed arguments are equally false. His extract from "The Iron Trade of America" attempts to show that protection has lowered the price of axes; and was chosen doubtless because the chief complaint before the late Parliamentary Committee to inquire into the causes of the trade depression in Canada came from this industry. The extract gives the prices of axes in the United States at different periods from 1828 to 1876; but it omits the fact—and Mr. White conveniently forgot to mention it—that axes were sold cheapest under a low tariff, namely:—in 1849. But perhaps the worst glaring absurdity in Mr. White's address is his supposition of a tariff at once protective and productive of revenue. If protection means anything it means the imposition of such duties as will prevent foreign competition by shutting out foreign imports; but as revenue is derived from these imports, their exclusion will at once destroy the revenue. While every tariff is protective to some extent, any undue increase of duty will naturally destroy the revenue. The present tariff is calculated to raise a sufficient revenue for the requirements of the country, and at the same time afford moderate protection to home manufactures If this is what Mr. White wants he has it; if not, he is talking nonsense. His whole address, composed as it is of specious assertions and studied reservations, leads us to the conclusion that he merely "talks for Buncombe;" and while his utterances on both sides of the question in so short a time apparently for none other than political reasons, cause us to admire his devotion to his party, we cannot lose sight of the fact that it involves an amount of self depreciation, which Mr. Thomas White, jr., cannot stand.

CHANGES IN THE ONTARIO CABINET.

Of late there have been rumours of probable changes in the Ontario Ministry looking to the relief of Mr. Crooks from some of the cares that have weighed so heavily upon him as to seriously impair his health. All know and acknowledge the assiduity with which he has as Minister of Education entered into the work of mastering all matters relating to our schools and colleges, even to the minutest details. Not only has he labored hard in his department, he has also visited different parts of the country and met the teachers in convention, that he might ascertain their views on any and all matters of interest, and apply them practically as far as possible to the perfection of the school system of the Province. In the Education department Mr. Crooks has proved the right man in the right place. The country cannot afford, at least yet, to part with him in that capacity; and as the additional work of the Treasury Department is proving too much for his physical strength besides interfering with his important labors in the other, we believe his favorite, Department, it is fitting that he should be relieved from the care of the exchequer. In connection with the Finance Department the name of the Hon. S. C. Wood has been mentioned. The member for South Victoria would prove an excellent man for the position; for besides a training calculated to fit him for it, he, not being a professional man, has ample time at his disposal to devote himself thoroughly to the work of the Department. Should Mr. Wood accept the Ministry of the Treasury—and we hope he will—of course his present portfolio will have to be filled by another. For this there are a number of eligible men, any difficulty in a choice will be in the determination of who is to be left rather than who is to be taken to fill the vacancy. We have every confidence, however, that the selection will be a wise and judicious one.

A SCANDAL AFFECTING PETERBOROUGH.

True to its instincts the Toronto Mail has raised up another skeleton, and proceeds to dangle it before the public, dragging into the lecture it delivers on the disgusting subject the name of the Premier of Ontario with the hope that some of the venom engendered may cling to his skirts, to the injury of his character as a public man. The Mail has no regard for tender feelings, no thought of the mortification its dastardly work may cause to those more intimately connected with the scandal than the man, or men whom it tries to injure over over be. Itself a moribund concern, with neither a body to be kicked or a soul to be damned, it cares not for private griefs or family afflictions; but rather delights in dragging them before the public gaze to give unwilling color to the scandals of which it has ever evinced a fondness. Its last effort in this direction is of some interest in this locality, referring as it does to the well known issue between the estate of the late W. A. Scott and the Ontario Government. It will be remembered that the sum of $26,000 was exacted from Mr. Scott, for alleged fraudulent retention of timber dues. A commission composed of the Assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, Mr. Kirkpatrick, and Mr A. W. Richards reported against the estate, but subsequently the matter was reopened before the present Auditor-General, and the estate [illegible], waiving The representatives of [illegible] tion that there their claim in the [illegible] part of the late was no fr[illegible] that he was of unsound [illegible] the time of the alleged fraudulent [illegible]ctions, of course claim a further sum, declaring that the Government is indebted to them some $16,000 more. They have, however, been unable to get any further concession from the Government, and as is always the case with unsuccessful suitors, are inclined to feel sore over the matter.

However discontented the representatives of the estate may feel regarding the present issue of the affair, we do not think them capable of deliberately seeking to drag the skeleton of their late relative from the closet, and we are inclined to think they will be anything but thankful to the Mail for its interference in the matter, and making a political stalking horse of it.

The charge around which the Mail hangs the story of the dead past is, that a professional partner of Mr. Mowat, Mr. McLennan, as counsel of the estate received a fee in the matter, and that Mr. Mowat, appearing for the Crown, was thereby influenced in his judgment, as he as a partner shared in that fee. Such an accusation against a man who has at all times striven to keep his political record clean, could not go unchallenged, and according to the Premier took occasion on the floor of the House to deny emphatically that he had either directly or indirectly any share in such fees, or any part of them, and that Government business was not included in his partnership. So careful is he to be free from even a suspicion that he has requested his partners not to accept a connection with any claim prosecuted before the Government; and though he had no right to interfere with them in such matters, they had kindly consented. In the instance referred to the retainer had been accepted, and his partner employed before he knew anything of it. The Mail next morning returned to the charge, with distortion of the facts, insinuating that Mr. Mowat had only guaranteed the $6,000 that his partner might be paid, whereas, that portion appeared at the time when a further claim was denied.

Whatever may be the merits of the claimants' case their friends—if friends they be?—are acting very injudiciously by bringing it before the public tribunal as a political question, and passing opinions upon it such as those made in a letter in the Mail of Thursday last, signed "Curiosity" and dated "Peterboro." Such a course can only hinder the progress of the case by divesting it of all chance of that dispassionate action necessary to the consideration of writs which happened sometime in the past, and beyond thus prejudicing the case of the estate's representatives, it tends to cast a suspicion upon them of being instrumental in stirring up unsavory scandal. We have already expressed our doubt that anyone connected with the late Mr. Scott should have been so unfeeling to his memory and to the family surviving; and we are therefore glad to see that Mr. F. H. Scott, the principal party, in a letter in Monday's Mail disclaims as far as he himself is concerned any responsibility for this public discussion of the matter, which he declares he has most strenuously tried to avoid. From these words it would appear that he has known something of an intention on the part of some one else to drag it before the public, and tried to prevent it. Who this other less sensitive, and also less sensible person was it may yet be well, now that the whole business is made public, for Mr. F. H. Scott to disclose, particularly as he avows his intention of asking for a Committee of the Legislature to inquire into the whole facts of the case. Should the name of the instigator of this scandal come out he is certain to be anything but a favorite in the region round about Peterboro.

B.A.—The following from the Dominion Churchman of last week will speak for itself in reference to opinions of the well known newspaper correspondent "B.A." of this town. It will also give a faint indication of his leanings towards church millinery, drapery and latin crosses, of which we have read so much lately from the same pen. No doubt his opinions are those of a mature judgement, and calm unbiassed mind:

"PETERBORO.—The decoration in St. John's Church were more profuse and in better taste than usual. There was an abundance of green in all directions,—wreaths entwining the pillars and windows and sus[illegible] depending from the spring of the arches, and devices of various kinds —triangles, circles, &c., hanging on the walls. The best attention of the Decorators had, very properly, been directed to the East end, where a white star of Bethleham, upon a blue shield, surmounted the whole. The large window, of three lights, was covered with emblematic, red trimpery, to which were affixed an illuminated legend and goldan monograms. Above the Holy Table, on a blue ground, was the text, in beautifully formed white letters, "Do this in remembrance of Me," while beneath it, on Christmas Eve and on Christmas Day, appeared a well proportioned plain Latin Cross, "Hinc illae lacrymae," for, on the following Sunday I was surprised and pained to notice that the Cross had disappeared. It seems has two or three ultra Protestants had taken offence, and had appealed to the Churchwardens for protection from some appending evil. that the Churchwardens had suggested to the Rector the advisability of removing the emblem of our Faith, and that the Rector had given his assent, unwillingly, I have reason to believe. The modus operandi was as follows: The services of some person were obtained to frame a device to cover the obnoxious cross, and a figure intended, I suppose, to represent the monogram I. H. S., was cut out and pasted over it. But as the S is turned the wrong way, the effect, when I first saw it, reminded me somewhat of an ancient Chatterer, only there is but one mask, and the whole thing being too large and heavy in proportions to the letters above it, and not corresponding in size exactly with the defaced cross, looks an unmeaning white blotch."

B. A.

Tom White's Unexpected Policy.

(From the London Free Press.)

Let us suppose that Mr White meant by "Protection" that the importation of foreign manufactured goods should be attended by a duty of fifty per cent, by which the home market would, it is thought, be made secure for the Canadian manufacturer. How would such a practice "protect" the general interests? for it is these alone that Mr. White declares he is willing to serve. Would the laborer, earning his dollar a day, be benefited, and how? Would the brick-layer and mason, who handle crude materials, find their condition improved, their day's labor commanding a better price, and the wages earned spent more advantageously than now? Would the carpenter find that deal nails and tools improved his condition? Would the tailor, shoemaker, smith, baker, blacksmith, painter, grocer, bookbinder, merchant, clerk, banker, lawyer, doctor, be benefitted by their dollars go further, be able to do to their families the [illegible]ubersman, in his day? Would [illegible]an, in his midnight shanty [illegible], in his efforts to make [illegible] of grass grow where one grew [illegible] be benefited in that way? How would the commercial and professional classes be improved by restoring to such an expedient? If we cast our eyes upon the constituents of the population, it will be found that those named, with some few others, comprise the large bulk of the people. The remainder are but a small fraction of the whole, and it is the interests alone of this small faction (which Mr. White told us were not to be weighed in the balance against the far superior interests of the general public) which could receive even a temporary benefit by such a change. Those comprised in the artizan and laboring classes; the commercial and professional circles; the farmers, lumbermen, fishermen and miners desire that their money when once honestly earned should be possessed of a high purchasing power, and not be met by the depleting influences of high duties. How, then, would the interests of these, the paramount portions of the population, be served by a "protection" which would necessitate a very large advance in the striking rate of taxation on importations? On this matter Mr. White left us pretty much in the dark. True, he spoke of the necessity of diversified employments and industries. But have we not got a diversity already? the bare enumeration of employments which now prevails in Canada reserves us of that. True, the lecturer spoke of the necessity of filling up the North-west, not as the agricultural population must always in a new country precede that devoted to manufactures—going in even in advance of the artizan—so the filling up cannot begin at the wrong end. To manufacture in the absence of a population to supply would be an evident absurdity. What, then, is it that is required of us which is to bring about the blessed condition which was hinted at but not described? Are we to wallow ourselves out against a people that absorbs nearly one-half of our surplus agricultural productions, and a very large proportion of the fish the coal and the lumber? Are we to play off a "retaliatory" policy against a people that holds the key of our railway system, and through whose territory access to the seaboard is a matter of great convenience, if not of absolute necessity? In order to get at the facts as they really are, we must embrace a far wider horizon than that which Mr. White presented to view.

Statement of the Ontario Finances.

THE HON. TREASURER'S BUDGET SPEECH.

On Tuesday afternoon Hon. Adam Crooks, Provincial Treasurer, made his annual financial statement to the House, a resume of which is given below:

Hon. Mr. CROOKS, in moving the House into Committee of Supply, said that he would first endeavor to show the surplus of the Province at the close of 1876. With reference to the assets and liabilities, he referred to his statement of the provincial affairs last year, and said that the House would be glad to learn that, notwithstanding the heavy grants which had been made to railways, the surplus had been very slightly diminished. The surplus on the 30th of September, 1875, had been $6,036,336, while on the 31th of December, 1876, it amounted to $4,873,000 and upwards. The Provincial assets on the 30th of Sept., 1875, amounted to about $7,790,000 while at the end of 1876 the amount was $6,856,000, and the liabilities of the Province had been reduced correspondingly. He then referred to that portion of the assets which were included in the securities of the Province, and said that not a single dollar of these had been interfered with, but they remained exactly in the same position as on the 30th of Sept.; nor would there, he believed, be any necessity in future for our dista bing that portion of our assets until such time as the principal became due. Referring to the liabilities under the head of railway aid funds, he said that the amount which had not been distributed on the 30th of Sept., 1875, was $191,638, while the amount which remained to be paid on the 31st of last December was about $498,000. With regard to the railway subsidy fund, the Government had on that head drafts upon it, and there remained a balance of only $196,000. They had discharged almost all their obligations to the municipalities in the way of the distribution of the surplus, and had paid up to the end of 1876 about $2,672,000, leaving a balance still to be paid to the municipalities of about $443,683. Referring then to the operations of the past year, he said that the actual receipts for 1876 had been $2,579,-980. The estimated receipts had been $2,350,000, making an excess of actual over estimated receipts of $229 980. The actual expenditure of the year had been $2,337,145; the estimated expenditure had been $2,360,317—thus leaving unexpended $123,172. This, with the excess of receipts, left a surplus on the operations of the year 1876 of $353,152. He then referred to some of the details of the receipts and expenditures for the year, and said that the difference between the items of expenditure of 1876 and the estimates were, with the exception of immigration, represented by small sums. On immigration a saving of $123,000 had been effected. He next referred to what was proposed to be asked as the estimates for 1877. These estimates showed a gross total of $2,540,223 required for this year's services, comprised in three different classes of items, namely; 1st, current expenditure, $1,983,752; capital account, $412,927; and for other purposes, represented by cross entries in the public account $123,543. The current expenditure for 1876 had been $2,024,876, as against $1,983,752 proposed for 1877. The expenditure on capital account for 1876 had been $284,138, as against $432,927 estimated for 1877, and for the refund account and the balance of service there was estimated for 1877 $173,543, as against an amount expended for similar purposes of 1876 of $77,901. He did not propose to enter into a minute estimate of the receipts for the current year, as it was not the duty of the Treasurer to propose a budget scheme of such an occasion. The chief source of the estimated for this year were those from which the revenue had been derived in 1876.

The only item which was subject to much fluctuation was the woods and forests branch of the crown lands. Referring then to the question of railway aid, he said that Mr. Blake's scheme had never been intended to cause the construction of certain lines of railway and prevent the construction of others, but it only recognized the duty on the part of the Province to offer a moderate amount of aid; which, being supplemented by local effort, would cause the construction of those lines. The scheme could not be said to have called into existence a single mile of railway. The number of roads which has received aid was 22. of these 11 had completed their total mileage and received the Government grant; four had completed portions of their lines and received proportionate aid; six were now in course of construction, and only one had not been commenced. Taking those which had been brought under the attention of the Legislature in 1872, 30 were covered by Orders in Council. Of these seven had been fully completed and received aid, two had received aid in proportion to the work done, and only one had not commenced the work of construction. The total amount from all sources expended upon railways, from 1867 to the present year was $33,060,000. This showed the effect of the policy pursued by the Government upon railway enterprise, as the expenditure of three millions had brought about the investment in railways of this large amount. He concluded by thanking the House for its attention.

The statement was so complete and satisfactory in all its details that the leaders of the Opposition declined it go completely unchallenged.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—In some of the last issues of the Review the editor of that journal, while ostensibly commenting on the action of the Government in reference to the Orange Incorporation Bill and that most ably and [illegible]ensian amendment on the question of tax exemption by your member for the West Riding, devotes special attention to the Honorable Commissioner of Public Works.

The editor has neither the ability nor the arguments to attack that honorable gentleman on any important question of public policy; nor has he the moral courage to do so if he had; but under cover of charging his colleagues in the government with having allowed him "once more to force his policy upon them in defiance of the wishes of their "constituents," he deals the coward's blow.

How does the editor know that Mr. Fraser has once more, or any time, forced his policy on his colleagues, or that it would be in defiance of their constituents if he had? If this be true the Catholics of Ontario have indeed cause to be thankful not only for getting a representative at all in the cabinet, but for getting one so able and powerful; and further have Catholics cause to be thankful to the Liberal party who have taken such pains to respect their just rights and have them adequately represented.

During the distinguished editor's four years parliamentary career the government that he supported took precious good care that Irish Catholics would have no representative in the Cabinet, nor in the House, if it could keep them out—yet this is the sort of government the Catholics of Ontario are blandly told that they should again help to put into office.

Of course the gentleman of the Review knows that what he says in regard to Mr. Fraser over-ruling his colleagues, is the reverse of truth; but in his blind rage, in his bitter hostility to Mr. Fraser, because of his catholicity, any chance that presents itself is eagerly grasped at, to prejudice some and ridicule others, who may admire that honorable gentleman's great talent, or pay tribute to the eminent services he is rendering to this party and to the country.

That Mr. Fraser opposed the passage of the orange bill a few years ago, is quite true, and that he lately opposed the consideration by the government, the impudent attempt of a mercenary corporation to tax the whole country for its benefit, is equally true.

To the unconscious notice of Mr. Scott, however, in proposing that foolish amendment, is the country indebted for the telling, exhaustive and logical speech of the Commissioner of Public Works on that question.

In both instances but few rational men will deny that the honorable gentleman has acted strictly in accordance with the general feeling of the country, and in a manner becoming a patriot and statesman in desiring to allay passion, to preserve and perpetuate order, peace and good will among all classes of the community, and in resisting the base efforts of a few interested parties to replenish a depleted exchequer at the expense of the charitable and the pious and to the detriment of the numberless poor and needy of the Province.

For such outspoken, manly opposition to measures sought to force upon the people of this country unjust, unnecessary and improper legislation, Mr. Fraser deserves the gratitude of all good citizens, but more especially of the Irish Catholics of the province who don't want Orange or Party Bills, who want to live at peace with orangemen and all other men, and who don't want to have their religious and charitable houses, the churches, Convents and Christian Brother's schools, the Hospitals and Houses of Providence for the young, the aged, the infirm and the homeless, to the building and support of which the Catholics of the country contribute, taxed, for the purpose of meeting the indebtedness or extravagance of a Toronto Tammany ring.

The editor of the Review has brains enough to recognize the marked ability that characterizes all Mr. Fraser's public acts and utterances

He perceives his power and influence with the Catholic hierarch, clergy and people; and he dreads it. It is here the trouble comes in, and how to combat or avert it is the puzzle.

As to the necessity or merit of any measure of legislation the class of questions surrounding the editor of the Review don't care a straw if they can but accomplish their ends. They are forced to acknowledge the wise and prudent legislation of the Provincial Government and the safe place it has in the respect and confidence of the people. It is to be expected that a show of opposition must be made a certain amount of carping must be done, but the chief object now is to frighten a certain class into a holy horror of the influence possessed by the Commissioner of Public Works in the House and in the country, at the same time by all species of ledgerdemain, to weaken or withdraw from him if possible, the support and confidence of the clergy and people, and so render him, to some extent, powerless at the forthcoming general elections.

This is the game to be played, in order to entrap and secure catholic votes, but it will not succeed. It is however deeply humiliating to find that any journal pretending to speak for the catholic body of the Province could for a moment prove so recreant to principle and to party as to aid and abet a crusade that seeks by falsehood and misrepresentation to crush out of public life the most able, discreet and successful advocate Irish Catholics have ever had in Canada, without any exception. Mr. Edward Blake out, there is not a public man in the Dominion who, so early in his political career, has achieved so much gained so prominent a position, and stamped so indelibly his name and fame on the history and legislation of this his native Province, as has Mr. C. F. Fraser. Let him then pursue, steadily, and undismayed, the honorable, straightforward and patriotic course he has so auspiciously commenced, and he will retain not only the esteem and confidence of his co-religionists, but of all moderate and right-thinking men in the Provinces.

Yours, truly.
Jan. 22rd, 1877. HASTINGS.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—It is now a year since I left the County of Peterborough for the plains of Kansas, and I purpose giving you, and, through your paper, my friends in the county my opinions of the State.

On my arrival in Kansas last winter I located near the city of Atchison on the Missouri River, where I remained until fall. I found the country around that part rather rough for a prairie country, but the soil was of the finest description for agricultural purposes, composed of a fine black mould varying from 1 to 2 ft. in depth, resting on a heavy clay bottom. Plenty of pure water and running streams in abundance. The crops in that part were very fine the past season. It is astonishing where the vast amount of corn goes to that is grown in these western states. It is a fine sight to see from 100 to 400 acres of corn or wheat growing on one claim without a hill, stone or stump to obstruct the plow or reaper.

In November last I "pulled up stakes" and left Atchison and came west to the City of Beloit, (every place is a city here) a smart lively town 200 miles west of the Missouri River. Beloit is a little larger than Lakefield, and full of business. The country around here is a fine rolling prairie; the soil on the valley of the River Solomon (which flows through Beloit) is very deep and fertile; and fine crops of corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, broom corn, &c., are raised with little labour; everything done by machinery; and if it was not for that pest, the "hoppers," it would be a fine country. The climate is mild compared with Ontario in winter, and the summers are no hotter, there being always a gentle breeze blowing. The winds are sometimes high in March and April, but I have seen worse wind storms in Canada than I have seen, so far, in Kansas. There is timber growing along the streams sufficient for fuel. Our lumber is shipped in from the east and is consequently dear. Native lumber is cut at the local mills, (of which there is plenty, both grist and saw) Wood for fuel is in moderate supply and sells here for $3 to $4½ per cord, oak or ash; cotton wood, $2.50. Provisions are cheap for so far west. Grain and produce is low, caused by the distance from the railway, at present 63 miles, but it is expected it will be running through here within two years. This is a new tract of country, and ten years ago, where stands the city of Beloit, the red man and the buffalo alone were the sole citizens, and Beloit to-day contains a population of 1,000 inhabitants; but with all the advantages there is many drawbacks. To any man well situated in Canada, I would advise him to stay there; but for those who wish to ramble, I say come to Kansas. There is plenty of room for all. One thing which cannot fail to be appreciated by the arrival of Eastern travellers is the small amount of liquor used out here. Fully three-fourths of the hotels are run without liquors of any kind. Law and order seem to prevail generally. In conclusion I will say there is many coming and many leaving this state; but I see no obstacle in the way if a man is willing to work. The grasshoppers passed over here last fall damaging the crops about ten per cent, and if that pest should leave us we would have a fine land easy of cultivation, and of soil the best.

This country is specially adapted for stock and hog raising. Corn is plentiful and cheap for winter feed, and grass in abundance in summer. Winters are short here, generally from December to March. This winter, so far, has not been cold; 5 degrees below zero the coldest we have had, and folks say the cold weather is past for this winter. No snow yet to whiten the ground but once, and that only for a day.

I fear I am trespassing too far on your valuable space, so I will defer any further remarks till my next letter, when I will give you an idea of the mode of farming in Kansas.

Yours, respectively.
Mitchell County, Kansas. GEO. DEFRIES, Beloit.

OBITUARY.—Last week, Mr. David Fife, of Otonabee, one of the oldest settlers of this county, died at Lang, in the 72nd year of his age. Mr. Fife settled with his father and numerous brothers and sisters in Otonabee about 1826. They were natives of Scotland and inheriting the perseverance inherent in the people of that nation, and settling near each other, they soon made comfortable homes for themselves and a fine settlement around them. They were all progressive farmers, and the subject of this sketch revisting his native country some years ago, brought with him the wheat which after him was and is still known as "Fife Wheat," and which proved such a boon to Canadian farmers. He leaves several sons and daughters in comfortable circumstances.

The London Advertiser:—"The bill to amend the license law has been brought down. It will merely improve the details of the present law, according to the suggestion of the past year's experience. There is a class of critics who profess to think it unwise to change a law when it has once been passed. The Reform idea is that there should be a continual striving after perfection. Men are learning all the while, and increased knowledge must require better laws. The license act has worked beneficially, but the inspectors need additional facilities to enforce it in certain difficult cases."

Hon. Charles A. Pelletier, M. P. for Kamouraska, has been sworn in to the Dominion Cabinet as Minister of Agriculture, rendered vacant by the appointment of Hon. Sattellier St. Just as Governor of Quebec. Mr. Pelletier is one of the most independent and liberal of the French Canadian supporters of the Government in the House.

SNOW SHOE TRAMP.—The Snow Shoe Club had a 14 mile tramp on Wednesday evening last to Mud Lake and back. This healthy exercise is giving the boys a robust appearance.

BILLIARD MATCH.—A Billiard Match was played on Wednesday evening 17th inst., at the Huffman House, between Wm. Jakes, of Otonabee, and John Rickey, of Ennon. The game was close all through, and was won by the latter, by a score of 300 to 280. The game was 300 points—French Carom.

MEAN.—A certain person sold a kipskin to Messrs. Patterson & Son with a stone & and a half pounds weight in it, one day last week. We advise the party to call and see Mr. Patterson and have the matter settled as Mr. Patterson informs us he knows the party and will issue a warrant for his arrest if not settled for at once.

THE DUNKIN ACT.—The opinion given by Mr. Guthrie, Q. C., County Solicitor for Wellington, was that any merchant or trader could sell five gallons of liquor or a dozen bottles of ale or porter without any license whatever.—Mr. John A. McKenzie, Solicitor for the County of Huron, has instructed the Huron Council in a similar manner.

FOR fifteen years Gray's Syrup has been before the public, and it has been gradually increasing in public favor until it has now become the Domestic Dough Remedy of every family. The leading retail druggists assure us that they sell more of Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum than they do of all the other Cough Preparations put together. It has been used by thousands of persons suffering from Throat and Lung diseases, and is the best known Remedy for affections of the throat. 4-6in.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—The Anniversary of this Church will be held on Sunday and Monday, the 4th and 5th of February. On Sunday sermons will be preached by Rev. J. Harris, at 10.30 a.m., and Rev. G. ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—At the annual meeting of the St. George's Society, held on Wednesday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President.—Mr. George Barlee.
1st Vice-President.—Mr. Albert Hall.
2nd " —Mr. Wm. Helm.
Chaplain.—Rev. V. Clementi.
Physicians.—Drs. Boucher and H. C. Burritt.
Sec-Treasurer.—Geo. E. Shaw.
Committee.—Messrs. Courtney, Hook, Ames, Pendry and Toker.

A couple of "Independent" Journals have already been heard from in relation to the open assumption of Toryism by their brother of Lakefield; and both are so highly delighted with it that they actually forget the part they are playing, and speak their minds right out. The "hypocritical journal" of Pobeygeon also the "Bravo, little one!" while that of Peterboro' "hopes that Hon. Alex. McKenzie will accept the invitation, and step down and out right off". Masqueraders should always avoid emotional ejaculations.

THE way in which Mr. Thomas White's protectionist utterances are looked upon within the ranks of his own party may be learned from an article, in another column, from the London Free Press, the chief Conservative journal of Western Ontario, and by far the most ably conducted paper of that party in the Province.—The article opens up a field of thought into which Mr. White dare not enter with any hope of preserving the political phase which was the one prominent, but by no means creditable characteristic of his address in London.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION.—The Lindsay Post of last week says:—"We are pleased to learn that the West Peterboro' Agricultural Society, the Smith Township Society, the Dummer Township Society, and the Peterborough Horticultural Society have voted the necessary amounts to the Lindsay Central Exhibition Fund to entitle them to their usual representation. This shows that the comparatively dist ant societies take an interest in the coming fair and will do their part well. We hope the good example will not be lost on our local societies."

EVENING BUSINESS.—Notwithstanding all the cry out about hard times and no money, W. Fairweather & Co., are doing a Rousing Business, and all for Cash. In visiting this store we were surprised to see the crowds of people all active and anxious, buying large parcels of goods. No doubt the great inducements held out by this firm selling out their whole stock at greatly reduced prices is the cause of all this rush. It is gratifying to know that in these hard times money is so plentiful where the inducements are strong enough to tempt purchasers.

PERSONAL.—The numerous friends in this place of Dr. Coulter, will read the following with pleasure, which is taken from the Philadelphia "Item":—"Dr. Coulter of Derby and Coulter, proprietors of the Illustrated Bazaar, having been recently elected a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, has retired from our journalistic rank to resume his professional duties, and he returns to Canada bearing with him the good wishes of his literary and professional associates. During his stay amongst us he has made many warm friends and his departure is sincerely regretted."

GRANGE.—The following officers were elected for the Selwyn Grange Lodge, on Thursday evening last:—

Master Mason.—W. Moore.
Secretary.—W. C. Manning.
Overseer.—M. C. Sanderson.
Lecturer.—J. Dale.
Steward.—H. Carlton.
Assistant Steward.—T. C. Manning.
Chaplain.—Wm. Sparks.
Gate Keeper.—R. Wilson.
Ceres—Mrs. Moore.
Pomona—Mrs. Wilson.
Flora—Mrs. Hall.
Lady Assistant Steward—Miss E. Nichols.
Organist—Miss Sparks.

SCHOOL BOARD.—The School Board met on Tuesday evening in special session. Mr. Stevenson in the chair. Mr. Jeffers read a lengthy report showing the number of pupils outside of the town attending the public schools of the town, and the Collegiate Institute. A deputation consisting of Messrs. Cox, Shaw the Principal & Chairman was appointed to wait on the County Council to solicit a grant from them towards bearing the expenses of the Institute, as there is an average of 40 pupils attending it. Messrs. Shaw, Cox and the Chairman were appointed to open tenders for stationery, and to make such arrangements as they may consider proper.

THE REV. DR. RYERSON is still in London, and the Christian Guardian obtains a letter from him which concludes as follows:—"In regard to myself I enjoy unusually good health for a person of my age. During more than two months I have spent several hours a day in the library of the British Museum, aided by a hired amanuensis to copy manuscripts and extracts from books for me. As my strength permits I devote from ten to fifteen hours a day to my work in the Library and at my lodgings, (about three minutes walk from the work which I have proposed future day, will be acceptable to my country. I purpose to continue my present labour here until the end of January, and then embark for Home."

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterboro Literary Association met as usual on Tuesday evening last, in the Council Chamber. Mr. A. P. Poussette, Vice-President in the chair. Mr. H. D. Beck read an extract from "Peggy Oneal," an extract from Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit." Mr. M. T. Beck read an extract from Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome." The following subject was then discussed, "Should property of any kind be exempt from Municipal Taxation." Messrs. Edgcombe and Rogers supported the affirmative. Messrs. Beardsmore and Lydgate the negative. The Chairman after summing up the arguments adduced on both sides gave his decision in favor of the negative. "Government Life Assurance" will be the subject for debate at the next meeting.

A HINT FOR MUNICIPAL COUNCILS.—Judge Longmore of Kingston, pronounced on a Wednesday last, in a case, Regina v. Jones, the libel that in order for a By-law to be finally passed it was necessary to do so at a regular meeting of the Council, and that the By-law should be engrossed, signed and sealed by the presiding officer and clerk, then and there, in presence of the whole council. The reason for executing the By-law in council is obvious, for otherwise, as His Honor said, there was nothing to prevent the presiding officer or clerk making some change in it, if they were so inclined, and thereby to a great extent alter its conditions. The Judge quoted several authorities bearing upon the question, and in giving judgement severely criticised municipal councils generally, for the careless manner in which they transacted business.

TEMPERANCE SOCIAL.—On Friday ev'g, Friendship Temple, I. O. G. T., gave a very successful Literary and Musical Entertainment in the Temperance Hall. Mr. Pentland presided. Music was provided by a choir under the leadership of Mr. Joseph McClelland. Readings were given by Messrs. A. Clegg, W. Mason, D. Kennedy, and H. Hall, and by Miss Mason and Miss Grundy. Miss Heather, Miss Marry, Miss Parnall, Miss Hutchinson and Miss Kingdon sang several solos and duets, and Rev. Mr. Watson delivered an appropriate address. This was the Twentieth Anniversary of Friendship Temple, during which period it has always been in active working order, and has done much to keep the subject of Temperance before the people of the Town and County. As Mr. Pentland said, the good the Temple has done can never be fully estimated, as the members have been scattered far and wide, and are still laboring in the good work. The Social was a most successful one, another is promised soon.

THE LONG CREDIT EVIL.—The Montreal Star makes the following sensible remarks —"If the commercial men of Canada resolve to celebrate the beginning of a New Year by an abandonment of the long credit system they will do the State some—aye, considerable—service. Every honest man who has experienced the system will admit that it is an unmitigated evil, on the one hand locking up capital, and, on the other, encouraging the reckless incurrence of debt. The opportunity is a splendid one for our Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce to show their worth. Let a declaration be drawn up to the effect that the subscribers pledge themselves to adhere to a short credit system—say, sixty days. Let copies be circulated by every Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce in the Dominion. We believe there would be an almost unanimous rush to endorse the action, as of men rushing to liberty. Such a declaration would worthily rank with the famed Declaration of Independence of our neighbours."

CURLING MATCH.—A Match at Curling was played at the Curling Rink on Thursday last. In the morning between the Orillia and Peterboro Clubs, two rinks a side, and in the afternoon between the Keene and Orillia Clubs. The Orillia Club is long established and is composed of experienced curlers, some of them having played forty years, while the Peterborough men are beginners. The result was anticipated, before the game was commenced. The Peterboro and Keene Clubs, however, did very well under the circumstances and made some very good play. In the match between Orillia and Peterboro the score stood Orillia 37, Peterboro 24: and in the match between Orillia and Keene the score stood Orillia 30, Keene 15; and in the match between Keene and Peterboro the game resulted in the Keene Club getting beat by 7. It must be remembered that the Orillia team is composed of crack players and considering that our Club played against one of the best in Canada, they did very well, and with practice may in a short time be able to put the score the other way. The Orillia Club play a good game and deserve the high reputation they bear.

POLICE COURT.

On Tuesday morning, Jany 23rd, Daniel Quinlan was charged before the Police Magistrate with abusing a cow, the property of Dan'l Wallace. He was fined $5. $30 damages and $2. costs, to be paid on the 27th instant, and in default 30 days imprisonment.

Mr. Hatton said in reference to one of the cases that was up a week ago for trespass and damaging property, the boys Eckhart and Spencelly had called on him and admitted that they had been there and done damage, and expressed their regret, and in consequence of this he did not wish to proceed with that case; and in reference to the Wilson boys he did not wish to put them to any unnecessary expense, but he thought he was doing his duty to the public generally and himself in having this kind of thing put an end to. After some discussion the boys apologised for doing what they had done, but at the time they did not think they were doing any harm. The Justice dismissed the cases cautioning the boys.

On Tuesday afternoon two boys named Martin Barrie and John Smith were brought before the P. M., on information of R. Clinton, charged with stealing a bundle of socks from the store door. They were sent to jail until Saturday to await the return of Mr. Hatton, who had gone away from home.

Mr. Dumble was in favour of receiving the petition.

Mr. Haggart moved that it be referred to the Joint Committee between the town and county.

STATEMENT.

The Clerk handed in his annual statement of the Receipts and Expenditures of the Peterborough Town Trust, for the year 1876, with appendixes showing the position of the Midland Railway account, the account with the Town Council, the School Debenture account, the School Debenture cash account, the Sinking Fund account, the Town Debenture account, the amount of Debentures Outstanding, the amount of Principal still due from South reserve, and statement of Assets and Liabilities, which were referred to the Finance Committee

DEPUTATION TO TORONTO.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McWilliams.—That the Mayor, Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Cox and the mover, be a deputation to wait on the Attorney-General to urge the promoted Huron and Quebec Railway.—Carried.

NO ENGINEER THIS YEAR.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McWilliams.—That this Council do not deem it necessary to make any appointment of Town Engineer this year.—Carried.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Baptie.—That the appropriation for Streets and Bridges do not exceed $6,500 for the current year, and that no new work be undertaken without the recommendation of the Finance Committee, and instructions from the Council.

Mr. Cahill thought that it was making a Street and Bridge Committee out of the Finance Committee, which was not necessary.

Mr. Dumble said that it was a very judicious resolution, and that if they made it known at the commencement of the year the amount that was going to be expended they would not be flooded with communications, and the amount that was expended on streets and Bridges last year has an enormous sum.

Mr. Millar said as he understood it, the town will appoint a Street Inspector who will report on all necessary works, which would have to be passed by the Council, and if this was the way, what use was this motion limiting the same.

Mr. Haggart thought the motion was a premature one and the amount was not sufficient to cover all expenses. We all know that the freshets in the spring wash away embankments &c., which have to be repaired, and let the Street Inspector go around and bring in a report to the Council and let them see what is necessary to be done, and it will be for the Council then to say what they will do or what they will not do, and let everything be done by resolution in the Council.

Mr. Cahill said what he objected to was the making of a Street and Bridge Committee out of the Finance Committee, and that $6,500 was not a sufficient sum to keep the streets and side walks of the town in sufficient repairs, and he recommended the sum of $8,000 as a sufficient sum. He said that the street and bridge expenditure was too large last year, but he did no want to chirk his responsibility of it.

Mr. Elder asked for information as to whether it was necessary to pass a motion of this kind or not, as all moneys that are expended will have to come before the Council.

Mr. McWilliams said that the amount was sufficient, and they wished to stop communications coming in from all parts of the town asking for repairs.

The motion was then put and carried.

TWO COPIES OF EACH TOWN PAPER.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Baptie.—That the Town Clerk be authorised to have two copies of the town papers, and that one copy be kept on fyle, as one of the papers in the town had been discontinued.

Mr. Toole said that the Times was never ordered by the Council; they sent it without instructions.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That one copy of each of the town papers be taken and put on fyle in the Clerk's Office.

The amendment was carried.

TOWN PHYSICIAN.

Moved by Mr. Baptie, seconded by Mr. McWilliams,—That this Council do not think it necessary to employ a Town Physician for the present year.

Mr. Haggart said that there was such a thing as being too economical, and he considered that $600 was a very small amount to pay a doctor for a town the size of Peterborough. He thought that there were some members of the Council who wanted to have money in at the end of the year, and he only hoped that they would stick to it, but this motion deserved attention.

Mr. Dumble said that it was very nice to have a Town Physician who would give a prescription to a family who were in need, but he tho't the town could do without it this year.

Mr. Haggart recited a case where the young man McDonald had his knee hurt on Hunter Street; if this case had been attended to by a doctor it would have cost nearly that amount itself.

The Mayor on being asked said that $120 was for attendance and $30 for medicine.

Mr. McWilliams said that in the case that Mr. Haggart mentions the medicine was paid for in Mr. Tully's.

Mr. Millar was in favour of having a Town Physician, as was Mr. Cahill.

The motion was withdrawn.

BANK ACCOUNT.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Haggart.—That the Treasurer be requested to furnish to the Council at its next meeting a statement showing the amount due by this corporation to the bank or banks, also the amount due the Town Commissioners or vice versa, also a statement showing the amount of last year's taxes yet uncollected.—Carried.

ASSESSMENT ACT.

Mr. Toole drew the attention of the Council to the two Acts that were passing in the Legislature in reference to the municipal assessment acts, and said the town was burdened with parties coming into town from the country who were not able to pay their taxes.

CHARITY.

Mr. McBain said that he wanted to be liberalized from his position or he wanted it understood that as a member of the Council give their order for anything. Let them send the parties to him and he would attend to them, as he did not want any Councillor sending their orders to him.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Rountree.—That the report of the Assistant Street Inspector be referred to the Finance Committee with instructions to inquire into the subject of the report, and report at a future meeting of the Council.—Carried.

ASSESSMENT.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Millar.—That the following be a committee to take into consideration the assessment of vagrants and paupers, and send the report to the Local Member, Mr. Scott, viz:—Messrs. Smith, Dumble and Haggart.—Car.

Mr. Smith said that there were some complaints about the Town Clock, and as Mr. Ormond was here he would move that he be heard in reference to the Town Clock.

MR. ORMOND

said that the clock was not well protected from snow and rain which got into the works of the clock rusting them, which caused it from striking, the tower wanted fixing, and the dial facing the East was out of order, the minute hand catching on the dial which stopped the clock, and he had to take them off. He had nothing to do with it as they were made by the town and he was only appointed by the Watch Coy to look after it for six months, and he did not feel disposed to repair it. There was also another matter which he wished to draw the attention of the Council to, the mode of access to the clock. It was a very difficult matter to get to the bell part of it, as there was no ladder and they had to get to it the best way they could. The bell was also rusting, and something should be done to have it remedied.

Mr. Elder said that the access to the tower was very proverbial. He and Councillor Haggart went to see it this afternoon and they had to get up the best way they could. They found that a pane of glass was broken which let in the snow and rain on the clock. He saw Mr. Bradburn and he said he would attend to it as soon as possible. It was very good of Mr. Ormond to give his services to the town for the past year and a half for nothing, and that something should be given him for it, as he has kept it well regulated during the time.

It was referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Moved by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That the Council adjourn till Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.—Carried.

Council adjourned.

HADDOC.

Major Boulton, Vice-President of the Huron and Quebec Railway, has been here for the past week getting petitions signed asking the County Council of Hastings to submit a by-law to grant a bonus of $75,000 to the Huron and Quebec Railway. The petitions have been numerously signed, and the by-law is likely to be carried by a large majority. It will be the means of thoroughly opening up the development one of the richest mineral districts in Ontario.

KEENE.

No little excitement was caused in our village school here on Wednesday last by a drunken man rushing into the midst of the scholars with a big stick in his hand, which he applied to some of them pretty freely, at the same time cursing and swearing most shamefully. It appears while he was passing by the school driving a horse and cutter, the boys got sight of him and hooted him up shout-a-hash, we must say, they practice rather too freely. On his way back he determined to have revenge, hence his raid on the school. We understand Mr. Ford, our schoolmaster, kindly helped him out to the street. We have seen more drunkenness in our village during the last few weeks than we have seen for the last year. What can be the reason of this? Has our new tavern anything to do with it.—COM.

PORT HOPE.

We clip the follow from the Port Hope Times, and we fully endorse it:—

"We notice that the Peterboro' Review has an article in its last issue reflecting on the management of the late Central Exhibition here. As the association is but a new one, and lacks experience, we think our contemporary should have shown a little more liberal spirit than it has done, and as the defects of the first exhibition held in Peterboro' were passed over without unfavorable comment, he might have been content to have allowed the same course to be followed with regard to the one here. The officials who managed the Fair in Port Hope are fully equal in ability to the gentleman who managed the Peterboro' one, and therefore we think any reflection on the manner in which the affairs of the association have been conducted are ill-timed and out of place.

YOUNG'S POINT.

On Monday evening last a large gathering assembled in the School House in this place on the occasion of a notice from Miss Strickland, of Lakefield, that she would give an account of what she saw and heard while on a visit to England. It is estimated there were upwards of 150 present, both old and young. She opened the meeting with singing and prayer, and afterwards repeated several verses of scripture, showing the goodness of God to fallen man. Her abilities as a speaker cannot be surpassed, and her description of what she saw and heard while in England were both pleasing and profitable. Miss Strickland, in her sweet voice, sang some of those old familiar hymns which added very much to the exercises. Miss Strickland's first visit to this place will long be remembered by the many who heard her on this occasion, and we hope the day is not far distant when she will again visit us.—Com.

LAKEFIELD.

Cornwood is plenty, but no thaw yet.

Potatoes scarce—Irishmen despondent.

Our Reeve has returned from a railway bonus campaign.

Three more brick houses contracted for. We will soon claim Port Hope title,—"City of Bricks,"—although not so fast!

Our new village council held their second meeting on Monday evening, but could not get up courage to appoint their Clerk, Treasurer, Auditors, Assessors, Collector, and last, but not least, a village Constable. In future the council meetings will be held in Leonard's Hall.

A fire occurred on Tuesday morning about 4 a.m., by which the residence of Mr. James Tighe was levelled to the ground. No alarm seems to have been given and our worthy citizens were not on hand as usual to render assistance; our friend Hull's "Paboock" and Graham's "Squirt" was also missing. I learn that he saved part of his household effects.—no insurance,—loss about $500.

Our newly appointed and worthy Bailiff on his first official trip north met with an accident, which, although trifling to himself, almost proved fatal to his horse. While trying to turn out from a loaded team a short distance from Julien's Landing he upset and his horse bolted, running down to Julien's Landing and jumping over the wharf into the ice: strange to say both horse and cutter were uninjured, although the wharf is 6 to 8 feet high.

The promoters of the People's Christian Association have extended their labors to Young's Point, but with what result I cannot say; rumour says "Paddy" is converted.

DIVISION COURT.—The Sittings of the Fourth Division Court, County of Peterborough, will be held in the Village of Lakefield for 1877, as follows:—

Thursday,	March 8.
"	May 3.
"	July 5.
"	August 30.
"	October 26.

PRESENTATION.—At the annual meeting of School Section No. 4, those present agreed that a Gold Chain be presented to their late teacher, Mr. J. W. Graham, who has left to pursue his studies further at Ottawa. Accordingly Mr. Graham was made the recipient of a handsome chain.

INTERMEDIATE.—Of the 27 candidates at the late Intermediate Examination six have passed, viz:—W. A. Stratton, G. S. Beck, J. W. Dolaney, W. Elliott, Mary Maclennan, and Topsey Hall. It was expected that about 12 would have succeeded, but as six only have passed, the others will have to try again.

COWARDLY ASSAULTS.—When a candidate for high office is so well liked and so popular with the masses as to make his defeat difficult in a fair and honorable fight, mean old cowardly men are not wanting who delight in manufacturing lies and slandering his good name. There are also those whose selfishness prompt them to prostitute their honor, pervert truth, and ignore right, for the sake of injuring a competitor in business, whose prosperity they envy, and with whose business capacity they have not the talent to successfully compete in an honorable way. These incapables are supported by the mean, cowardly attacks made upon me and my medicines by those who imagine their pecuniary prospects injured by the great popularity which my stanch medicines have acquired, and the continued growth of my professional practice. Narrow minded practitioners of medicine, and manufacturers of preparations which do not possess an intent merit to successfully compete for popular favor, have resorted to such cowardly strategy as to publish all sorts of reflections upon the composition of my medicines. Almanac: "Hoofland's Book," and other pamphlets are issued and scattered broadcast over the land, wherein these contemptible knaves publish pretended analyses of my medicines, and receipts for making them. Some of these publications are given high sounding names, pretend to be issued by responsible men of education and position for the good of the people—the more completely to blind the reader to the real object in their circulation, which is to hinder the sale of my well known "The Popular Health Almanac" is the high sounding name of one of these publications, which contains bogus receipts, without a grain of truth in them. Not less cowardly of truth are those which have been published by one Dr. L of Detroit, in the Michigan Farmer, and other manufacturers of nostrums, in several so called journals of Pharmacy. They are all prompted by envy and cowardly fear in accomplishing the object of their authors, for, notwithstanding their free circulation, my medicines continue to sell much largely than any others manufactured in this country, and are constantly increasing in sale despite the base lies circulated and circulated by such knaves. The people find that these malicious pretended receipts, accomplish what their manufacturers promise them, and are not the "Humbugs" and "Quacks" that they are called by proprietors of nostrums and patent medicines, narrow-minded physicians and moonlighting compounders of medicines, compared with them to be. Among the large number of testimonials annually published, it is a significant fact that not a word have been published by anyone openly avowing the falsehoods of their authors. It is enough for the people to know that I am responsible, and I have only to say that I have taken my medicines and have been cured of — or that my family have been benefited by them, or that I have used them in my practice with success, and the people know that I am honest, and that my statements are true. Dr. Hoofland's Medicines, Worth Philadelphia.

The Hops of the Province of Ontario have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Parsley's Genuine Hop Bitters and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and comes from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever been half as successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand—It may be the means of saving your horse's life. Remember the name and the signature of Hurd & Co. is on Parsley's Genuine Hop Bitters and Arabian Heave Remedy." Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Wholesale Druggists for Canada. Sold by all Druggists.

The efficacy of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry in curing Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonic Affections, and closely allied complaints, has passed into a proverb. In the Backwoods, where these marvellous Wistar Cures are made, they bear down all opposition and defy competition; the demand for them has steadily increased for the last twenty years, until now the sales average over one hundred thousand bottles a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number admit that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as these Wistar Cures. When taken to cleanse they effect a permanent cure. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents per box.

THE GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different in gredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, being purely vegetable, is so harmless as to leave no bad beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula Erysipelas, Salt Rheum Canker, Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and cleanses the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to-day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivalled, it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the "Shoshonees Remedy." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cts. a box. 4-6in

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH THE TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID. There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is THOMAS ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportion or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made one thing produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids, consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

Markets by Telegraph.

(Reported for THE EXAMINER, and telegraphed by the Montreal Telegraph Co.)

Messrs. Dun, Wiman & Co. have issued their annual circular, containing a list of the failures of business houses during 1876. Referring to those in the Dominion the circular says:—"The failures during the year just past were 1,726 in number, with liabilities amounting to $25,517,691. While the failures are over two hundred less in number than in 1875, with a decrease of three millions of dollars in liabilities, both number and and amount continue to be exceptionally large, especially as compared with the preceding years. In 1873 the number of those who failed in Canada in proportion to the number engaged in business was 1 in every 47. In 1875 there was a failure in every 25 names reported in business, while in 1876, 1 in every 33. In the United States in 1873 the number was 1 in every 168; 1875, 1 in every 63; and in 1876, 1 in every 69. The average of liabilities in Canada for '76 was $14,698, and in 1876 the amount varied only very slightly, being $13,767. The results of the year's business do not encourage the belief that the conditions of trade in the Dominion have much improved. The number of traders who have added to their capital is comparatively few; those who have held their own are to be congratulated; while those who have diminished their surplus are not inconsiderable.

EARTH'S ANGELS.

I never saw an angel,
Except the one in books;
I don't believe a mortal
Knows how an angel looks.
We guess at something misty,
With trailing wings of white,
With amber tresses floating,
And garments strangely bright.

But I believe earth's angels,
Walk here in mortal guise,
Though we discern but faintly,
Through heavy-lidded eyes;
Or say them as they leave us,
When mantled hoods us bare,
Their angelhood quite hidden
Because it lived so near.

I can remember angels
Who seemed like common folks;
Who wore old-fashioned bonnets,
And faded winter cloaks;
Who came when fires dimester
Crowned some home meagre,
Or younger sisterhoods crowded
The door memorial lap.

I think of fireside angels,
Upon whose faded hair
There shone no crown as glory,
And yet the crown was there;
When tender love, true-hearted,
Forgave the wrongs it knew,
And patient voices gave answer
The days of trial through.

Ah, me! the childish angel
We beckons as I write:
Perchance I should not know him
In mystic robe of white.
He wears a schoolboy's jacket,
And cap, and boots, to me,
And when we walk at twilight,
His head against my knee.

There are dear mother angels;
We each perchance know one,
Whose robes of better glory
Are daily being spun.
With loving hands to guide us,
With loving speech to cheer,
Said I not well, earth's angels
Walk daily with us here!

Flower Garden &c.

LAWNS.—Sow seed upon thin spots. Do not mow too late, else there will not be enough grass to protect the roots.

LEAVES.—As a matter of neatness it is necessary to gather these from the paths, and it is well to collect from road-sides and elsewhere all that is at hand. They make the finest kind of manure as an absorbent in the cesspool, and a valuable addition to the compost heap.

EDGINGS bordering the paths should be cut and trim neatly all through the season, before freezing weather, and protect places where careless drivers are likely to encroach, by driving down stakes.

BULBS.—The earlier in the month these are planted the better start they will get before frost. If there are any tender bulbs yet in the ground, take up and store in a cool, dry place.

TENDER PLANTS.—The time for taking up these depends upon the locality. If any are still out, they must be cared for. When such plants are placed in a pit or cellar they should be shut up only when necessary to protect them.

HARDY PLANTS.—Divide and reset those needing it, if the ground remains open, as many will do better than if treated in spring.

GREENHOUSE AND WINDOW PLANTS—Whatever repairs are yet needed must be completed at once, as a sudden "cold snap" is likely to occur at any time.

Ventilation must be watched as soon as heat is given; during cold, windy days open the ventilators on the side opposite to which the wind blows.

Fumigation once or twice a week is necessary to keep the plants in good health. House plants may be smoked by placing them under a box or barrel.

Hanging Baskets if not watered frequently soon dry out, shower often and water thoroughly two or three times a week.

Climbers need to be kept tied up neatly to the rafters to look well. A few Passion flowers and other climbers are useful to furnish shade for ferns and other plants.

Camellias and Azaleas should have a cool place, where their flower buds will develope gradually. Shower the leaves occasionally, and if Camellias are wanted for the holidays, bring into heat at once.

How Much Clothing is Necessary

One person cannot decide for another. The comfort of the individual ought to settle the question. But sometimes the individual has become so demoralized in his or her instincts with regard to heat and cold, that the sensations at any hour are not a sufficient guide. When girls wore low-necked and short-sleeved dresses all winter, twenty years ago, they protested frequently, in the presence of brothers dressed in flannel and broadcloth, that they were quite warm enough. They would rather die than complain of their dainty shoes and be condemned to thicker soles. And die they did.

We must use common sense in the matter, and that bids us dress according to the weather—thinner in summer, thicker in winter, with varying degrees of thickness or thinness between. It bids us clothe our bodies somewhat equably throughout not pil'ing too much in one place and leaving other parts without sufficient protection. A chilly condition of the body is always attended with danger. If the surface of the body is unduly exposed to cold, the internal organs—lungs, liver, bowels, or some other organ or organs, upon whose action health depends—suffer in consequence. "Y." complains of not feeling well, thinks his liver is out of order, and wonders why, as his eating has been pretty regular, and not especially unwholesome. "J." thinks the dispensation not very mysterious, for "Y." dresses without much regard to the weather. In a hot spell he gets on just one thin unlined suit and when the weather changes and fires are necessary at morning and at night, he still goes out to do his early work, adding only a coat, if anything, and leaving his lower limbs covered with only one thickness of cotton or linen. He is chilled, but he "can stand it." He is not going to "baby" himself. Because it may, perhaps, be hot for a few hours at noonday, he dresses himself for hot weather. The blood is chilled, and the vital force impaired. Sudden exposures to severe cold are not more dangerous to health than long-continued chilliness, which thoughtless persons consider not worth minding.

STOP THE INTEREST.—Daniel Webster once dined with an old Boston merchant, and when they came to wine a dusty old bottle was carefully decanted by Peter and passed to the host. Taking the bottle he poured out Mr. Webster's glass and handed it to him. Then, pouring out another for himself, he held it to the light and said:

"How do you like it Mr. Webster?"

"I think it a very fine specimen of old port."

"Now, you can't guess what that cost me," said the host.

"Surely not," said Mr. Webster, "I only know that it is excellent."

"Well, now, I can tell you, for I made a careful estimate the other day. When I add the interest to the first price, I find that it cost me the sum of just $1.20 a glass!"

"Good gracious, you don't say so?" said Mr. Webster, and then draining his glass he hastily presented it again, with the remark;

"Fill it up again as quick as you can for I want to stop that confounded interest."

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINES triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. NO OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THE DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the Judges unanimously decided that the superior excellences of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the Judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the Board of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR EQUALLY DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN ATTEMPT TO MISLEAD THE PEOPLE. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.]

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," "for the following reasons:—"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch; ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display."

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reasons:—

"Superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of Repairing all classes of Sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the stencil line.

Come One! Come All! give Mitchell a call, Whose Sewing Machines are both large & small They are in appearance both handsome and neat And as for their work IT can't be beat: They do their work both neat and well, And at the "Centennial" they did Excel.

Office in W. H. Mitchell's harness shop, George Street Peterborough. I have all parts required for Machines, cheap.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, an Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with occasional dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which raised my appetite and gave me as in proved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and e tended labor such as chopping and clearing land at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER

Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. CHANGE.

Oh! the world is full of changes,
Full of joy, and pain, and tears,
Full of longing for the future,
Full of sorrowing for the years.
Life is full of strange devices,
Lights and sounds that chase the hours:
But a chance comes swiftly o'er us,
And we miss the yet remain.

Forms and faces glide before us,
As we journey on our way,
Faces that we seem to worship,
Forms that seem so right and fair.
But a change is gently stealing o'er us—
Those who worshipped charm no more,
And our hearts refuse to greet them
As we grabbed them of yore.

Heaven help us when affection
Turns to coldness and neglect;
When the face that smiled us welcome
Is with frowns alone to greet;
When the heart is dark with waiting
For a promise now fulfilled;
When we know that change has robbed us,
And our hallowed treasures chilled.

Heaven help us in our sorrow,
For no longer bides the storm,
And the days roll on in sadness,
Filled with wild and weird alarms.
Ah! we miss the voice that cheered us,
Through the long and dreary years,
Knowing that our hopes are blighted,
And our life henceforth a mass.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

On re-assembling in the afternoon the Warden stated that a deputation from the Collegiate Institute were in waiting, and a motion was carried that they be heard.

Mr. STEVENSON, Chairman of the Board, said that the burden of the Collegiate institute now bore so heavily on the Town, that they would have to charge fees unless some other aid was given. Owing to the cessation of the Government grant of $12 a head, they had to tax themselves largely for the Institute last year. About fifty boys from the County received a free education there, most of them for the purpose of preparing themselves as teachers for the country schools, so the County had a great interest in the matter. They did not like to go back to the system of fees, and they were glad to have pupils from the County, but unless the Council would assist them to a greater extent they would have no alternative, as the Town ratepayers were complaining bitterly of the school taxes.

Mr. JEFFERS, said that if they had had time they would have communicated with the Principal of the Norwood School to obtain his co-operation. The two institutions being 20 miles apart had each an ample field. He dwelt on the work that was done by the Institute in prepairing teachers for the schools in the County, which were almost wholly supplied in this manner. Mr. Crooks, the Minister of Education had the previous day advocated such aid from counties to the High Schools.

Mr. Cox spoke briefly in support of the application.

Dr. BURNHAM dwelt on the justice of their proposition, they only wanted a fair payment for the work they did for the County.

The application was referred to the Finance Committee.

The PRINCIPAL invited any member of the Council to pay a visit to the Collegiate Institute and judge for themselves the work done there.

The Council then adjourned till the following morning.

THURSDAY.

The Council met in the afternoon, having been busy with Committee business in the morning. Present the Warden and all the members of the Council except Major Boulton.

The minutes of the previous day were read and confirmed.

The WARDEN read a letter from Mr. C. A. Weller, asking for proper office accommodation as County Attorney and Clerk of the Peace, or an allowance of $100 a year.

Referred to the Property Committee.

Mr. BIRDSALL moved, seconded by Mr. CHOATE,—That the Warden and Treasurer be instructed to ascertain whether any fines within the last six years by the Police Magistrate or other Magistrates in the Town of Peterborough which should have been paid over to the County Treasurer have been paid in error or otherwise to the Treasurer of the Town of Peterborough; and if on examination it appears that any such fines have been so paid, to demand from the Town Treasurer the repayment thereof to this County.—Carried.

Mr. CHOATE moved, seconded by Mr. BURGESS,—That the appeal as to S. S. No. 5, Harvey, be referred to the School Committee.—Carried.

Mr. MOLONEY brought in the report of the Committee on schools, recommending that in the matter of the appeal of Wm. Wood, W. H. Hall, and Joseph McGee, trustees of S. S No. 5, Muncipality of Harvey, a committee consisting of the County Judge, County Inspector and the Warden be appointed to consider the matter of said appeal.

The report was adopted.

Mr. COLLINS brought in the report of the Committee on the Appointment to Office, recommending as follows:—

TRUSTEES NORWOOD HIGH SCHOOL,—Dr. Ford and Mr. W. Burgess.

BOARD OF AUDIT,—Messrs. M. Sanderson and John Carnegie.

COUNTY ENGINEER.—James Bird.

GAOL SURGEON,—Dr. Kincaid.

CARETAKER,—James McWilliams.

The report was adopted.

A by-law making the above appointments was passed through all its stages.

The claim of the Norwood High School for the usual annual grant was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. MILLER brought in the report of the Road and Bridge Committee which recommended:—

1. That the Clerk be requested to write to Mr. Fairbairn, Reeve of Verulam, with reference to the new bridge at Bobcaygeon, authorizing him to have notices put up on the bridge forbidding fast driving over the same.

2. That an appropriation of $2,500 be made for the purpose of repairing the several leading roads and bridges throughout the County—the said sum of $2,500 to be divided amongst the several municipalities in proportion to their equalized value last year, and that in addition thereto, $50 be paid to each of the municipalities of Galway and Harvey, and that the Reeves and Deputy-Reeves of the several municipalities be Commissioners for the expenditure of the same.

3. That the County Engineer make arrangements for procuring the gates thinking which will be required for the repair of the Lakefield, Locks, and Bridges during the ensuing season.

4. That this Council pay one-half of the cost of a new bridge over the Crow River, in [illegible] bridge over the Crow to this County, provided the cost that the Municipality expend $400, and tribute the balance necessary to construct a substantial bridge and that a grant of this Council for that purpose be rescinded, and that the County Engineer be appointed to see to the construction of the same.

5. That this Council pay one-half of the cost of a new bridge over Eel's Creek at Brown's Falls in Burleigh, provided the cost to this County do not exceed $150.

5. That the services of the caretakers of the several County bridges be dispensed with except those for Mud Lake and Pigeon Creek bridges and the swing bridges over the Otonabee River.

7. That no action be taken with regard to the petition of John Welsh and 68 others praying for the erection of a bridge over the Otonabee River at Robinson's Island.

8. That Messrs. Brown, Moloney, and Lang be appointed a Committee to examine the bridge over the Indian River on the Boundary Line and take such action as they may deem expedient.

On the motion for the adoption of the report, Mr. COLLINS moved in amendment that from the second clause be struck out the portion as to $2,500 for roads, as it was just the same as taking the money from their Township Treasurers.

Mr. CHOATE supported the report, as the Townships could thus get the work done earlier.

Mr. MILLAR said if the amendment were carried he would vote against all the grants.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried.

Mr. GOLBORNE brought in the report of Special Committe appointed to consider the petition of the Village of Norwood or incorporation, recommending that the prayer be granted.

The By-law incorporation the village was read a first time.

Mr. BELL moved, seconded by Mr. CHOATE,—That a by-law to dispense with the levying of a tax on dogs, be read a first time.

The WARDEN reported verbally for the committee appointed to consider the subject, that the present by-law empowered the dog tax to be paid into the general fund of the County. If they did away with the by-law the operation of the Act would be revived, and the municipalities would have to pay for sheep.

The motion was lost on a division—7 to 7.

A by-law to confirm a by-law of the Township of Dummer to allow of the construction of a road there less than 60 feet wide, was passed through all its stages.

Mr. MILLAR moved, seconded by Mr. LANG,—That the Council grant $200 to be expended on the line between Lots 26 and 27, in Concession 9, on the leading road from Peterborough to Norwood, provided the Township of Otonabee gives an equal sum.

Mr. BIRDSALL thought the Township of Otonabee should be induced to spend some money on this part of the road which lengthened the distance.

Mr. COLLINS thought the Township might do it themselves. Other Townships had leading roads and did not ask assistance.

The motion was withdrawn.

The Council then adjourned till next morning.

FRIDAY.

All the members of the Council present.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and confirmed.

On motion W. Hamilton was heard before the Council in reference to a to a claim he had against the county.

Mr. Deanistoun said that he appeared before the Council on behalf of Mr. Hamilton. He asked that as a matter of justice Mr. Hamilton be paid this account.

Moved by Mr. Choate, seconded by Mr. Miller,—That $50 be paid to Wm. Hamilton as payment in full of his claim for expenses, plans, etc., and examining bridges, said sum being County's share of said expense; as it is the opinion of this Council in case proceedings be taken by Mr. Hamilton costs will be incurred in addition to payment of said sum.

Mr. Collins said that it was not the committee who authorized Mr. Hamilton to do this work, it was Mr Stevenson, and Mr. Rogers was their Warden He moved that if Mr. Roger would certify to the amount that he be paid; and Mr. Rogers refused to do so. He said that this had been kept in the dark like the $425, and that when Mr. Hamilton had been refused this sum three times, now he must understand that the Council will not pay the amount until compelled to do so.

Mr. Deanistoun said that the work was done by the authority of Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Rogers, and Mr. Hamilton was of the opinion at the time that they were the proper persons to have the authority of doing so.

Mr. Millar and Mr. Birdsall were in favor of paying Mr. Hamilton.

The motion was then put and lost.

Moved by Mr. Choate, seconded by Bell,—That the vote of yesterday on the question of dispensing with the tax on dogs be reconsidered.

The motion was withdrawn.

Moved by Mr. Millar, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the County Engineer be requested to examine the Wallace Point Bridge, and have it put in a state of repair if required, as it is reported that some of the stringers are unsound.—Carried.

A by-law was introduced and passed providing for the expenditure of the following sums on the roads and bridges in the County of Peterborough, as follows:—

Asphodel	$294 59
Ashburnham	66 00
Lakefield	45 40

The report was received and adopted.

Moved by Mr. GOLBORNE, seconded by Mr. MILLER,—That the Clerk be instructed to procure a supply of ice for the County use during the coming summer.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. GOLBORNE, seconded by Mr. LANG.—That the Clerk be instructed to notify the caretakers of certain bridges, that their services are no longer required.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned until the following morning.

SATURDAY.

The Council met this morning. The Warden in the chair, and all the members present.

Mr. Birdsall moved, seconded by Mr. Choate,—That the Warden and Treasurer are hereby authorized to obtain from the banks, money on their notes from time to time, as the expenses of the County require, and that the seal of the County be hereto affixed, so as to give this motion the force of a by-law.—Carried.

SCHOOL LIBRARIES AND SCHOOL PRIZE BOOKS.

In the Provincial Legislature, Mr. Bethune has moved for certain returns with a view to the abolition of the government bookstore,an institution that has for sometime been losing the confidence of the country The object is the supplying of schools with cheap books and apparatus, including library and prize books. This is done by an allowance of over one hundred per cent on the orders of school trustees over a certain amount,the country thus paying one-half the price put upon the books, or more than half their worth. Fo a time the "Depository" as it is called, interfered largly (that is more than at present) with the regular book trade ; but now those book-sellers who make application to, and are approved of by the Department, are allowed a refund of half the purchase money to trustees, to be afterwards collected from the public chest This has enabled trustees generally to avoid the troubles and disappointments, which have become notorious in connection with the government depository, by ordering from their local book-sellers ; who in turn were supplied by wholesale firms having the connection we have mentioned with the Department. By these means there can be no doubt books and apparatus are supplied cheaply to those who avail themselves of the half-price terms offered, while at the same time the sellers obtain the regular price for their wares. But unless all school sections order to an equal extent, which is an utter impossibility, there is a manifest injustice in the arrangement ; and so soon as orders were equalized (if such a thing were possible) there would be no advantage to any one, excepting the favoured firms approved of by the Department. In the mere matter of school text books and apparatus, this perhaps makes little difference, and hence is useless ; for there are certain firms which make the supply of these a speciality to the general exclusion of others, and most of these firms are already given the one hundred per cent privilege by the government. But when we come to consider the supply of school libraries and prize-books for schools, other points present themselves of sufficient importance to claim the attention of the members of the Legislature in connection with Mr. Bethune's action in the matter. On these we propose to dwell briefly with a view to arousing discussion upon them.

The offering of prizes for competition is admitted in only a very small proportion of the Public Schools of the Province, and it is well known that a large percentage of the teachers, probably a considerable majority of them, consider prizes an injury, and not a benefit to schools. This being the opinion of those best able to judge in the case, and the fact existing, that trustees generally, whether from the same opinion or no opinion at all on the subject, do not order prize books, it will at once be apparent that the few school prizes purchased are largely paid for by those who not only ignore them, but to a considerable extent by those who are opposed on principle to prizes being given in the schools. Thus the whole community, certainly largely non-participating, if not directly opposing, is taxed to support a system outrageous to those who view it as an abuse, and which if looked at in the light of a benefit is at best a very questionable one.

When we turn to an examination of the facts in connection with school libraries we are confronted the more promptly by the actual waste engendered by the system of government purchases, or partial purchases, of books. All the objections which can be urged in the case of prize books stand good against the investment of Provincial funds in school section libraries, which are besides the means whereby a large amount of money is as good as thrown away. One of these libraries being obtained in the imperfectly defensible way we have already mentioned, it must to effect its purpose, be first well kept, and then well used. The proper care of a library for public use requires no inconsiderable amount of attention and actual labour. For this a librarian must be found. This office usually devolves on the teacher, who is always expected to perform the duties gratuitously, and to make a sacred trust and labour of love of a business which is anything but sacred in its character or lovely in its details. The office being undertaken from a sort of moral compulsion rather than from choice, the work is seldom or never looked on as a duty, and certainly not as a pleasure. It is consequently but ill done, and this, to a public library especially, is fatal. Carelessness on all hands is inevitable. The books taken while the novelty lasts, if damaged cannot be restored or replaced by new ones ; for the same forces which drove the teacher to become librarian prevents him from enforcing penalties. Soon the interest in the library flags ; the books are never taken off the shelves ; or if taken are not returned. It is no one business to see them restored, and the difficulty is increased by a frequent change of teachers. Thus the best, anyway the most popular books are lost, the library is broken, and soon falls into discredit, and becomes a mere monument of the waste of public funds. Whenever the system of school-section libraries have been tried it has been found simply wasteful and perishing. During the past forty years the State of New York has spent—next to squandered—over two millions of dollars by it, and it is now, there as here, nearly defunct. In Michigan the result has been similar ; and though we have not statistics of the amount spent in Canada under this system, we know it must be something enormous, and we hope the returns asked for by Mr. Bethune will include such expenditure. We trust also that in the discussion that is soon to arise these points will not be neglected ; and that not only the government book-store, but the whole system of the one hundred per cent rebate will be done away with. The book trade would then be restored to its [illegible] sections of state foundation ; and [illegible], freed school prizes and encouragement of a from the [illegible]dy, can be settled on [illegible]ve and distinctive merits.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

Some time ago the Irish Canadian, speaking professedly for the special interests of the Irish Catholics, and pretending to do so under the sanction of the Archbishop of Toronto, uttered such meanderings of partisan rage and national prejudice as lead the Archbishop to publish a letter disclaiming any sympathy whatever with the mad sentiments of the journal in question. Archbishop Lynch, unlike some of his brother prelates in Quebec, has always been opposed to the allowing of his church and her affairs into the politics of the country, knowing full well that as a bone of party contention it can only be torn and knawed by this politician or that, till cast aside as useless or snatched by a rival disposed to deal similarly with it. In this way whatever spiritual sublimity it may have can only be sullied, contaminated and perhaps obliterated by the dust and mud of wordly ambitions mammon-baited struggles. The glory, honor, and advancement of the Catholic Church being presumedly the chief desire and aim of Archbishop Lynch, and he, being shrewd enough to perceive its use as an instrument of political warfare, (with or without the consent of its priests and prelates,) tends only to its degration and destruction, has frequently taken occasion to warn his people from the. danger of ecclesiastico-political action. Seeing a danger of this kind to his church at the present time, he took occasion to speak upon public questions at a charitable concert held last week at Uxbridge. As regards the political position of his church he said :—

"Some say that the Catholic Church is eminently conservative ; others that she is always reforming. I say that she is both. She is always conserving the faith confided to her by Christ, and constantly reforming the morals of her children. There are abuses in the world that require reformation, and to conserve these evils because they are old and customary would be a great crime. The Council of Trent has some chapters and canons on reformation of morals ; it has none, however, on reforming the faith of the Church, which is irreformable because it is the the faith of Jesus Christ. St. Charles Borromeo was a learned Bishop and a great reformer of the lax morals that crept into his diocese by the evils of the times, and perhaps by the negligence of his predecessors. St. Peter of Alcantara, St. John of the Cross, Ste. Teresa, were great reformers of the religious orders. Now, if the conduct of Churchmen required to be reformed from time to time, who will say that politicians are so perfect that they need no watching or reformation in matters connected with the government of the country? We are Conservatives in all that is good, Reformers in all that tends to evil ; so that we can be good Reformers in politics, and good Conservatives in religion."

Referring to Roman Catholics who try to make their religion a means whereby they may obtain office or scramble into power, he spoke as follows :—

"I would advise our people, Catholics especially, to endeavour to make a comfortable home for themselves and there children, and to educate them well before they began to meddle much in politics, except to cast their votes, and then in favor of the party that they conscientiously consider will best administer the affairs of the nation. Some, too soon and very imprudently, seek after civic and parliamentary honors at the expense of their own business, and almost ruin themselves and their families. It is preferable to have honors trust upon us than to be running a bread-neck chase after them."

Later in his address, as if not satisfied with the disclaimer he had formerly made as regards the Irish Canadian, he delivered an indirect yet well understood rebuke to that journal upon denouncing "Scotch ascendancy", and claiming peculiar privileges for Irish Catholics on the ground of their religion and nationality. His words on this point are thus reported :—

"I highly honor the Scotch element ; they are our own kith and kin. Scotland was peopled from Ireland, and they retain the old Irish langu ge called Gaelic ; they are of the old Celtic race. one of the most ancient of Europe. They retain all the noble characteristics of their origin, with the addition, too, of a hardy, canny character, superinduced by the severe climate and food of bonny Scotland. Besides this, the Scotch have had for centuries the blessings of an education and a religious training of their own choice, denied to the Irish. Unfortunately, too many of the Irish people were driven from their own country, if it may be called such in a state of poverty and illiteracy, owing to laws most oppressive on the laboring classes, which had nigh crushed their warm, generous, hospitably nature. These qualities, together with their grandeur of soul in surmounting difficulties that would have appalled a people of His richness of blood, have stood them well in their adopted home. Beginning from nothing, they have, notwithstanding, created holdings for themselves and their families in this country as well as in the United States. Thirty years ago you would see but few Irish names as members of the learned professions, of Parliament, or of Congress. Now, on looking over the general almanacs of this year, I find Irish names by the hundreds in every walk of life. The seminary of the Church is filled by the sons of Irishmen, some in the highest offices ; and our convents are crowded with the noble and self-sacrificing daughters of the island of saints.

From this it will be seen that Archbishop Lynch deprecates the idea that the Irish Catholic portion of our population should beg for themselves privileges which others have won by their energy and perseverance, based upon superior earlier advantages ; and would rather encourage them to enter fairly upon the race for honors that many of them have already won, and all who are really able, energetic, and persevering may win in this free and independent country, be their creed or country what it may. They are noble sentiments, and while we may differ from Dr. Lynch in religious matters, we can still honour him for his manly utterances of a universal truth.

THE SCOTT SCANDAL.

The Tory organs are just now professing a great deal of virtuous indignation over the acceptance of a fee in the Scott case by a partner of the Attorney-General, though Mr. Mowat has declared he received none of it, directly or indirectly. Be this as it may, from the way in which the Conservative prints put the case it appears that such leading Opposition members of the House as Mr. M. C. Cameron and Hon. Wm. McDougall were fully guilty of accepting fees in the same case before the Government. This accepting retainers by members of the House on either side for the conducting of Government business is wholly indefensible ; but the Opposition prints quite recently lose sight of the offence [illegible]number of their party friends. [illegible] the Reform of eminent counsel [illegible] were doubtless and Conservative [illegible]ope that their political engaged [illegible] tend to carry the applications for so-called redress to a successful issue. Indeed Mr. T. H. Scott, who is pushing his claim with what motives we shall afterwards see, acknowledges that Mr. McLellan was engaged after thought of political bearings ; and probably other Reformers were retained on like considerations. If so, the claimant, Mr. T. H. Scott, made a big mistake in the men he would fain have influenced politically. The question was doubtless considered on its legal and equitable merits, without regard to who were Counsel, or what the amount of fee promised them in case of success, and Mr. Scott failed to get the prize for which he has been long and persistently working.

Would the opposition organs which have taken Mr. T. H. Scott to their bosoms be surprised to learn that the creditors of the estate of his deceased brother refused to enter with him upon an attempt to regain the forfeited $26,000, even though he boasted of his political influence with the Government ?

Would they be surprised to learn that these creditors, who were the most directly interested parties, thought so little of the success of the proposed attempt that they readily assigned their claims (considered by them worthless) to Mr. T. H. Scott, that he on his own responsibility and at his own expense might "vindicate the memory of his late brother ?"

Would they be surprised to learn that the general opinion in Peterborough is that the letters to the Mail dated from this town are not written here at all ?

Would they be surprised to learn that the whole political bubble is the addition of a larger quantity of wind than was given smaller ones of the same kind. Mr. T. H. Scott blew behind the scenes till it burst ?

Would they be surprised to learn that Mr. T. H. Scott is angry because he has not got that $26,000 ; and, that being thus angry, he threatens to go over to the Opposition and use his vast influence for the overthrow of the Government that would not buy his fealty at the figure named ?

Would they be surprised to learn that the Reform party is not shaken to its centre ; and that the Government is actually likely to survive the onslaught ?

Would they be surprised to learn that Mr. T. H. Scott never was a Reformer, and that his efforts to maintain a strong friendliness to Reformers had something to do with other than political interests ?

Would they be surprised to learn that Mr. T. H. Scott had a view to a portion of this $26,000 as far back as the last election, when he and his friends button-holed candidates and ministers in order to get quid pro-quo for pretended support, a support that never was accorded.

THE LAUGHTER OF LAKEFIELD.

In confirmation of a general theory of ours that so-called "Independent" newspapers are but Tory journals in disguise, we took occasion in a recent issue to point for proof to the action of one of these concerns located in Lakefield. In doing so we compared its ridiculous assumption of honesty, in first professing independence, and afterwards declaring itself rigorously Tory, to the antics of a clown in the circus ring, likened its utterances to those of one who plays the fool ; and being amused rather than pained at its lordly tone of harlequin honor and stage dignity, we chose rather to dwell on them than allude particularly to the phase of the affair which will readily bear the harsher terms of hypocrisy, deception and knavery. The "honest" editor of the "honest" sheet to which we thus alluded, being doubtless pricked in his soul, accepts our bandinage as so much earnest reproof, and applies as direct names for himself the nouns appearing in our similies—well, we did not intend to call him fool, hypocrite, knave, etc., but as he should know what terms best apply to himself, we of course must accept his amendment and let it be as he wishes.

When done applying hard names to himself this seeker after the honor of being noticed declares that "in fact" we state "that the News never was an 'independent journal'." That is just where the fact comes in ; and what we did wish to convey and now say again is, that in the proper sense of the word the News never was independent. The manager on his "own confession was all along a Tory and the assertion in his last issue that up to the time he was convinced it was owned by one man it was conducted on a thoroughly independent basis" is no doubt made with the best intentions to be near the truth. But how a Tory striving to disguise his principles, simply because of ownership by more than one man, can consider himself independent is hard for ordinary people to see. He could not better his mind, however foolishly he might try ; and the consequence was that so far from carrying out his own definition of independent journalism, viz:—the criticism of both parties—we instinctively copied criticisms of one to the exclusion of uncomplimentary references to the other. In short he mixed with avidity upon any complaint of the action of Reformers, but his independent vision was not strong enough to see analogous reference to the Conservatives. It seems that he is ab fur conscious of this defect as to now think it necessary voluntarily to make the excuse that "a Conservative Government is not in power, consequently it is impossible to pass judgment on that party." Such a thing might be impossible for him ; but surely not for a true Independent.

As for the reference to our "apology" to another "independent" sheet we have only to ask ;—If our offer to apologize rather than pay all the costs is so worthy of scorn, what must be said of the paper that tendered an apology without any danger of being called on for any costs, and then criticises us for our generous offer ? It is too funny altogether !

Perhaps the best joke in connection with this amusing little side-show at Lakefield is the evident pride inspired by our former notice. We only noticed it in the first place as a "frightful example" of the real Toryism of pretended Independence ; and again allude to the meanness which has inflicted it as a warning. This our duty done, we now let it gently slide back to the oblivion from which for a good purpose we had raised it. We notice a meeting of "leading Conservatives" last week expressed confidence in it, and we know the Reformers [illegible] so far has died that the benefactor [illegible]one is pleased taken to the open[illegible]than before ; and that things are [illegible]ion for dissatisfaction, we, having to say, "Ephraim is joined to his idols ; let him alone."

THE HURON & QUEBEC RAILWAY.

By Special Telegraph from our Correspondent.

A large and influential deputation from the Counties through which the Huron & Quebec Railway is to pass, saw Mr. Mowat on yesterday afternoon, in favor of the proposed road. They were introduced by Mr. W. H. Scott. Mayor Wallace of Ottawa presented the claims of the scheme. Mr. A. H. Campbell representing Marmora interests. John Burnham, Esq., Warden, Wm. Tools, Esq., Mayor, and J. Carnegie representing this Town and County ; Mr. Bredin of Carleton Place ; Mr. Spence of Carleton, Mr. Radenhurst of Perth County ; Ex-Alderman Turner of Toronto ; and Mr. Brown of Asphodel, were among the deputation. Messrs. Boulter, D. O'Donehue, Deroche and Mostyn, M. P. P's., were also present and supported the claims of the Road.

Mr. Mowat expressed his pleasure at meeting the deputation, and said they had certainly made out a pretty strong case as to the importance of the road in developing the mineral wealth of the country, and also as far as its local benefits were concerned. He said he had no doubt but that the road would be built and prove of great advantage to the country at large. What the Government would be able to do, he could not of course state at present, but they would carefully consider the statements made, and any papers that might be laid before them, and come to such a conclusion as would be for the advantage of the localities interested, and the country at large.

WARDEN'S SUPPER.

A PLEASANT EVENING AT THE "SMITH HOUSE."

The newly-elected Warden of the County of Peterborough, John Burnham, Esq., on Tuesday evening last entertained the members of the County Council and officials, the Ashburnham Council and a number of friends. The Town Council were invited but not one filed an appearance. Mr. Croft laid himself out to "do himself proud" on the occasion, and he succeeded to the fullest extent, proving himself a purveyor of the first class.

The chair was occupied by the host of the evening, Mr. Burnham, who had as his assistants Messrs. R. Birdsall and J. Millar.

After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the loyal and patriotic toasts usual on such occasions were given and responded to heartily.

After discussing several topics of trade, railways, etc., in the interests of the country generally, Mr. R. E. Birdsall, Reeve of Asphodel, in a few eulogistic remarks proposed the health of the Warden, Mr. Burnham. This was heartily received with all the honors "for he's a jolly good fellow."

In reply Mr. Burnham expressed the pleasure he felt at meeting with his colleagues in social session. He regarded with satisfaction the harmony that existed in the Council, all seemed to labor for the interest of the County as a whole, rather than being influenced by any sectional feeling—a state of affairs which he hoped would long continue.

The toasts of the "Press," "Ladies," and "Host and Hostess," concluded a very interesting evening, the County rulers having enjoyed to the fullest their annual re-union.

THE HURON AND QUEBEC RAILWAY.

CONTEMPORARY OPINIONS.

(From the Globe.)

"The Toronto and Ottawa will be the carrier eastward of through traffic collected by the Great Western, the Credit Valley, and Canada Southern, and of local business from the Northern, Toronto, Grey & Bruce, Nipissing, Midland, and Grand Junction—in short, of every road except the grand Trund runing either from the west on north between Detroit and its eastern terminus. It would be difficult to find a railway scheme that promised more direct and immediate returns for the outlay than may be assured from the very outset to the Toronto and Ottawa, while it may be assumed that of all the experience accruing from the knowledge now possessed of economical railway construction the projected road will derive the fullest benefits."

(From the St. Thomas Journal)

This railway project still keeps fresh before the public, and with the construction of the Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec road its advantages are manifest enough. Two rival parties to the seaboard will ere long be looked upon as a necessity by the business community of Western Ontario, and if aid is needed to push on the Toronto and Ottawa link it will be forthcoming.

(From the Ottawa Free Press.)

Our special correspondent at Toronto informs us that the promoters of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway desire the Province to contribute the sum of $3,120,000—$12,000 a mile for 260 miles—towards the construction of the railway as a colonization road. Certainly there is no railway scheme before the country with a better title to be so considered, or that can offer a greater certainty not only of proving a financial success, but of conferring great benefits upon the Province by the development of a large and important section of the country. The Provincial Legislature will certainly be justified in contributing largely and liberally to establish this important element of growth and prosperity, but while perhaps this community is most largely interested in seeing this road in operation, we trust the Government of Mr. Mowat will exercise the greatest discretion and caution in dealing with the subject of monetary aid. It will be necessary to enquire very closely into the position of those who have assumed charge of the important scheme. The President of the Company which has acquired the charter, in Mr. W. H. Scott, M. P. P. for Peterboro,' and is no doubtful whether occupying his position as a public representative, he is in a position to enter into contract with the Government, or to be interested in a project which seeks to obtain three millions of money from the coffers of the Legislature of which he is a member. As we have pointed out before, if the Government and the Legislature are to contribute the whole cost of the road, Mossrs Scott and Boulter ought not to be placed in the position of owing the Nos. If the Province contributes three millions of dollars, it is fair to ask the Provincial authorities also to reserve a proprietary interest in the investment. A scheme for the colonization of the important section of the Province between Ottawa and Toronto, is of the greatest importance to the people of all Ontario ; but if it is to be a scheme for colonizing the pockets of Mr. Scott, M. P. P., it will look different matter. We are of the opinion that the Government itself might undertake the construction of the road in the interest of the Province, and that, in such a scheme, economies of the interest would be that unobtainable, if [illegible] to make advances, much more [illegible]ral in doing so. Mr. and much entertaining this scheme, will Mowat to require the production of the stockholders in the proposed undertaking, the amount subscribed, and the capital paid up. If it should appear that a few individuals merely desire to be furnished with capital for their private benefit by the Provincial and municipal authorities, a new aspect will be given to the case, that will require the attention of the Legislature.

(From the Perth Expositor.)

It is reported that the company are asking the Government for a grant of $12,000 per mile for 260 miles equal to $3,120,000. As the distance from Toronto to Prescott is only 220 miles, this would provide for a complete line with out using other roads. The Ottawa "Free Press" thinks that if any such large bonus is given, the Company which would control it should show a large paid up capital. It also suggests the Government management of the road, but this would be a great mistake, and would prevent the use of a large amount of private capital.

(From the Carleton Place Central Canadian)

At the request of Wr. W. H. Scott, President of the Huron & Ottawa Railway Company, the municipalities interested in the construction of this line are appointing delegates to confer with the Government during the present session, for the purpose of bringing their united influence to bear upon that body to grant Provincial aid to the project. The Premier has already given the promise that,on being assured the municipal corporations along the line earnestly desire its construction, liberal aid to the scheme would also be given from the public funds. It is with this object in view, therefore,that these deputations are being sent to Toronto. The City of Ottawa is sending its mayor ; the Town of Peterborough its mayor and others; Belmont and Dummer and other municipalities are also sending influential depotations. At the last meeting of the Asphodel Council, Messrs W. E. Boxburgh and John P. Brown were appointed delegates in this matter.

(From the same)

A most important and influential meeting of the rate-payers was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening last, called by Councillors Murphy and Sibbitt for the purpose of appointing delegates in conjunction with the various municipalities along the proposed route of the Huron & Quebec Railway, to convene at Toronto, and wait upon the Attorney-General with the object of securing Government aid for the Road. Mr. Graham was chosen Chairman, and Mr. Poole, Secretary. After a very proper discussion as to the qualifications of the delegates, Messrs. Wm. Bredin and Duncan McLaren were unanimously chosen, with specific instructions to countenance no route but the northern. The names of Messrs. McArthur and Lowe were also favorably mentioned, but they courteously declined the honor. Mr. Code and Dr. Mostyn were also added to co-operate with our Municipal delegates in the interests of the scheme. This is a very intelligent and influential deputation, and we have no doubt that with the names of representatives mentioned elsewhere, together with others who may be appointed, a very large number may be present. They meet in Toronto next Tuesday.

CROWN LANDS.

The Crown Lands report issued from the Department includes the months of November and December, 1875, and the whole of 1876. In the latter year the sales of Crown Lands were 51. 387 acres for $56,704, and the collections were $82,254. The sales of clergy lands were 7,255 acres. for $1s,370, and the collections were $41,934. The sales of common school lands were 2,039 acres, for $6,767, and the collections were $56.282. The sales of grammar school lands were 3,511 acres. for $5,139, and the collections were $10,586. The total collections in the Department in 1876 amounted to $637,570, of which $521,214 may be considered as revenue. The disbursements of the Department came to $179,855. There were 2,535 patents in 1876, against 2,128 in 1875. Eighty-nine townships are now open for location of free grant townships. 1,463 locations were made in 1876 on 192,858 acres of free-grant land, and 546 patents was issued. The accrual for timber dues, ground rents, etc., was $362,398, and the amount collected $437,998. The lumber trade suffered depression during the year, and there can hardly be any marked improvement in 1877. The Commissioner recommends curtailment of production. The expenditure on colonization roads was $86,264. Instructions were issued for the surveys of the Townships of Himsworth, Harrison, Burton, Patterson, McClintock, Sinclair, Burpee, Livingston, Shawanaga, part of Bedford, the residue of Oakley, part of Methuen and Chandos. Instructions were issued for 23 municipal surveys. The quantity of mineral lands sold on the North shores of Lakes Superior and Huron was 3,542 acres.

THE "DOMINION ACCOUNTANT."—Mr. S. G. Beatty, Principal of the Ontario Business College, in this town, has published a very valuable work bearing the title above quoted. It is devoted to the science of accounts, giving a thoroughly practical system of book-keeping. and besides a through elucidation of the subject by the methods shown to be the best by modern experience. contains highly useful forms of business correspondence, mercantile forms, and much valuable information on cognate subjects. Included in the work is a valuable new feature, namely, a system of keeping the books of a municipality, devised by Mr. J. W. Johnson, of this town. who is a skilled accountant. The book is the most thorough and comprehensive ever issued in Canada, and those who know Mr. Beatty's qualifications for his task, which are of the highest order, would expect nothing less at his hands. As the work is worthy of a large sale, we hope that it will be extensively circulated, and widely studied and made use of, as it deserves to be.—Belleville Intelligencer.

MR. BARNUM IN HIGH FEATHER.—His agents have returned from Europe with good news. One of Mr. Barnum's characteristics is to select the most intelligent and reliable agent "without regard to cost," and indeed those filling the most important positions are usually awarded a per centage on the profits of the show, besides their salaries. The agents whom he despatched to Europe three months ago were Messrs. Geo. Bailey, the well known manager from Danbury, and his associate Lewis Jone of Ridgefield. These gentlemen are thoroughly conversant with every department of the show business, having had long experience and being possessed of mature judgement. They are both men of means, and as they are Mr. Barnum's managers they are doubtless allowed a per centage on the net income of "the greatest show on earth." They were given a carte blanche by Mr. Barnum, who directed them to explore Great Britain and the continent with a view of his taking his show across the Atlantic the present season, and if they found this impracticable then to purchase and engage such real novelties as would make his present show doubly attractive. They found themselves at sea in Great Britain too low to pass his chariots, unless lower ones were built for that purpose. They made arrangements by which such ones can be built in time for next year if Mr. B. so decides. Meanwhile they purchased and engaged sure novelties for his [illegible]this country the coming season, which the great showman declares will by far eclipse anything ever seen under canvas in America. Over these curtains added to his present show Mr. Barnum is in ecstacies. He promises to give the public full particulars in a few weeks.

VOTER'S LIST.

The principle of the bill relating to voters' lists introduced by Mr. Hodgins places the law in Ontario nearly or almost on a footing with that in Great Britain—by rendering the voters' lists final as regards the claims of the electors to vote except in certain cases specified. The first-class roads as follows :—

The voters' list, certified by the County Judge, pursuant to section six, or finally revised and corrected by the County Judge, pursuant to section eight of "The Voters' List Act of 1876," and this Act shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be final and conclusive to all intents and purposes ; and no question in regard to the right to vote shall be raised or decided on an election petition except as to :—

(a) Persons under the age of twenty-one years ;

(b) Persons not subjects of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization ;

(c) Persons disqualified from voting under sections two and three of "The Election Law of 1867 ;"

(d) Persons voting twice ;

(e) Persons guilty of corrupt practices ;

(f) Persons non resident as defined in the oath for voters in respect of income, and in the oath for voters in respect of real property.

The next section is strictly in accordance with British practice, the County Judge in Ontario occupying the position under the present Act of the "Revising Barristers" in England, from whose decisions lie an appeal to the Court of Common Pleas, Section two reads as follows :—

2. Any complainant, respondent, or voter, or person claiming to be a voter, dissatisfied with any decision of the County Judge, on any point of law in any case material to the result of such decision or case, may within two days after such decision, or within such further time as the said County Judge may grant, give to the said County Judge, to the clerk of the municipality, and to the opposite party, (if any) concerned or appearing in such case, a notice in writing that he appeals to one of the Superior Courts (naming it) from such decision ; and thereupon the said County Judge shall state in writing the facts which according to his judgment, have been established in evidence in the case, and which are material to the matter in question, and shall also state in writing, his decision on the whole case, and on the point of law in question appealed against ; or the said County Judge may, if he thinks fit, with the consent of the parties appearing before him, settle and state a special case for the opinion of such superior Courts on any point of law affecting any cases before him.

The effect of the foregoing is to avoid the inconvenience of conflicting decisions the judgment of the Superior Court being of course binding on all County Judges, who are not otherwise subject to any higher authority than there own individual opinions. By this manner the many points affecting the status of the voter are finally determined, and the law reduced to a system which admits of the fewest possible number of appeals or irregularities. The other sections of the Act apply to the machinery for giving effect to the intentions of the statue and the method of procedure.

HEBREW MARRIAGE.

(From Friday's "Mail."

The Synagogue, on Richmond street, was yesterday afternoon filled by a large gathering which assembled to witness the marriage of Miss Frances Samuel, daughter of Mr. L. Samuel, of Messrs, M. & L. Samuel, of Young street, to Mr. A. Goodman, of New York. Previous to the ceremony, Mr. L. Cohe ; the Secretary, led the congregation in the afternoon prayers. About half-past four Rev. L. Harfeld took his position in front of the ark, and the bridegroom, surrounded by his best men, Messrs. Goodman, Jacob Samuel, Block, and Saunders, took his place under the canopy which was supported by four gentlemen. The bride, who was handsomely attired in a white satin costume, trimmed with Maltese lace and festooned with orange blossoms, and on whose head was a beautiful orange wreath and a lace veil, accompanied by her bridesmaids, the three Misses Samuel and Miss Goldstein, of New York, entered and took her place to the right of the bridgroom.

Rev. Mr. HARFELD then said :—"My friends, previous to the performance of the ceremony that will make you man and wife, I feel it incumbent to say a few words to you upon the responsibility that you assume with the important step you are about to take. The future which, under Divine guidance is before you, is one of the brightest happiness, and yet it rests with you to merit the Divine blessing. (Turning to the bridegroom he said) The few words which you are going to repeat commence thus :—"Thou art sanctified unto me with this ring in accordance with the law of Moses and Israel." On all sacred occasions the name of God of Israel is mentioned, but here Moses and Israel are said to teach us that the husband is toward his wife the same as Moses to Israel. Through his merits, God sent manna from Heaven and water from the rock. On many occasions the Israelites aggravated him, and when they made a golden calf and God intended to destroy them, Moses prayed and said—'Blot me out of Thy Book and let me die instead of them.' Thus is the husband to treat his wife, to maintain, cherish, support, and respect her : and if the wife aggravate the husband he should take no notice, but act as Moses did towards Israel ; nay, even lay down his life for her if necessary. We ask you, sir, to take these few words into consideration. You take a lady from our midst not only beloved by her parents and relatives, but by all of us. We hope you will act towards her in accordance with the Law of Moses and Israel."

To the bride he said—'To you this hour is replete with the responsibilities which you assume. The life which you are about to enter has its solemn duties also. You are to guide, to lead, and retain those of your household in the path of the holy religion in accordance with which you will be united in the holy bonds of wedlock. 'Who can find a virtuous woman ? for her price is far above rubies; the heart of her husband trusts in her. She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life.' A faithful wife is good, and far, far better than rubies, even the Law, given by God on Mount Sinai, is compared with the virtuous woman. A faithful wife is the comfort, pride, happiness, glory, and blessing of her husband. We ask you to endeavour to prove yourself a virtuous woman and a comfort to your husband, so that he may live a life of peace and concord. You shall do him good not evil all the days of your life.

After the congregation and Rabbi had chanted, a glass of wine was presented to the bride and bridegroom, who each partook. The bride then removed her veil, and the bridegroom placed a ring on her finger.

The Rabbi read aloud the marriage ceremony, and after another prayer, praising God's blessing upon them and never to allow them to become estranged from the Holy Law, but to be observers of its precepts and to make their union perpetual and indissolable, he presented the bridegroom with another glass of wine, who, after drinking of it, handed it to the bride. She having drank of it, Rabbi crushed the glass beneath his heel, in token of the indissolubleness of the marriage tie. The friends then offered their congratulations.

The bridal party and friends repaired to Albert Hall, where they partook of the marriage feast. The bride and bridegroom occupied the chief seats. After partaking of the good cheer a number of toasts were offered and speeches were made. Later in the evening about fifty couples attended the ball in the Hall, the music being furnished by George's quadrille band. The bridal couple led off in the dances.

A rural poet remarks, apropos of the fine sleighing :

This world is all a sheet of snow,
For plain assessment payer ;
Single spanking cutters to and fro,
By dashing lovers driven.

The average fop holds his cash up by means of a wide collar and cravat arrangement.

VOTER'S LIST.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

DEAR SIR.—On Friday evening last, paying a flying visit to George street, I was somewhat surprised to see the general tendency of the people towards the south end. I followed the multitude and soon found myself in the Council Chamber. Not accustomed to such places and not fully understanding the first play, I awaited the movements of the man on the Dias, who took his seat and ordered the book to be read, which I understood to be the notes of the last play. As soon as the Director of Ceremonies made this first move, I saw there was going to be a "nice time" of it, and I fixed myself against one of those ornaments Mr. Bradburn has placed in the Chamber to prevent the Chairman witnessing the grimaces of those in the pit or back seats. I saw a goodly few of the street corner politicians in the back ground. Constable Beavis was amongst them with his wand of power ready to strike awe into the first who would dare to interrupt the fun. Councillor Smith entered with a large Irish harp on his back, and immediately struck up the "White Cockade." He tried this tune twice, insinuating that second time that it was the "Protestan Boys", but Councillor McWilliams knew better than to be deceived in that way. his ear was more accustomed to loyal music. Councillor Cahill with his usual tact saw Councillor Smith's mistake and put him right in several notes, but both were nearly merging into "Garry Owen". Councillor Haggart displeased with national airs unless in the language of Burns, was not going to listen or be a party to party airs. With these views Councillors Rountree and Miller fully agreed, and accordingly it was moved that if Mr. Smith wanted to give his harp to Mr. Con McGrath, and if Mr. Cameron would obtain the Scotch bag pipes, that they could accompany Mr. Rowe and play select national airs at the doors of the hoi polloi as they played at assessing the town. This suggestion was at once supported by Mr. Smith, as it was a principle laid down by Blackstone that Irish and Scotch airs were the most soul-stirring during an election campaign. Mr. McGrath and Mr. Cameron were ordered to practice on their respective instruments till Mr. Rowe could get all things ready, when the three should start on their serenading tour. The two principal players than struck up an Irish and Scotch air, which perfectly delighted Messrs. Smith, Rountree, and Miller. Mr. Smith declaring that political tunes, such as "The Maple Leaf for Ever", or "Tramp, tramp" were strictly forbidden by order of the Council. The Mayor endorsed Mr. Smith's views, and urged that no party tunes should be played on corporation fiddles or other instruments. Messrs. Dumble, Elder, and McWilliams thought that the "Red, White and Blue" would be more suitable than either "Garry Owen" or the "Cameron Men", but they were out-voted. Seeing the play was over I left.

POLITICS IN MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—All eyes and wills were directed to the Council at its last session, and hence there was a fair audience on the occasion. The principal business of the session was the appointment of Assessors and a Town Clerk. You are aware that they did appoint Mr. Rowe and Messrs. C. McGrath and C. Cameron. This was in accordance with the H. H. Smith programme. He afterwards attempted to gain control of the Clerk's office by appointing the Clerk, but signally failed. Did the Ratepayers, Mr. Editor, elect Mr. Smith to make the Council Chamber these arena for partizan debates and political buncombe? Do they wish to see the whole town affairs managed in the interests of men whose only aim is to elect themselves to some place of honor by Riding a Catholic horse in an Orange corner? Wait and see what is to follow.

Yours, etc.,
RAVEN EYED.

DUMMER.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR.—Had you been in a certain part of Dummer on the first of this month you might have seen what you never saw before. A resident (we will not say a ratepayer) of Dummer was driven to a polling place, he being unable to walk, through an accident which unfortunately happened him some years ago. On arriving at the polling place he was taken from the vehicle by two men, and carried into the polling place, being still in their arms, he demanded a ballot paper which was given him, he was then taken by them behind the screen to mark his ballot paper. Question ; had these two carriers a statutary declaration of Secrecy ; we think not. In reference to the above scene we may mention that this resident has had a part or the whole of his tax remited for the last ten or twenty years. In this we can find no fault but we think he should not vote against persons who have to pay their own taxes and part of his. We think the best way to remedy this unfairness is not to assess him.

Hoping that you will give this a place in your columns.

I remain
Yours &c.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 1, 1877.

LOST WHIP.—The lady near Stony Lake, who lost her whip about two weeks ago, can have it by calling at the EXAMINER office.

THE Winnipeg Free Press of the 15th ult., announces the return to that city, on the previous Saturday, of Lieut-Col. Kennedy, from his compelled visit to this town.

MR. T. G. GRIEVE, of Lakefield, has purchased a fine Cotswold ram lamb from the flock of Mr. F. W. Stone, the well known stock-raiser of Guelph.

VILLAGE INCORPORATION.—In accordance with the prayer of a petition to that effect the County Council have ordered the necessary steps to be taken towards securing the incorporating of the Village of Norwood.

PERSONAL.—We find the following among the locals in the Toronto Leader :—" Mr. Scott, M. P. P., desires it to be understood that he is not related to the gentleman of that name whose case has recently been the subject of discussion in the Houlle of Assembly."

BILL MONTGOMERY.—Since his trial, the prisoner has been seriously sick with inflamatory rheumatism, and it is feared that consumption will set in. Though he is improving, he is not sufficiently strong to be removed to the Central Prison as yet.

THE efforts of the Opposition press to make capital of the clap-trap motion of Mr. Scott, have been completely knocked on the head by Mr. Mowat's announcement that the Government had the subject under consideration.

COUNTY PRINTING.—Our readers will observe from the report of the County Council proceedings, in another column, that the contract for the whole of the County Printing and Advertising for the year 1877 has been awarded to the EXAMINER OFFICE.

THE Orillia Packet declares that unless it be misinformed the Peterborough Club has as old curlers as those of Orillia. "Old" may mean "venerable" or "veteran". If the latter signification is intended, then we of a verity believe the Packet has been misinformed.

CONCERT.—We understand that the Peterborough Amateur Musical Club intend giving their first concert on Tuesday 13th instant. The entertainment will be given under the patronage of several resident ladies, and we have reason to anticipate a musical treat. Posters and programmes will appear in due course.

WE are glad to observe that the Port Hope Guide, as we expected, agrees in the main with our remarks concerning the system of exchange, and on the doing away with the right use of italics and credits; also, that it feels complimented by the preferment of its items. While we are sorry that we should have troubled the virtuous soul of our contemporary we are pleased to know that we understand each other, and are once more on level ground.

FOR fifteen years Gray's Syrup has been before the public, and it has been gradually increasing in public favor until it has now become the Domestic Cough Remedy of every family. The leading retail druggists assure us that they sell more of Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum than they do of all the other Cough Preparations put together. It has been used by thousands of persons suffering from Throat and Lung diseases, and is the best known Remedy for affections of the throat. 4-4in.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—The Anniversary of this Church will be held on Sunday and Monday, the 4th and 5th of February. On Sunday sermons will be preached by Rev. J. Harris, at 10.30 a.m., and Rev. G. Webber of Toronto, President of Conference, at 2.30 and 6.30 p.m., and on Monday he will lecture on the "Scotch Covenanters," (by request) at 7.30 p.m. Tea will be served from 5 to 7.30 p.m. Tickets for the tea and lecture 50cts., for lecture only, 25cts.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.—As some parties have expressed doubts as to the power of Corporations to pass a by-law compelling the removal of snow and ice from side-walks, we may state that such power is given to Corporations. Section 384, subsection 41, expressly states that municipal Councils can pass by-laws for this purpose, and can impose a penalty for non-compliance.

IMPERIAL MEASURES.—We are requested to call the attention of those using liquid measures to the fact that it is intended to use the old measure of 16 ounces to the pint, but that only the imperial gallon and its divisions, holding 20 ounces to the pint. It will be seen that the new measures are one-fourth larger than the measures that were hitherto in common use. It should be remembered that it is not optional to use either kind, for the old kind is prohibited, and those using them subject themselves to a heavy fine.

BAPTIST.—The members of the Peterborough Baptist Church, had a very pleasant Church Social, on Wednesday evening last. The Rev. D. Millhern, the newly inducted pastor, occupied the Chair. The Rev. Mr. Ratcliff and Elder Geary, of Smith, delivered appropriate addresses. The Church Choir provided suitable music. The tea was provided by the Ladies of the Church. On the following evening the children of the Sabbath School had a very enjoyable tea. The proceeds were in aid of the Sabbath School.

COUNCIL MEETINGS—APPLAUDING BY SPECTATORS.—The following remarks from the Intelligencer about the Town Council of Belleville are appropriate and may be applied to affairs in our own town with some force :—"To a stranger unacquainted with the rules which govern our Town Council in its deliberations, the scene presented on Monday night in the Council Room, must have furnished ample food for reflection. No one, not knowing the contrary, would have supposed that it was a deliberate body in session, discussing the subjects affecting the interests of the Town. On the contrary the spectator would have come to the conclusion that it was a Ward meeting where candidates were addressing the crowd, who, ever and anon, made the Hall ring with applause—such as laughing approval, stamping of feet, and clapping of hands. If anything were required to convince one of the facts, it would have been the impunity with which it was allowed to be continued, while the Councillor who was applauded smiled complacently at the approval bestowed upon his eloquence. Seriously, would not the Mayor and Councillors do justice to themselves, maintain the dignity of the Council, and secure the respect of their constituents by putting a stop to this kind of rowdyism in the future—for such it really is! Or is it possible that no Councillor has sufficient courage to ask to have rules, which govern all bodies, particularly those which present outside interference in any way, put in force.

DENTISTRY.—We are requested to state that Mr. O'Donnell's office will be closed to-morrow and Saturday, Feb. 2nd and 3rd, in consequence of being obliged to leave town.

RUNAWAYS.—There has been several runaways during the past week, no damage being done with the exception of the usual breakages. To prevent this the best receipe is to tie your horses with a good rope to a strong post.

DUNKIN BILL.—A petition is in circulation in this town, and is being largely signed, praying the Dominion Parliament to amend the Dunkin Act, so that in the future when the Bill is submitted to the people the vote shall be by ballott.

ALL IN THE DARK.—On Saturday night shortly after nine o'clock, the gas man turned the wrong tap and closed the gas off the town for some minutes. It is said that he was a "green 'un" but should he be green enough to prefer darkness to light he will find that few men of business do.

SPILT MILK.—On Saturday night the milk van of Mr. A. Crawford ran away, or rather, the horse, spilling the cans or rather the milk and the van. The horse went home; Mr. Crawford gathered up the cans but was fully persuaded that those who so circ for "spilt milk." The sleigh was somewhat damaged.

VERDON'S PROBABILITIES.—For first week in February, a heavy snow storm and very cold days. A second heavy storm with a great deal of snow in proximity to the 15th of the month with a second run of very cold days, which will continue through the greater portion of the remaining part of February.

AN EXPLANATION.—In accordance with his request, we have much pleasure in stating that the reason why Mr. Henry Collins opposed the granting of any sum by the West Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society towards the funds of the Central Exhibition was simply and solely on the ground that he believes such a course to be unauthorized by the several acts relatin to a ricultural societies.

SKATERS BEWARE.—On Monday night a lad named Barchard, while skating below the bridge on the river, got into the air hole at the rapids near the Island. He got out safely but somewhat wet and chilled. Take warning and keep a respectful distance from this place as a brief stay under the ice might not be good for the health. The ice near the bridge is good enough only keep away from the rapids.

SNOW SHOE CLUB.—At the last meeting of this Club, F. J. Lewis, Esq. of the Bank of Montreal, was elected 2nd Vice-President, and Mr. Geo. Rogue a member of the Committee in the place of Mr. Lewis. There will be a meeting of the Games Committee on Thursday evening next, at 7.15 sharp. A full attendance is requested, as important matters are to be brought up.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—We understand the License Inspector had H. Dowd and J. B. Dunn up before the Ennismore Magistrates on Saturday last for the above offence. Mr. Dunn was fined $20 and costs, and Mr. Dowd $25 and costs. There was two charges against Mr. Dowd, but the Inspector wished to act leniently with him, and did not go on with the prosecution of the second offence. We would advise those having no license to stop selling, as we believe that the Inspector intends to prosecute this class to the utmost of the law.

SOCIAL.—There will be a Public Social in the Lecture Room of the George Street Methodist Church, on Friday evening. The entertainment will consist chiefly of instrumental and vocal music. We understand that some of the most popular singers of the town are to take part. There will be offered for sale during the evening, a number of useful articles suitable for ladies and childrens wearing, as aprons, stockings, underclothing, &c., manufactured by the ladies of the congregation. Admittance ten cents. There will be refreshments provided at an extra charge. Doors open at 6.30 p. m.

RAND'S NEW YORK CITY BUSINESS DIRECTORY.—This is the title of a valuable work of commercial reference, just issued by Walter Hengh & Co., Printers and Publishers, of 14 Park Place, New York. It contains a full and complete list of all the Importers, Jobbers, and Manufacturers doing business in the great metropolis, classified and arranged by Trades and Occupations, and giving their street and number address. It is an invaluable work for the Country Merchant. It tells him where to obtain anything from a needle to a steam engine of first or second hands. The work will be sent by the publishers to any address, postage prepaid, under the receipt of the price, which is as follows: Cloth, full bound Edition, per copy, One Dollar, flexible cloth bound, Seventy-five Cents; paper covers Fifty Cents

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.—On Saturday morning Patrick Hickey was brought up for being drunk and disorderly. He said he lived in Emily. He was discharged after being cautioned.

ASSAULT.—James Stewart and Robert Wright were fined each $5.00 and $4.50 costs for assault. ing Mrs. Rickey. This affair would probably not have occurred if the defendants had not been the worse of liquor.

LARCENCY.—The boys Barrie and Smith charged with stealing a bunch of socks, were committed for two days. Mr. Clinton not appearing against them.

From Dr. Kincaid, stating that according to instructions he was attending Matthew Bird and considered him a hopeless case, as he was very old. He was also attending John Riordan on the corporation account.—Referred to Charity Committee with power to act.

The Chairman of the Committee on Appointments reported, stating that they were unable to appoint the Assessors, as some of the Committee wanted two and others three, and they asked for the direction of the Council.—Received.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Baptie.—That the council appoint two Assessors for the current year.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. Elder.—That the Council do now proceed to the election of Clerk, Treasurer and Assessors.

Mr. Dumble said that if this was in order he thought it a queer way of doing business. This was taking it out of the hands of the committee on appointments without giving them a chance of recommending or saying anything about it.

Mr. Haggart said he would like to have the position of Clerk and Treasurer settled to-night as there was a great deal of excitement in town over the filling of this office, and he did not wish to throw any insult on the committee, he only wished the offices filled at once.

Mr. Cahill said that the appointment of assessors were to be made before the 1st of February.

Mr. McWilliams then withdrew his motion.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Dumble.—That Mr. C. D. Macdonald be appointed Clerk of the Council.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Rountree.—That Mr. George Burke be appointed Clerk and James Edwards Treasurer.

Mr. Cahill raised the point of order that the committee should recommend the appointments.

Mr. Elder said the mover and seconder were members of the committee.

Mr. McWilliams said that it was hard to please certain members of the Council. He was prepared to retire it either in committee or in Council.

Mr. McWilliams wished to amend his motion by adding Mr. Edwards' name as Treasurer, which was consented to by the Council.

The motion was then put and carried.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Hamilton,—That Mr. Aldridge be appointed one of the Assessors for the current year.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Rountree, That Robert Rowe, Charles Cameron and C. McGrath be the Assessors for the current year.

Mr. Smith said that he had been called upon a few days after his election and was solicited for his vote and influence in favor of Mr. McGrath as one of the Assessors, but he did not give them any reply. Afterwards he applied to some leading men and they thought that Mr. McGrath would be a good man.

Mr. Dumble said he came here to do the business of the town, not to please any body, rather displease them if necessary, and he would vote for the best men, and Mr. Aldridge, in his opinion was one of the best men who had applied. He would go for appointing a Conservative and a Reformer, as there was considerable talk outside of the Council as to the way the assessment has been done. He would not vote against any person on the religious principle. He said that the Assessment Roll was a very important one, as there was an act passing through the House making the assessment final.

Moved in amendment to the amendment by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. McBain.—That Messrs. Rowe, Helm and McGrath be Assessors.

Mr. Haggart said that no doubt Mr. Rowe for the last 18 years had done his duty well as Assessor, and that $375 was paid to the last Assessors, and he proposed dividing it among the three. He was not in favor of appointing a Conservative and Reformer, but the three best men. He said that there was not a Roman Catholic officer in the town, and they should have one, and he always found Mr. McGrath a straightforward man, and a man that you could rely on when he said.

Mr. McWilliams said he did not wish to give a silent vote on this question, but desire to define his position so clearly that there will be no misunderstanding. I object to the appointment of three assessors, as I consider the work can be as well done by two as three. The argument that is used that we can obtain the services of three for the same price as two is only to blindfold. If you can obtain the services of three men for $375 or $125 each why not dispense with one and save $125 to the town? But Mr. chairman there is no use beating about the bush in this matter; we may as well speak plainly, and I say that I am convinced that the policy of appointing three men is not brought forward because the gentlemen who advocates it believe it to be for the benefit of the town, but for another purpose, viz., to make capital for themselves among the Roman Catholics of this County. Now I would ask any gentleman at this Council board if he was requested to name an assessor, without having any name suggested to him, would he ever have thought of Mr. McGrath? I think I can safely say no. If not why is his name brought forward simply because he is a Roman Catholic and not because he is the man best qualified for the position? There is a very strong feeling in this county that both political parties have introduced this question of religion into politics, and are we now to follow their example and introduce it into municipal matters? The gentlemen who are advocating this course should consider well what they are doing before they take this step. I say now, openly, that if Mr. McGrath is elected as assessor, it will be without my vote, for I will not vote for Mr. McGrath or any other man who is brought forward on account of his religion. I could name a gentleman here to-night and some of the very strongest supporters of Mr. McGrath would have to forsake him and support the man I would name. I refrain from doing so for two reasons: 1st, I consider it would not be honorable to do so; and 2nd, I wish to allow the gentlemen who have taken this case in hand to play their own card without any pressure from parties whom they would have a better right to obey than those they are serving to-night. I do not take this course because I have any feeling against the Roman Catholics; for since I have been 18 years of age I have held public positions, and I can safely appeal to the Roman Catholics of this county to say whether I have not at all times treated them kindly and give them equal justice. I am prepared to do so still; but I am not prepared to have a man forced upon me as an officer of this town who has no other claim to that position but that he is a Roman Catholic. I have many warm friends among the Roman Catholics of this county, and the stand I have taken here to-night may be the means of my losing their friendship; but I am not coming here like some gentlemen to advocate a policy which I know to be wrong for the purpose of making friends for myself, and whatever view they may take of my position they must at least admit that I have been candid and spoken my mind freely.

Mr. Rountree said that it appears that politics was the whole thing this evening, but it was dollars and cents with him; he only wanted the best men elected.

Mr. Cahill asked Mr. McWilliams if he would vote against Mr. McGrath on the ground that he was a Catholic? He said that he was not the man to ask the soldier that fights by his side in the cause of mankind, if our creeds agree. He would not give up the friend he had valued and tried because he kneels not before the same altar with me.

Mr. McWilliams said he would not.

The motion was then put as follows:—

Messrs. McBain and Haggart voting for Messrs. Helm, McGrath and Rowe.

Messrs. Cahill, Rountree, McBain, Smith, Millar, Haggart and the Mayor voting for Messrs. Rowe, Cameron and McGrath.

Messrs. McWilliams, Dumble, Baptie, Yelland, Elder and Hamilton voting for Mr. Aldridge.

On motion the bylaw was read a first time for the appointment of the town officers.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-law, Mr. Cahill in the chair.

In the second reading of the by-law, Mr. Dumble moved that the blanks for the assessor be filled in with Mr. McGrath and Mr. Aldridge.

Mr. Smith moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Rountree,—That Mr. R. Rowe, Mr. McGrath and Mr. Cameron be the assessors.

Moved in amendment to the amendment, that Mr. Aldridge and Mr. Rowe be filled in as assessors.

The amendment was carried.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr Baptie,—That the Clerk be $300 and the Treasurer $500.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Rountree—That the Clerk receive $300 and the Treasurer $500.

Moved by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. Elder.—That the Treasurer receive $700 and the Clerk $600.

On permission the Council allowed Mr. Smith to withdraw his motion, and the other two motions were declared lost.

Moved by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. Elder,—That the Clerk and Treasurers' salary be $600 each.—Carried.

The by-laws were then filled in with the following names and salaries:

C. D. McDonald, Clerk	$400 00
James Edwards, Treasurer	600 00
Robert Rowe, Assessor	117 00
C. McGrath, "	117 00
Chas. Cameron, "	117 00

The Committee then rose and the by-laws were read a third time and passed.

The chairman of the Finance Committee reported, stating that they had examined the Smith Street Bridge and found all the cribs filled in with stone. The western abutment, however, has never been filled, and your committee think it should be filled without delay. It will take about 20 cords of stone, which can be obtained for about two dollars per cord; they also recommend that as soon as the frost is out of the ground posts be placed on each side of the embankment with a suitable railing, so as to prevent accidents; also that Messrs. Baptie and Millar oversee the filling of the abutment, and that the balance of the pay-list No. 39 be paid, except Mr. Noble's account, of Five dollars more, ought to be paid to him.

The report was read and adopted.

The Council then adjourned for two weeks from Monday night.

FIREMEN'S SUPPER.

The Annual Supper of the Fire Brigade was held in the Firemen's Hall, on Thursday evening last. Captain J. Irwin occupied the chair, and on his left were Jas. Hall, Esq., M. P. P., Dr. Kincaid and W. Patterson, Jr., and on his left the Chief Engineer, Mr. George Mitchell; Dr. W. H. Burritt and Mr. J. O. Donnell. The Vice-Chair was filled by the Captain of the Hook and Ladder Company, Mr. Armstrong.

After the substantials had been disposed of in a manner to convince that they were duly appreciated, the chairman called upon the Secretary to read any communications received by him, after which he gave the usual standard toasts of "The Queen," God save the Queen, was played by the band, "The Prince of Wales and the Royal Family," and "Governor General," which were appropriately responded to.

"The Army and Navy of Great Britain and Canadian Volunteers," responded to by Dr. Kincaid, surgeon of the 57th Batt., the only officer present, who said in response that he had been pleased and gratified upon former occasions to have the honor of responding to this toast, and from the remarks that had fallen from the worthy chairman he observed that he was expected to do so again. He could only wish that he possessed the ability to do the subject justice, and regretted a more worthy officer of the force was not present to respond. There were others abler but none more loyal or more willing to serve their country than he was. He would not dwell on the English Army and Navy, but just remark in passing that the late unfortunate accidents would not impair the prowess of the latter, but he hoped the Navy of England would never again be called to pour shot and shell into the midst of an enemy, but if occasion should arise he was confident that men equal in courage to even Nelson would be found who would give a good account of themselves. We have a body of volunteers keeping peace with other nations. He had upon other occasions complained of the action of the existing government because the bone and muscle of the country are not drilled. He did not refer to the officers but to the rank and file. He had great respect for the volunteers and would take this first opportunity of conveying to them the handsome manner in which they had been treated.

The chairman then proposed "The House of Commons and the Legislature of Ontario."

The member for East Peterborough responded. He was exceedingly pleased to be present with the firemen this evening, and thanked them for their hospitality. He said he had been a companies started, and belonged to one of the first firemen, having been engaged to one of the first companies started, and belonged to one of the first. He was exceedingly pleased to be present with the firemen this evening, and thanked them for their hospitality. He said he had been a companies started, and belonged to one of the first firemen, having been engaged to one of the first. He was prepared to retire it either in committee or in Council.

"The Mayor and Corporation" by the chairman, but there being no Corporation present there was no response.

"Our Guests" were responded to by Messrs. L. Glover, W. Paterson and Dr. W. H. Burritt.

"The Agricultural and Manufacturing Interests" were proposed from the Vice-chair and responded to by Mr. J. McWilliams.

The Vice-chair also proposed "The Learned Profession," which was responded to by Drs. Kincaid and Burritt in an interesting and instructive way.

The chairman proposed "The Ladies," Engineer English responding in a funny speech.

"The Press" was proposed to by Dr. Kincaid in a glowing speech and responded to by J. R. Stratton, of the EXAMINER.

Dr. Kincaid also proposed the "Fire Brigade," responded to by Capt. Irwin, Chief Engineer Gibbs and Ass't.-Engineer Geo. L. Mitchell, and Mr. J. O'Donnell.

Mr. Mitchell proposed "The Honorary Members," and was responded to by Mr. J. O'Donnell, who said it pleased him exceedingly to be present and partake of the hospitalities of the brigade he had been identified with for a number of years, and for the members of which he entertained the highest regard. This evening brought vividly to his mind past remembrances of a pleasant nature, such as evenings of similar nature, while an active member of the brigade. He noticed among the present members some of those who had worked with him for many a year, and long before the firemen had the advantages they had now. He hoped the members would obey all orders given them by their superior officers, for by so doing a perfect discipline would be the result, without which a company of any discription could not work successfully. He then bore testimony to the qualities necessary to make a fireman in the persons of the Chief and Assistant Engineer. After thanking the brigade for the honor conferred on him of making him an honary member and for the hearty manner in which the toast had been proposed and received he resumed his seat.

Lieut.-Col. Poole also responded, thanking them for the honor of making him an honorary member. He said he was the oldest fireman in town. He belonged to every company started since that time. While Chief Engineer he had no reason to complain of dereliction of duty in either officers or men. He knew his successor to be a first-class fireman.

Mr. O'Donnell proposed "The Band," in the course of which he said that the band deserved the thanks of this company for the manner in which they had entertained us. They deserved the thanks of the public for the way in which they had been entertained and amused on many occasions, particularly on summer evenings. The bandmaster, Mr. Millar, was entitled to great praise for the creditable appearance they now made in public. He could venture to say that very few bands have ever practiced in the same ratio as the firemen's band. It is now a first-class band, and if they continue to practice as they have in the past, they will shortly be one of the first in the Province. He hoped they would not be forgotten in a pecuniary way by the town. Bandmaster Millar and Mr. T. Rutherford responded.

The speaking and singing was interspersed by selections by the band. Songs were given by messrs. Mitchell, Millar, and others. After the national anthem the company separated early, all apparently satisfied with the evening's enjoyment.

The Council then adjourned.

KEENE

ROWDYISM.—On Saturday night last about 12 o'clock three rowdies, driving a a horse and cutter, went to the house of Mr. John. Mein, pulled the pickets off his fence and completely destroyed a lot of beautiful young maples which were planted in front of the house. Mr. Mein being aroused by the noise cut to the door just in time to see the scoundrels drive away. They then drove to the house of Mr. Alexander Knox whose picket fence shared the same fate. We believe they next made a raid on the house of Mr. Robert Kindred of Mathers Corner's, kicking in the door and destroying everything within their reach. This is not the first time the people here have been troubled by this same gang. They occasionally take a trip to our Village get beastly drunk and on their way home at night amuse themselves by breaking gates and pulling down fences. We are pretty well aware who they are, especially of one little Jackanapes, who we think would not be far from home in a lunatic asylum. We hope to hear of their arrest as such scoundrels as these richly deserve the extreme penalty of the law.—COM.

HIAWATHA.

At a social gathering of the Indians and White People of this village, the Rev. R. Brooking, late missionary of this place being present, after an excellent tea-dinner, the Rev. gentleman had an address presented to him by the Chief expressive of their gratitude for the services rendered by him to the Band. A splendid cutter and silver-mounted harness was tendered by the Chief, the value of which was over seventy dollars. The Rev. gentleman was so taken by surprise that he could scarcely answer the address. It has been but too generally supposed that the Indians are not capable of gratitude for services rendered, but the above generous gift which must have taxed them severely is striking proof to the contrary.—COM.

COME NOW AND LET US REASON TOGETHER.—Why do people so frequently say to Dr. Pierce, "I suppose your Golden Medical Discover cures every thing?" Because it has been the practice of feverish charlatans to manufacture worthless nostrums and attempt to dupe the ignorant and credulous by recommending them to cure every form of disease. To such an extent has this been practiced that it is no wonder that many have acquired prejudices against all advertised remedies. But Dr. Pierce does not advertise his standard preparations as "cure-alls," does not claim that they will perform miracles, but simply publishes the fact that they have been employed as specifics for certain forms of disease for which he recommends them, after having tested their efficacy in many hundred cases with the most gratifying success. It is a fact known to every well-informed physician that many simple remedies possess several different properties. Quinine, for instance, has a tonic quality, which suggests its use in cases of debility; an anti-periodic, by which it is known in the world as a febrifuge property, which renders it efficacious in cases of fever. The virtues of the latter medication will also vary with the quantity given and the circumstances under which it is employed. So, likewise, the Golden Medical Discovery possesses both pectoral and alterative or blood-cleansing properties of the highest order. By reason of these two prominent properties it cures two classes of diseases. First, those of the respiratory organs, as throat, bronchial, and lung affections, coughs, colds, and asthma, and second, diseases of the blood and glandular system, in which scrofulous all skin, and glandular complaints originate. In all pulmonic complaints, of whatever name, it is unequaled, and in temper of the Dyspeptic. While its use, by its tonic and blood properties, is required in cases of consumption, yet you need not take it expecting it will cure you if your lungs are half destroyed, for when it is recommended as a last resort it usually fails, the proprietor advises you to take it expecting it to cure speedily. It will not perform miracles, but it will cure many grave forms of disease.

THE GOLDEN SIDE.

There is many a rent on the road of life,
If we only would stop to take it in;
And many a tone from the better land,
If the querulous heart would but hush to hear,
To the sunny cool that is full of hope,
A d whose beautiful trust no'er fails,
T at grass is green and the flowers will bright,
Though the wintry storm prevail.

Better to hope, though the clouds hang low,
And to keep the eye still lifted;
For the rarest blue sky will sometimes show,
When the coldness clouds the rest.
There was never a night without a day,
Nor an evening without a morning;
And the darkest hour the proverb says
Is the hour before the dawning.

There is many a gem in the path of life,
Which we pass in our idle pleasure,
That is richer far than the jewelled crown,
Or the miser's hoarded treasure.
It may be the love of a little child,
Or a mother's prayer for heaven,
Or only a beggar's grateful thanks
For a cup of water given.

Better to weave in the web of life
A bright and golden filling,
And do God's will with a ready heart,
And humble hand and willing.
Then to snap the delicate silver threads
Of our curious lives asunder,
And then heaven blame for the tangled ends.
And sit to grieve and wonder.

POULTRY NEWS.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

In accordance with your request I will now give to your readers a few hints on the different breeds of poultry, and, as poultry-raising has become quite the rage with a great many, and as there is nothing more profitable for the amount of money expended in them, I will now give you my ideas on the different breeds of fowls, their management of raising, feeding, keeping, and also pointing out the breed which are best suited for fanciers as well as farmers; and as it is only [illegible] years since any interest was taken in the like in this [illegible] time I assure elsewhere, and great improvements, you the bringing out of new breeds also in the improvement of stocks which we had on hand.

It was at one time thought there were no fowls like the old barnyard poultry, but that is dying out rapidly, and especially where any of the new breeds have been introduced. But it will take a little time before all will be convinced in this. However, time will tell. I do not intend going into a detailed account of each breed, but will merely give to your readers their standing points as layers, hatchers, &c., which are best, as table fowls, which come to maturity quickest, and which are the most profitable and suitable to our climate. As I consider this a very important thing, I will also give the different treatments for the different diseases and the breeds of fowls which are most apt to have these diseases. I do not mean to treat on bees above, but geese, ducks, turkeys, &c., and in the first place I will take the

GOOD OLD DORKING.

There are no less than four different breeds of these fowls: the Coloured, Silver-Gray, White and Cuckoo. I will now confine myself as nearly as possible to the Silver-Gray, and perhaps at some future day will give a fuller account of the White, as they are well worthy of anything good that can be said of them. The origin of Dorking fowl is not very well known. Some claim them as Roman fowls, while others say they are, with the exception of Game fowl, the oldest English fowl we have; but they were raised for a far different purpose from game, and at first were not bred to any standing colour, neither were they bred to perfection, and at one time were considered good if they weighed from seven to nine pounds; but now these weights are thought nothing of, as, we are informed they have been known to weigh as big as 14½ lbs. I believe Mr. John Douglas, England, has raised them to that. As a fowl to keep they will not do well in a confined place, therefore they are not a beneficial fowl for fanciers who have only small runs; but as farm fowl, in my opinion, they cannot be beaten, when any care are taken of them, and all breeds of poultry require care, for you cannot expect plenty of good milk from a cow if she is poorly pastured, so it is with hens; feed them well and they will pay you well. The Dorking chicks feather very quickly, and are therefore more subject to lice than the Asiatic breeds. However, when they are three months old I may say they are at there full size, and are much heavier and better fit for market or table than any of the Asiatic breeds are when five months old: thus the saving of two months feed and labour. The Pullets generally commence laying at from four to six months old; and, if well attended, are good winter layers. They do not require to be hatched so early in spring as other breeds, on account of their rapid growth. I should say the latter part of April or the beginning of May would be best suited for this climate. Dorking hens make excellent mothers, but require to be set in some out-door place where they can come off their nests at leisure. They are not so hard to break off setting as Asiatics, but I prefer them for setting on their own eggs: so I do with all breeds. Perhaps I differ from some fanciers, but I have my own reason for so doing, and that is this: different fowls are of different temperments; therefore their chicks must be of the same nature. If fowls are of a quiet innofensive nature, they want quiet mothers to raise them; therefore, as far as possible, raise each sort with their own kind, or as near the nature of that kind as possible. I would consider it an excellent cross to put a Dorking cock with common barnyard fowls; you will increase in size and laying; and especially table fowl. Of course, there are other breeds that might do better. Dorkings are not very large eaters, and require low broad perches to roost on; they must have good dry runs, as they will not do on low, damp places; and, in conclusion, taking them all, I consider Dorking as one of the leading fowls. I now give the standard of excellence, so that parties may have some guide to go by in buying, &c:—

In both sex, comb, face, deaf ears and wattles red; legs white, or pinky white. Colour of Cock—Hackle and saddle pure silvery white, free from both sarow colour or marking of any kind: black, shoulder coverts, and wing bow, silvery white; wing coverts, black, glossed with green or blue secondaries, white on outer web, black on inner web with a black spot on the end of each feather, corner of wing appearing clear white with a black upper edge. When wing is closed primaries black with a white edge on outer web, breast and all under parts deep black with a mose grizzling with white on thighs of old cocks not objectionable, tail deep black, the sickles brilliantly glossed. Hen, hackle silver-white, striped with black; breast salmon red, shading off to ashy gray on thighs, body and wings clear silvery gray finely pencilled over with dark gray and free from any red or brown tinge but may vary from soft dull gray to bright silver gray, tail dark gray, inside feathers black. Both sexes show the 5th toe prominently.

THE AMERICN CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and decreed for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medals of Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THIS DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best productions of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the ablest of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR SOCIALLY DISTINGUISHED HONOUR BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AS ATTEMPT TO SUPPORTER THE PROTS. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Loins, an Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q., Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so used as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the kidneys, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as sheepcutting and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

THE ORANGE BILLS.

As was expected, bills for the special incorporation of the Orange Associations have been introduced in the Legislature of Ontario. The history of the efforts formerly made to obtain incorporation for these associations are fully well known to the country, also the efforts made, to their detriment, to make political capital out of them. For a time the orange body itself was considerably divided upon the question of the advisability of special incorporation; but a comprehensive study of the whole case has led most, if not all of these Orangemen who formerly demurred to favour the obtaining of a special act. Formerly too no sound and correct reasons were given for the preference of a special act before the general act under which incorporation might be obtained; and a good deal of the opposition was based on the existence of such a general act, which it was argued was quite sufficient for the obtainment of the subject sought. Now it is clearly shown that the expenses to which the various Orange Lodges would be put under the general act, would be very large in comparison with the cost of obtaining special acts whereby the various lodges may enter under the incorporation of the central bodies, good reasons being given for special acts of incorporation, they have at once been recognised, and the Globe a few days ago published an editorial in which it looked with decided favour upon giving the Orangemen those special powers which they seek for the purposes of incorporation; and which on reasonable grounds they are now likely to obtain.

It is well known that one member of the Government has strong objections, probably conscientious to the passage of these Bills; but when he threatens to resign in the event of their passing the House he acts in a manner unbecoming his position as a minister, and uses the influence of that position in a manner wholly unconstitutional, and hence indefensable. Such language from a minister in reference to bills before the House is only equalled by the utterances of the same person on the question of tax exemptions, in a public speech delivered before the opening of the session, in which he took a position which he well knew was in strong, if not direct opposition to the views of his colleagues on the matter. Though he then professed to give his private opinions separate from his position as a member of the government, that position could not be so easily thrown aside as to twist his utterances on the subject of a strong politic significance. In this he was not only guilty of a personal affront to his colleagues—one which they were induced for politic reasons to overlook—he also placed the government of which he is a member in a somewhat embarrising position, from which they were afterwards freed by the kindness or stupidity (which you will) of the opposition, and the happy resolution of our good friend Mr. Scott, of West Peterboro' during the debate on the Lieutenant Governor's address—a repetition of the offence of preferring his personal or religious feelings to his ministerial duties scarcely entitles this person to whom we feel bound to refer to the same kindly consideration as was granted him after his pre-exemption speech. It were certainly a great pity should his personal feelings outrage the strong, and, as it is now put, the rational desire of thousands of good men and true throughout the Province. As we have said the Orange Bills are likely to become law, and should a certain Minister of strong and peculiar prejudices carry out his threat of resigning we see no reason to think that he will be very strongly pressed to stay. There are a number of good, tried and trusty Reformers able and willing to take his place and to fulfil its duties without allowing their prejudices to run away with their Ministerial judgment, and even if unwise in matters bearing upon the privileges of that portion of the people which he deems his peculiar following should see fit to go over to the opposition, the friends for whom he professes to labour will only have to blame him for deserting his position and literally giving up the substance for the shadow. In opposing this question of incorporation particularly they will be eminently inconsistent; for it is but recently that such a special Act as those were asked for was granted to an institution in which they as a class are interested, and which they support in such a manner as to give some ground for the pride with which they look upon it. It is a very poor rule that will not work both ways; and certainly the working of a rule or precedent in parliamentary affairs should not be influenced to a very great extent by the mere petitioner of a Member whose place can be supplied on short a moment's notice. When that can be effected we have no desire to see Reformers in office, particularly, as they can as they have done before, watch and advance the interest of the people equally well in Opposition.

THE HURON & QUEBEC RAILWAY

The proposition to establish an independent and inland line of railway thro' the Province, to connect with a line in Quebec leading to the seaboard, may be said to be now fairly launched upon the sea of popular discussion. An influential deputation composed of representatives from all parts of the Province last week laid the subject before the Premier of Ontario, that the Ministry may intelligently consider the question of government aid to the proposed line, and lay the matter clearly before the House of Assembly. Though the scheme has met with general favour so far, it can hardly be expected that it can be put through without opposition. The influence of the Grand Trunk Railway, which now enjoys a monopoly of the through trade north of the lakes, will naturally be brought to bear against it; but it is not likely that the prosecution of a matter of such great importance to the whole Province will be greatly retarded by a concern that was lately forced to succumb to its own employes. The greatest danger will arise from a division of popular opinion, to foster which will be the endeavour of the parties most interested in opposing the new trunk line. It is more than probable that the chief basis of opposition will be in an attempt to array the front counties now served by the Grand Trunk against the projected rear route, as the front has already been [illegible] the construction Counties were [illegible] Railway at a time of the Country [illegible] portions of the country which [illegible] able to contribute anything, and that therefore it is unjust to again tax these front counties for the construction of another road. Those who argue this way leave out of the account the fact that the newer counties as they have grown up have taken their share of the public burden, even to the payment for works that never could benefit them as much as the older and hitherto more favoured front districts. For the restoration to the general funds of expenditures made in the old days when the new settlements were poor these new settlements have since paid increasing sums, and thereby relieved the older counties in a great degree from the burdens imposed by former improvements they have all along enjoyed. It is not then becoming to display any sectionalism in these matters, of all others.

Only from the lake and river counties east of Toronto is this poor apology for an objection heard. It may be true that they have borne the chief weight of former railway construction, a weight by no means light at the time. But they have had their reward. and the weight has been shared by newer districts, which have disdained to grumble, knowing that the tax shared by all was for the good of all. These newer counties in their turn want direct communication, and in their turn they are willing to shoulder the larger share of the expense, by giving liberal bonuses to the necessary line in addition to their share of the Provincial tax. The country west of Toronto is anxious to have an additional line for through traffic; the rear counties see plainly that it will develope their agricultural, mineral and timber resources; and only the residents in the strip of territory along a portion of the north shore, Lake Ontario, and part of the St. Lawrence River fail to see a direct benefit to themselves by the construction of the coming line of railway. But even they will be benefitted, as much probably as more remote districts by the road which to them is a local one, but which from its chief character of a through line has always lost sight of their local interests. The through traffic on the Grand Trunk so far from being a benefit to the territory through which it passes is rather an injury, for the very overcrowding of through freight causes local traffic to suffer. This has always been the loudest complaint against the Grand Trunk Railway; and it would be a bit of madness on the part of those whose local trade will be benefitted by the division of part of the through traffic to another line, to oppose the construction of the road which is to relieve them.—They should rather do all in their power to help on the work from the merely selfish point of view as well as by reason of the more patriotic thought that much of the traffic the Grand Trunk cannot carry, and which now perforce goes by American routes will by the opening of the projected line take the more direct way through Canadian territory.

In all the aspects of the case the new road is destined to be a great public benefit; and hence we hope to see the preliminary considerations of the question speedily disposed of as between the public and the company taking it in hand, so that the Legislature may confidently vote the amount asked; that the construction of the line may be rapidly carried to a consummation; and that the advantages it brings may be secured to the country at as early a day as possible.

CENTRAL PRISON HONORS AGAIN.

While condescendingly disclaiming the power of a Demosthenes, Dr. O Sullivan, of the East Riding, has been airing his eloquence in the House of Assembly, and in order to display to the utmost those peculiar powers of description with which he supposes himself to be gifted, he chose for his theme a recapitulation of the sensations worked up by a Toronto evening paper anent the Central Prison, to which we made allusion at the time they appeared. The worthy doctor dosed the assembled wisdom of the Province after the mode heroic, and certainly could not be suspected of any leaning toward the homeopathic treatment. His lobies were both dry and bitter, and was none the less disagreeable to the whole hospital from being served up second-hand—rewarmed, but not renewed. The motion of the member for West Peterboro' was for a special committee to enquire into the alleged cruelties practised on prisoners, and his speech consisted of a lame repetition of the charges already referred to and based on occasionions made by convicts and guards discharged for stated offences, of such men Dr. O'Sullivan chose to be the mouth-piece. It surely was no very high standard for the learned gentleman to set himself.

The matters to which Dr. O'Sullivan referred have been made the subject of a protracted and careful investigation by the government; and the Provincial Secretary stated during the debate that the report of that investigation is in preparation, and that though somewhat lengthy, it will soon be in the hands of the members of the House. This, if not already known, could have at once been ascertained on enquiry, and common decency should have taught Dr. O'Sullivan, and the whole of "Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition" to await the presentation of this report, and then if they had any complaints to make, to make them on the strength of the report. This too would have been their course if their pretended disinterestedness had been real. Their apparent object was rather to forestall the appearance of this report, and if possible obtain a committee under the end of the session, at a time when the matter referred to could not possibly have been fully gone into; and though the evidence of discontented criminals and dismissed officials to procure a scandalous cry with which to go to the country. The plan was destined to signal failure. The Hon. Mr. Wood besides showing that the statements of Dr. O'Sullivan were exaggerated distorted and untrue, pointed out clearly the dangerous effect of such a discussion on the discipline of the prison; for prisoners who work in the shops along with free men cannot fail to obtain some knowledge of what is said, and be influenced thereby. The effect of the former propagation of these scandals was shown in the mutiny that occurred in the prison through the belief of the convicts that the public sympathized with them. This quelled by prompt and [illegible] measures and if another [illegible] need not be surprised low, Dr. O'[illegible] be sorry for the appearance of the devil he has invoked.

Months since we gave our views upon this question of discipline in the Central Prison, and expressed our belief as to the causes which led to whatever troubles had arisen. In placing certain thoughts before the public we were on that, as subsequently upon other questions, uninfluenced by the colouring of sensationalists or politicians on the one hand or the other. In attempting to argue from well understood facts we have been able to assume a stand more impartial than Opposition organs could, and more independent than so-called independent papers dared take. Our views are on record, and we are perfectly willing to sustain them by fair argument: and having already, though not in anticipation, disposed of Dr. O'Sullivan's remarks on the Central Prison, we are now willing to wait, with the House of Assembly, for a production of the Provincial Secretary's report before making further allusion to this overdone subject.

THE AUBURN MILLS.

The question of exempting the Auburn Mills property, in part, from taxes, was again before the town council on Monday evening. Messrs. Dennistoun and Bertram addressed the council on the matter. What they seek is nothing more or less than what was agreed to at a large and influential public meeting in 1874, and what appears to be only just to the company and of advantage to the town ratepayers. At this public meeting the question was referred to a large committee to report on, and after discussing the matter, pro and con, it was agreed to report in favour of allowing the company to retain the $2,500 already then paid, and to exempt their property between the Railway and the River from taxes for ten years. The company to release their claims on the $7,500 not paid by the Council.

This report was carried unanimously. This is all the company ask now, and the Council in acceding to their request acted wisely for the following, among other reasons:

1. It is admitted to be wise to encourage manufactures, as calculated to increase the population of the town towards becoming a city.

2. Since the Auburn Mills stopped work several families have had to seek employment elsewhere, and hence had to leave Peterborough.

3. Several of the families that remained are out of employment, and must therefore be under the necessity of existing on very short allowance hoping that work will soon commence again.

4. If the work is continuously extended to industrious people they will improve that part of the town and increase the taxes accordingly, as was evident while the mills were in operation.

5. When pinching poverty enters in how many cases is it accompanied with a loose morality, which would never have been the case if hands and heads were employed, and daily food could be honestly obtained?

6. If the company succeed, which to say the least has its risk; they will, in all probability, expend their money in increasing the property, and in employing more labor which must tend to the prosperity of the town.

7. Should the company employ 100 hands only, the outlay must reach 100 families, directly or indirectly, and bring comfort and necessary food to 500 persons, besides aiding those who supply them with their groceries, clothing, boots and shoes and other articles.

8. All other towns are giving bonuses to increase industries to be settled within their limits. Why should Peterborough be behind in the race for prosperity?

9. Peterborough has the best water power in Canada; a power that ought to have been utilised tenfold more than it has been, and if utilised properly must give her a preeminence as a manufacturing town; why should the exemption of a trifle of taxes hinder us realising some of the benefits of the advantages nature has so lavishly bestowed bonus?

Many other reasons could be given but these will suffice to prove the wisdom of aiding the company, so long as the aid asked is so trifling.

ORGANS.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Geo. J. Chalmers of this town has been appointed Agent for County of Peterborough for the celebrated "Bell" Organ, manufactured at Bowmanville, Ont., the only Organ in Canada receiving an award at the Centennial, although seven other prominent makers competed. These in want of a first-class instrument will save money by giving George a call, as he informs us that his instruments both as regards workmanship and price cannot be beaten. The fact of their having received such high honors at the Centennial speaks volumes for these instruments. Every instrument warranted for five years. A liberal discount to Clergymen and Churches. The following from the Christian Advocate, New York, of October 5th, 1876, speaks for itself:—

"We are pleased to notice that Canada has been successful in carrying off a goodly number of the prizes at the Centennial. Added from the fact that she has won many laurels for her natural productions, and the quality of sterling excellence in her manufactures, she has also done usually well with many of the best in the United States and Europe. In this regard, the Dominion Organ Co., took the only First Prize awarded outside of the United States for Organs; and with good reason, for these Organs are certainly very fine. The Organ of the Company on exhibition, is, we believe, the very finest and fair sample of the Organs turned out of their Factory. The Organs are manufactured at Bowmanville, Ont."

VALUABLE PROPERTY.—Remember the sale of the Waller Property, Ashburnham, at the Court House, on the 12th of May, at noon. At the same time there will be sold a house and lot in Peterboro, adjoining the residence of John Boyd, on Lansdowne Street.

GRAIN.—There are to be two more Granges organized in Smith; one at Mather's Hotel on the 15th, and one at Union Temple on the 6th inst., on the 15th of this month. Bro. T. J. Caplice, of Baltimore, will deliver an address on the advantages of the Grange, at Mather's, School House on Monday, 12th inst., at 7 p.m.

POLITICS IN MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

The Review has made a blind and childish effort, to fasten the blame of introducing politics in council matters, on Reformers in the council. This is only a way it has of throwing dust in the eyes of the ignorant, or perhaps a way of throwing out hints to demagogues, to be used in subsequent and base shape. At the close of the town elections there were great Conservative rejoicings because so many Conservatives had been elected. And at the close of the election of Trustees it was a Conservative who so boldly exulted saying, "we have done good work to-day; we have elected three men to keep;" and the Lindsay Warder said just, their aid in the issue [illegible] meaning when it says: "[illegible] no doubtful associations have [illegible] may mend the change and be [illegible] come over the popular minds. [illegible] county at heart is Conservative, and will at the first opportunity right itself." Thus, like H. H. Smith, they go about saying, "no politics in council matters!" "no politics in council matters!" but immediately get behind the curtains, and connect the ghost cunning—in their minds—devices, to make one vote, if possible, for next election. The Review hopes to build up party interests by silly and untruthful accusations against Reformers in the town council. It will yet find that truth is mighty and will prevail. Any party or party organ that hopes by unblushing and unscrupulous misrepresentations to bolster up party interests, may gratify his own morbid desires, but never can see, nor can he hope to see, a successful issue. The conservative element in every town, township and county council has, in too many cases, for years been using the council chamber and public offices as means of building up conservatism, and retaining supporters. Only by force of character or by pecuniary loss could reformers gain an approach to any office or emolument in their gift; and still they were crying they had no politics in view. But we ask the people of Peterborough to watch our town affairs for six months, and see how hypocritical are they who cry loudest about no politics.

A BLAST FROM BOBCAYGEON.

Oh, Horror!

A powerful protest and dire decree against the building of a through line of railway from Toronto to Carleton Place, and to connect with lines to the sea, has come from an unexpected quarter, Bobcaygeon.

Little did we think when expecting opposition from the front, that we should be assailed by an attack from the rear, and least of all did we think of Bobcaygeon.

Yet so it is. That hamlet on the Bob, that we have so long sought to patronise, and on which we have lavished the wealth of Otonabee smiles, has "gone back" on us, and we are pained by the part precocious ness of Bobcaygeon.

Happy thought! It is an "Independent" yell; and not the war-whoop of Bobcaygeon.

Whether this be so or no, listen, oh, ye people, to the proclamation of the "Independent of Bobcaygeon.

Alluding to the projected Huron and Quebec Railway, among other seditious things it says:—

"First, there is some danger that the people along the line of the proposed road may be misled into seriously believing that there is a prospect of the project being successful; and second, there is great danger that the agitation of this scheme may injuriously affect the stability of the Grand Trunk Company, to procure money in England to complete their line, lay down a second track throughout, and bring up their equipment and staff to the point required by the increasing resources of the Dominion. Selfishness is always blind, and it may seem perfectly correct to Peterborough 'frantic for blacksmith's shops,' for the Government to spend three millions of the people's dollars in building a railway over which will give Peterborough the 'shops' of its desire; to Toronto it may seem proper that the resources of the whole Province should be absorbed in promoting the extension of Toronto trade; and to the Globe it may be pleasant to have the opportunity of giving its old enemy, the Grand Trunk a hearty kick; but the people of this Province, as a whole, recognise beyond all dispute that the great need of the Dominion is a thorough reorganisation of the Grand Trunk, and the expenditure of sufficient capital to give it a second track and make it as perfectly efficient a line as the New York Central or as a National arterial line should be.

We can assure this unquiet dweller on the bank of the Bob, that there is not the slightest danger of either his "first" or his "second." The people along the proposed line cannot be "misled" with believing there is a prospect of the project being successful, for the very good reason that they have already been "led" to an implicit belief in its ultimate success. Neither is there any danger of the agitation of the scheme injuriously affecting the "ability" of the Grand Trunk Company to procure money from England to 'complete' their line, lay down double track throughout and bring up their equipment to the point required by the increasing resources of the Dominion: for the equally good reasons that the Grand Trunk Company has not got the "ability" spoken of; that their line is now as "complete" as it ever can be; that the cost of the "proposed line" will be but a fraction of the amount that would be required to lay down a double track on the Grand Trunk, and that the point required by the increasing resources of the Dominion" will be sooner and easier reached by the construction of another line, nearer Bobcaygeon.

Selfishness may be blind; but when it assumes the shape of jaundiced jealousy of some thing far beyond rivalry, it becomes not only blind, but also halt and lame, and generally sickly. Peterboro', though not exactly "frantic for blacksmith's shops," may likely obtain a few anvils in the good time coming. In any case is laughable to hear a mere town a place in which receive nothing but good from Peterborough's prosperity: and—more ludicrous still—from a hamlet in which a blacksmith's shop is among the sights of the "city." Oh! Bobcaygeon! Toronto and the "Globe" being able to speak for themselves, we can only commiserate with them in the formidable rivalry of Bobcaygeon.

The people of the Province as a whole, do not, alas! know what a champion they have in the backwoods, even in Bobcaygeon.

This doughty knight combining Don Quixote pure in refraction and dipping propensities, he may still tilt, tilt, tilt, at upon the offender windmill, to him a grim giant. The people truly recognise the great need of the [illegible] on essential lines, and the also know that an artery is, by a wise dispensation, set deep in the body, as well to the position of the proposed arterial line, and not near the surface, as in the [illegible] trunk. Believing along the frontier, a [illegible] has escaped the pen of the sage of Bobcaygeon.

Now come your ways to Dependent Bobcaygeon.
